CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The consolation trophy of the Neill bonspiel was won last night by M. Cruther's rink when, in the final game they met and defeated R. Best's rink 10-6.

Both these rinks had lost their first games in the major event, but from then on they mowed down their opponents as fast as they came up.

The game itself was something like the final game the previous night, started off all right but slipped somewhat as the action proceeded.

It has been a good series, with the boys co-operating in fine style.

The trophies and prizes are to be presented at the annual meeting, which will be held later on in this month

Consolation Finals.

A. L. Malby	H. Black
L. W. Symonds	W. A. Graham
C. H. Crowe	M. J. Wells
W. M. Cruthers	R. P. Best
Skip 10	Skip 6

The vice-skips' bonspiel got under way on Friday evening, and will continue on Monday night at 6.45 o'clock and 8.45 o'clock. These games will also be 10 ends.

To-night the ladies are staging a big mixed bonspiel at 7.30 p.m. Everybody is welcome. Be on time and bring along 25c.

Vice-Skips' Results.

C. Cox won from T. Doughty
J. Pirie won from W. Ashby.
O. Steer won from A. Aitkenhead.
C. Taylor won from F Hickey.

The ladies continued play in their vice-skips' bonspiel Friday afternoon. It is more than likely that the final game will be played on Monday afternoon between rinks skipped by Miss G. Patterson and Mrs. J. Green.

Genelco Defeats CGE Winning By 6-2 Score

NORWOOD, March 4—(ENS)—C.G.E. and Genelco held another hockey game at the rink on Thursday evening. The score was very close, Genelco winning 6-2.

Lineups:

Genelco: Goal, Caravaggio; defence, McQuaig, Brocklay; centre, Bragar; wings, Mattucci, Dyer; alternates, Rodger, Beauchamp, Dugan, Anderson, Piatt and Montgomery.

C.G.E.: Goal, Roymanse; defence, Burton, Allison; centre, E. Williams; wings, Conroy, Carpenter; alternates, Kennedy, J. Williams.

Referee, Homes; linesman, Heffernan.

BOMB WAS NOT FUSED

A NORTHEAST TOWN, England (CP)—A man here was knocked off his bicycle into a ditch by a 4,000-pound R.A.F. blockbuster and lived. The bomb rolled off a lorry and he heaved a sigh of relief when he learned the bombs are quite safe until they are fused.

Monty Is Given Decision Over Beau Jack

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, March 4 — (AP).— From crowned to crown in two weeks is the latest chapter in the fight story of Philadelphia's Bob Montgomery.

Knocked out in the first round by Al (Bummy) Davis February 18, Monty bounced back last night to win a split 15-round upset decision over favored Beau Jack and regain the New York version of the lightweight title. It was their third title bout. Montgomery first won the title last May and lost it in a return 15-rounder in November. Odds were 8½ to 5 on the Beau.

A crowd of 19,066 that contributed to a gross of $111,954—the largest indoor take since heavyweight champion Joe Louis last appeared in Madison Square Garden — saw Monty regain his lost prestige by thrice having the Beau in a bad way and apparently on the verge of a knockout.

In the third, fourth and sixth rounds Monty hurt the Augusta, Ga., negro with sharp rights to the jaw and a two-fisted body attack. Late in the 14th round, too, he nailed the Beau with a right that made the champion's knees buckle. Meantime, Montgomery took Jack's best punch, an uppercut, without backing up.

In his dressing room Monty was all smiles.

"What about Sammy Angott?" asked a reporter. "He beat you three times you know."

"I'll beat him sure this time," Monty replied.

Montgomery and Angott, the National Boxing Association champion, are scheduled to meet in a 15-round bout on March 31 for the undisputed lightweight title. Meanwhile, Angott is slated to defend his N.B.A. crown against Juan Zuarita at Los Angeles on Wednesday.

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Every member of the "Tractor" soccer team which soon will begin competition in the Russian football championships has been decorated with orders and "for defence of Stalingrad" medals...And the Kiev "Dynamo" team, also composed of fighting, lost its best goal tender, Trussevich, who was shot by the Germans..If Parson Gil Dodds could put together his best performances of the season for each quarter, he'd have a 4:03.5 mile record. They were 58.6, 58.5, 61.7 and 64.7.

Shorts and Shells

The East-West tennis matches, a big event when big Bill Tilden and little Bill Johnston used to lead the teams, will be revived at Forest Hills this summer...The Fort Worth and Tulsa baseball clubs already are planning to use their parks for amateur and semi-pro ball this year; so bye bye Texas League.

Feet of the Class

When the Terryville, Conn., high school cage team faced Tourtellotte in a state tournament game Tuesday, players Alfred Delay and Albert Kelister said they'd win or else walk home...Tourtellotte won, 52-33, and the kids kept their promise. They finished the 21-mile stroll at 4 a.m.

Canadian Army To Defend Title

By The Canadian Press.

The rugby football season in England will not terminate until March 19 when the "Coffee Bowl" game, the return match for the "Tea Bowl" encounter, will be staged before an expected London crowd of 40,000. The Canadian Army Mustangs, defending champions by reason of their 16-6 win in the February 13 battle with the American Army, will trot out practically the same lineup, but they will face a new U.S. squad called the Blue Division. In the first engagement, the Canucks received a silver teapot as the trophy, but the victors in the coming fixture will be awarded a coffee pot of undesignated metal.

The first half of the international match will be played under Canadian grid rules and the second half will be according to the American college code, the reverse of the previous arrangement. Chief difference in the Canadian line-up is not a matter of personnel, but of rank as the team captain performed on the backfield in the first tilt as Major Dennis Whitaker, D.S.O. This time the former Hamilton Tiger backfield star will appear in his new rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Policing Race Tracks.

Miscellaneous intelligence: Agriculture Minister Gardiner has not seen a horse race in eight years although he heads the department which supervises race track betting.

After he made that statement in the House he added "I'd very much like to find the time to see one."

He was answering Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, who asked for a report on any personal inspections of race tracks Mr. Gardiner had made in his eight years as Minister of Agriculture.

J. A. Marshall (N.D.-Camrose) brought up the subject of racing by asking about policing of tracks.

Mr. Gardiner said civilian officials did the policing in Quebec and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in other provinces. He knew of no special reason for the arrangement except that it had been in effect for many years and had worked satisfactorily.

23rd Track Meet.

Twenty-four colleges have entered teams in the 23rd annual Varsity indoor track and field meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, to-night, the feature of which is the mile in which Gil Dodds of Boston will start after his fifth straight victory of the indoor season. The meet, won last year by New York University, is expected to be a toss-up between West Point and the Naval Academy, Annapolis.

Former star of the Cincinnati pitching staff, Jimmy Vander Meer yesterday was ordered to report for immediate Navy duty at Sampson Naval Station, N.Y., it was announced by the Navy Induction Station at Newark, N.J.

Chicago — (AP). — According to National Football League statistics, released yesterday, Detroit Lions used the lateral pass, classed as the almost-forgotten play of the grid sport, for a total gain of 301 yards last season. Brooklyn, in second place, was far behind with only 62 yards.

Broke Par.

GULFPORT, Miss. — (AP). — Harold (Jug) McSpaden was the only player to break par in the first round of the $4,500 Gulfport open yesterday with a 68 on the par-71 Great Southern Club course taking a three-stroke lead over six rivals, all with 71's. Included in No. 2 spot were Sam Byrd, Harry Cooper, and Jimmy Hines.

MIAMI — (AP). — Sun Again was favored in a field of 13 for the running of the $25,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park to-day, with Jockey Ted Atkinson of Toronto atop the five-year-old chestnut. Attention is also being paid a long shot, Four Freedoms, because of the fact that his rider will be Jockey Eddie Arcaro, and also the Coward and Dupuy campaigner, Marriage.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Lou E. Marsh, famous sports editor and columnist of the Toronto Daily Star, died eight years ago today after a brief illness. He was noted as a boxing and hockey referee as well as a sports authority. Charles Ring, Toronto sportsman, donated a trophy in memory of Marsh for annual award to Canada's "outstanding sports competitor."

VEGREVILLE, Alta. — (CP). — The Alberta Amateur Hockey Association president, Jack Moss, announced here last night that Edmonton Canadians will represent the province in inter-provincial Memorial Cup play-offs.

Canadians were defeated in the Edmonton League final best-of-five series by H.M.C.S. Nonsuch, but the Sailors are ineligible to continue due to service regulations.

Leafs Will Meet Canadiens Twice

(By The Canadian Press)

The most crowded week-end program of the National Hockey League season sends all six teams into action in home-and-home series which should provide a useful test of Stanley Cup series strength.

The grouping might even be a portent of the Stanley Cup lineup, since Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are slated to clash in one series. Rangers renounced hope of a series berth weeks ago and Bruins' case is practically hopeless.

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, linked in another week-end bracket, are logical possibilities to clash in the first Stanley Cup round, which matches first against third and second against fourth. Canadiens now lead the league by an unassailable margin while Leafs are battling for third place with Chicago Black Hawks, who meet Detroit Red Wings, now holding second place, in the week-end double bill.

The week-end card:

Saturday: Montreal at Toronto; New York at Boston; Chicago at Detroit.

Sunday: Toronto at Montreal; Boston at New York; Detroit at Chicago.

Soccer's Rival Is 'Greycing'

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 4 — (CP). — Britain "went to the dogs" in 1943 —to the tune of something like $200,000,000.

That amount passed through the greyhound race track betting machines. It came from the thousands of service personnel and war workers who jam stadia each Saturday—mostly around London— to wager on the sport that has challenged football as the greatest drawing card in the country. A large part of the money, of course, returned to the pockets of the bettors.

Publication of the staggering figure—admittedly only an estimate since no official government announcement has been made— recalled that all betting machines are owned by the companies which run the tracks and that by a special Act passed 10 years ago these owners receive 6 per cent of the money invested by the public.

That means that for every $100 wagered, $94 is hoved back across betting wickets to bettors whose choices finished in the money.

In addition, the track operators and the Government share admission prices which range from 45 to 90 cents at most tracks.

20,000 Employees.

From the gross profits come the expenses. At least 20,000 regular employees work for the tracks besides a great number of "casuals." Each track employs expert veterinary surgeons, trainers and kennel maids, timekeepers and engineers.

Behind the scenes are the breeders, private trainers and owners. Dog prices have skyrocketed since the war and the average price for a good racer is $3,800. The demand is terrific.

"To buy a greyhound pedigree puppy without knowing his performance would cost perhaps 200 guineas ($950)," one expert said. 'A champion dog which would run in London in Saturday's big races would cost its owners £1,700 ($7,650)."

All this wagering didn't escape the eye of the Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Gargett. Addressing an annual bank meeting, he said:

"I have read of the enormous increase in the amount of money being spent in connection with dog racing. Very large sums are being spent in this way and the increase in the last few years has been remarkable. But surely it would be better for the nation if some of the money were put into an institution like this."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Word along the Pacific grapevine is that Sacramento's hold on the Coast League baseball franchise is insecure and that the club may be transferred to Vancouver in mid-season.... Bob Brown, representing Vancouver interests, said on his return from a league meeting: "We'll have a franchise in the Coast League by 1945 and nobody in baseball will be surprised if we acquire the Sacramento franchise this year."....Brown says Sacramento drew less than 40,000 fans last season whereas the league now has set 125,000 paid admissions as a minimum for holding a franchise. He figures Sacramento's chances of reaching their figure are negligible. On the other hand Brown thinks Vancouver could draw at least 160,000 a season for class AA ball.

Correction:

F. L. Bishop writes from Battleford, Sask., to correct our report that a cloisonne cup is being donated to the Hockey Hall of Fame had been presented to North Battleford Beavers in Japan. Bishop states that the cup was presented to the Battleford Sunrise Millers by the Japan-Canada Association of Tokyo in 1935; and that the Millers were the only foreign hockey club ever to visit Japan. Bishop financed and sponsored that tour.

Coaching hints:

Trainer Bill O'Brien told Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll that the current Canadiens are the best conditioned team in the club's history and he believes it is because the players are employed in war work. "They get us early and go to their jobs instead of lying in bed until two o'clock in the afternoon. They eat regular meals like normal working people. They come to the rink at night to practice and they're tired when it's over—too tired to go gadding around. Most athletes get out of condition through irregular meals and irregular habits but there's been none of that around here this year."

Incidentally:

Doug Baldwin, former Winnipegger starring with Quebec Aces defence is considered a sure bet for the National Hockey League. Baldwin is on Toronto Leafs' list....A Saint John, N.B., harness-racing enthusiast wrote to the sports editor of a Saint John newspaper complaining bitterly because the sports writer had referred to harness racers of the district as "nags." The dictionary defines the word as colloquial for "horse" so what was he mad at?.... Baz ((Montreal Star) O'Meara says Boston Bruins would in all probability have made the playoffs if they had not traded Hollett to Detroit. He calls that deal Ross' "recoil play."

Hamilton Boys Defeat Brantford

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Whizzers were the first team to reach the second round of the Junior A playoffs in the Ontario Hockey Association. Last night on Hamilton ice, the home club took the deciding game from Brantford Lions 10-1 in the best-of-three first-round series, leading all the way in a rough and rugged contest. Whizzers lost the first tilt at Brantford, the latter winning 5-1, but came back with a 5-2 equalizer in the second and then eliminated their rivals in a one-sided combat.

The issue was definitely settled in the third period of last night's affair during and afer a demonstration of fisticuffs, the Whizzers ramming in six goals in a row for good measure in that frame.

Murray Comfort headed the scoring parade for the victors with four goals and Sanderson accounted for three, the balance being distributed among Enio Sclisizzi, Tindall, and Lymburner. Brantford's solitary score went to Evenshen. On the other side of the records, Blue McGuire of Lions drew a match penalty, Sanderson of Hamilton was given a major for his part in the bout with McGuire, while Nick Tomiuk of Whizzers displeased the referee to the extent of a 10-minute misconduct award.

Battle To a Draw

ARNPRIOR, Ont., March 4—(CP) —Hull Volants, champions of Hull intermediate hockey league, last night battled Arnprior to a 3-3 draw in the opening game of their total-goals playoff series here. Second half of the quarter-final round series in the Ottawa and District League playoffs is slated to be played in Ottawa Monday.

Markham Edges Aircraft Team

MARKHAM, March 4. — Markham Juniors broke Victory Aircraft's winning streak here Friday night, winning, 8-7, and earning a one-goal lead to carry into the second of the home series at Ravina rink, Toronto, Tuesday night. It was a first-round Junior "B" O.H.A. contest. Michanuk scored the winning goal with only 20 seconds of playing time remaining. Victory Aircraft had won 22 consecutive games.

It was a see-saw battle, with the result in doubt until the final whistle. Markham led 2-1 at the end of the first and 5-4 at the end of the second. Closeness of the score will probably result in a capacity crowd being in attendance when the two teams renew their struggle on Tuesday night. Gibson, Routcliffe, F. Page and Bowcott were the outstanding stars for the winners. Cashburn, Currie and Herb Kewley appeared to be the pick of the losers.

Victory Aircraft—Goal, Thwaites; defence, Murphy and Venater; centre, Casburn; wings, Herb Kewley and Wilcox; subs, Currie, King, Chauvin, Winger and Ponzo.

Referee—Pat Patterson.

Finland Intends To Offer Counter Terms

STOCKHOLM, March 4—(AP)—Indication that Finland intends to offer counter-proposals to Russia's armistice terms came to-day from the Helsinki newspaper Social Demokratti, mouthpiece for the Finnish Parliament's strongest political party.

Declaring that at first glance the conditions for peace outlined by Moscow appeared "harsh and even cruel," the newspaper expressed the opinion that they were "meant only to form the basis for further negotiation and that Finland will have a chance to express its own views."

The article, informed Finnish sources said, was inspired by the majority view of Parliament which gave the Finnish Government a vote of confidence at a secret session on Tuesday. The newspaper speaks authoritatively for the Social Democrat Party.

"It is to be believed we will try to move along the road of negotiation if there is even the slightest possibility to do so with freedom and independence preserved," the newspaper said.

(These expressions dovetailed with opinion in informed London quarters, which expected Finland ultimately to accept Russia's price, although reluctantly and only after making counter-proposals in an effort to surmount the difficulties arising from Nazi divisions still in Finland.)

The Social Demokratti noted that "German reaction will have an influence on some points," an apparent reference to the German troops remaining in the country.

Before the newspaper article appeared a Finnish Foreign Office spokesman had said the Finnish Cabinet was giving the peace dilemma "major consideration," but there was no official indication that any decision had been reached. He denied a peace delegation was on its way to Moscow.

Negro Mother 5 Children Die

OWEN SOUND, March 4—(CP)—A negro mother and her five children died from smoke suffocation to-day in a fire which broke out in their home here.

The dead are Mrs. Norman Green and her five children—Thelma, 15, Herbert, 12, Jacqueline, 6, John, 3, and Joel, one year old.

Mr. Green is employed at the William Kennedy and Sons Co. plant and he was at work when the fire was discovered. By the time the fire brigade reached the scene all of the occupants of the house were dead. The house was badly damaged. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Based On Dieppe

HAMILTON, Ont., March 4—(CP) — Capt. Fred Woodcock of nearby Winona, veteran of the present war who lost his eyesight in the Dieppe raid of August, 1942 said Wednesday at a homecoming party that the raid was vindicated by subsequent events and that "All landings have been based on the experience, good or bad, learned at Dieppe." "Better that 5,000 of us be killed, if we had to be, than later lose 500,000 men on the same job," Capt. Woodcock said.

NEW BRIGADIER — Brigadier W. J. Megill, 36, of Ottawa, who has been promoted from the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

WA Holds Dinner After Meeting

HAVELOCK, March 4—(ENS)—The quarterly meeting of the Womens Association was held in the church basement Wednesday afternoon, followed by a pot luck supper. The president, Mrs. T. Easterbrook, presided, and a donation of $15 was made to the China and India relief fund.

Several letters were read from sick and shut-in elderly persons, who were remembered at Christmas. A decorating committee for the church was named, with the president and one member from each group. The Women's Association Conference is to be held in Peterborough early in May and a delegate is to be appointed from each group.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck supper at each quarterly meeting, and at a charge of 25 cents. The devotional exercises were in charge of the west-end group, with parts taken by Mrs. Harry Hubbel, Mrs. Walter Nobes, Mrs. Robert McCutcheon and Miss Minnie Williams. A solo, "There's Nothing Like The Smile of the Irish," was sung by Mrs. G. Morrow, accompanied by J. W. Wilkinson at the piano.

Over 100 members and adherents of the congregation sat down to a pot-luck supper. Following this an impromptu program of community songs, speeches and duets was enjoyed, with Mr. B. Smith acting as chairman. This event was chiefly arranged to honor Charles Roberts, who recently resigned, after serving 15 years as Sunday School superintendent. An address was read by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson and Mrs. Roberts was presented with a bouquet of roses.

Seamen's comforts: 30 pairs long 18-inch and 26-inch socks, 5 turtle-neck sweaters. British civilian: 19 boys' sweaters, 10 girls' sweaters, 15 women's sweaters. Women's Auxiliary, 18 pairs long stockings, 12 pairs ankle socks, 9 pairs knitted knickers, 7 pairs gloves 12 toques 9 sleeveless sweaters. Refugee: 18 boys' suits, 15 boys' shirts, 16 pinafore dresses, 11 girls' blouses, 6 pantie dresses, 10 girls' dresses, 6 toques, 12 caps, 2 pair stockings, 1 pair mitts, 1 scarf 1 ladies' flannelette nightgown, 3 pairs pyjamas, 2 pairs pillow cases, 1 pair feather pillows, 135 quilts, 11 kits for women in service, 9 sailors' ditty bags, 6 Christmas bags for soldiers in hospital in Newfoundland.

The Springbrook Women's Institute packed 18 boxes for boys overseas from ward 5 and 6. Eleven boxes were packed in ward 1.

The election of officers for 1944 resulted as follows: President, Mrs. George E. Thompson; vice-pres., Mrs. Carl Clancy; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Barlow; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Vance; auditors, Bert Bedford and J. Courtney; chairman Women's War Work committee, Mrs. Flossie Laycock; convener of sewing, Mrs. J. McKeown; convener of knitting, Mrs. George Bailey; chairman of campaign committee, Reeve W. J. Tanner. Campaign objective has been set as $1,200 for this year.

The secretary was requested to write a letter to Mrs. J. B. Thompson expressing the appreciation of the Rawdon Red Cross for her efficient service as treasurer for the past five years.

Honor Boswell Couple Before Leaving Farm

WESTWOOD, March 4 — (ENS) —Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boswell were honored this week by their neighbors and friends of the surrounding district when they met to bid them farewell. Mr. and Mrs. Boswell are moving to a farm near Peterborough. During the evening they were surprised by the presentation of a well-filled purse. Mr. Boswell on behalf of his wife, expressed their appreciation.

Dancing and cards provided entertainment for the evening and a lunch was served by the ladies.

Plainville News

This week's meeting of the Young People's Society was held at the home of Miss Bernice Linton. About twenty-five members were present. Miss Linton, convener for the evening, was in charge of the program. The topic on Hymns and their writers was given by Rev. M. C. Fisher. The hostess passed pop corn at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Fred Wilson was hostess to the west group of the Plainville W. M. S. when twelve ladies were present. After a short worship service a quilt was quilted for the Red Cross. Mrs. Wilson served supper.

Mr. William Harriott is in a Peterborough Hospital, recuperating after an operation.

Swallows Spoon

Belleville, Ont., March 4 (CP)

A temperamental bull, patriarch of a fine herd of Durham cattle at Marlbank, 25 miles northeast of here, recently took advantage of illness to boost the mineral content of his diet. As his owner was applying medicinal powder with a spoon to the back of his tongue, Ferdinand tossed his head, swallowed both medicine and spoon, but politely left his master's hand unscathed.

Help the Young People To Health - Happiness

What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anaemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

Canadian Sailor Describes Sinking Of Scharnhorst

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, March 4 — (CP). — Midshipman Peter Maclachlan of Montreal, member of the Royal Canadian Navy attached to the Royal Navy, had only been serving in the cruiser Jamaica for a few months when he saw his first action—the sinking of the German battleship Scharnhorst off the north of Norway and east of Spitzbergen.

The Jamaica was the first ship of this young midshipman, son of Cmdr K. S. Maclachlan of Montreal and Ottawa who has been serving overseas for several years with the R.C.N. and the R.N., and he was on duty on her bridge during the pursuit and the battle in which units of the British Home Fleet destroyed the German warship.

Unknown Target.

On leave in London he told the story of the action as he saw it.

"At nine-thirty in the morning we received a signal from the cruiser Belfast that a German warship was in the vicinity," he said. "We hoped it might be the Scharnhorst, but didn't know. The battleship Duke of York, the Jamaica and four destroyers began their search. Visibility wasn't very good and the sea was pretty rough.

"We came into contact with the enemy ship about 4:30 in the afternoon and the Belfast was already lighting her up with starshells. It is dark at that time of day in the Arctic, but we could tell in the starshells light that she was the Scharnhorst all right.

Opened Fire

"The Duke of York fired first and then we opened up when we came into range trailing behind the York. The Scharnhorst returned the fire of the York and then took us on. But most of her shelling was directed at the York. The sea by this time was calmer.

"The Scharnhorst was set on fire by hits. At that time she was about six miles away and we could see her clearly. The destroyers closed in on her and hit her some more with gunfire and fired torpedoes at her. The destroyers certainly deserve all the credit. They slowed her down for the kill.

Made Kill

'All this time the Duke of York was lighting up the sea with starshells. They got the fire out on the enemy ship and then we were ordered to go in. We went quite close—made you feel as if you would reach out and touch her—and fired torpedoes and gave her some salvos from our six-inch guns. She went down in between five and nine minutes and sank at about 7.30 p.m."

MacLachlan attended Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont., and joined the R.C.N. in October, 1942. He joined the Jamaica last September. His brother Alan is a lieutenant in the R.C.N.

Quarterly Tea Held At Church By W.M.S.

WARSAW, March 4 —(ENS) — Group C of the United W.M.S. held their quarterly tea in the Church basement on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. George Taylor presided for the annual bale which is to be ready in May. The treasurer reported givings of $6.60 for February. It was decided to have the regular meeting at Easter with Group A in charge of program and have the special meeting and speaker at a later date.

Mrs. Harold Payne took charge of the devotional period and gave the study book assisted by Mrs. Gerald Payne. A reading, "Christ's Love" by Mrs. Jordon Crowe, trio by Miss Anna Dewart, Mrs. Clysdale and Mrs. Roland Payne and the Bible study by Mrs. Edwards, made up the program. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

PROMOTED.

Another promotion overseas to the rank of acting major is that of Capt. C. H. A. Walters of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. He is the husband of Mrs. Dorothy Walter, 126 Bridge street east, Belleville.

SENDS BEST WISHES.

During the final dinner of the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign on Friday night, a telegram arrived from C. A. Salmonsen of Lynn, Mass., formerly works manager of the C.G.E. in Peterborough, congratulating the city and the canvassers for putting the drive over the objective.

BUILDING PERMITS

The February building permits amounted to $8,250 as compared with $1,170 for the second month last year. Six permits were: one garage $200; one dwelling $5,300; four miscellaneous $2,750. Total for two months $11,165. February 1943 three miscellaneous permits totalled $1,170; and for two months the total was $4,320.

WIN CERTIFICATES

The winners of the $5 War Savings certificates drawn at the Canadian Legion bingo on Friday night in aid of the bomber fund sponsored by local school children were as follows: Marion Sudden, 512 Dickson street; Mrs. G. Todd, 556 Sherbrooke street; Mrs. J. Hunter, 295 Murray street; Mrs. J. Playford, 32 Lafayette avenue; R. Shadgett, 473 King street; W. G. Blaby, 172 Westcott street.

SELLING STAMPS

The children of Westwood public school have already reached their objective in the campaign to sell War Savings Stamps to the total of $26,000 for a Bomber. They are now going on to double the amount. The students of Lakefield High School are turning in to help the younger folk of the Public School of the community to their objective of $500. School Inspector Copp reports that these are signs of the way the school children on the rural front are determined to carry out their project by June.

FLYER MISSING

The name of Sgt. Samuel Jackson Swain of Brighton appears in the latest list of R.C.A.F. personnel missing after air operations overseas. He is the son of S. T. Swain of Brighton.

BOTTLES ARE NEEDED.

There is a shortage of medicine bottles at the Military Training Centre and citizens are asked to help out in this emergency. Any person who may have such bottles and are willing to help out the camp authorities are asked to leave them at Elliott's or Miller's drug stores.

JOINS R.C.A.F.

Ross Althouse, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Althouse, 10 Benson avenue, leaves on Monday for Manning Pool, Toronto, where he will begin training for air crew with the Royal Canadian Air Force. Before enlisting he was an inspector at the Johnson Motors.

NO POLICE COURT

There was no session of the police court this morning. In fact His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., did not make his customary trip from Lakefield when informed that there was nothing on the docket. It was an unusually quiet night, police report. with scarcely a complaint of any kind and no arrests.

FIRE REPORT

A short circuit in the air compressor at the Queen's Hotel resulted in a call to the Fire Department at 5:46 p.m. Friday evening. No damage was caused. A half hour earlier there was a chimney fire at 798 George street, residence of F. Long. At 9:28 p.m. there was a call from Box 12, near the training centre, but it turned out to be a false alarm.

WILL CHART COURSE.

The pupils of Queen Mary School who are joining the other schools in trying to purchase a Hurricane, are ready to get down to business. A large chart, 14 feet long, has been erected at the back of the school. The boys in R. Scrutton's room completed a model airplane which has been attached and which will be drawn up the scale as the pupils swell their donations. Queen Mary's objective between February 1 and June 30 is $1,500.

THE MUSKRAT SEASON

Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons has received notice from the Department of Game and Fisheries that the open season for muskrat trapping will commence in Peterborough county on March 10. The length of the season has not been announced but will depend upon weather conditions. There is no immediate prospect of trapping, the overseer points out, but conditions may improve by the time the open season arrives.

CORRECTION

The Examiner owes a little apology to City Treasurer Shaver for having quoted to him the meaningless and self-contradictory phrase "unexpected appropriation" in a city hall story Friday relating to the council's reported surplus of $31,697. The phrase which Mr. Shaver did use was "unexpended appropriation," and it was so written in the copy, but it appeared in print otherwise, and repeatedly, one of those things which happen, and leaves one wondering. Readers interested in municipal matters possibly sensed a mistake, and may have thought that as a synonym of "surplus" the correct phrase was "unexpended surplus."

Capt. Armitage Heard At Training Centre

Captain Frank Guy Armitage, M.C., one of the world's finest interpreters of characters from the works of the immortal Charles Dickens entertained the officers and men of No. 32 Training Centre Friday night in a two hour performance.

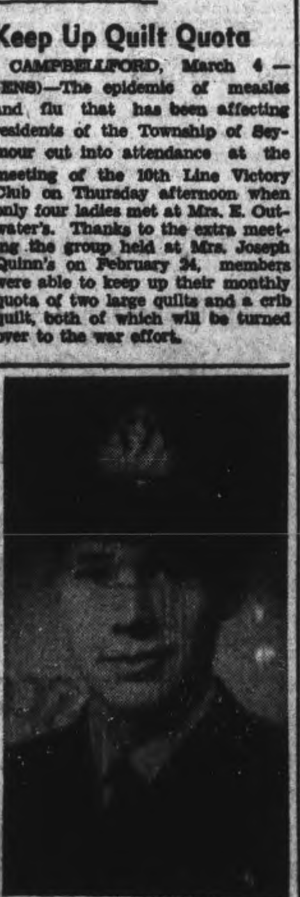
Captain Armitage uses no make-up but depends on a few wigs, some period costumes, clever lighting effects, but chiefly facial expression and voice inflection for his wonderful effects in the portrayal of the famous personalities of some of the best known of Dickens' characters.

Uriah Heap from David Copperfield, Speers, the Schoolmaster from Nicholas Nickelby, Sydney Carton from The Tale of Two Cities and Scrooge from The Christmas Carols were perhaps the outstanding characterization. The captain also gave a ventriloquist number which was a big hit with the men and as a magician showed his amazing versatility. In this number he was ably assisted by one of the younger members of the band.

The program opened with selections by the band which added greatly to the enjoyment of a fine evening's program. Colonel Baptie thanked Captain Armitage at the conclusion of his two hour's presentation on behalf of the officers and men of the unit and invited guests. Captain Armitage was introduced by General Secretary G. H. Roper who pointed out that Captain Armitage was working under th auspices of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s of Canada through its War Services Committee and has crossed Canada four times in the last 18 months visiting the different camps and training centres including many of the smaller and isolated outposts in Labrador, Alaska and the Yukon. He has given over 600 performances for the men of the armed forces.

Keep Up Quilt Quota

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — (ENS)—The epidemic of measles and flu that has been affecting residents of the Township of Seymour cut into attendance at the meeting of the 10th Line Victory Club on Thursday afternoon when only four ladies met at Mrs. E. Outwater's. Thanks to the extra meeting the group held at Mrs. Joseph Quinn's on February 24, members were able to keep up their monthly quota of two large quilts and a crib quilt, both of which will be turned over to the war effort.



ON PRINCE DAVID—Sub-Lieut. Luke Troke, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Troke, Gilmour Street, is serving aboard H.M.C.S. Prince David. This ship is equipped to serve as the nerve centre of an amphibious landing force. She carries a battle-tested crew, veterans of combined operations work. Lieut. Troke wrote his parents that he considered his new appointment quite an honor. Enlisting in the Navy three years ago, he had just graduated from the University of Toronto.

Birthday Gifts Bring Comfort To Raid Victims

Down through the ages when records of any kind commenced to mark the passage of time, it was a natural sequence that anniversaries of all sorts would come to be recognized and observed in a manner peculiar to each, thus extending itself beyond the life of the individual to that of their associations both in a social and business way, culminating in those which belong to any country in a nationwide aspect.

Centre Theatre Anniversary.

During the past week, the Centre Theatre, with S. Goldstone as its manager, has been marking its fifth anniversary in catering to the movie-loving residents of this city and vicinity with the showing of special features, adding a human touch to the business side of their activities which is perhaps more aptly described through to-day's story for the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

The secretary of the fund had noticed the significance of this event, and decided that this would be a good time to collect the penny box which is located there, and on making inquiry from the manager in regard to it, the humanitarian touch was spontaneously given by him in offering to add a contribution in the name of the theatre, so that it might also be represented alongside its patrons in the good they could jointly do for those in need.

From the standpoint of the good that was to come from this, the collection from the box was the largest it had ever yielded in an amount of $15.10, in addition to which another $10.00 appears in the name of the theatre itself as an anniversary gift, giving both a share in the next gift that will carry its message of comfort to those afflicted through air raids over Britain.

Another Birthday Gift.

All birthdays are, of course, one's most intimate anniversaries, and while they naturally occasion felicitations of a varying nature from one's friends, there is also the wider vision that can mark the event in a personal and practical way — by doing something in a spirit of thankfulness to alleviate the distress of those in much less favored circumstances.

Recently Chris Graham had a birthday which coincided with the day on which he received a cheque as fee for acting on the Grand Jury at the County Court sessions, and this he endorsed to the fund as a gift to mark the day, giving further demonstration of the interest he constantly has had for the objects the fund seeks to assist.

Then as if to add a tiger to this day's story, the penny box at the Empress Hotel was collected at the same time as the afore-mentioned gift was received, to add a further $7.75 to the day's receipts, itself made possible through the daily boost it gets from the proprietor himself.

Hospital Bill Shelved Till Next Year

"The city council and the hospital board might as well forget everything about a private bill for this year," City Solicitor Huycke advised the finance committee several days ago.

"Monday of next week is the last day for the presenting of bills to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly," Mr. Huycke informed the council and this morning repeated the statement to the Examiner. "Besides that, the Bill would have to be advertised for six week, and that would bring it at the earliest to the 8th of April, and the sessions of the Legislature may be ended by that time."

Mr. Huycke's blunt comment to the committee was: "I am very much afraid the proposed hospital bill is all shot until another year."

Alderman Dutton enquired: "If the council and the Board come to agreement on certain things could we take over this year", but there was no answer to that poser.

"Just keep on giving them what they want, and we won't get this hospital," said Alderman Sands.

The Annexation Bill

Mr. Huycke said today that the Private Bill for the annexation of several sections of North Monaghan had just managed "to get under the wire" of the time requirements.

"Mr. Kerr and Mr. Corkery and myself worked on it until nearly midnight Thursday night and got the petition away to the clerk of the Legislature, and you may have noticed the advertisement which is appearing in the Examiner", Mr. Huycke said.

That was the night the legal trinity telephoned to Bruce Johnston's house in North Monaghan for some information and got him out of bed about 11 p.m. and up town to the offices of Peck, Kerr and McElderry.

In the meantime the two Monaghan Johnstons, Reeve M. H. and the clerk, Bruce, have been to Toronto, and are becoming impressed with the accumulating detail of annexation.

"And it is going to cost somebody more than we were expecting," Bruce Johnston remarked to the Examiner. "I don't know what these costs will be, but they might go up to $2,500. However, that is only a guess of mine".

Sgt. R. Cartwright Wounded In Italy

HAVELOCK, March 4 (ENS) — Word has been received here by Mrs. Candos Cartwright, that her son Sgt. Robert G. Cartwright has been wounded in the hips, during recent operations in Italy. Sgt. Parkhill Scouts Observe 1st Anniversary

The first annual banquet of the Parkhill Community Troop of Boy Scouts and Cubs was held in the Staff House cafeteria Friday night and a large gathering of troop members and fathers was on hand.

The Parkhill Troop was formed a year ago last fall under Scoutmaster Reg. Perks and at present has a membership of 37 scouts and 55 cubs.

Mac Singleton, Boys' Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was guest speaker of the evening, and in an address directed to the many young lads present he spoke of the things which the institution of scouting stands for,—honour, courtesy, service and being prepared. "The Boy Scouts," Mr. Singleton said, "is one of the finest organizations for training boys to grow up to be good citizens; and nothing is more important than that."

Beside the quality of honor, which meant being accurate, true and trustworthy, there must be placed the simple virtue of courtesy which made for happy relations between people. Then service, the doing of things without thought of reward, was a vital part of the Scout creed. "It means more than doing one good deed a day," Mrs. Singleton pointed out; "it means rather being ready to do good deeds for anyone at anytime anywhere."

The fourth essential quality, that of being prepared, the speaker linked with the necessity for young boys to prepare themselves as the men of the future, taking their place as leaders when the due time came. He urged them to secure all the education they could because in the postwar world "the competition for jobs is going to be keener than ever before."

Illustrated Creed

Commissioner E. Wolff illustrated points in the Scout creed by stories taken from actual experience, and quoted figures that showed the extent of scouting and cubbing through the world. "There are 2½ million boy scouts now, distributed through every country except those under dictatorship; and 25 million boys have had scout training up to now." The influence of its work among the young was illustrated by penitentiary records, Mr. Wolff continued, stating that in one such institution examination had shown that only two out of 65,000 inmates had ever been exposed to scout training, and that in another the record showed not a single former scout among 175,000 men imprisoned.

A toast to the fathers was delivered by Patrol Leader Jack Parker, 13-year old Collegiate student; and the toast to the sons was presented by J. E. Girven of the C.G.E., who said that a scouting background was ample assurance that a prospective apprentice in the factory would make good. A sing-song led by Quirt McKinney wound up the evening.

Alderman Wm. Ovens Urges Study Of City's Financing Before Increasing Tax Rate In 1944

The Examiner asked Alderman William Ovens this morning to enlarge on his idea of refinancing some of the city debentures as a possible means of at least avoiding an increase in the 1944 tax rate, a suggestion which he put forward in the budget discussion of the finance committee of the council Thursday night.

"I simply raised the question of considering the advisability of trying to reduce the amount which the council has to pay the City Trust Commission to meet annual debenture charges," Alderman Ovens said.

How many of the taxpayers realize that we had to provide 8.77 mills in our 1942 rate to meet the demand of the City Trust? It seems to me that generally we are more inclined to notice the requisition from the Board of Education, who have to keep up the standard of education in our schools and be reasonably economical. I think the public generally feels that the Board is doing that, and there is very little we can expect from them when it comes to a matter of finding ways to keep down the tax rate and maintain efficiency in our schools.

When we are faced with the prospect of increasing the tax rate in this fifth year of the war it seemed to me the other night that we should ask ourselves whether we can properly look somewhere for a means of present assistance.

Increased Income Taxes

The people have to pay increased income taxes, there are Victory Bonds to be bought, War Savings Certificates, and the other things the people as a whole have to do to meet the costs of the war. That is all the more reason for looking into our affairs to find out whether there is any advisable means of helping us keep the tax rate from increasing."

Alderman Ovens said that the debenture debt at the beginning of this year was $2,266,729.60, to which should be added some small amounts of debentures that were issued last year.

City Trust Commission assets are:—

Investments	$1,969,185.12
Surplus	$379,299.98
Sundry	$33,275.87
Total	$2,378,760.97

"Those figures show that Peterborough is in a sound position," Alderman Ovens said. "The demand of the City Trust Commission in 1942 was $232,807.08. In 1942 the City Trust also had a surplus of $6,600 surplus in their property account.

Not Attacking Commission

In referring to the City Trust Commission I do not want to appear as in any way attacking them or criticising them. The taxpayers will no doubt be interested in the fact that although the Commission has been making certain yearly reductions in their demands on the council as the result of action taken by the council some years ago their surplus has been increasing toward $400,000.

Should we liquidate our present holdings in the hands of the Commission in an effort to improve our present position? That is one question which I hope taxpayers will give some thought to. I am willing to take a chance on asking this question myself if by that means any assistance can be brought to our ratepayers. We are going through the greatest crisis in our history. We have war bonds to buy, and all the rest of it, and I feel that we certainly are entitled to ask ourselves whether there is anything we can do as a city to assist our own people. Routine financing is all right in times of peace, but this is the fifth year of a war, and personally I feel an obligation to the people who elected me of asking if there is anything more we can do as a council."

Alderman Ovens said he understood the position of investors in City of Peterborough debentures who might be depending on the 5½ or 6 per cent interest these debentures paid.

"I do not know whether there really any widows or children who would be affected, but I would like to know something more about the entire question as to whether there is anything we can rightly do as a council before we strike a tax rate that is going to be higher than last year."

There was also the question of recalling debentures and offering them at a lower rate.

"The people of Peterborough are doing about everything that is asked of them in these years. I understand that this recent appeal for War Savings Certificates went past its objective. School children of the city and county have a campaign to sell Certificates of at least $26,000 to buy a bomber.

We have other appeals coming in the near future, including the new War Loan. These are not ordinary times, and of course there is nothing new in saying that: but I have a strong feeling that the taxpayers of this city are looking to us do whatever we can in their financial interests at this time."

SENATOR TO SPEAK.

"Peace, perfect peace."

—Ever remembered by Sons and Daughters.

OLIVER. — In loving memory of John E. Oliver, who passed away March 4, 1943.

Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest;
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because he is one of the best.

—Lovingly remembered by Wife and Family.

OLIVER. — In loving memory of a dear brother-in-law, Mr. John E. Oliver, who passed away March 4, 1943.

One year has gone, but none can tell
The loss of him we loved so well;
We cannot, Lord, Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
His life was earnest, his actions kind,
A generous hand, an active mind;
Anxious to please, loath to offend,
A loving brother-in-law and a faithful friend.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

—Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Bert J. Preston, Hastings.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. James Conroy and Family wish to express their thanks to their many friends for letters and kindnesses shown, especially Rev. Monsignor O'Sullivan and Rev. F. M. Grant, in the loss of their son, Pte. John Edward Conroy, in battle in Italy.

Mrs. Beatrice Peters and Family would like to thank all neighbors, friends and relations who sent cards, letters of sympathy, and showed them many kindnesses during their recent sad bereavement in the death of Pte. Victor T. Peters, who gave his life in Italy, on December 16, 1943.

94 Japs Are Living In Prohibited Area

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP) — Ninety-four persons of Japanese origin are permitted to live, work or do business in the prohibited area on the British Columbia coast, Labor Minister Mitchell said in a Commons return tabled for G. K. Fraser (P.C.-Peterborough West).

Since 1942, he said, 130 persons of Japanese origin who were removed from the prohibited area have been permitted to return for short periods to attend to person business, receive special medical care and hospitalization, or for other reasons.

A total of 204 radio receiving sets without short-wave bands are in use in camps occupied by persons of Japanese origin, the return said.

All settlements occupied by the Japanese have schools handled by Japanese teachers.

Taken To Sweden

LONDON, March 4 — (CP) — Ten trains with Finnish children have crossed the frontier to Sweden, the Finnish radio said today, and a total of 5,000 children now have been sent to Finland's neutral neighbor.

Hockey Fans Witness 3 Fast Tussles

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 4 (ENS)—Local fans got their final hockey fare of the season here Friday night when school teams dished up three lively exhibitions. The ice was good and the hockey was the best of the season deserving a much larger crowd than it attracted. However it was billed by the Rotary as the last competition and reports of the advance sale of tickets indicated proceeds would be sufficient to balance up the season's expenses and probably assure that they would again take over the training of school hockey teams next year.

Of the three exhibitions the Campbellford Bantams vs. Havelock was the fastest and the players displayed more action than in either of the other two. They played two 20-minute periods and the locals superior team play gave them an easy 7 to 1 victory. The visitor's defense though weak in the first period tightened up in the final frame but Anderson had a busy time in the net all the way as the homesters forced much of the play into enemy territory. K. Gummo gave a good account of himself in the Campbellford goal and he had little chance as R. Jack swept in unprotected to get the visitor's solo tally.

Laurie Nesbitt took the scoring honors for the winners and played a stand-out game. He counted five times and on several occasions set up plays that would have been worthy of a much more experienced player. He scored four in the first period while Fairman added one more, carrying all the way from centre ice to make the score 5 to 1 at the end of the first. A penalty shot by A. Taylor gave the winners their opening tally in the second, while Nesbitt, who has developed the technique of picking the corner of the net, notched one more to make the final score 7 to 1.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, J. Anderson; defense, L. Hubble, D. Forsyth; centre, A. Hamilton; wings, D. Bannon, J. Milne; alternates, R. Jack, J. Wilkinson, R. Goheen, A. MacMullen.

Campbellford—Goal, K. Dummo; defense, A. Taylor, P. Ferrill; centre, L. Nesbitt; wings, H. Peake, G. Fairman; alternates, G. Pace, C. Pettifer, R. Peake.

Referee—Russell Ayrhart.

Close Checking

The Peewee game, which was the first offering of the evening, also featured Havelock as the opposition to the locals. This also was a fairly fast game but close checking on both sides eliminated scoring and the exhibition ended in a 0-0 draw. C. Cassidy stood out for the locals while J. Anderson who narrowly missed the net when shooting at point blank range in the dying moments of the game, stood out for the Havelock team.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, J. Southworth; defense, J. Anderson, W. Seeney; centre, A. Smith; wings; B. Cosgrove, B. Pollock; alternates, G. Yeo, H. Young, G. Roat.

Campbellford—Goal, W. McClure; defense, Tom Messenger, Bill Fraser; centre, J. Dunk; wings, N. Ingram, R. Dooher; alternates, B. Hay, P. Bennett, D. White, A. Labrash, F. Blake, R. Massey, C. Cassidy.

Referee—R. Ayrhart.

Warkworth Wins

A lucky shot from centre ice, that no one, including the goal tender, saw until it landed inside the net, gave Warkworth a close 3 to 2 decision of Campbellford in a High School exhibition, which was the final gesture of the evening. The lucky goal was scored by G. Greenly half way through the second when he lifted the puck neatly over the heads of the defense players and it fell just inside the goal line. Close checking on both sides resulted in the first period ending in a scoreless tie, J. O'Rourke opened the scoring for the homesters early in the second by a neat solo effort and Edwards got the equalizer five minutes later. Greenly's long shot ended the period with Warworth on top of a 2 to 1 score. In the third Moore added one more for the visitors while C. O'Rourke and Shillinglaw combined to make the final score 3 to 2.

The teams:

Warkworth—Goal, D. May; defense, G. Meiklejohn, G. Greenly; centre H. Moore; wings, N. Dudley, H. Churchley; alternates, E. Darke, R. Edwards, W. Weatherson, D. Grills.

Campbellford—Goal, M. Maxwell; defense, P. Doherty, G. Brunton; centre, A. Shillinglaw; wings, J. Umphrey, J. O'Rourke; alternates, D. Burgiss, A. Johnston, Art Hay, L. Nesbitt, A. Taylor, C. O'Rourke.

Referee—E. Greenly, Warkworth.

Mr. George Begg, holder of ticket number 43 and A. K. Loucks, ticket number 970 were announced by W. A. Hogle as winners of the lucky draw held in connection with the hockey games.

Sports Day By Day

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Toronto Leafs play two games with Canadiens this week-end, tonight in Toronto and Sunday in Montreal. Whatever the payoff in goals the take at the box office should be good. ....Brantford Lions went out like lambs last night, losing 9 to 1 in the decisive game of their junior playoff series with Hamilton Whizzers..... Who bobbed up as referee of an exhibition game at Buffalo last night between U.T.S., Toronto and Buffalo Nichols Prep., but our old friend Babe Bogardis....In the regular schedule this season the ace line of Runions, Brady and Conick scored exactly 100 goals and that is sniping in any kind of company, chum....Incidentally the N.H.L.'s highest scoring line, the Smith-Bentley-Mosienko combination of the Black Hawks has rung the bell 79 times....There are two important junior games tonight with Oshawa Generals meeting the Falcons in St. Catharines and St. Mike's clashing with the Galt Kists in Galt.

Blood Donors Clinic Reports Higher Attendance This Week

During this week the people of Peterborough have been making valuable contributions to the Red Cross and Community Fund drive. But there is another community project, which while showing a good record, needs the same backing—the Blood Donors Clinic. This week attendance picked up slightly with 82 on Monday and 98 on Wednesday. The much talked of invasion threatens to take all the available supplies of plasma, and Red Cross branches have been asked to send as much blood as possible. Six people gave their seventh donation on this week's list.

Donors on Monday were:

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

AVOIDING A HOLD-UP

ON THIS eleventh anniversary of the "bank holiday," which constituted the greatest single shock of the "depression"—do you remember it?—some of us can celebrate by granting a holiday to some of our bridge habits. One of those, which is a bad habit if we follow it without variation, is that of always holding up an ace until the third round, when it is our only stopper in the suit led against a No Trump game.

All declarers in a duplicate game were set on that contract except one. Each of them held up the spade A until the third round. Next each tried clubs, which didn't break, and then hearts, which fizzled in like fashion. Only eight tricks therefore could be scored. When a diamond was lost, West set the contract with two more spades.

With the diamond K as good as marked with West by his bid—unless he had a six-card spade suit—there was just one sound way to play this hand. That was by coming in with the A on the second spade trick, trying for breaks in clubs and then hearts and then—if neither suit divided evenly—throwing West in with your last spade.

Even if West had more than a five-carder in spades, he would discard so as to hold two diamonds then, and consequently could not have more than three spades left. He could score a second, third and fourth trick in the suit and then would have to pitch back a diamond into the A-Q. That is exactly what happened where the contract was made.

This deal, coming within less than a week of one on which the same declarer tossed the lead to an opponent who could run three immediate tricks, ranks almost among the uncanny odd quirks of our funny game.

War Is Shelved As House Talks About Chimneys

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 4 — (CP) — This is the tale of the chimney sweeps of Grantham, a town of some 20,000 in Lincolnshire, and how the House of Commons put aside the burdens of war and national affairs to discuss the matter with only the sightest touch of levity.

It's only a small tale but perhaps it's important these days in demonstrating the fulness of democracy at work.

Charged as Independent M.P. for Grantham with looking after the interest of its constituents, William Denis Kendall raised the question, telling the sympathetic members how he had been trying for some time to obtain the release of a skilled Grantham chimney sweep from the army. The army was using the man as an officer's batman and that was the crux of Kendall's case.

The town was sadly lacking in sweeps, he said. Saving the town from fire was more important than being a batman. The man ought to be released.

But when he went to the authorities they told him Grantham had four full-time sweeps and five part-time operators. Kendall did not deny these figures but he pointed out that the full-time sweeps were aged 78, 75, 60 and 60 which seemed a little old to him for the work. Besides only one of the four was skilled and he was 60 and suffering from acute arthritis.

Support for Kendall

A fellow Independent, William Brown, supported Kendall's view of the gravity of the situation. In fact Brown gave the house first hand experiences to demonstrate the fire danger. He had, it turned out, been dining at Kendall's house the night before and the chimney caught fire.

This was where the levity entered the discussion, Malcolm McCorquodale, who was to reply for the government, said it had been a particularly mild night and he regretted to hear Kendall needed a fire at all. The labour ministry's parliamentary secretary, of course, was referring to fuel rationing.

(Kendall disclosed to inquiring reporters later he had put out the fire himself, and climbed the roof of his house to do so. The damage was slight).

In his answer McCorquodale said it was a big request to release a fully-trained man of only 23 who had been in the army for four years. But to this Brown replied the man's age was not the point, it was what the man was doing.

The house rose then, its members still sympathetic to Kendall's problems but not very hopeful he'd get Grantham the sweep. The next day they went back to the war and national affairs.

Functions of Parliament

"These criticisms arise from opinions concerning the functions of Parliament which are often based upon such misconceptions as the view that Parliament is primarily a board of directors with the members of the cabinet as its executive staff and that members, instead of trying to reconcile as much as possible all the elements of public opinion, which is difficult in our diversified country, should rigidly consider every question on its own exclusive merits."

Such was not the "true function" of a body elected to discuss public affairs. Debates might be lengthy but they brought home to the government the advisability or unpopularity of particular lines of policy. All views had to be heard because Democratic government rested on public opinion.

"Parliament is the assembly of representatives elected by the people where great issues are debated, or should be debated," said the committee, which included representatives of all parties. "It is not primarily a board of auditors charged with the inspection of public accounts.

"Freedom of speech is one of the inalienable privileges of members of Parliament. It is in truth the privilege of their constituents and it is secured to members not for their personal benefit but to enable them to discharge the functions of their office."

It will be more difficult to obtain a division on a speaker's ruling if the new rules are adopted. Divisions normally take at least half an hour while the votes of 245 members are counted one by one. Whereas five members can demand a division on a speaker's ruling now, the report proposes a minimum of 20.

No reduction is proposed in the length of speeches in formal debate now 40 minutes, with a few exceptions—but a limitation on speeches in committee of the whole is proposed. The suggested rule would limit members to one speech on any one item or clause and that not longer than 20 minutes.

A new rule, approaching the practice of the "question hour" in the British House, is suggested regarding oral questions at the opening of the sitting. They are to be permitted but must be submitted in writing to the clerk and the minister concerned an hour before the meeting and after reply three "supplementary questions" would be permitted.

A shortening up of the procedure in the passage of Senate divorce bills is proposed but the committee went on record for the complete elimination of divorce bills from Parliament "as soon as conveniently possible."

Farm Price Legislation

During discussion of his estimates Agriculture Minister Gardiner gave a few hints of the nature of the proposed farm price floor legislation. He said it will be in general terms and will not likely set prices in itself. It will authorize certain steps in the event of certain conditions developing.

Questioned by J. G. Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) on the constitutional aspects of federal price floor legislation, Mr. Gardiner said he had no doubt it could be done legally since there were pre-war precedents in which the government proceeded by purchasing farm products at a stated price.

The proposed bill is a post-war measure and is not intended to replace Wartime Price Regulations until they lapse six months after the war ends, he said.

Answering several members who expressed belief cattle should be exported to the United States, Mr. Gardiner said there was no point in that now since the United States was having the same trouble as Canada with congestion in packing plants.

On all food matters, such as the recent suspension of meat rationing, the government worked closely with the United States government. The plan was to ship surplus Canadian beef to Britain to help feed the population there and also with a view to building up a market for perhaps 300,000 head of cattle which Canada may have to export yearly after the war.

gance, a German bomb which struck the Houses of Parliament across the street blew out its windows, pierced its wall and left a small, round hole which, because of what it stands for, will become part of the memorial.

The Chapel to-day is forlorn, unused, chill in the dank cold of the English winter. Its interior is drab and lonely. The window which will bear the armorial badges of the squadrons which fought for the survival of Britain in those three months of 1940, is nakedly plain.

A dust cloth fills the hole which will live in history.

Sand bag upon sand bag shelters the tomb in which Henry VII. lies.

But peace will bring to the Chapel a new life, and when its splendor has returned the "few" will share it. Their memorial awaits the end of the war to find its place in Britain's story.

The "few" would want it that way. They didn't start their fight and they didn't finish it, but it was they, more than any other moral men, who saw it didn't go the wrong way.

the House itself.

The statement was given out a few minutes after William Dennison (C.C.F. — Toronto St. David) had introduced a bill in the house enabling municipalities to adopt a municipal doctor plan.

He explained there now is provincial legislation enabling residents at St. Joseph Island to pay a doctor by a speial levy on the tax rate. His measure sought to have this privilege extended to all areas in the province wishing to take advantage of it.

Dr. Vivian's statement mentioned the St. Joseph Island Tax levy plan but said proposed provincial health services plan "goes much farther."

The statement added the plan would be particularly applicable to northern Ontario "where because of the very nature of the settlements, adequate medical services are not easily procurable."

In addition to the Municipal Health Act, the government planned to introduce amendments to the Public Health Act, the statement said.

Christ's First

that Jesus did, said, Of a truth this is that Prophet that should come into the world." St. John 6; 14.

How did the Master resist? He remembers the Scripture where it is written:— "Man shall not live by bread alone but by every Word of God."

This temptation makes a tremendous appeal to every generation. In the heart of every one there is the desire to shirk hardships and discomforts. With what appreciation you speak of your boyhood friend:— "He is now in comfortable circumstances; not very rich but comfortable." You imply that he has bread enough and to spare. He has nothing to worry about. This is the most subtle of physical temptations. Drink and impurity have their strength. But the respectable man is conscious of his comfortable circumstances. He is trusting in them. He does not know that he is in deadly spiritual peril. For the all important question is:—"Does he trust in God?" As a son of God by adoption and grace is he putting his whole trust and confidence in the Father?

Why was Our Lord tempted? Our Lord's human nature could only be strengthened by His victorious resistance of temptation. It is the pride of the Commando that he has been put through the most trying physical tests in order to fit him for that high wor kas a member of a shock troop to make a breach in the enemy's position. As the Head of the New Race the Christ's Humanity must be tested and tried. For He offers something of that glorified Humanity to every soul who comes to Him for help. This is the meaning of the Scriptures:—"That Christ may be formed in you."

It is all important to remember that Our Lord is tempted to use His power for His own comfort without in any way affecting any one else. You have ambitions. You desire to develop your talents and rise to some worthy position. You do not wish to thrust yourself over some one else. In such a case you would step on one side and let him have that position. Yet it may be that it is God's will that you should not attain to that position. There must be no degree of selfishness in your heart or envy of the other man.

A painless Gospel is very attractive. Jesus said unto His disciples: —"If any man will come after Me let him take up his cross and follow me." Cross bearing is very painful.

FOR THAT HE HIMSELF HATH SUFFERED BEING TEMPTED HE IS ABLE TO SUCCOR THEM THAT ARE TEMPTED.

Educational Tax Change Postponed

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—While the Ontario Government plans "sweeping revisions" in educational taxation, it is not likely that any bill dealing with this matter will be introduced at the present session of the Legislature, it was learned today from a source close to Premier Drew.

This source said that while plans for educational tax revisions will be carried out, they require much investigation which will be completed and the result laid before the legislature at the present session.

Better Machines Will Win War Against Germany

Superiority of technique in the production of war equipment will be the decisive factor spelling victory for the Allies in the war against Germany, stated William J. Davidson, Director of Engineering Services, General Motors Products, in an address Friday noon to the Kiwanis Club.

"The theory that the war is nearly over is foolish," Mr. Davidson said "We are up against a tough foe who has far from exhausted his capacity to produce new and effective equipment. I don't think we can defeat the Germans because we are physically better or that we can say that we have the better brains. But we do have a better technique than our enemy; and when it happens that we have a 5 per cent technical edge in quality and performance of all our war material—planes, tanks, engines, guns and all the rest—that will be the day we will win the war."

Associated with General Motors since before the last war, when he served as an officer in the Motor Transport Corps of the United States Army, Mr. Davidson has been intimately connected with industrial war production problems in recent years. Canadian-born and a graduate of McGill University, he spoke on the subject of "The Relation of Industry to the Fighting of the War."

Early Preparation

It was in 1937, when he was appointed to head the Diesel Engine Division of General Motors Corporation, that his work with the problems of preparing for the war began, Mr. Davidson said. A champion of the Diesel engine for use in tanks, it was at this time that the U.S. Army adopted the Diesel for its war machines; and Diesels were subsequently employed for all landing craft. The increase in the production of these engines had been tremendous, the speaker noted.

In April of 1940 Mr. Davidson went to France on a special aviation mission to consider the problems of French manufacturers and help devise methods whereby more and better aviation engines might be produced. He visited some thirty plane plants in May just before the invasions of the Lowlands began. "It was an interesting and a sad sight," he said.

"The reason France fell is not any of those which are popularly supposed. National management of industry was bad, and there was too close a link between industry and politics, between the owners of war plants and political schemers."

Hopeless Attitude

On his way out of France—Mr. Davidson who returned to the United States by clipper from Bordeaux where he had gone with the Government ahead of the victorious German armies, talked with the few French leaders who were left with "any punch." But there was nothing they could do, inasmuch as Marshal Petain had persuaded the people that further resistance was hopeless.

"Petain," Mr. Davidson said, "thought he was dealing with the military heads of Germany, whom he understood and on whose word he could rely; he didn't know that Nazi politicians dictated to the Army and that the armistice was merely a scrap of paper."

Back in the States, the engineering executive left his post with General Motors to serve for a year with the British Purchasing Mission. This he termed "an experience I will long remember. Arthur Purvis—head of the mission—was a grand man and he died in the service of his country as surely as any soldier on the battlefront."

Maintenance Job

Returning to General Motors and placed in charge of its engineering services on all combat fronts, Mr. Davidson told of the work that was carried out in the all-important phase of maintenance and examination of performance in battle vehicles all over the world. G. M. C. alone had 220 mechanical experts abroad, whose job it was to show the troops how to use their equipment, to fix it when it broke down, and to listen to complaints.

"Not the least important part of their task is to report back their findings to this country, and we have received a deluge of reports which will serve as the basis for future improvements. All this," the speaker continued, "is done in closest cooperation with the military authorities."

Will Prove Masters

"Democracies are never ready to make wars, and that is as it should be; but having got into the business we can make monkeys of those Germans." The speaker cited the manner in which American firms had gone into production of weapons originally manufactured in Europe, and how in some instances they had made them twice as good. He gave also, unofficially, figures that showed the nearly fantastic volume of aircraft engines, tanks, trucks, shells and ball-bearings which have been produced.

Mr. Davidson was introduced by William Garner, and the vote of thanks was moved by E. A. Outram. A large number of guests, including His Honor the Mayor and other representatives of the city, attended the meeting.

Not Plane Lost

The night R.A.F. operations, which included mine-laying, were carried out without loss of a plane.

The daylight sweep of American fighters over Berlin yesterday was regarded as a possible curtain-raiser for daylight assaults against the capital by U.S. heavy bombers.

Dispatches from Italy, meanwhile, said heavy bombers spread destruction through the Littorio and Tiburtina rail yards in Rome yesterday in the fifth American assault against military objectives in the Eternal City. Crewmen said they caught the rail yards crammed with German supply trains.

The sweep by twin-motored Lightnings over Berlin—a penetration of at least 575 miles—served notice on the Nazis that one of the major considerations which has prevented American bombers from raiding the capital long ago—a lack of range in escort fighters—has been removed.

The army said the fighters flew to the outskirts of the city and then circled around the capital, going at least 15 miles beyond for a probable record penetration of the Reich. The planes encountered some flak, but were unimpeded by Nazi fighters.

A dispatch from Berne quoted the Nazi-controlled Rome radio as saying that 40 persons were killed and 200 wounded and that bombs fell on Vatican City during an Allied air raid on Rome yesterday morning.

DEVELOPMENT WORK ALREADY COMPLETED—

Approximately $70,000.00 has been spent on stripping, trenching (over 2,500 feet), shaft sinking to 100 feet, establishing one level, and the building of a complete set of camps. The following are extracts from a report of Mr. J. F. Young, M.E., dated January 10th, 1940:

Nos. 1 and 2 Veins:

"These are the most important veins found on the property to date and have received the most development and investigation. No. 2 vein appears to be the main one with the No. 1 branching southeast from it. They occur in a fracture zone in the granodiorite and are uncovered for some 1,200 feet in length with the limit not reached due to heavy overburden. Strike is northeast.

"Quartz in varying amounts occurs intermittently along the break. No. 1 vein quartz is some 215 feet long while the main quartz showing of No. 2 is exposed for about 85 feet. These veins vary in width from a few inches to 30 inches and gold has been found fairly well along the whole length.

"No. 1 vein in places is in two sections and dips southeast. No. 2 dips northwest. Both veins show a tendency to widen at depth as indicated in the test pits and the shaft.

SAMPLING AND ASSAYING. "A large number of channel samples have been taken by the writer from surface, test pits, and in the shaft. A summary of channel sampling on the surface and in the test pits gave the No. 1 vein an average of $16.00 across an average width of 15 inches or a length of 255 feet and the No. 2, $16.90 across 15½ inches for a length of 55 feet.

BULK SAMPLING. "Of 5 test pits on the No. 1 vein gave an average value of $21.76 across an average width of 28 inches taking both quartz and wall rock. Bulk sampling of quartz alone from the No. 2 vein gave a value of $58.90 for a width of 12 inches."

MR. YOUNG concludes his report as follows:

"I am definitely of the opinion that your property has mine making possibilities and can only conclude that a larger scale of development is warranted."

Verifying the above report, the following in an extract of the Mines and Fisheries report regarding the above reports by J. F. Young.

The channel-sampling and test-pitting gave the No. 1 vein an average grade of $16.00 (1) across a width of 15 inches for a length of 225 feet; and the No. 2 vein an average grade of $16.90 across 15½ inches for a length of 55 feet. Bulk sampling of 5 test-pits on No. 1 vein gave an average value of $21.76 across a width of 28 inches including both quartz and most of the wall-rock broken. A bulk sample of quartz alone from a test pit on the No. 2 vein gave a value of $58.90 for a width of 12 inches. Computations by the writer from the results of bulk-sampling of these six test-pits, which are spaced at intervals of about 40 feet, suggest an average grade of $25.00 over 2 feet for a total of about 250 feet.

U.S. Heavies Bomb Berlin In Second American Blow Dealt At Capital In Daylight

German Radio Declares One Of War's Greatest Air Battles Rages Over 350 Miles Of German Territory

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6—(AP).—United States heavy bombers in "very strong forces" bombed Berlin today in the second American blow on the German capital, a frequent target of heavy R.A.F. night raids. This surprise follow-up to Saturday's "icebreaker" raid, by one formation of bombers, was a striking demonstration of the U.S. 8th Air Force's might, for it was the seventh operation of the heavy bombers in eight days.

Heavy fighter escorts accompanied today's formations on the round trip of more than 1,100 miles from British bases.

The German radio declared one of the war's greatest air battles had raged over 350 miles from the Netherlands coast to Berlin.

Berlin, already seared by massive R.A.F. night assaults, was brought under destructive hammer blows falling by day and night.

Presumably the American daylight attacks are aimed at precision destruction of selected targets escaping the R.A.F.'s night raids.

The heavy bombers raced to Berlin as Allied medium and fighter-bombers attacked northern France—where Prime Minister Churchill has said the Germans were preparing rocket and robot-plane installations—for the fifth successive day. Last night R.A.F. Mosquitoes attacked western Germany, without loss.

Out Last Five Days.

Last Wednesday was the only time in the last eight days that American heavy bombers have not gone out. Successively, they bombed the Pas de Calais area, Brunswick, southwest and northwest Germany, and yesterday hit Nazi air bases in southern France. The bombers and fighters yesterday knocked down 27 enemy planes.

The German broadcast said that the great air battle "has been raging since 11.30 this morning over northwest and central Germany," extending from the Zuider Zee as far as the Heavel Lakes near Berlin.

The radio said the air raid alarm sounded in Berlin just before 1 p.m. (8 a.m., E.D.T.)

The Americans took a direct course to Berlin, the Germans said, and "during their incursion were continually pressed by the strongest forces of German fighter and destroyer aircraft, and were forced to ever fresh evasive manoeuvres by the fire of hundreds of anti-aircraft batteries.

"The attack had been expected by German anti-aircraft defences after the first two American daylight thrusts had failed," it continued. "The U.S. bombers flew in tight formations, protected on both sides by fighters and long-range fighters flying at higher altitude.

"The impression that the greatest possible fighter protection by U.S. Army and R.A.F. fighers was given in order to accomplish the thrust to Berlin this time was prevailing when the formations flew over the western frontier."

Flew Over Central Berlin.

The Americans flew over the central part of the capital, according to the Germans, who said that "by the time the American bombers reached the outskirts of Berlin, they had already split into single groups and were driven southwards as they passed over the central part of Berlin.

"German fighter and destroyer aircraft had forced their way into the U.S. bomber formations and were able to neutralize the British-American protection. In only a light cloud cover, the U.S. bombers tried to bomb their attacks in the Berlin area from a southerly and southeasterly direction."

Indian's Body Is Found Frozen On Road

The frozen body of Alex. Knott, 68-year-old Curve Lake guide and father of eight children, was found Sunday at noon on the side of the 9th Concession Road in Smith township, 12 miles north of the city.

It is believed that the Indian became exhausted while walking to his home at Curve Lake from Peterborough on Saturday night and collapsed on the road. Marks in the snow showed that Knott had fallen several times a short distance south of where his body was found and that for the last part of the way he had crawled on his hands and knees.

Too weak to go any farther he had pulled his coat around his head and curled up in the snow where death overtook him. The thermometer dived down to 8 below zero during the night.

Knott had come into town on Saturday and was seen around 4.30 o'clock walking north on Water street above Park Hill Road. As a result of a report that reached the police station a police cruiser car travelled north for some distance without seeing anything of the Indian. He had turned off Highway 28 just north of the filtration plant, to take the middle road which is the most direct route to the Curve Lake village.

At 10.30 o'clock that night, Orville Miller, a Smith township farmer who lives on the 9th Concession, saw Knott standing by the side of the road a mile south of where his body was found. The guide was seeking a lift but Miller who was driving home from Peterborough had his brother Don with him and had no room for a passenger.

At noon Sunday Miller's 15-year-old son Billy, taking a short-cut across the fields to a neighbor's farm came out on the road and saw Knott's body in the snow.

Coroner Dr. Herb. Young and Provincial Constable Price Morris and Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure investigated the fatality and Dr. Young announced that there was no necessity of holding an inquest.

Alex Knott was born at Curve Lake and was a familiar figure on down-town streets for he visited the city frequently. He is survived by his widow and a family of eight children.

Nazi Planes Painted Like Barber Poles

A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, March 6—(CP)—The Germans pulled something new against a United States bomber attack yesterday, sending Messerschmitt planes painted like barber poles through a formation of heavy bombers without firing a shot. "They had black propellers with white hubs. The base of the planes was aluminum with red trimming. On the underside were 10 black crosses—Luftwaffe insignia.

"...THAT IS FOREVER ENGLAND"—Bareheaded comrades follow the bodies of British Tommies to their graves in the British cemetery on the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead below Rome. Upkeep of this and other British cemeteries throughout Africa, Tunisia, Sicily and Italy will become the responsibility of the Imperial War Graves Commission after the war.

Mrs. Hubert Is Sentenced TO 15 Years In Prison

Mrs. Elizabeth Hubert was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary by Mr. Justice J. A. Hope for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of her husband, John E. Hubert, at their home near Nassau November 20 last.

"Last week you stood in this court-room upon trial on a charge of murder, one of the most serious charges in the Criminal Code," His Lordship said in addressing the prisoner at the continuance of the assize sessions this afternoon, which were adjourned last Friday. "This is a charge which, if followed by a finding of guilt, permits but one sentence.

At that trial you offered no evidence, and the jury saw fit, as I think they properly did, to reject a certain line of defense offered on your behalf. They followed my charge in connection with the defence which permitted them to find you guilty of manslaughter. By doing so they have left open to me the duty of determining and fit and proper defence to be passed on you."

His Lordship said that the law provided a range of penalties for manslaughter up to life imprisonment.

"The verdict of the jury was fully justified on the evidence in giving you the benefit of a doubt. It was fortunate for you that the jury did not hear some of the evidence which was taken in their absence, and properly so, relating to the admission of certain evidence wheih the Crown presented. I am confident it would have been most difficult to have found the verdict they did, a verdict for the more serious offense; and consequently you may consider that you have been very fortunate.

Train Engineer Goes Insane

LONDON, March 6—(CP-Reuters)—Two hundred passengers were given a nightmare trip Sunday night when the engineer of a British train went insane, beat off efforts to keep him from the controls, and carried his train past danger signals on a seven-mile stretch of track.

"Clear all lines," flashed a message to signalmen at 13 stations on the Bath-Salisbury line, "driver of 7.10 p.m. train from Bristol gone crazy."

The engineer apparently lost his mind in Bath station. He suddenly pulled open the throttle and took the train out without many of its passengers. Those aboard were thrown off their feet as the train lurched along in erratic bursts of speed.

Alarm spread when railwaymen at some stations were heard shouting for the engineer to stop. As the train sped through darkness the fireman fought desperately to wrest the controls from the madman's hands. Eventually he threw the brake, bringing the train to a jolting stop.

The engineer could not be induced to leave the cab, and passengers who flocked forward from the cars to investigate were kept at bay with a pick.

It took five men to overpower him. The train arrived at Salisbury two hours late.

Quebec Officer Wins Coveted Award In Moro River Action

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, March 6.—(CP Cable.)—Canada's second Victoria Cross of the war was awarded to-day to Maj. Paul Triquet, 35 year old company commander of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Triquet, a Montrealer who holds the rank of Acting Major, earned the Empire's highest award for valor during the December battle of the Moro river in Italy.

A former company sergeant major, the wiry, mustached officer who rallied his men with cries of 'never mind the Germans, they can't shoot straight," led his company in an attack on a little group of houses making up the settlement of Casa Berardi.

His successful action was part of an operation by which the Canadian 1st Division outflanked a strongly-held crossroads south of Ortona and pushed enemy paratroopers into the seacoast town itself.

At the time the Canadians had been over the Moro River just a week and had been unsuccessful in attempts to dislodge the Germans from a gully in front of the crossroads two miles inland on the main Ortona--Orsogna highway.

Fought December 14

The action was fought Dec. 14 after a depleted company from the Seaforth Highlanders with a few tanks mounted the road still farther south and marched to the outskirts of Berardi.

The Seaforths retired when nightfall came and Triquet led his men into the attack. Stone houses in green, sloping groves had been converted by the Germans into strong points mounted with machine-guns. The paratroop defenders were also supported by tanks.

The quiet-spoken major whose men think the world of him had Sherman tanks with his company. As they went in the Germans opened up with fierce machine-gun and mortar fire and all of Triquet's officers were killed or wounded and half of his men became casualties.

Triquet kept moving about among the remainder, talking and joking in French. When he found his group virtually surrounded he called: "The enemy is all around us. The only safe place is our objective."

He led them on a dash toward the edge of the settlement where the men dug in and he directed them in driving off continuous counter-attacks that lasted until the rest of the battalion moved up to relieve him, two sergeants and the 15 other ranks who remained.

Triquet who has a son and daughter in Montreal is a native of Cabano, Que., a lower St. Lawrence village. He is a veteran of the Royal 22nd and was a company sergeant-major when he came to England after enlistment for active service.

He was commissioned March 18, 1941, and for a time headed the battalion's unarmed combat school while the Vingt-Deux was training in England.

The major, who speaks with the clipped accent of a non-commissioned officer giving orders in parade,

Shortages Show Signs Of Diminishing

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)—Shortages have shown signs of diminishing in some fields but in others have increases, "demanding new measures to ensure that essential goods reach the consumer," Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, said in a review of Board operations during the nine months ended last Dec. 31, tabled today in Commons.

"The pressure on the price ceiling from increasing production costs has been eased in a few directions, but it has seriously increased in others and, as yet, more important diretbions," Mr. Gordon said.

Major points in the review were:

Reduced School Attendance Found General In Canada

By JACK WILLIAMS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP).—Increased employment of boys and girls, resulting from wartime labor needs, has led to a reduction in school attendance, particularly in the higher grades, a Canadian Press survey reveals.

In only one province, Quebec, is an upward trend in school attendance reported and that followed the introduction of compulsory education in the present school year.

Nova Scotia reported a steady drop in high school attendance since the outbreak of war, with the registration for the present school year slightly below last year.

In New Brunswick, where officials described the trend in attendance as "downward," some rural schools have touched so small an attendance figure that they have been closed.

In general, the reductions have been more apparent in urban centres than in rural communities, and are particularly evident in districts where there has been intensified industrial activity as a result of the war.

In Ontario, there was a slight decrease this year as compared with last among pupils from 14 to 16 years, with the largest percentage in cities.

This condition also was reflected in Manitoba and in Saskatchewan, where officials said a general reduction in the province's population was another factor contributing to the empty school desks.

Figures for the present school year will not be compiled for some months but in British Columbia the total school attendance dropped last year.

Finnish Minister Is Going To Moscow

STOCKHOLM, March 6—(AP).—The Stockholm Morgontidningen indicated to-day that Juho Paasikivi, former Finnish Prime Minister who negotiated the 1940 peace, would go directly to Moscow to discuss Russian armistice demands.

It said the departure date of Paasikivi "eastward" was unknown.

The newspaper Dagens Nyheter suggested editorially that Paasikivi might win the Finnish government's authority to negotiate peace because he is personally in good favour with the Soviets and might be able to get better terms.

12 German Divisions Routed In Powerful Offensive With 500 Towns Liberated

6,000 Germans Have Been Killed In Push Which Cracked German Defences On 112-Mile Front

LONDON, March 6—(CP).—The Red Army swept close today to the vital Odessa-Lwow railway, main artery supplying the Germans in the Dnieper Bend, in a powerful new Western Ukraine drive which, Moscow announced, has routed 12 Nazi divisions and liberated more than 500 communities in two days.

A Soviet communique Sunday said the Russians were battling at the approaches to the station of Volochisk on the important line, 60 miles north of the Rumanian frontier. Severing of the railway would force the Nazis to rely on poor roads and one-track railways over the Rumanian frontier, or on the sea, for supplies or retreat.

Twenty salvoes from 224 guns thundered in Moscow in celebration of the new victories, announced by Premier Marshal Joseph tSalin in a special order of the day and by two Soviet communiques. Stalin disclosed Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov is commanding the 1st Ukrainian Army in the drive, replacing Gen. Nikolai K. Vatutin, reported ill.

6,000 Nazis Killed.

The announcement said at least 6,000 Nazis have been killed in the push, which cracked German defences on a 112-mile front and surged forward up to 31 miles. Joining with previously won positions in pre-war Poland, the new line gave the Russians a salient in the north, south-west to Luck (Lutsk) and then south-east to Belozerka—a line about 165 miles long.

The German communique yesterday admitted breakthroughs and a Berlin broadcast said the Russians were attacking with at least 12 to 14 rifle divisions and three tank corps—more than 200,00 men.

Moscow also reported that Russian torpedo and attack planes had sunk two transports, aggregating

24,000 Germans Casualties On Beachhead

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Italy, Mar. 6 (AP)—The Germans suffered 24,000 casualties in three abortive efforts to wipe out the Allied beachhead south of Rome and the hard fighting of the past month has disrupted enemy plans for meeting the expected spring invasion across the English Channel, an authoritative source said today.

More important even than the heavy manpower losses from a strategic point of view is the fact that crack divisions which had been earmarked to meet invasion from Britain are tied up in Italy.

Second Class Troops

The Germans had decided that because of natural advantages of terrain they could hold the Italian front with second-class troops and were moving such units—like the 114th division—into the line, it was learned.

They planned to move better units, among them the Hermann Goering Division, the 26th Panzer Division, the 15th and 29th Panzer Grenadiers and the 930th Light Infantry, to the Channel Coast. The Goering Division was in fact already aboard trains when the unexpected landing at Anzio compelled the Germans to retain all such divisions in Italy and

$115 Millions In Subsidies

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP) — Canada's bill for subsidies or reimbursements in connection with Prices Board operations totalled $115,378,235 from Dec. 1, 1941 when the general price ceiling was applied to last Dec. 31, said a report by Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, tabled today in the Commons.

The last report on subsidies, given to the House last spring, set the total of subsidies paid to March 31, 1943, at $65,161,506. The increase in nine months to Dec. 31 therefore was $50,216,729.

Major subsidy payments have been made for dairy products, the report showed. Butterfat subsidies prior to May 1, 1943, when responsibility for payment was taken over by the Agriculture Department, totalled $12,977,776. Subsidies to keep down milk prices to the consumer totalled $10,009,669.

All domestic subsidies and reimbursements to last Dec 31 totalled $61,809,248, while payments on imports were $53,[illegible]. Import subsidies on petroleum and petroleum products totalled $[illegible].

Subsidies on footwear to July 16, 1943, totalled $4,389,715, while standard grocery subsidies during the price ceiling period totalled $3,[illegible]; leather gloves and garments $1,997,047; soap and shortening matericls $1,[illegible]; and tea and coffee $3,[illegible].

New Understanding Possible

Policy of Democracies Is Turkey's Policy Paper Says

ANKARA, March 6—(AP).—Two Istanbul newspapers left the impression today that a new Turkish understanding with Britain still is possible despite an announcement that shipment of war supplies from Britain and the United States has been stopped.

"The policy of the democracies is our policy," said Vatan.

"If the Allies were to do something in the Balkans, they would find us at their sides," said Tanin. "It is not true that the Allies can do nothing in the Balkans because we will not move. The truth is that we will not move because the Allies do not wish to land in the Balkans."

Suspension of Anglo-Turkish military talks was disclosed February 10.

Tanin reported that aviators and technicians sent to Turkey by the British and American armies are preparing to leave and said that, while the flow of military supplies from Allied sources has been halted, shipments of rubber and tin would continue.

Unity of Action in Fleet Disposition

Italy Is Paying Price For Her Aggression As Her Fleet Goes To Three Nations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

Few recent war transactions have created greater international speculation than the unexplained announcement that the Anglo-American Allies are turning one-third of the Italian navy over to Russia.

The curiosity of Hitler's southsayers, among others, is at white heat. Especially concerned, of course are the Italians, and Premier Badoglio has expressed pained surprise that his Government wasn't advised of the deal.

Well, one can understand the Marshal's feelings hurt, but there's small ground for surprise in his shrewd mind. While the Allies hope to see Italy prosperous and happy after the war, she should understand thoroughly that she's going to pay for her aggression.

Part of the price will be military impotence. Loss of her one fine navy is one of the penalties for helping cause millions of deaths and untold destruction.

It strikes me that the importance of this deal doesn't lie so much in the question of what the Soviet intends to do with the ships as in these two aspects of the situation: (1) the fact that the Italian navy is being split up and (2) that it's being divided among the Allies, apparently on the basis of share and alike.

Naturally this handful of ships isn't going to turn the war upside down. They might be helpful in Mediterranean operation, manned by Red Crews. They would be particularly useful if they could be got into the Black Sea to help clear the Germans out of the Crimea and turn their right flank in Russia. However, before Allied ships can be sailed into the Black Sea the Allies must have Turkey's permission to pass through the Dardenelles and more to the point, the Hitlerites must be cleaned out of the Aegean Islands which block the entrance to the Dardanelles from the Mediterranean.

Anyway, of much greater importance is the fact that the Allies are in process of carrying out their oath to render the Axis powers impotent militarily and punish war guilt. Germany and Japan can see in this a preview of what's going to happen to their own navies, armies and air forces.

However, there's something even bigger than that involved in this disposition of the Italian fleet. It's a symbol of solidarity among the three dominant powers—Britain, American and Russia—a unity upon which the peace of the world most ceretainly depends.

D. N. B., the German News Agency, professes to see in this move a proof of the "devoted exactness with which the Anglo-Americans try to satisfy the Kremlin."

It isn't a question of "satisfying" the Kremlin. It's a matter of adjusting questions on the basis of one for all and all for one. Each of the Allies is, according to his own talents, pulling his weight in the war.

Our greatest statesmen are agreed that so long as there is this give and take among the Big Three we are on the road to world peace; the moment the give and take ceases, we are in fresh trouble.

Train Stalls In Tunnel Gassing Hitch-Hikers

NAPLES, March 6—(AP)—A total of 509 Italian civilians were asphyxiated early Saturday when the freight train on which they had hitched rides stalled in a railway tunnel in southern Italy.

Allied railway officials conducting an investigation said that several hundred civilians apparently had climbed aboard the 45-car train in the darkness while it was halted at one of the last stations through which it passed before entering the tunnel.

Only about 50 of those caught aboard the train when it stalled on a four per cent grade in the tunnel escaped with their lives. The remainder apparently met a quick death as carbon monoxide generated by the engine spread through the tunnel.

All members of the crew except the fireman were among the dead.

Berlin Raid's Success Is Questioned

Mosquitoes Keep Aerial Offensive Rolling Against Nazis

LONDON, March 6—(CP).—The R.A.F.'s Mosquito bombers kept the Allied aerial offensive rolling last night, the Air Ministry announced today, by attacking targets in western Germany a few hours after United States heavy bombers had made their fourth daylight assault on Europe in four days.

The overnight attacks were carried out without loss, the announcement said. Specific objectives were not disclosed.

Yesterday's American operations were executed by strongly-escorted forces of bombers which struck into southwestern France to bomb the German air base at Cognac and other targets in the vicinity of Bergerac. A communique last night said good results were achieved.

This morning the Germans' Hilversum, Bremen and Friedsland radio stations left the air, hinting at another daylight aerial invasion of the continent.

While the Mosquitoes bombed Germany for the sixth straight night, other intruders seized on what in the Battle of Britain days was known as a "Bombers' Moon" and prowled around Nazi airbases on the continent. They shot down four German planes, three of them bagged by 29-year-old Flt. Lt. A. D. Wagner who brought his score to eight, including two Japanese bombers shot down over Ceylon.

A fifth German plane, a Junkers-88 on a daylight reconnaissance over the North Sea tried to machine-gun an anti-aircraft site north of Scotland and was sent crashing into the seas in flames by the Bofors battery. Three of the crew were rescued.

Four bombers and five fighters were lost. The escort destroyed 14 Nazi planes. The total knocked down by the bombers was not immediately announced.

Official secrecy meanwhile continued to screen the full story of the Saturday daylight blow against Berlin, the first by United States heavy bombers. R.A.F. Mosquitoes again hit Berlin Saturday night, their second attack in as many nights on the enemy capital.

Heavy Assault On Coast.

An all-day offensive against the Pas-de-Calais coast of northern France by medium, light and fighter-bombers accompanied the Sunday heavy-bomber stab. Enemy fighter opposition was reported weak.

The American raid on Berlin and accompanying attacks on other unspecified targets in eastern Germany, during which 15 German planes were destroyed, brought a United States fighter loss to 23, the largest to date for any operation over Europe. Fourteen heavy bombers were missing.

There was no official explanation of the high fighter loss, although the 50-below-zero weather in the substratosphere and the 1,200-mile round trip probably were big factors.

A United States headquarters announcement said one formation of Flying Fortresses reached Berlin and the fliers declared their bombs fought throughout the campaign in Italy and is one of the most soldierly, popular officers in the battalion that has fought with distinction on Canada's first major front in the second great war.

Canada's first V.C. of this war was awarded Oct. 2, 1942, to Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt of Vancouver and Belleville, Ont., for valor down in the Dieppe raid Aug. 19 of that year.

Col. Merritt, a prisoner of war since Dieppe, was the man who waved his helmet as he led his troops of the South Saskatchewan Regiment, of which he was commanding officer, across a bullet-swept bridge.

The official citation said that when Col. Merritt was last seen "he was collecting Bren and Tommy guns and preparing a defensive position wich successfully covered the withdrawal from the beach."

Nearly Lost In Shuffle

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—Major Paul Triquet, latest winner of the Victoria Cross, highest Empire award for valor, nearly became lost in the shuffle when recommendations for decorations were being drawn up after the Moro River battle.

According to a story current at the front before I left there recently for Canada, Maj. Triquet, a Royal 22nd Regiment company commander, was listed for a lesser award, but at the last moment it was changed to the Victoria Cross on the orders of a high-ranking British officer.

Officers of the regiment like to tell about the day this British officer dropped around at regimental headquarters to chat with the commanding officer. The talk eventually got around to Triquet and the commander explained in detail the action which was instrumental in clearing the Ortona crossroads.

The British officer showed keen interest and asked if Triquet had been recommended for a Distinguished Service Order.

"Make it a V.C.," he told the commanding officer. "He deserves it."

That's why the tallish professional soldier wasn't among members of the "Van Doos" when medals were handed out at a special memorial service last January. But few were surprised—the word had spread quietly through the ranks that Paul Triquet had been recommended for "something big."

On that day Maj. Triquet's thoughts were with the men who went into battle Dec. 14 and failed to come back. He attacked with a company of 80-odd, but when he was relieved there was only himself and nine others.

Maj. Triquet a man without nerves has endeared himself to everybody in the regiment. There isn't a man who wouldn't go anywhere, do anything with him.

Once started, he will talk for hours after the battle, but only rarely will he mention his own part. He gives full credit to H. A. (Snuffy) Smith of Brandon, Man., who commanded the squadron of tanks which co-operated with him, and to his men for winning the uneven fight.

He remembers, particularly, his batman who crawled up to him with food one day, pleading: "But sir, you must eat." Five seconds later the batman was dead at his feet, killed by a shell.

And he remembers a sergeant who lost all his men and established himself in a slit trench beside a heap of ammunition, assuring the major as the Germans organized a counter-attack: "Don't worry, sir. They won't pass."

"And they didn't," Maj. Triquet told me during the interview.

"We just couldn't fail with men like that."

12,000 Coal Miners Strike In Monmouthshire Fields

LONDON, March 6—(CP).—Twelve thousand Monmouthshire coal miners struck today over a wage dispute, adding another grave threat to fuel production already said to have been affected seriously by an unofficial "slowdown strike" by thousands of other pit men.

The Monmouthshire walkout stemmed from the same grievances voiced by the miners whose slowdown tactics brought drastic action from the Ministry of Fuel.

In a test order, the Ministry, headed by Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, directed the transfer of 450 miners from the Easington Colliery Company's pits in Durham to jobs elsewhere and ordered that they be replaced by other workers. The Ministry added that unless the output of the mines, which dropped from 15,000 tons weekly to 5,000, was restored quickly the entire operation would be closed down and the 2,500 miners employed there would be transferred to other pits.

The slowdown began several months ago as a protest against a decision boosting the minimum weekly wage but providing no increase in piece rates.

The Daily Express said that "thousands of miners in northern coalfields now are going slow because they are dissatisfied with the award" and declared that the industry was facing a crisis.

The miners assert they get £5 ($22.25) weekly under the new scale whether they work hard or not, and that a highly-skilled cutter or loader can only boost his minimum pay by two to three shillings a week, with extra hard work because of low piecework rates.

Mine union leaders have condemned the slowdown strike, declaring the new wage award is "of inestimable value because it has granted the highest minimum ever paid to the coal industry" and appealing to the miners' patriotism on the eve of the opening of a new front in western Europe.

Fewer Divisions in Balkans

Fewer German divisions are in the Balkans. A considerable part of this force is being engaged by Marshal Tito's Partisan Army while general unrest in the region makes heavy garrisoning of other countries necessary.

Some divisions are held in Northern Italy to keep order. Another sizeable force is tied up in Southern France to meet the threat of an invasion of the Riviera. Throughout France many troops are required to keep resistance fighters from gaining control.

Bad weather is holding up present Italian operations.

The defence of the Cassino area now is mainly in the hands of parachute troops and the Germans are further strengthening their fortifications.

The exact breakdown of the 24,000 casualties was not given.

Mrs. Hubert

Your defense by counsel and the evidence before them permitted the jury to take a more charitable view of the situation. I have given your case very serious thought, and I have concluded, in the light of all the circumstances, that I must sentence you to the penitentiary at Kingston for fifteen years."

The closing episode of the trial and of the coming of the Huberts in the neighborhood of Peterborough, about five miles from the city, occupied only a few minutes at two o'clock V. J. McElderry, K.C., Crown Attorney, moved for sentence, and John A. Bradshaw, defence counsel, replied "No, Your Lordship;" to the question as to whether he had anything to say.

The prisoner was then directed to stand up, and Mr. Justice Hope proceeded to pronounce the sentence.

Mrs. Hubert showed a stoic acceptance of the long prison term, fifteen years to be added to her present age of 47, with the possible reduction of several years for good conduct. She did not utter any word or exhibit sign of emotion, but sat down again in the prisoner's box for only a moment as His Lordship instructed a police constable to "remove the prisoner."

domestic subsidies or reimbursements paid by the Board to hold the price ceiling between Dec. 1, 1941 and Dec. 31, 1943, was $115,378,235. In the nine months ended last Dec. 31 the total was $50,216,279.

2. Increased supplies of metals have made possible the discarding of substitutes in some cases; and reversion to the original material has lowered costs.

3. The problem of higher-cost substitutes continue in many lines; transportation costs are up; operating costs have been raised by difficulty in obtaining supplies; and in some industries decreased production has raised unit overhead costs.

4. "Serious pressure on labor costs," has been experienced in several forms; many industries have been forced to use less qualified workers; "in many industries included under the Wartime Wages control order there has been strong pressure for higher wage rates."

5. Another "important pressure" on the price ceiling has been the higher returns received by farmers for their products.

Mr. Gordon said that in the supply picture the "beginning of the end" of shortages is emerging "though somewhat dimly."

Benefited from Subsidies

The people who benefited most from subsidies were those with low incomes and large family responsibilities, while the greater burden of the subsidies fell on those in the higher income groups.

Growing shortages of certain essential goods has made it necessary for the Board to "program" civilian production to assure adequate supplies.

Fabric production in domestic mills during 1943 had reached record levels. During the latter part of the year a decline in military contracts had made possible some increase in civilian cloth production although labor shortages prevented its being as great as had been hoped.

"Efforts by the Board to assure a supply of fabrics and yarns from foreign and domestic sources, and economies arising from the simplification program, have prevented widespread shortages of finished garments," said Mr. Gordon.

"However, labor shortages have developed in some branches of the garment industry and unfortunately have often affected production of items, such as infants' and children's wear and work clothing, which are in unusually heavy demand."

Mr. Gordon said the supply of children's footwear had been the most difficult problem in the footwear field. Measures were being taken to assure supplies of war materials and special attention was being given to labor requirements.

Easing Of Labor Shortage

In recent months there had been some easing of labor shortage in the lumber and woodpulp industry, with the employment of prisoners of war in lumbering and with Government efforts to increase the supply of seasonal labor.

While demand had increased, the production of lumber decreased from 4,941,000,000 board feet in 1941 to 4,640,000,000 in 1943. Production in 1944, it was estimated, will be 4,350,000,000.

As a result of measures to increase production, woodpulp output for the first six months of 1944 had been set higher than would have been considered possible a few months earlier. Newsprint production would be at a rate of 252,900 tons, of which 200,000 tons would be available for the United States.

Exports to the United States, although lower by 10,000 tons a month than in the last six months of 1943, still would be nine per cent. above the level of newsprint exports in 1939. Consumption of newsprint in Canada would be cut by 600 tons a month compared with the last six months of 1943.

Allocation of metals continued to be made for essential products such as enamelled kitchenware and barbed wire.

But a new type of problem has arisen. Civilian supplies of certain important durable household goods such as electric washing machines and electric irons had fallen to "uncomfortably low levels," said Mr. Gordon.

This called for resumption of production, often in plants largely converted to war work, and required the use of a considerable variety of scarce materials.

"A program of this kind, once approved, receives a priority equal to military production," Mr. Gordon said.

Mr. Gordon said there had been "periodic evidences" of black markets and every effort had been made to stamp them out by prosecutions.

Costly Defeat Handed Japs In Admiralties

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 6.—(AP).—More American troops and supplies are being poured into Los Negros Island in the Admiralties, against indications that the Japanese may make another strong attempt to recapture Momote airdrome.

Allied Headquarters reported today mopping up of the island is in progress and additional supplies and reinforcements for the 1st Cavalry division are constantly being landed. It was reported that the enemy also is renewing his strength after his costly defeat Saturday.

There was evidence of an eastward movement of Japanese troops from the garrison at Lorengau on Manus Island, adjacent to Los Negros Island on the west, a Headquarters spokesman said. This led to the belief that another battle is in the making.

Sporadic fighting flared when the American forces came up against enemy groups which survived the battle Friday night and Saturday, when the Japanese repeatedly hit the cavalrymen's defences around the airdrome without denting the line.

In this attempt to retrieve the airfield which fell easily to the invaders when they landed Feb. 29, the Japanese left more than 700 dead.

3,000 Japs Killed.

Three thousand Japanese have been killed or wounded since the landing, Headquarters said Sunday, against American losses of 61 dead and 244 wounded.

Allied aircraft bombed Japanese installations west of Momote, without interception, and American destroyers shelled islands at the entrance of Seadler harbor at Lorengau, destroying gun positions.

More than 100 Solomons-based army and navy bombers hit Rabaul, the enemy base in New Britain, Sat-

143-Acre Farm Is Caused Of Sharp Debate

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—A 143-acre farm and a farmhouse linked with some of the most stirring chapters in Canadian history have flashed back into prominence in the Ontario legislature where they provoked the most clash of the present session between Premier Drew and Opposition Leader Jolliffe.

The farm, described in the legislature as the Alfred Griffiths farm, has been in possession of the Griffiths family from 1841 until recently when it was taken over by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario in connection with the new 65,000-horsepower hydro development at DeCew Falls.

In the legislature C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe charged the Griffiths family had been "evicted" by the govern-

Look Jimmy— from the RED CROSS!

Who said we were 'Out of it'?

IMPRISONED by the enemy—out of the battle, yet still with a fighting soldier's heart—compelled to wait on the side-lines of the war for the duration—surely such thoughts must be the greatest hardships our prisoners of war have to endure. Broken hearts can hurt worse than broken limbs.

To such men, in 1943, went five-and-a-half million dollars worth of Red Cross parcels. In them were more than food, comforts. To each harassed soldier these parcels were reminders that their loyalty and the courage they displayed were not forgotten.

The need for Red Cross parcels has grown to staggering proportions. This need must be met by contributions from the men and women in Canada.

Let response be immediate and generous. Give money for this work of the Red Cross, work which must be done—and which can be performed by no other organization.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Kidney and Bladder troubles often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, backache, or nervousness, due to Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying Cystex. Because it has given such joyous, happy results in so high a percentage of cases, Cystex is sold under an agreement of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex costs little at druggists, and the money back offer protects you.

Students Get Diplomas At Graduation

MARMORA, March 6 (ENS) — Marmora High School Commencement held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, attracted a large audience.

H. W. Sabine of the High School Board was chairman for the occasion and referred in glowing terms to the academic teaching which was given at the school as well as to the athletic accomplishments of its pupils.

The program opened with the chorus "Our Old High School" by all the pupils. Cecile Black led in the school yell and boys of Grade IX and X put on a clever exhibition of gymnastics.

Awards Diplomas

Principal W. R. Hamilton, B.A., then made the presentation of High School graduation diplomas and Intermediate certificates. Pupils to receive graduation diplomas were Jean E. Bonter, Dorothy E. Forestell, Eva E. Johnston, Alna E. Koski and Laura M. Nickle. Those receiving Intermediate certificates were Beulah M. Barnett, Cecil J. Brownson, Earl Cousins, Annie M. Dostanko, Jean A. Elliott, William A. Ethier, Raymond J. Goodchild, Frederick C. Hulsman, Thomas J. Hulsman, Rita K. Lashwa, Glen E. Lavender, Dorothy A. Lummiss, Monica C. McGrath, Yvonne M. Quackenbush, Annie D. Reid, Melissa M. Richardson, Clarence J. Shannon.

Those who will be receiving crest awards for their score of points at the first annual Field Day on November 3, 1943, were also called to the platform for congratulations. Crest winners are: Junior Boys, Harold Airhart, Donald Henry; Senior Boys, Jim Neal, Earl Cousins, William McInroy; Junior Girls, Audrey Lummiss; Senior Girls, Cecile Black.

Present Play

The three-act comedy "Saved by the Belle" was well presented by the following cast of players, all pupils of the school: Jane McNally, Betty Grant, Dorothy Yates, Anne Reed, Joyce Kouri, Shirley Quinn, Joyce Potts, Keitha Pressick, Cecile Black, Bill Ethier, Bill Koski, Earl Cousins, Richard Kouri.

The Marmora High School Board for the year is made up of the following: D. Robertson, chairman, P. J. O'Neill, R. E. Bonter, E. Brady, A. Burridge, H. W. Sabine. Roy Smith is secretary-treasurer.

WINS HIGH POST — Mrs. Dorothy McElroy, Vredenburgh, of Alabama, 27-year-old national vice-president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, who was appointed secretary of the Democratic National Committee. Mrs. Vredenburgh, a veteran worker in the Democratic party in Alabama, is the first woman ever to hold this high national post.

Fenella Institute Names Delegates

FENELLA, March 6 (ENS)—The Fenella W.M.S. met recently at the home of Mesdames Howard and Melville Macklin with an attendance of 16. The president, Mrs. W. I. Montgomery, apened the meeting, with Mrs. Knox conducting the devotional period. The executive committee will decide about the nomination for district president when further information is received. Mrs. W. Montgomery and Mrs. G. Jewell were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial convention at Frankford on March 29.

It was decided to hold the postponed crokinole party on Tuesday evening, March 7, in the hall.

Following discussion it was decided to make the final Easter thankoffering plans at the next meeting. Mrs. G. Jewell offered her home for the April meeting, with Mrs. Hope devotional leader, Mrs. Knox program leader, Mrs. Down, Mrs. Leach and Mrs. Childs lunch committee; Mrs. Unstead will have charge of the study book.

Mrs. L. Hope conducted the program as follows: A reading by Mrs. C. Childs, an instrumental solo by Mrs. F. Down, musical contest by Mrs. Hope.

Cobourg Briefs

COBOURG, March 6 — (ENS) — Plenty of snow and a crisp temperature made it an ideal week-end for curlers and skiers. The latter have had a poor season due to the lack of snow but recent snowfalls have blanketed the hills north of the town and the skiers are making up for lost time. It has been a different story for the curlers. During the week, at various times this season, the temperature has been mild but almost invariably the thermometer has gone down for week-ends, providing excellent ice for the devotees of the ancient game.

Talks on Rubber

J. W. Symins of the Dominion Rubber Co. addressed Cobourg Rotary club at its weekly luncheon here. Mr. Symins, who is connected with a large rubber firm, gave an interesting talk on synthetic rubber.

Lost At Sea

Pilot Officer William McNicholl, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McNicholl of Montreal, formerly Cobourg residents, has been lost at sea as the result of a bombing plane and its crew of eight going down while on Atlantic patrol. The crew were on a raft for seven days but due to a bad storm other planes could not rescue them and after being missing for about three weeks, word arrived that none survived. His mother was formerly Marie Smith of Cobourg, daughter of Mrs. I. H. Smith and the late Mr. Smith and his father was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. E. F. McNicholl of Cobourg. Pilot Officer McNicholl is survived by his parents, a brother in the air force and a sister at home.

Holds High Score

Roy Rorabeck rolled high score for the season at William's Bowling Alleys last week, bowling a score of 405 for a single game. His performance was good for the entire evening, getting a 243 and a 228 to give him the season's high of 878 for three games. Jack Kewin holds the highest score for league competition with 397.

Friends Give Shower

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 6 (ENS) —Mrs. James McMullen, Booth street was hostess at a pre-nuptial shower given at her home in honour of Miss Geraldine MacMullan recently. Miss MacMullan, whose wedding will take place here in the near future, was the recipient of a number of lovely gifts from the guests who numbered about 30. At the lose of the evening refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. Jack Cowell.

W.A. Works On Quilts

BAILIEBORO, March 6.—(ENS). —Mrs. Arthur Bateman held a quilting for the Women's Association, when an 'old-fashioned nosegay' quilt was quilted, also one war quilt. Eighteen ladies were present and a short business session was held, with the president, Mrs. Blanche Dawson, presiding. Letters of appreciation were read from Ptes. James MacDonald and Norman Fry for boxes received during the Christmas season. Block were distributed for piecing an 'Irish chain. Following the meeting a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

BAILIEBORO, March 4.—(ENS). —Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brackenridge had a baby son born on February 29. Also, born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Staples (nee Florence Beebe), formerly of Bailieboro, a daughter, in Lindsay, on Tuesday, February 29.

Maple Syrup Prices Are Set

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP) — The Prices Board announced last night that primary producers of maple syrup now may sell direct to consumers at the price a retailer charges for the same product.

When a producer sells direct to consumer, the maximum prices are $2.40 per imperial gallon for ungraded syrup, $2.65 for Canada dark grade, $2.90 for Canada medium grade and $3.15 for Canada light grade.

The board's new price order also covers primary producers' sales to processors and wholesale distributors, to retailers, quota users and industrial users.

In announcing the price change for direct sales to consumers board officials said it will "undoubtedly increase production and in conjunction with the recently announced increase in the value of ration coupons should make it possible for consumers to purchase their usual requirements of maple products during the coming season."

Maximum prices are established for each grade of maple syrup and for the ungraded product when sold by the primary producer in screw-top metal containers of one imperial gallon capacity.

A premium of 25 cents per gallon above the price of Canada light may be charged for syrup marketed as Canada fancy grade. For syrup sold in bulk, the ceiling is 25 cents per gallon less than it is for the same product sold in the gallon screw-top metal containers. Prices apply to syrup delivered to the common carrier nearest to the seller's place of business.

Ministers Disapprove Of Sunday Funerals

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6, (ENS) — A move to acquaint the public with their disapproval of Sunday funeral services, has been taken by the Campbellford and District Ministerial Association. Members unanimously endorsed a resolution urging the avoidance of Sunday funerals when they met for their March meeting as guests of Captain and Mrs. Earl Jarrett.

In part, the resolution read, "In view of the fact that (Sunday) funerals tend to interfere with the regular Lord's Day services of the church, and compel those responsible for arrangements, such as undertakers and cemetery attendants, to forego their day of rest, and places an additional strain on the already heavy day for the clergy we recommend that Sunday funerals be avoided whenever possible.

The Association's president, Rev. G. N. Maxwell, presided for the meeting and during the session arrangements were made for holding Passion Week services in St. John's United Church. The services will be held from April 3 to 7, inclusive, and though it is hoped to have a visiting clergyman take the services, if this cannot be arranged a program will be worked out for local clergy to conduct them.

18 Alderville Boys To Get Easter Boxes

ALDERVILLE, March 6 (ENS) — As the result of a canvass in the Reserve, and a public supper, $68 was raised to send parcels to eighteen Alderville soldiers overseas. The canvass was made by Mr. H. Lander, lay minister at Alderville and Chief Norman Marsden. The supper and social evening was held on Thursday night in the community hall. The committee is planning to have the parcels away in time for Easter.

Selwyn Organizes Radio Farm Forum

SELWYN, March 6 — (ENS). — The meeting to organize the Radio Farm Forum held at Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald's home proved successful, with a splendid attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Gratton Telford, Mr. and Mrs. M. Archer and Milton Clark came from Central Smith again to organize the Forum. Elton Miles is to be the leader here and Clayton Fitzgerald the secretary. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Miles.

Hear Messages For "Spirits"

QUEBEC, March 6 (CP)—Courtroom tales of a treasure-hunt, involving messages "from the spirits" and suggestion that the hunters "sell themselves to the devil," are slated for further airing next Friday as Edgar Taillon's preliminary hearing continues on a charge of fraud complicity.

Taillon is accused of conspiracy in connection with the case of Paul Emile Belanger, who pleaded guilty recently to a charge of having substituted a worthless cheque for $15,000 worth of war bonds belonging to his employers, and Friday Belanger's brother Henri told the Court of Sessions about mysterious events dating back to 1937.

In this year, said the witness, Paul Emile Belanger, Taillon and himself and four other men gathered one night in the cellar of the Belanger home here and tried to woo "the spirits" into divulging the location of a "hidden treasure." The group sat on empty butter-cases, he said, and each man held an iron bar.

Twenty Old Coppers

When the lights were extinguished, said Belanger, one of the men explored the cellar with his bar and found a sack containing 20 old coppers.

Later, similar "seances" were held and Belanger said that once "blue powder" was sprinkled about a house at near-by Beauport to induce the treasure's self-removal from Quebec to Beauport, where a "message from the spirits" eventually was found advising that the treasure would not be uncovered unless some of the group "sold themselves to the devil."

"No one sold himself," added the witness.

Belanger said that Taillon asked Paul Emile for money for the "work" he had accomplished.

Nature of Work

"In what did this work consist?" asked Crown Prosecutor Eugene Marquis.

"Communicating with the people in the other world," answered Belanger.

Questioned by Defense Counsel Ross Drouin, the witness said his brother had dabbled in "magnetism" before the treasure hunt was undertaken and, in connection with the hunt, he produced a list of purchases. They included candles for $9.99; talismans for $99, a "miniature tomb" for $1.10 and pigeon's blood for $35.

War Stamp Campaign Surpasses Objective

MILLBROOK, March 4 (ENS) — The Millbrook and Cavan area went over the top by $8.00 in the recent sale of War Savings Stamps sponsored by the Food Merchants of the community, with R. A. Ford as chairman. The objective set was $1,000.

The statement of the secretary, Councillor G. F. Harrington, covering financial returns shows total sale of stamps, $675; donations, $51.74 — $706.74. On the expence side: Value of stamps purchased $657; donation to the cigarette fund, $10; and gratuity to the Training Centre Orchestra, Peterborough, that played for the dance in the Armouries, $10; total, $706.74. The sale of stamps in the stores during February amounted to $351.00, and this added to the sale on the community gala night, $657, reaches the commendable total of $1008.

Personals

Mrs. A. R. Payne went to Toronto Friday for the week end, her husband having undergone a major operation on his right eye on Monday of this week. Mr. Payne will be in the hospital for some weeks, and while Mrs. Payne is absent from the store, Mrs. Clarence Ball, formerly of the Pendrie store staff, gives assistance on Saturdays.

Delegates who represented the local horticultural society at the provincial convention in Toronto last week were: Mrs. J. W. Hilton, Mrs. Howard Fair, Mrs. G. F. Harrington and Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke. Harvey Sanderson drove the party to Toronto.

Collectors for the Red Cross campaign are out this week, those for Millbrook including: T. H. Collins, Douglas Sheppard, T. W. McCamus, Fred Lowery and M. W. Ball; the objective set for Millbrook, Cavan and South Monaghan is, as in previous years, $3,000.

St. Stephen's Y.P.U. Postpones Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6, (ENS) — Members of Stephen's Y. P. U. (Hoards) met last week when an interesting program was presented. The meeting was held at Percy Oddie's and twenty-eight members attended with the President Jack Rannie presiding. During the devotional period Mrs. Frank Potts sang a solo while the program featured an address by Mrs. Everett Parr entitled "This Samaritan Business". Other items included a reading by Charles Heagle; vocal solo, Miss Muriel Heagle; reading, Jean Rannie and contests sponsored by Stewart Milne and Jean Rannie. In view of the play being sponsored by the W. A. next Friday it was announced the next meeting would be on March 15.

G. Maxwell Chairman Of Post-War Society

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6. — (ENS).—The executive of the Campbellford Post War Planning Association has named Rev. G. N. Maxwell as chairman, according to a report of their meeting here recently. Several items were dealt with by the executive and among them was the question of a membership fee to defray the miscellaneous expenses of operating the Association. The executive felt more interest would be sustained by members if a fee of $1 was assessed and moved to incorporate this as a condition of membership.

It was announced that both members appointed to the executive as representatives of Seymour East would be unable to act so the onus of naming two suitable men was shifted to the township council which is expected to consider the matter when it convenes for the March session.

H. J. 'Bert' Taylor was named chairman of the membership committee and invested with power to add to this committee from new members of the Association. The following officers were named: Chairman, Rev. G. N. Maxwell; vice-chairman, N. A. MacColl; secretary, A. D. Bennett; membership chairman, H. J. Taylor.

Two Chimney Fires

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 6 (ENS) —Firemen had their day of rest twice broken on Sunday as they responded to calls resulting from chimney fires. First of these took them to J. W. Sweet's, Maple street, where the blaze was quickly extinguished at 9.30 in the morning, and the second was at W. J. Smith's, Saskatoon avenue, where some smoke damake resulted during the early afternoon.

Aged Man Dies In Hospital From Scalds

By The Canadian Press

There were eight fatalities in Eastern Canada during the week-end, all of them occurring in Ontario.

Alvein E. Martin of Gads Hill, near Stratford, was injured Saturday when the car in which he was riding overturned near Shakespeare and died before reaching hospital.

Mrs. Sarah Livingstone, 79, of Toronto, died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday in a fall at her home.

Cpl. Farrell of Pembroke, Ont., and Pte. S. Gravelle, died in hospital at North Bay shortly after the army jeep in which they were travelling turned over in a ditch near Balsam Creek. Both were members of the Canadian Forestry Detachment.

Seventy year old Joseph Timmins, of Hamilton, died in hospital Sunday from scalds at his home three weeks earlier when in a fainting spell he spilled a pot of boiling water over himself.

Mrs. Allan Kirkwood, 63, Chesley, died Sunday in a Walkertn hospital from injuries suffered the previous day when the automobile in which she was a passenger was struck by a truck two miles west of Walkerton.

John MacAuley, 78, died Saturday in hospital of a fractured skull received in a fall Thursday at his native Wiarton.

Alex Knott, Indian guide, was found dead Sunday on a highway 12 miles north of Peterborough, believed to have froze to death while walking to his home at Curve Lake reserve.

NOTED PAINTER PASSES.

WHITLEY, Surrey, England — (CP)— John St. Helier Lander, portrait painter, died at his home here. He had painted portraits of many prominent people, including the Duke of Windsor.

TO PAY TAXES PROMPTLY

War-time taxes are necessarily so heavy as to be a financial problem for every Canadian. It is advisable to save money to pay taxes promptly, but if through unforeseen circumstances you find yourself without sufficient cash to meet them when due, a bank loan is probably the best solution to your problem. A loan may actually save money for you by enabling you to avoid penalties for overdue taxes.

Our policy in making personal loans is to help Canadian wage-and-salary-earners, professional men and women and business executives to keep financially fit. We therefore make such loans—at very low rates and on easy terms of payment. Do not hesitate to talk over your needs in confidence with the manager of our branch in your own locality.

The cost is low, and the terms are fair:
Only $3.65 for a $100 loan repayable in 12 monthly instalments; smaller and larger loans at proportionate cost.

Over The Top Again

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund has gone over the top again. At the time of writing the final figure is not available, but it is clear that more than $70,000 has been raised during the campaign week. This is a thoroughly satisfactory result, and everyone who helped with the campaign deserves thanks and congratulation.

The Community Fund is a first-rate example of common sense applied to local finance. One drive for money provides for the principal charities and social service organizations for the year, and a surplus is provided from which it is possible for the Committee to make special grants to causes which they consider worthy of help. This saves a great deal of time, for the canvassers who work for the Community Fund are the people who would undoubtedly be asked to work for individual canvasses, if these existed. It allows citizens to make their donations to the causes which they wish to help in a way which gives them a chance to estimate the amount of their giving for a year, and it provides the beneficiaries of the Fund with a fixed sum upon which they can depend, thus simplifying their finances and relieving their anxieties. More power to the Fund!

High School Play

Last week, on Thursday and Friday, the Dramatic Society of the P.C.V.S. presented its annual play, and drew packed houses for both performances. The high school play is the only play performed during the year in Peterborough which draws its audience from the whole city, and the enthusiasm with which it is greeted suggests that there is an appetite for the living theatre here which would welcome more frequent satisfaction.

Training in a good dramatic society is an advantage to any high school student. It gives him experience in impressing himself upon an audience, it teaches him how to walk and talk, to some extent, and in the course of studying the character which he is called upon to play he is brought into touch with aspects of his own character which may have been unfamiliar to him. It is an enrichment of experience which will be helpful to him in whatever he chooses to make his life's work.

But apart from the advantage to themselves, think how much the high school players have done for the thousand or so people who saw their play. They provided an excellent evening's entertainment of a kind which cannot be found anywhere except in a theatre. The actors in the movies or on the radio, though infinitely more accomplished than these amateurs, cannot give us that acutely personal pleasure which we feel at a play. "There is no class of society whom so many persons regard with affection as actors", said Hazlitt, and this is surely because, while we are watching them, they give us something of themselves, as well as of the characters whom the author has provided for them. We can forgive them all their faults of technique in remembering their charm and warmth.

The P.C.V.I. Dramatic Society in its yearly play gives Peterborough something which it receives from no other source. We feel that it deserves thanks.

A Few More Bass Notes

The Chatham News has decided to take a part in the argument on the merits of opera in English which has been going on in some of the Ontario dailies, and in which the Examiner has said its say. Likening this argument to a male voice party, the News suggests that the Examiner should take the bass part, and suggests that we may be a little flat. Not at all, friend; the purest basso cantante, we assure you.

The Owen Sound Sun-Times has also joined the chorus, and the News allots it the baritone part, near our own. But the Sun-Times says, "Grand opera in English could make grand opera more popular, and thus extend its benefits". What benefits? We have always understood that opera was entertainment, and the minute entertainment becomes obstreperously beneficial, it ceases to entertain. That is one of the troubles with opera at present; too many people look on it as a sort of nasty medicine which must be taken with a straight face, in the hope that "culture" will result. The late Sergei Rachmaninoff once said that the duty of music was "to rehabilitate minds and souls"; opera, as a branch of music, has the same task. The saints preserve us from listening to opera to be improved or benefitted! Let us listen to be amused and entertained, or not at all.

Unfortunately the idea that certain forms of entertainment are "beneficial" is widely held. Great numbers of people apply themselves to the appreciation of pictures, or reading good books, or listening to music with the utmost solemnity, and without any suggestion that they hope to enjoy themselves. Mozart wrote The Marriage of Figaro as a comedy and Wagner wrote Tristan and Isolde as a tragedy, but vast numbers of opera-listeners fail to make any distinction between the two; both are opera, and both are culture; therefore both must be equally solemn and unenjoyable. There is far too much gratuitous solemnity nowadays, and we badly need a crusade against it.

Reviving Big Bertha?

For some time there have been rumours that the Germans have rocket guns of new and strange design mounted along the French coast, which they will eventually use in a catastrophic bombardment of England. Allied technicians, however, do not put much faith in rocket guns, for they say that they cannot be controlled accurately enough to make them genuinely useful. Recently a group of American ordnance experts made a statement that such guns could have no real effect on the outcome of the war. Their effect would be terrorist; the Germans have a pitiful faith in the power of terror to win wars for them.

These tales of rocket guns will recall Big Bertha, one of the German surprises in the first Great War. The original Big Berthas were 42 cm. howitzers, and British troops gave them their name in gallant reference to Frau Bertha von Bohlen, the head of the Krupp family; in point of fact, these howitzers were not made by Krupp, but by Skoda. But the later and more famous Big Bertha was a monstrous high-velocity gun which the Germans trained on Paris. It was of 8.26 calibre, was about 110 feet long, weighed 142 tons and fired a 264-pound shell. Big Bertha was installed in the forest of Coucy, and fired on Paris on a range of 76 miles. For 140 days Big Bertha fired every third day; the intervening time was employed in cooling the gun and tinkering it into shape for another gigantic effort. Big Bertha made a hideous noise, but she was not a success, and the Parisians regarded her with contempt. She killed 256 people all told; her best day was Good Friday, March 29, when she dropped her shell on the church of St. Gervais and killed 156 people at one time; her worst day, according to the late Alexander Woollcott, was when she dropped her shell in a suburb and destroyed an outdoor privy. Every time Big Bertha fired a modest fortune was expended. Finally the Germans woke up to the fact that she was not worth her keep.

If the Germans are pinning their faith to rocket guns they have clearly forgotten the faithlessness of Big Bertha; but they have kept their trust in size and noise.

"Most wives", says Dorothy Dix, "are suspicious of stenographers". We have noticed that this is particularly true of wives who were once stenographers themselves.

Col. Oveta Culp Hobby has said that it is all right for a WAC to kiss her beau goodnight. Col. Hobby makes a virtue of condoning and encouraging the inevitable.

"Sop up the gravy, squeeze the grapefruit dry, pick up the bones and tip the soup bowl" says a war food administrator, speaking from Ottawa. Try any of those tricks in the Chateau Laurier dining-room, my good man, and the head-waiter will ask you to eat behind a screen.

Regarding a recent editorial of ours, a critic informs us that Mr. Hanson's name is Richard, and not Robert as we implied, and also he doubts that Macdonald and Laurier ever faced each other in the House. This convinces us of something which we have suspected for quite a time: the older we grow, the less we know.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

MEETINGS have been held and farm problems discussed during the past few weeks and doubtless with useful results. An exchange of opinions among farmers, or even an exchange of grievances, will leave those thus engaged better informed. Co-operative suggestions are not new in Ontario, and co-operative enterprises have worked out quite well in many cases, that is they are called co-operatives but mostly they are really joint stock companies and where a good capable manager is in charge the co-operative flourishes, and often because the manager knows when to grasp a business opportunity and the directors are pleased if profits are made. Many of these ventures have been quite useful, if it was only to make clear to other business enterprises that farmers can do many of these things for themselves through group efforts.

There is one thing, however, to keep in mind which is that farmers have to do most things for themselves. There is no occupation which depends more upon the man himself, and his ability to learn and work. Law and medicine do not depend more upon the skill and intelligence of the man who practice these professions, than does farming upon the individual efforts of the tillers of the soil. To do the job well the farmer has to study and understand new methods as they are discovered by the research achievements of science in agriculture. We are in grave danger just now, with all the subventions and bonuses paid to keep down inflation, of learning to depend upon these for future farm profits. They must end some day and only the man who learns to run his farm on a very sound basis will find it easy when we get back to normal, and he will find that the personal equation will count for most.

To young farmers I would emphasise the necessity for the very best education you can get. Boys have burned the midnight oil to educate themselves for many of the professions. They have found a way or made it to qualify for the occupation which is their aim in life; how many farm boys are urged by the same ambition to qualify themselves to be first in their business? Quite a few, I am ready to admit, and some of them have done it well, but not nearly enough. We live but one life, on this earth, and the pleasure and satisfaction we get, as well as our ability to be useful, can be greatly enhanced by at least education sufficient to cultivate a taste for reading, and for studying to a very much greater degree the science of the soil to improve our farms, increase our profits, and make some real contribution to the betterment of our own lives and that of our families. What we need most is to learn.

FARMERS in many parts of England are testifying as to the satisfactory results from the use of salt as a fertilizer for growing sugar beets. Several large growers claim an increase of one ton per acre in the yield of beets as a result of the application of 5 cwts. of salt per acre. This should be useful fertilizer also for mangles and turnips. The shortage of potash in British fertilizers has caused farmers to use salt for two seasons now, and the results have caused an increased demand for salt for the coming seeding.

AT an Ayrshire sale at the town of Ayr, Scotland, some remarkable prices were realised for cows. These cattle were bred by Thomas Logan, Low Milton, Maybole, Ayrshire, and the top priced cow sold for 2,100 guineas, about $9,660. Two other cows brought 1,700 guineas and 1,200 guineas respectively. A bull brought 1,500 guineas. It was bred at Harleyhom. The average on 54 cows and heifers at this sale of "Low Milton" Ayrshires was $2,230, which indicates that Mr. Logan must have built up a remarkable herd. The herd is not all sold out and the remainder will be at auction later. The cattle were all bought by breeders in Scotland and England.

A GENEROUS use of lime by Ontario farmers this spring would be good for the land. Ground limestone is to be preferred to quick lime (burned lime) because of the caustic nature of the latter, which makes its distribution unpleasant and even dangerous, and quick lime is converted back into carbonate of lime before it can be utilised in the soil. There is much land farmed in Ontario greatly in need of being sweetened by an application of lime.

IT has been announced that the Kemptville School of Agriculture is to be returned to the Ontario Government by May 1, and that the Ontario Agricultural College is very shortly to be vacated by the Radio School which now occupies it. There will be some work to do to restore the college to its former conditions. There never was the slightest need to use the buildings of the O.A.C. and those at Kemptville. Temporary buildings could easily have been erected for the purpose for which they were used and probably for less cost. Mr. Hepburn, then premier, was determined to have these buildings used for what he called "war work," all it did was to give agricultural education some more difficulties to contend with, and not a member of the Legislature cared enough about the matter to say a word.

So far as I know, not a graduate of the O.A.C. voiced a protest. It was the greatest "lie down" I have ever seen by an alumni. Those interested in Western University voiced a protest when their grant was cut, while boasting was made by the government about "millions in surpluses." Western has some reward for what they did now —getting a special grant of $250,000—and this is quite a proper recognition of the work that university is doing.

I know of one two year man, who attended the O.A.C., and who is a good farmer, and he made quite an effort to have a protest but as far as I know he couldn't get a single person to second his motion. It is only when an issue like this comes up that we find out how much, or how little there is in agricultural education.

COMPLETE nationalisation of the land in Britain has now been adopted as a definite policy of the Labour party in that country. As a great deal of the farm land in Britain is held under lease by those who operate it the change would not be as drastic as it would be in a country like Canada where most of the farms are freehold. The plan put forward by the Labour party is to set up a National Land Commission as a salaried body under the Ministry of Agriculture, and to continue the County Executive Committees. The state would be empowered under an Enabling Act to acquire all agricultural land, through the payment of compensation to the owners based upon valuation for income tax as based on the rent, or the estimated rent in the case of farmers owning the land they operated.

I should think British farmers would be rather loath to submit to such a plan as they have had about all the grief they can stand from County Executive Committees, but which they have excused in an all out war, only because they had to put up with it or suffer greater calamities.

THE Wartime Prices and Trade Board has cancelled temporarily, the rationing of meat, and the order to public eating places to not serve meat on Tuesday. The inability to secure sufficient shipping space to Britain is the reason for abandoning rationing, but it will be resumed when shipments increase to the fighting front when meat will be greatly needed.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

Coloured Cows

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

EVIDENCE in a recent Toronto court case developed into a dispute as to whether an allegedly stolen cow had been disguised with blue paint, or was naturally that colour because it was cross-bred. Chief Justice R. S. Robertson of Ontario, commenting on the evidence, emphatically disavowed ever having had sight or knowledge of a blue cow.

It's all very well for a judge to talk like that, because judges aren't subject to the little trials of newspapermen and poets. If we were to say a thing like that, there would be more than one correspondent to remind us that Paul Bunyan's famous Babe was a Blue Ox, and presumably the immortal Babe had a mother or father slightly tinged with indigo. Leaving the mythical for the actual, we might hear from many dairy farmers who have had in their herds cows of a colour comparable to that known as "blue roan" in horses. Or we might meet the fate of the unhappy poet who dashed off the well-known rhyme:

"I never saw a purple cow,
I never hope to see one.
But I can tell you anyhow,
I'd rather see than be one."

No doubt when Gelett Burgess got that off his chest, he thought the matter was finished. He knows better now. H. Allan Smith tells of what happened to Mr. Burgess, in a book called "Low Man On a Totem Pole."

It seems that there is a gentleman in New York known as the Iconoclast of Washington Square. If we remember rightly, his name is Mr. Jim Barnes. And the Iconoclast brooded over the above lines until stung to action—and when Mr. Barnes goes into action he is devastatingly thorough. With contemptuous disregard for the express hope of the poet, he acquired a cow, dyed it purple, gilded its horns and teats. He then drove the animal into the lobby of Mr. Burgess' hotel late at night, and had the poet dragged from his couch to view the empurpled bovine.

Rather than risk anything like that, we shall leave all dogmatic statements about coloured cows to people like Mr. Justice Robertson, whose opinions are given some protection by the majesty of the law.

A Jest That Soured

(FREDERICTON DAILY GLEANER)

IN the current issue of "Encore," a periodical that reprints choice writing of other years and even other centuries, there is offered to subscribers, among other tidbits, the speech of the famous physician, Sir William Osler, to the graduating class of the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania in 1889. But before coming to that there is another matter to be taken up.

Osler! He was the distinguished medical man who became practicaly infamous overnight. He was the flint-hearted scientist who had said that old men were nothing but deadweight in the world, anyway, and should be quietly chloroformed when they had reached the age of 60. At least, that was the way the newspaper headlines told the story after he had delivered a delicious speech at Johns Hopkins University on Washington's Birthday, 1905. There was widespread indignation—get a rope!—Chloroform is too good for that scoundrel; hang him!—Wagon-loads of abusive mail were dumped on his doorstep—"Oslerize," meaning to do away with somebody, became a slang term—what a storm broke over the physician's astonished head!

For it was all a mistake, a misinterpretation. He had perpetrated a jest and the cream of the jest had soured. It was a trifle too strong for weak minds. Dr. Osler was a wit and a lover of art and literature. He used to give his listeners, including medical students in class, selections from Shelley to illustrate points in anatomy, quotations from Keats to fit bone fractures and three grains of Plato to point a moral in the operating room.

What had happened was that Dr. Osler had playfully brought in the theme of a novel by Anthony Trollope called "The Fixed Period," in which the plot turned on a scheme to usher old gents out of the world peacefully with whiffs of chloroform.

Dr. Osler served it up with unveiled humour and illustrations from Roman history and concluded in this fashion:

"Whether Anthony Trollope's suggestion of a college and chloroform should be carried out or not I have become a little dubious, as my own time is getting so short." He was then 56 years old and he was leaving Johns Hopkins to become Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, where he died "full of honours" fifteen years later, or ten years beyond the time limit he had lightly borrowed for a sparkling speech that back-fired most astonishingly.

Demand Of Decency

To dim lights of a car is so simple and easy a task that it seems that the danger involved by not doing so would compel a motorist approaching another car at night to take this simple precaution against the possibility of accident to his own car as well as the car of others.

It should not take a law to bring about the dimming of headlights. Common decency demands that a motorist practice this simple rule of night driving etiquette, for it is etiquette, and good manners are just as essential on the roads as in the ball-room.—Chatham News.

Britain Cuts Living Cost

The announced reduction of one per cent in the cost of living for the working class in Great Britain in 1943 shows how well the line is being held against inflation in that country. This has been done by retail price control and government subsidies for essential goods and services.

Rents have remained steady for the last three years, food prices have increased 30 per cent since 1939, and the general cost of living has risen 28 per cent. This is not bad considering the strain that has been put on the country, and the transportation difficulty. Britain has done a good job of stabilization.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Bible Message

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away....

And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal....

And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life. (Rev. 21: 1-4, 9-11, 22, 27.)

During a question period following a lecture a man arose and put a foolish query to the speaker. The latter replied:

"The logic of your question makes me think of another. Can you tell me why fire engines are always red? You can't. Well, fire engines have four wheels and eight men. Four and eight are twelve. Twelve inches make a foot. A foot is a ruler. Queen Elizabeth was a ruler. The Queen Elizabeth is the largest ship that sails the seven seas. Seas have fish. Fish have fins. The Finns fought the Russians. The Russians are Red. Fire engines are always rushin'. Therefore, fire engines are always red. I hope this answers your question also."

Goosanders' Return

At dawn next day, the hills and the sky were all one leaden grey. The lake had thawed, and the goosanders were back on the water. Of all our ducks these must be amongst the handsomest, the drake with his dark green head, black back, and ivory breast and sides suffused with tints of salmon, the ducks with chestnut heads, grey backs, and the same flushed breast; both of them with crimson bills. It is a wonderful sight to see a dozen of them, in a great phalanx, swimming at full speed down the lake, throwing out long silver ripples to some thirty yards behind them. Their speed and the ease with which they dive recall the activities of dolphins, and there is the same joyous expression in their faces....

Their power of [illegible] and, when in groups, simultaneous diving is astonishing, showing a capacity for quick decisions far beyond anything of the kind that we possess, and beside which trained athletes leaping to the pistol shot would seem awkward and lumbering....

When the pochard and tufted duck come in it is a sign of storm. One day fourteen of the latter swept down to the pool. Through a wide crescent curve they flew over the edge of the lake, then down they came, down, down, till thrusting their heads upwards and throwing out their feet they ploughed deep silver furrows in the water. There is wonderful precision in the way a tufted duck alights on the water....

The day that these ducks came in there were cross-currents of wind from the south and the southwest, so that the surface of the lake was blown into interlacing wavelets resembling the scale formation on a fish. Hills were grey as the sky. They became indistinguishable from the sky, but for the dark lines of the hedges....

In the evening the rain came. Water spluttered under my door and splashed through the leads of my window. But there was fire in the hearth, bright blazing fire.—From "Coming Down the Wye," by Robert Gibbings. (New York: Dutton.)

Mrs. Lorne Hay Honored

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 6 (ENS)—Mrs. Lorne Hay, nee Mayme Benor, whose wedding took place recently, was entertained at a shower given in her honour by Miss Aileen Linton, Queen street last week. The event was one of several such affairs that have been arranged by friends of the bride. An enjoyable evening was spent by the guests and the bride received a number of lovely gifts. The tea table was decorated with pink and white streamers and centred by a decorative miniature bride. Mrs. James O. Benor poured tea and Mrs. E. G. Tinney assisted with arrangements.

Mark St. Y.P.U. Presents Two Dramas

There were almost 200 people in Mark Street Sunday School Hall recently when the Young People's Union presented two plays, "Archibald," and "Parlor Matches." Rev. E. W. Rowland was chairman for the evening, and welcomed the guests.

The casts of the plays were as follows: "Archibald,"—Willow Smith, Evis Jewison, Dorothy McNeely, Willa Wright, Loreen Hunter, Verla Ferguson, Ruth Lewers, Marjorie Lewers, Elva Throop, Allan Payne; "Parlor Matches,"—Kay Hales, Wilbert Howson, Eleanor Yelland, Norman Hewitt, Mildred Miller, Hanlan Payne, Doris Finnie, Norman Harris, Carol Noyes.

The directors introduced the casts to the audience before the presentations. Miss Mildred Holden introduced the cast of "Archibald," and Mrs. Grace Payne that of "Parlor Matches."

During the intermission, there were vocal selections by Mrs. A. Spenceley, accompanied by Miss Elva Throop. Mrs. S. Mitchell and Mrs. C. Telford. Miss Carol Noyes gaves a reading.

War Strategies Commonplace to H.Q. Charwomen

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6—(CP)—Military secrets to the right of them, generals to the left of them, 100 London charwomen scrub and clean and polish amid the thunder of preparations for the Second Front, in the secret invasion headquarters somewhere in London.

A Nazi agent would give her life probably to stand in the well-worn shoes of one of these "Mrs. Mopps" but Scotland Yard is very sure there isn't a Mata Hari among them. Each one faced days of scrutiny and examination before she was given the job that gives her nightly freedom of the offices where lie the plans for the United Nations' offensive.

If a reporter were allowed to interview these queens of the scrub pail they'd probably admit it was as exciting as the movies, this dusting and sweeping in the orbit of Eisenhower, Tedder, Montgomery and Bradley.

When each Mrs. Mopp sets out from her home for her day's work, she must carry with her a special identification card, for which she was examined, finger-printed and photographed.

Subject to Challenge

This passport gets her into the headquarters and she must carry it with her in her overall pocket as she works. At any hour of the day or night a guard with a fixed bayonet may challenge her to produce it.

Before she walks into any room in the building she must knock and to the challenge "Who goes there" she must reply "Cleaner." Before she enters the office of a really important leader, she must push her passport through a slot in the door before she is admitted.

Two guards armed with pistols let her in and stand by her while she scrubs.

It's as hard to get out of the building when their job is done as it is to get into it. Any large or bulky parcels or handbag must be examined before the women may leave the gates.

The Mrs. Mopps say the police have no worries about them. Most of them have a son or husband in the forces who may be carrying out those invasion plans being made behind the closed door—a breach of secrecy on their part might mean disaster for whole armies.

Griffin-Davis Vows Taken At St. James' Church

Early spring flowers and carnations formed a pretty setting for the marriage in St. James' United Church on Saturday afternoon of Leah Florence, younger daughter of Mrs. E. M. Davis, to Walter A. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Griffin, Sinclair Street, Perth. Rev. Fred Craik officiated, with Cecil Lapp playing the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Sgt. E. E. Davis, the bride wore a gown of white sheer chiffon, fashioned on princess lines, with sweetheart neck line. Her shoulder veil was prettily arranged with tulle halo, and she wore white accessories. Her bridal bouquet was of American Beauty roses.

As matron-of-honor, Mrs. S. J. Leggitt was her sister's only attendant, and wore a gown of powder blue crepe, with matching headdress and shoulder veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Cyril Davis, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, George Street South, where she received in an ensemble of printed silk. Her off-the-face hat was of navy with feathered veil. Her corsage was of yellow roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, gowned in navy blue crepe with touches of white, and navy accessories, with corsage of pink roses.

A profusion of spring flowers made a pretty background for the table, centred by the bride's cake, flanked by white candles in silver holders. Tea was poured and ices cut by Mrs. A. C. Davis, wearing a heavenly blue chiffon frock with corsage of pink carnations.

For a honeymoon trip to Toronto and western points the bride donned a dark brown suit and coat with green accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Griffin will make their home in Peterborough.

NEW CANADIANS MAKE THEIR BOW — English war brides and young offspring of Canadian service men augmented the usual busy scene at the Canadian National Central Station, Montreal. They arrived on a special train from an eastern port. Mrs. Norah Innes has a romp with her eleven-month-old baby, Oliver, while waiting in Montreal for the train for Peterborough, where they will reside. They are the family of Signalman Oliver Innes, on duty in England.

YPU Hears Story Of Work For Illiterates

"Three fifths of people of the world cannot read or write. It has been estimated that this comprises eleven hundred million people," said Miss Margaret Emerson, president of St. Andrew's Young People's Union, addressing the monthly missionary meeting of the Union, on the topic, "World Illiteracy."

She outlined the fine work of Frank C. Laubeck, Ph.D., a Congregational missionary in the Phillipine Islands. "The illiterate people there were exploited by those who had education," the speaker continued. "Dr. Laubach discovered certain basic sounds, and used Roman letters to give expression to them."

"Another leader in the fight against illiteracy was James Yen, of China, who was attached to a Chinese labor battalion during the last war. These laborers saw allied soldiers reading letters that had been sent to them, and approached Yen, who devised a simple method by which adults could be taught to read in a short time."

Church Takes Over

"Both Lubach and Yen," continued Miss Emerson, "were Christian missionaries and the burden of education in a great many places has fallen on the Christian Church. In fact, in some countries, the government has handed the problem to the Church."

The speaker outlined the methods of producing and circulating literature for those being taught to read. Statistics she gave showed that the Bible has been translated into over 1,000 languages, and Christian publishing houses had sprung up in Africa, India and China, to supply the need. Miss Emerson said it was interesting to note that 90 per cent of those attached to the four non-Christian religions were illiterate, and the proportion of Christians was very much smaller.

"Here is one great service which the Christian Church is rendering to the world," Miss Emerson concluded.

The president led the group in the opening service, and Walter Morrow was at the piano. Miss Betty Warner read the Scripture, and Miss Marion Chase read the poem, "Christ Has No Hands."

Mrs. J. Argue Has 87th Birthday

Mrs. J. Argue, of Lindsay, celebrated her 87th birthday Saturday, and several relatives held a surprise part in her honor. Mrs. Argue spent most of her childhood at her home, in Emily township, and then moved to Parry Sound, where she lived until a few years ago when she went to live with Mrs. F. Magee, 36 Elgin street, Lindsay.

The party began with a supper served to the guests at a large table set with tall pink tapers in brass holders, and centred with a large while birthday cake, with pink and green decorations. Mrs. Argue received many gifts, bouquets of flowers, and cards from friends and relatives, and this surprise party brought a happy ending to her day.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Argue, Mrs. Annie Magee, and Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Magee, of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Magee, of Peterborough; Mrs. W. Alger and Mrs. R. Magee, of North Bay; and Mrs. F. Magee and Miss Irene Lytle, of Lindsay.

Otonabee IODE Packs 8 Layettes

Eight complete layettes were packed by members of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the home of the Regent, Mrs. A. Leach, according to a report given at the regular meeting of the Chapter by Mrs. B. W. Harvey. A number of ladies' nightgowns, children's rompers and play suits and toys were also packed, making a total of 185 pieces. A box of used clothing for Russia was also packed. Donations from the Jolly Workers' Club, the Victory Club, and the Navy League helped to complete these boxes.

The decision to adopt the Tucker school, and to help the Whitnet school, if possible, was made, and Mrs. F. D. Walker was instructed to write to the Provincial Chapter regarding this adoption. The wool report was given by Mrs. W. A. Burrell; Mrs. F. L. Robinson reported for the Blood Donors' Clinic; Mrs. B. McLean reported for the flower committee, and a total of $3.16 was collected for this work.

DEAR MISS DIX—You are always advising girls on how to protect themselves from the clutches of the modern wolves. You had much better be writing to boys telling them how to protect themselves from the wolverines who are on their track, for they are in a a lot more danger than the girls are.

I am a senior in a high school which has 58 boys and 236 girls attending it. These girls' boy friends have mostly gone into the service and they are pursuing us so hard that our baseball team is about to be ruined. It is hard for boys to say "no" when girls are after them. So tell us what to do.

A TOTAL WRECK.

Wolverines Are Deadly

ANSWER—Well, son, I agree with you that the terrific man-shortage occasioned by the war has put the boys who are left behind on a hot spot, For, as Mr. Kipling observes, "the female of the species is more deadly than the male," and it is really less difficult for a girl to protect herself against a wolf than it is for a boy to defend himself against a wolverine.

To begin with, a high school girl is about five or six years older, really, and fifty times more sophisticated than a high school boy of her own age. A girl baby is born knowing tricks about how to attract the opposite sex that men don't learn until they are middle-aged, and some never get wise to them. So you poor 58 boys who are pitted against 236 date-hungry girls are starting off under a heavy handicap.

They know all about laying traps and you don't know how to walk high, wide and handsome around

Roast Loin of Pork

This tempting Pork Roast is a favorite where and whenever it can be found
Brown, juicy and tempting, with apple sauce and candied sweet potatoes or pickled orange slices, a roast loin of pork is definitely a dish for special occasions.
Remember all pork should be well cooked. Allow 40 minutes per pound up to 4½ lbs. and 35 minutes thereafter. Roast on a rack in an open pan, without water, at 325° F. Onions in pan improve the flavour.
Before serving remove the backbone by cutting between it and the rib ends; place the roast on the platter with ribs facing the carver, so that he can see the slope of the ribs, and carve close along the side of each rib. Each portion contains one slice with bone and one between bones.
Martha Logan

PICKLED ORANGE SLICES
to garnish hot or cold roast pork
Boil 6 whole oranges in plenty of water for one hour changing water twice. Drain, cut into ½-inch slices, insert 4 cloves in each slice. Prepare spiced syrup.
1 cup sugar
1 cup corn syrup
1 cup vinegar
½ cup boiling water
12 coriander seeds or
1 tsp. mustard seed
1 2" piece stick cinnamon
Combine ingredients and boil 5 minutes. Add orange slices, arrange slices in baking dish, pour on syrup and bake 45 minutes in a hot oven. Seal in sterilized jars.

Orlando Will Play For Canadian Army

MONTREAL, March 6 (CP)—Jimmy Orlando, former Detroit Red Wings defenceman now in the Canadian Army, will play on an army team in an Army-Navy hockey game here tonight, it was announced last night. Orlando will be facing Gaye Stewart on the Navy team. Last year the two players traded punches in a N.H.L. Detroit-Toronto game and were barred from playing in each other's cities for several weeks.

Buffalo Bisons Stop Barons

By The Canadian Press

The American Hockey League's leading Cleveland Barons were stopped by Buffalo Bisons last night and given an 11-5 trouncing. Hershey Bears defeated Indianapolis Caps 2-0 Saturday night, while Pittsburg Hornets whipped Providence Reds 7-0. Caps defeated Reds 6-2 last night in the other week-end fixture.

The high-scoring Bisons packed five goals into the second period and five more into the third to rout Barons before a record crowd of 10,051 at Buffalo. Leading 8-5 in the final frame, Bisons drove three goals past Goalie Paul Gauthier in 42 seconds.

Fred Thurier and Max Bennett each scored two for Buffalo while Cleveland's Lou Trudel also got a pair. It was Bisons' ninth straight game without defeat.

Hershey Bears clung to their slim margin over Bisons in the eastern division of the league when they defeated Caps 2-0 to give Nick Damore his sixth shutout of the season.

Both counters came in the second period, Tom Forgie, new pivot man for Bears and Bulldog Drummond doing the scoring.

Pittsburg's Art Giroux led the attack and scored three counters Saturday night when Hornets blanked the Reds 7-0.

Two counters by Capitals' Hymie Buller and another by Bernie Ruelle gave Indianapolis a wide margin over the lowly Reds in the opening period last night.

Dick Kowcinak, Roy Glover and Rod Morrison added the other Cap tallies in the second and third periods while John Gagnon, Providence winger and Lloyd Roubell scored Reds' only two goals.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

With the announcement that the annual meeting of the Ontario Softball Association is only a month away the first whispers of softball activity on the home front will soon be heard. So far as the City League is concerned there have been no developments since last fall when the season ended on a sour note. It is to be hoped that the unfortunate climax to what had looked like a very successful campaign will not be allowed to interfere with this season's operations and that the 1943 season will be forgotten in the interest of the game. So far as player material is concerned a preliminary survey of the situation indicates that there should be no difficulty in rounding up enough teams to form a strong loop. If the 4th Battery team, champions last season, for example elects to function again this year the outfit has practically all of last year's team still available. The only absentee so far as the situation stands now would be Centrefielder Joe Stewart who has enlisted in the Navy but against that loss the Battery club if it should stick together would have the services again of the hard-hitting Joe Blewett who is being discharged from the Army and would undoubtedly line up with his old club mates. Genelecs have also practically all of last season's team as have the Switchgear club. The Military Training Centre has lost a number of stars but drafts in may supply a lot of fresh material.

* * * * * *

As for the Girls' Softball League no difficulty should be experienced in staging a successful season. The league developed a number of younger players last summer, most of whom are still available. The champion Westclox team have virtually their full team of 1943 on hand, the only one missing from the ranks being Outfielder Doris Walker who is with the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. The same report can be made of the Aircraft team, most of the players of whom are still here and can be counted upon when the season rolls around. Brintons, Electrics, Generals and Johnson Motors, made up for the most part of less experienced ball-tossers will have plenty of material and the experience they gained in last year's campaign should make them that much more valuable to their teams in the campaign that is not so far away.

* * * * * *

As Bad As The Pros

That the junior playoff setup in Ontario is not much better than the arrangement in the N.H.L. is the contention of Chick Appel, Stratford Beacon-Herald sport columnist who thinks that before we criticise the pro playoffs too much we should see the amateur situation in its true light. Here are his views: "Operating from the last of October until the middle of March to eliminate two of eight teams from the playoffs, and then prolonging the money series, has its advantages in the National Hockey League. The league skims about $65,000 off the playoff "take" and cuts up half of it among the first four teams, according to their regular season standing, and the other half on how they do in the playoffs. As a matter of fact, the junior "A" O.H.A. series isn't much better, and those fans, who have been most critical of the N.H.L. as merely a money-making organization, might look closer to home, where they'll find that the juniors played from Nov. 12 to Feb. 26 to decide six playoff teams from a field of ten starters."

An army sports committee has recommended to Defence Headquarters at Ottawa, that $1 a head be provided for each soldier for sports purposes and that permission be granted to charge civilians for admission to army sports shows. It was announced yesterday. The money would go toward a fund to provide sports uniforms and equipment for the big mass participation sports program the army is just launching. "The big military centres have enough equipment for normal usage and the smaller centres have hardly any," an army sports officer said. "We hope by our proposals to provide enough money to furnish uniforms and equipment for every soldier in the army." A decision on the recommendations is expected soon, the officer added.

Soccer Still Draws Them

Although sport has been hard hit overseas just as it has been in every other country, latest word from the British Isles reveals soccer still the top drawing card, says the Ottawa Journal. Concessions have been made to Britain's No. 1 spectator sport and contracts don't mean a great deal where service players are concerned. Under a special arrangement a professional player in the armed forces can play with the club nearest his post regardless of whether it is the one holding his contract. By obtaining permission from his own club, a player can join any team he can get to for any particular game. As a result, every field is occupied each Saturday afternoon, although the fans never know how the lineups will look until the players appear. Austin Belmear, in an article on the sport picture there, touches on hockey. Of it he says: "Ice hockey today is confined to service teams, but with such stars as the famous Krauts of the Boston Bruins, Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart available, the games in the R.C.A.F. and Canadian Army leagues have a healthy following. Pilot Officers Schmidt and Dumart and LAC. Bauer play with their respective station teams and after their years in the National Hockey League back home they sometimes find it a little odd to be playing on a rink covered only by a tent with a string of poles down the middle of the ice. Promoters look for a real splurge in this sport after the war."

Canadiens pulled further out in front, Chicago Black Hawks took over undisputed possession of third place over the Leafs and the Boston Bruins, battling to stay in the race for a playoff position picked up three points on the Toronto gang. These were the outstanding events of the week-end card in the National Hockey League. The never-stopping Canadiens, setting up a new team scoring record hammered the Leafs twice, winning 5 to 2 in Toronto and 8 to 3 in Montreal and even Frank Selke will not be able to set up an alibi. The Black Hawks lost a chance to gain Saturday night losing to the Red Wings 6 to 2 in Detroit but they made up for it Sunday by winning at home 6 to 1 with nearly 18,000 customers cheering their every move and the Smith-Bentley-Mosienko line giving one of their greatest performances of the season. Boston had a lot of trouble with the Rangers. They just managed to win by one goal in a high-scoring affair Saturday night 10 to 9 and the best they could do Sunday was a 4-4 tie. However that achievement netted them three points and cut that much off the Toronto margin in the fight for the last playoff berth.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Peterborough C.V.S. girls senior basketball team achieved something unusual in their game with Lindsay Saturday, winning 23 to 0....A shutout in basketball rarely happens....Bill Calladine picked up two goals and two assists in the Bruins two games with Rangers over the week-end....Bill Cowley had a field day Saturday night with four markers and two assists....The Black Hawks' ace line is making a big bid to finish one, two, three in the scoring list. The way they are going they could do it at that....Rangers haven't won in their last 16 starts but had 15,456 fans, the second biggest crowd of the season out to see them last night....No, you explain it; we gave up long ago....Bryan Hextall has played 575 consecutive games and the way the Rangers have been going this season probably he feels as if he had played a thousand.

Title Meet In Hamilton

TORONTO (CP)—In preparation for the coming lawn bowling season the executive of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association of Ontario met at the Granite Club, Toronto on Saturday and Hamilton was again selected as the venue for the second and final stages of the annual provincial championships in rinks, doubles and singles.

Noted Skiers Killed

LONDON, March 6—(CP).—Germany's best skiers, the Cranz brothers, have been killed while fighting for the Nazi, according to German radio reports heard yesterday. No details were given as to the date and front on which they died. The brothers represented Germany in the 1936 Olympics and held most of the country's ski championships.

National League Schedules 91 Night Games

(By The Canadian Press)

The National Baseball League will have a record number of night games during the coming season with 91 to be played under the lights, according to the official schedule announced at New York yesterday. The 154-game campaign continues from April 18 to Oct. 1, with each of the clubs making three intersectional trips. First night engagements are to be played at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh May 10 and the last arc game is dated Sept. 19 at Philadelphia. New York and Brooklyn, restricted to twilight fixtures last season because of wartime precautions, will each have 14 games under the full lights in 1944.

Opening games scheduled for April 18 will be: Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Chicago at Cincinnati, Boston at New York and Brooklyn at Philadelphia. The season opens three days later for the four other cities as follows: St. Louis at Chicago, New York at Brooklyn, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Boston.

Fight Fixing Ring

The Ontario Athletic Commission said in a statement Saturday it has "conclusive proof" that a fight-fixing ring is operating in Toronto, comprising "at least three men whose names are known to the chairman."

The statement, over the signatures of Chairman Lionel Conacher and Secretary A. W. Steel, said names of the men would be given to all promoters and that they would be barred from entering any building in Ontario where boxing matches were being held.

"Also, the Commission is going to stop all but officials visiting dressing rooms and will also license all seconds and trainers so that they will be under direct supervision of the commission for all future shows", said the statement.

Four Freedoms Wins

The $25,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday resulted in a stirring victory for Jockey Eddie Arcaro with Four Freedoms, defeating what was considered a better horse, the favored Sun Again, ridden by Jockey Ted Atkinson of Toronto, in a stretch duel.

5th Indoor Victory

Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, scored his fifth indoor track victory of the season in winning the special mile Saturday night in the intercollegiate games at Madison Square Garden, New York, his time being 4:10.2. Bill Hulse led for seven of the 11 laps and then collapsed.

P.C.V.S. Girls Win 2 Games

Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School girls basketball teams got away to a good start in the Lakeshore interscholastic group on Saturday when they won a double-header at Lindsay.

The juniors had a battle on their hands but finally emerged victorious with a 10 to 9 score but the senior squad experienced little trouble defeating the Lindsay Collegiate girls 23 to 0.

In the junior game it was a close all the way, with neither team able to open out a substantial lead. The Lindsay girls were in front 5 to 4 at the half but P. C. V. S. outscored them 6 to 4 in the second half to take the decision. Ruth Dougherty and Jean Johnston with four points each sparked the attack for the winners while Jane Mercer with four was Lindsay's best scorer.

The teams:

P. C. V. S. 10—Eleanor Whittaker, capt., Ramona Jackson, Mary Barrett, Vanetta Davis, Jean Metcalfe, Ruth Dougherty 4, Mary Jane Collins 2, Peggy Brown, Lenore Hutchinson, Jean Johnston 4, Audrey Worrell.

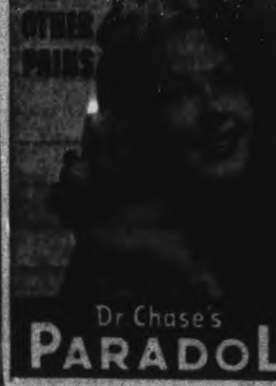
Lindsay Collegiate 9 — Ann Carew 2, Loraine Melurm, Ann Logan 1, Dorothy Flavelle 2, Jane Mercer 4, Barbara Vrooman, Florence Bate, Margery Chase, Alice Meyers, Phyllis Stewart.

Collegiate seniors were too strong all the way for the Lindsay team. They had ran up a score of 15 to 0 in the first half and in the second when the alternates were used a lot added eight more to their total while the good defensive work of the winners kept Lindsay off the score sheet. Shirley Curtis captain of the Peterborough girls was top scorer with 11 points.

The teams:

P. C. V. S. 23 — Shirley Curtis, captain 11, Betty Blewett, 4, Marion Nelson 8, Janet Collins, Barbara Deyell, Marjorie Kirn, Elma Tucker, Beverly Pringle, Yvonne Harvey.

Lindsay Collegiate — Patsy Hill, Connie Elliott, Dona Kennedy, Jane Logan, Gertrude Tyner, Eleanor Weeks, Marjorie Kingsboro, Mary Stewart, Byrll Cote Edwina Taylor.



The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP). — Remember way back when baseball fans used to get steamed up because a few prominent players had not signed their contracts by this time of the year?....Well, there's still a week or 10 days before 1944 spring training starts and a lot more players are unsigned than signed....Not many are hollering for more dough, but you'll notice that it's guys like Spud Chandler, Joe Gordon, Billy Herman, Stan Spence, Ray Mack, Doc Cramer, and Dick Bartell who are either talking about sticking to their war jobs or aren't saying anything.... Washington has 34 players signed, the other clubs only 12 or 15 apiece.

The club owners, of course, claim it's just a sign that a lot of the boys are uncertain about their draft status, but still it starts you wondering.

Slight case of confusion:

Just as a sample of what the major league magnates are up against in their efforts to line up their 1944 squads, a Newark, N.J., paper yesterday ran a story quoting Eddie Mayo as saying that he had given up baseball "at least for the duration"....Two columns away on the same page appeared a wire story listing 11 players who had signed Detroit contracts for 1944.. ..One of them was Eddie Mayo.

To-day's quote:

Ed Danforth, Atlanta Journal: "Alsab has been classified 4-F by Hialeah track officials."

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight we start in earnest the vice-skips' bonspiel. There will be two games, one at 6:45 p.m. and the other at 8:45 p.m. Just so the boys will know who is playing we publish tonight's draw:

6:45 p.m. Draw
F. Fraser vs. D. McIvor
M. Wells vs. T. McMillan
A. Nelson vs. R. Spicer
H. Ralph vs. J. McDermid
A. Robinson vs. C. Shaughnessy
W. Jackson vs. E. Williams

8:45 p.m. Draw
F. Paterson vs. J. Harkness
V. Selkirk vs. E. Cooper
H. Foster vs. W Davidson
C. Hall vs. R. Dawson
S. MacLeod vs. J. Sinclair
K. Hamley vs. F. Somerville

Apart from the vice-skip's games another important game is scheduled for tonight. It is the game in Group D between T. McArthur and M. Cruthers. Both rinks are tied and this will be the pay-off game.

A number of our lady curlers are leaving this afternoon for Toronto to play for the "Shannon Trophy" at the Granite Club. Included in the party are Mrs. O. DeGraw, Miss H. Fanning, Mrs. V. Selkirk, Mrs. M. Holt, Mrs. D. Clarke, Miss G. Patterson, Miss M. Patterson, Mrs. O. M. Steer, Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. J. Dunkerly, Mrs. E. Thomas and Mrs. A. Leach.

There was almost a capacity house out on Saturday afternoon in the men's bonspiel. The ice was good and keen and that helps a lot. The winnings skips were G. Braund, G. Putnam, J. Richmond and C. Giroux.

In the evening another crowd turned out for the ladies' mixed bonspiel. These Saturday night games are increasing in popularity each week. It will soon be that if you are not down to the rink on time that you will have to sit inside No. 8.

At the conclusion of play, the ladies, as usual, served light lunch up in the club's rooms.

30 Men Picked Up In Raid On Gardens

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police Saturday night raided the "bull ring" or betting section of Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens during the hockey game between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs and picked up 30 men for questioning. After investigation Louis Lahman, 32, and Morris Klegerman, 21, were charged with failing to report for military duty. Twenty others were ordered to report to selective service offices Monday morning.

Jug McSpaden Wins Golf Open

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—With a three-under-par 68, Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia won the final round of the Gulfport Open yesterday and took the victor's share of the $4,500 prize with a 276 total for the four rounds, this score being eight strokes under par for 72 holes. Sammy Byrd, 282, and Byron Nelson, 283, were second and third.

Gowns Of Orange

NELSON, B.C., March 6—(CP).—Persons arriving here from the nearby Slocan Valley area reported seeing several members of the Fanatic Sons of Freedom Doukhobors wearing crowns of oranges and long veils and riding horses up and down the main district highways. Meanwhile there were no reports of further demonstrations by the Radical Doukhobor branch.

Labelled a Conspiracy

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP).—The National Lawyers' Guild yesterday described operations of the Dies Committee as a "conspiracy" against war policies of the administration and the United Nations in calling on Congress to put an end to the investigating group's work.

Holbrook Out To Beat Strangler Bob

When California Vic Holbrook leaps into the Brock Arena ring here next Tuesday night, local wrestling fandom will see something of a new Vic compared with the good-looking athlete's last appearance here. The big Holbrook is not ordinarily a suspicious or a mean-tempered individual but since his loss here to Stranger Bob Wagner, he has slowly but surely come to the conclusion that Wagner's act in hurling him down spread-eagled onto the top rope, was far from accidental. Holbrook talked to several grapplers in Toronto this week, who have wrestled Wagner. At least two out of four or five who had met Strangler Bob in the ring, had had a somewhat similar experience with the Portland powerhouse. Apparently this Wagner is a real mat opportunist and when a chance comes along to take advantage, Strangler Bob snaps it up like a tiger.

In any case Vic Holbrook has decided that for once he will come into the ring on Tuesday night, quite forgetful of his usual clean-cut scientific style and much more aware of the desire to walk straight into Wagner with a series of body jarring jolts and crushes. "And then," added Vic, "we'll see just how tough the old bull-dog really is. I'm told that Wagner is one of the real hard guys of wrestling. I don't believe it and I aim to prove my contention."

That superlative mat stylist, Frank Sexton, the Pacific Coast champion, come back on this card against stormy petrel Jan Gotch. That one should be a thriller.

In the third bout the Garrulous Greek, Tom Zaharias, will try out his tear-'em-down technique on young Tommy Collins.

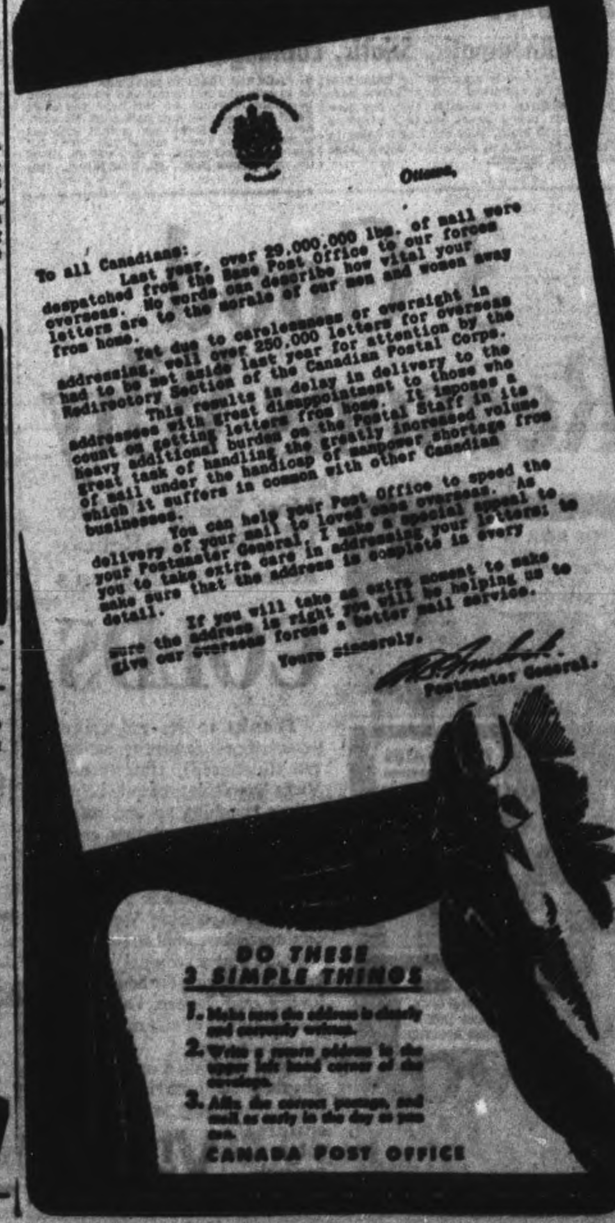
A MESSAGE FROM THE POSTMASTER GENERAL



Ottawa,

To all Canadians:

Last year, over 29,000,000 lbs. of mail were despatched from the Base Post Office to our forces overseas. No words can describe how vital your letters are to the morale of our men and women away from home.

Yet due to carelessness or oversight in addressing, well over 250,000 letters for overseas had to be set aside last year for attention by the Redirectory Section of the Canadian Postal Corps.

This results in delay in delivery to the addressees with great disappointment to those who count on getting letters from home. It imposes a heavy additional burden on the Postal Staff in its great task of handling the greatly increased volume of mail under the handicap of manpower shortage from which it suffers in common with other Canadian businesses.

You can help your Post Office to speed the delivery of your mail to loved ones overseas. As your Postmaster General, I make a special appeal to you to take extra care in addressing your letters: to make sure that the address is complete in every detail.

If you will take an extra moment to make sure the address is right you will be helping us to give our overseas forces a better mail service.

Yours sincerely,

Postmaster General.

DO THESE 3 SIMPLE THINGS

1. Make sure the address is clearly and correctly written.
2. Write a return address in the upper left hand corner of the envelope.
3. Affix the correct postage, and mail as early in the day as you can.

Saints Beaten By Hamilton In Second Game

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Majors tied up the Senior O.H.A. playoff series with St. Catharines at one game apiece by defeating the Saints 3-1 Saturday night at Hamilton. In the first game of the best-of-seven series St. Catharines had trimmed Hamilton 4-3 in overtime on Saints' ice, where the rivals will battle for the third time to-night.

In the low-scoring engagement, both teams notched a counter in the first period and the totals remained 1-1 going into the third frame, when Hamilton cut loose, with Doug Runions scoring the winning goal and Robertson ramming home the extra tally. Dinning was the first period scorer for the home club while Mason was responsible for the Saints' lone one.

Featuring the week-end junior play-off battles was St. Catharines Falcons' 4-2 triumph over Oshawa Generals at St. Catharines to pull one game ahead of the Motor City crew in the best-of-seven series, which now stands two games to one for St. Catharines—and the fourth encounter scheduled for Oshawa to-night.

The Falcons led 2-0 in the initial stanza; Generals scored their only two in the second but Falcons added a third to lead going into the third round and made it 4-2 before the end. D. McMurdy, Pete Long, Nick Phillips and B. Delmonte achieved the scoring for the winners while Bill Ezinicki and Ken Smith came through with a goal each for Oshawa.

In the other section of the junior play-offs, St. Michael's College defeated Kists at Galt 6-5 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series, the fourth game to be played in Toronto to-night. John McCormack and Dave Bauer were double scorers for the Students while B. McCarthy notched two of Galt's five counters.

Kingston Army Wins Over Toronto Navy

KINGSTON, March 6 (CP) — Kingston Army scored a 13-9 victory over Toronto Navy in an exhibition game here Saturday night in aid of the Hockey Hall of Fame. Gus Marker, Corrigan and Grigg each scored two of the Kingston goals, the others coming on shots by Phillips, Jones, Red Hamill, Jimmy Conacher, Frank Mario, Moe White and Punch Imlach.

Armstrong, Laycoe and Barlow each scored twice for the Toronto Sailors with singles being registered by Livingstone, Stanton and Red Tilson.

The mile bicycle record held by Torchy Peden of Victoria was bettered at Los Angeles nine years ago today by Frank Bartell, bewhiskered Czecho-Slovakian, who skimmed around a track at 80.584 miles an hour, four miles an hour better than the Canadian redhead's mark.

Toronto Leafs Drop Two To Canadiens

By The Canadian Press

Three different sets of home-and-home results spiced a National Hockey League week-end which saw practically all the fancy touches written, as usual, by Montreal Canadiens.

In inflicting double disaster on Toronto Maple Leafs, wartime hockey's "big" team:

1. Stretched their victory streak to eight straight;

2. Played their 22nd consecutive game without defeat on home ice;

3. Expanded their goal total to 202, four more than the league record Leafs put on the books last season;

4. Moved within four points of the 77 Boston Bruins acquired in 1929-30 in establishing a record for points in a single season.

On other fronts, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks broke even, Wings winning the Saturday contest 6-2 on home ice and dropping a 6-1 verdict in Chicago Sunday, while Boston shaded Rangers 10-9 at Boston Saturday and played to a 4-4 draw in the Sabbath engagement at New York.

The results did little to clarify the struggle for alignment among the four clubs chasing Canadiens. Detroit remained in second place, 23 points behind Canadiens and four points in the van of Chicago, who usurped third place from the faltering Leafs. Toronto, in fourth place two points behind Chicago, held a five-point grip on the league's last play-off berth ahead of Boston, which has six games to play compared with five for Toronto before the "folding" paper chase known as the Stanley Cup series starts.

Richard Scores Five

Maurice Richard continued his wicked scoring place, tallying twice Saturday as Canadiens trounced Leafs 5-2 in Toronto and adding three in their 8-3 conquest of Leafs Sunday. Babe Pratt fired two of the Toronto goals in the week-end games but Paul Bibeault, standing up under withering Montreal fire in the Toronto nets, probably was the most useful Leaf player. Gerry Heffernan bagged three Montreal goals.

The Saturday contest developed into a robust affair. Referee Bill Chadwick imposed 14 penalties, four of them majors, as players staged a steady procession to the penalty box after various forms of combat.

Up to the week-end Chicago hadn't won on Detroit ice in 16 games since March 15, 1940, and they fared no better Saturday, failing to score until George Allen and Doug Bentley found the target late in the third period. Mud Bruneteau counted twice for Wings, who lost Bill Quackenbush for a week when their young defence rookie suffered torn ligaments in a collision with Art Wiebe of the Hawks.

It was a different story in Chicago Sunday as the Hawks moved into a 5-0 lead before Hal Jackson got Detroit's only goal. Clint Smith and Bill Mosienko scored twice while linemate Doug Bentley flashed one red light.

Boston veteran Bill Cowley, bidding gallantly to regain his former eminence in the scoring race after an enforced period of idleness, collected four goals and two assists in Saturday's high-scoring action, but failed to add a point Sunday as Bruins blew a 3-1 second-period lead.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP). — Frank Sargent, C.A.H.A. president, told Eddie (Winnipeg Free Press) Armstrong that Edgar Laprade refused a Montreal Canadiens offer of $12,000 for a two-year contract while Laprade was with Port Arthur Bearcats. Sargent said he was in a position to discount any suggestion that Edgar had been "super-bonused" for his hockey playing at the Lakehead....If that is true, and we have no reason to doubt it, they should put a stuffed model of Laprade in the hockey Hall of Fame as a specimen of that almost extinct character—an amateur.

Monday wash:

An exhibition bowling match in Amherstburg, Ont., last week raised $464 for the Red Cross. Detroit Stroh Brewers bowled an Amherstburg team....Refereeing a Toronto schools hockey game is hazardous. Pat Patterson and Berne LeMaitre working a game at Maple Leaf Gardens the other night, were fair targets. Somebody missed LeMaitre with a dead fish, but Patterson was nailed on the back of the head by an orange.

Sing low:

Len Earl, veteran Winnipeg newspaperman, joins the growing crew supporting the late Tommy Phillips of the famous Kenora Thistles as the greatest of all hockey players. Says Len: "Grand opera, for example, has had many tenors, but there has only been one Caruso. Hockey has had many greats, but for speed, elusiveness, stamina and accuracy of shooting there was only one Phillips."

Incidentally:

The three Chin brothers, forward line with Lucknow, Ont., juvenile hockey team, compiled a total of 67 goals and 88 assists in 10 games this season. Bill Chin leads with 36 goals and 21 assists....Cpl. Dave Castilloux, boxing instructor at Montreal Wireless School, has two W.D.'s attending the regular classes. The girls will appear in a boxing exhibition.....News that Seattle Longacres racetrack would resume operation this season after being closed a year was disturbing to Vancouver horsemen. Jockeys were scarce enough around Vancouver last season and the situation will be even worse this year with many of the top riders going to Longacres.

Sound Living Standard Bracken Policy

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP) — Recommendations on party policy, covering a wide field of Canadian affairs received approval Saturday at the annual meeting of the Dominion Progressive Conservative Association, and have been sent on to John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative Leader.

Regarded as supplementing the platform adopted by the party at its Winnipeg convention last year, the latest recommendations call for full-time agricultural production, maintenance of the upward trend in wages and living conditions in the period of conversion to peacetime economy, and immediate action and announcement of postwar projects by Federal, Provincial and municipal authorities.

Other Proposals

Other recommendations:

1. Provision of mustering-out pay for members of the armed forces on a "generous scale" in addition to adequate clothing allowance.
2. Restrictions requiring permission from Federal authorities before an individual or corporation can become a party to an international cartel.
3. Organization of a board of live stock commissioners.
4. Increased emphasis on rural health services.
5. Consideration of the establishment of a central farm bank to operate in co-operation with private lending institutions.
6. General adoption by industry of the principle of vacations with pay.
7. Action to prevent family allowances becoming a substitute for adequate wages.
8. Restriction of the ownership and control of flying fields to Canadian interests, and the withholding of new licenses for permanent air routes until after the war.
9. Amendment to tax regulations to stimulate mining.

Honeywell Secretary

Following a meeting of the executive, P. D. MacArthur of Howick, Que., newly elected president announced the appointment of A. E. Honeywell, Ottawa solicitor, as secretary of the Dominion association. Mr. Honeywell succeeds R. A. Bell of Ottawa, now national director.

Members of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Canada at their annual meeting yesterday elected Ned Stewart of Smiths Falls, Ont., president, succeeding Douglas McMynn of Penticton, B.C.

Neil MacDonald of Ottawa and Jacques Boucher of Hull, Que., were elected vice-presidents, and Christie McDonald of Ottawa was re-elected executive secretary.

Policy recommendations were placed before the Dominion association meeting, which was held in camera, in the report of the policy committee, of which Cecil G. Frost of Lindsay, Ont., is chairman.

Dependent Mothers

Dealing with members of the forces and veterans, the report proposed that dependent mothers be paid an allowance equal to that given wives. The suggested mustering out pay should be paid to all members of the forces on demobilization and should be based on the services they had rendered, the committee recommended.

It also proposed that in claims for pensions it should be presumed that any deterioration in the physical condition of a serviceman is compared with that recorded when he was admitted to the forces was due to his service. The claimant for a pension should not bear any onus of proof and should receive the benefit of any doubt.

The section dealing with agricultural matters had six clauses. It urged the provision of adequate facilities for a thorough study of contagious diseases and parasites among farm animals, plants and birds and preventive measures.

Direct Marketing

The Board of Livestock Commissioners recommended would be given power to regulate and direct all aspects of livestock marketing In its proposal for extension of rural health services the committee asked also a raising of the standard of services to both rural and urban areas.

The committee endorsed the agricultural program advanced by Mr. Bracken in a Lethbridge, Alta., address, and renewed the Winnipeg convention proposal for a central farm bank.

On the basis of discussions at recent United Nations food and rehabilitation and relief conferences, the committee said Canada should have "no hesitation in going in for full-scale agricultural production".

Dealing with labor matters, the report said the upward trend in wages and living conditions must be continued in the period of conversion to give Canadians the highest possible living standard.

Cover All Industry

It urged the new Federal code on compulsory collective bargaining and labor relations be made applicable to all industry, and the provisions of the code must be made permanent by Dominion-Federal agreements.

The new wage-control order had circumscribed the rights of labor by placing on labor the onus to prove that existing wages constituted a gross inequality or injustice, and that any increase was consistent with the ability of the employer to pay.

"This is unfair to labor and nullifies the right of labor to have substandard wages eliminated," the report said.

The committee expressed objection to the introduction of both the labor code and wage order by Order-in-Council, and said they should have been enacted by Parliament.

Adopted by industry of practices leading to seasonal fluctuations in employment were unfair to labor and contrary to the interests of the community, and should be corrected.

On reconstruction the committee proposed "that for the further achievement of the objective of full employment at fair wages .. Federal, Provincial and municipal authorities forthwith complete and make known definite plans for immediate postwar projects."

"Greatly increased" Dominion assistance to scientific study and all branches of research was advocated.

On postwar civil aviation the committee said consideration should be given to the airmen of the present war and the first Great War, and to the pioneers of Canadian Civil aviation as well as to Canada's unique geographical position.

The committee recommended that all domestic aviation remain under the jurisdiction of the Transport Commission or a board with similar powers.

POLISH AIRMAN MUCH DECORATED—General Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander-in-chief of the Free Polish Army, is shown pinning the Golden Cross of Virtuti Militari, Poland's highest decoration, on Wing Commander Aleksander Gabszewicz, of the Polish Air Force. Airman Babszewicz already holds the D.S.O., D.F.C., Cross of Valour with three bars and the Croix de Guerre.

Rev. J. J. Black Assumes Conference Task

The annual Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada will be held this year in Trinity Church, Peterborough, from May 30 to June 2. The minister of the church, Rev George S. Easton, M.A., D.D., who is President of Conference, is incapacitated by illness, and his place at the opening sessions will be taken by Rev. J. J. Black, M.A., B.D., of Lindsay, who will also fill out the unexpired term of office.

For the second time there will be no Sunday ordination service, and the sessions will close on Friday as candidates were ordained last September under wartime acceleration of courses to meet the extreme shortages of ministers.

The executive announced after its meeting in Peterborough that Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, D.D., minister of South Congregational Church, Springfield, Mass., noted religious writer on problems of everyday living and traveller-lecturer on international matters, will conduct the morning devotional addresses, and Wilson MacDonald, Canadian poet, will address the annual laymen's banquet and read from his writings.

A public meeting on Wednesday night will be addressed by Rev. Dr. R. B. Cochrane, secretary of Home Missions, Toronto, and Mrs. George P. Bryce, outstanding missionary speaker on India. A memorial service for the ministers who have died during the year will be conducted by Rev. L. S. Throop of Delta, secretary of Kingston Presbytery, and Rev. James Beckel of Elgin, secretary of Conference. Chairman of the Settlement Committee is Rev. James Semple, D. Th., of Belleville.

Despite wartime industrial conditions in Peterborough a local committee, with Rev. William McDonald as host and Rev. Fred W. Craik as secretary, will arrange for the billeting of 550 ministerial and lay delegates with the assistance of families in nearby villages and country.

ment from their historic farm home. He called on the Progressive Conservative government to return the home to the family.

Two Years To Get Off

Premier Drew termed the opposition leader's charges "inconsistent with the facts." He said the Griffiths family had two years to get off the property after signing an agreement to accept $19,000 for land assessed at only $4,460.

The premier said the Griffiths family would not get their farm back. He called on Mr. Jolliffe to apologize to the legislature for his "misleading statements." If he did not, Col. Drew said the opposition leader would not be accepting the responsibilities of his office.

The history of the farm goes back to the days after the American revolution when John DeCew or (DeCou) of French Huguenot descent came from his native Vermont to Canada.

DeCew built the stone house which was subject of much of the present legislature's debate, in 1808. It was in this house that Captain Fitzgibbon of the British forces had his headquarters in the War of 1812. And it was to that house that Laura Secord walked through the night to warn the captain of the impending American attack.

Last October Premier Drew turned the switch which put in operation a new single-unit 65,000-horsepower plant at DeCew Falls.

It was this development for which the Hydro Commission took over the Griffiths farm. The old stone house itself was not used but was turned into a museum and much of the land is now flooded.

The Griffiths are now living in another farm they took not far away. They say they would like to keep their old homestead for sentimental reasons. In a statement issued after the legislature debate they declared "we did not wish to sell anything that the Hydro Commission did not need. We want this whole proceedings to be thoroughly investigated."

Whether an investigation will be made remains to be seen. But Opposition Leader Jolliffe says the "whole story" of the Griffiths farm deal "has not yet been told" and indicates the legislature may hear more of it before the present session ends.

14,000 tons, and 700-ton minesweeper in attacks on a German convoy in the Barents Sea and had damaged a 7,000-ton transport. The sea route is one which the Nazis could use either in withdrawing or reinforcing their divisions in Northern Finland.

The great Ukrainian drive, the communique said, liberated 14 large towns as the Russians advanced southwestward from the Shepetovka area—the southern side of their westernmost salient into pre-war Poland. Advancing southward, the Russians swept down upon the railroad from Shepetovka and Vishgorodok, 21 miles northeast of Ternapl.

The bulletin said a heavy battle was fought for the town of Belogorodka, 24 miles southwest of Shepetovka, but Soviet tankmen, assisted by infantry, anti-tank riflemen and artillery, finally overwhelmed the Nazis.

Moscow reported the enemy "suffered enormous losses in manpower and equipment in all sectors of the front" and that the scattered enemy divisions "abandoned their artillery ammunition dumps and other war material in their retreat."

The communique also announced that in the north, where the Russians had pushed a bridgehead across the Narova River in Estonia south of Narva, their positions were improved. It made no mention, however, of Pskov where last week the Russians were as close as five miles north and east of this northern communications city.

In its only admission of damage, the Berlin radio said incendiaries caused a slight loss in the province of Brandenburg, a little less than 25 miles "from the centre of the capital" to the west.

American ground patrols slogging through the jungle west of Saidor, on the north-eastern New Guinea coast, on their way to the Japanese base at Madang, have reached Herwath Point, about 20 miles west of Saidor.

In the Central Pacific, increasing American use of the newly-captured Kwajalein and Eniwetok atolls in the Marshalls as bomber bases was indicated in reports of the third straight bombing of Japan's Eastern Caroline Islands, within easy range.

Heavy bombers hit harbor and ground installations at Ponape, largest of the Carolines, and Kusaie, 350 nautical miles to the southeast, on Friday, the United States Navy announced Sunday.

Ponape is 576 nautical miles southwest of Kwajalein, which has been in American hands a month. Kusaie is 348 miles from Kwajalein.

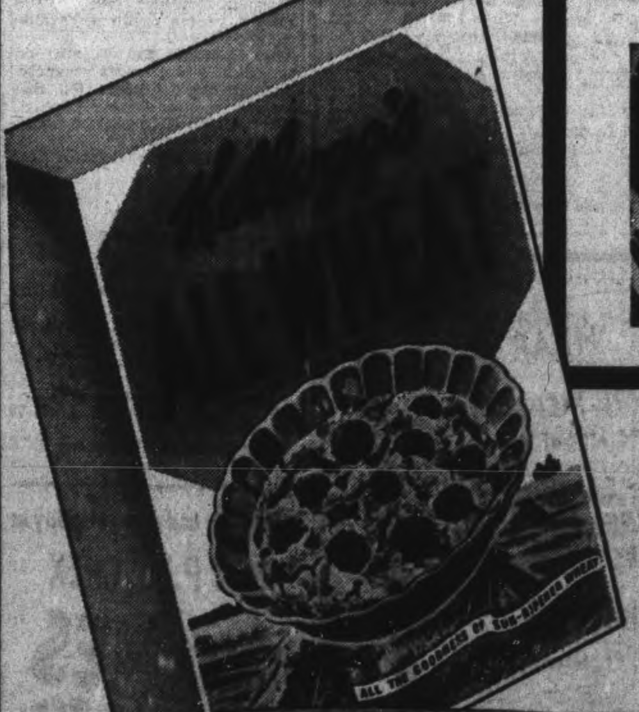
How to Save Other Foods

Compared with other countries Canada is rich in food. No one here need go hungry. But because we are well-off, our obligation to others is that much greater. It is our duty to our country—to the world—to pledge ourselves not to waste what we have.

Three things every housewife can do:

1. Take care to serve the foods that are in abundance—fruits and vegetables in season—cereals all the year round.
2. Use up every scrap of food you buy!
3. Replace or extend meats and other protein foods, which are so badly needed overseas, with cereal products.

• Save meat by adding Kellogg's All-Wheat to your regular Salisbury Steak recipe. Enjoy a flavour treat at the same time.



Try all seven Kellogg cereals. Serve them more often for breakfast—lunch—between meals. Remember, if it's Kellogg's it's the finest of its kind. Complete your assortment tomorrow. Your grocer has them. Made by Kellogg's, London, Canada.

Save time...save work...save fuel!

GUILTY OF BEGGING

Howard Innis pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of begging on Simcoe street on Saturday and was given ten days in jail. He won a point when his request to have the sentence dated back to Saturday was granted by the magistrate.

APPEAL TO WOMEN.

A special appeal for their help is being made to Peterborough women as voluntary workers at the Red Cross Rooms at the Public Library. The company of sewers and other helpers is comparatively small, and it is altogether likely that many other skilful and capable women in the city could find time and be glad to help in this war effort if they were aware of the need of their contribution. The rooms at the Library are open every afternoon except Saturdays, from 2 to 5 o'clock and Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. It is presumed that some members of the Red Cross will be at the Library to receive new volunteers this week, and it is hoped that many women will enlist.

DIED RECENTLY.

Word has been received of the recent death of Mrs. Alice Conroy, wife of the late John Conroy, in Vancouver. She was the former Alice Drury of this city. The Conroy family moved to the West about 20 years ago.

CHARGE DISMISSED

On a charge of having attempted to purchase liquor on a permit that was not his own, Noah Taylor was acquitted this morning when the Crown announced that no evidence would be offered and the case was accordingly dismissed.

TAX RATE 39.75 MILLS

City council of Kitchener succeeded last week in striking the same tax rate as last year, 39.75 mills. To avoid an increase they had to shuffle a margin of $46,051. They passed an increase of $27,000 to the Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital to provide for an eight-hour day for the nursing staff; but committees clipped their requisitions substantially, $15,000 in a first review, and further paring in a later stage. A sum of $20,000 for post-war reconstruction was erased, and $8,700 of that amount was applied to the reserve for uncollected taxes, bringing its total to $97,000. Requests for additional men for the police and fire departments were rejected, and an item of $10,000 was placed in estimates revenue from the expected sale of isolation hospital buildings.

Strike Rumors Denied

MONTREAL, March 6—(CP).—Persistent rumors of a strike here of tramways and civic employees, including policemen and firemen, last night were denied and said to be "without foundation" by Labor Union officials.

3 Peterborough Soldiers Awarded Military Medal For Bravery

SGT. ROSS G. CLARKE, M.M.

Three boys from Norwood, Port Hope and Madoc, Sgt. Ross G. Clarke, Sgt. Gordon Pemberton and C.S.M. Cecil Yearwood, have been given the Military Medal for outstanding bravery in the face of enemy fire, it was announced today. They are part of a group of 59 whose awards for valor in the Italian campaign have been aproved by His Majesty, The King. These men are among the first in Peterborough to win this medal.

Sergeant Ross Graham Clarke, B-60737, Canadian Armoured Corps, was born at Lindsay, November 2, 1912, and resided there at the time of his enlistment September 18, 1939. He proceeded overseas June 18, 1941. His mother, Mrs. Mary Louise Clarke, lives at Norwood. His citation reads:

"On December 16, near Ortona, having been already forced to evacuate two tanks which had been destroyed by enemy action, Sgt. Carl Clarke and his crew were forced out of a third tank which was hit by fire from concealed anti-tank guns. Having successfully evacuated his crew and realizing the danger to following tanks from this cunningly concealed gun position, Sgt. Carl Clarke, under heavy machine gun and mortar fire, determinedly set out on foot toward his Squadron Leader's tank. Wounded on the way, he continued on until he was able to direct the fire of his Squadron Leader against the gun emplacement, destroying the gun and killing the crew.

"Only then did he return on foot to an ambulance post to receive medical attention. This most conspicuous act of bravery and extreme devotion to duty in the face of the enemy was undoubtedly a contributing factor to the resulting success of our attack on Ortona."

SGT. GORDON PEMBERTON, M.M.

Sergeant Gordon Pemberton, C-65426, 27, is a native of Port Hope, where he resided prior to his enlistment with Canadian Infantry Corp unit in August 1940. He proceeded overseas in September 1942. His father, William Pemberton, lives at Port Hope. His citation reads:

"On December 9, 1943, during a heavy counter-attack by the Germans on the bridgehead position held by units of the Canadian Infantry Corps on the north side of the Moro River in Italy, Sgt. Pemberton was stunned by a bomb that landed near his position. On recovering, though suffering from concussion, he appreciated the situation and despite the fact the area was under intense mortar and machine gun fire, took a Bren gun and crawled 350 yards to a spot where he could command approaches to his section position. Just as he reached this forward position, the enemy started to advance. Sgt. Pemberton opened fire, killing at least 16 Germans and forcing the remainder to retire in disorder. This sterling example of courage and initiative broke the enemy attack and enabled our troops to advance and occupy an advantageous piece of ground."

C.S.M. CECIL N. YEARWOOD, M.M.

Company Sergeant-Major Cecil Napoleon Yearwood, C-4654, 32, was born at Trenton, and lived at Madoc, prior to his enlistment in September, 1939, after serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Island Regiment, N.P.A.M. His wife, Mrs. Luella Irene Yearwood, and three children, live at Madoc. C.S.M. Yearwood was awarded the Efficiency Medal last year. His citation reads:

"On December 9, 1943, during the hard fighting of a unit of the Canadian Infantry Corps established a bridgehead sector in the area north of the Moro River, Italy, an enemy strong point was located on "B" Company's front. The Company Commander and C.S.M. Yearwood, supported by the fire of a section, rushed this strong point with total disregard of the heavy fire on all sides. The Company Commander and C.S.M. Yearwood surprised the enemy and with their Thompson sub-machine guns stormed the post. Fourteen of the enemy were casualties and eighteen taken prisoner. By the ferocity and dauntless courage of the attack, the enemy were completely bewildered and the position fell to out troops. This daring action did much to lower enemy morale and to cause confusion in enemy ranks.

"The courage and determination displayed by C.S.M. Yearwood was an inspiration to all his associates; this action resulted in the strengthening of the bridgehead over the Moro River."

Pack Of Wolves Seen In Burleigh

According to Fish and Game Overseer Vernal Windsor, a small pack of wolves has been active in the Mount Julian section of Burleigh township.

A few nights ago a doe was chased by the pack and pulled down and killed on the farm of William Church, a short distance from Mount Julian. The partially eaten carcass was discovered next morning in close proximity to the Church home.

The members of the family heard nothing of the chase during the night but found the dead deer in the morning and tracks in the snow showed that four or five wolves had been in at the kill.

Normal School At Home Helps War Fund

All social functions of a public nature add immeasurably to the satisfaction they create when through it they can spread their influence beyond the immediate circle encompased by those who participate, and this of course would be intensified when this influence is one which would have a rejuvenating effect for people whom the tide of fortune has dealt hardly with from a worldly and humanitarian standpoint.

All institutions of learning have a potential influence which cannot be measured by any known yardstick, and so it would seem a most appropriate thing that they should add to the good for the future they are able to accomplish, by also doing something in this aforementioned field of endeavor, by which an existing unfortunate situation for a suffering people could to some extent be alleviated.

The Peterborough Normal School recently held its annual At Home, from out of which their was an evident wish of those who were present for the evening's enjoyment, to do something in a tangible manner, which would be a practical expression of a sincere thought for others in less fortunate circumstances than themselves.

This took the form a fish pond, which naturally takes its name from something that has from the earliest of days been of benefit to humanity, for many people have been provided with the necessities of life itself from out of its depths, and in this instance it produced the nice sum of $15.55 which is credited in their name for the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund today, which will go on its mission of mercy to spread their influence for good to others more than 3,000 miles away.

This is not their first appearance in this column, for help from this same source has been registered on previous occasions, which of course is all the more to their credit.

Douro Sub-division C.W.L.

Another nice gift of $10 included in today's list comes from hte Catholic Women's League, Douro subdivision, who also may be said in this manner to be extending their influence for good over a far distant field, which also reacts considerably to their credit.

Recently the secretary of the fund received a number of original letters written by children, all of them away from their own homes through enemy attacks from the air, among which was one from James and Vera Gibson whose home was at Gateshead, and who now are being cared for in a home at Leyburn, Yorkshire, England.

In this the young children give a picture of how the calamities of war have affected them, and tell of how both their parents were killed last year, they themselves being safe because they had been evacuated to the country, in addition to which their only brother is now a prisoner with the Japanese.

The letter was full of sincere thanks for a small amount of money (six shillings and sixpence each) which had been given them last Christmas, and was made possible through the special gifts that were sent at that time from the residents of this city and district.

To the good people of the city and district of Peterborough there would from this and other similar circumstances surely come a feeling that their efforts on behalf of youngsters afflicted in this manner had not been in vain.

Obituaries

MRS. LUCY ANN KEMP.

Following a prolonged illness, Mrs. Lucy Ann Kemp, 87, passed away Saturday at Anson House. A lifetime resident of the district, she was born near Havelock, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnston, and was a member of Murray Street Baptist church. Predeceased by her husband, who died some years ago, she leaves a son, Bruce, of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the funeral home of A. Comstock & Sons, 305 Water street, with services conducted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

STEPHEN McDONNELL

The funeral of the late Stephen McDonnell, who died suddenly on Wednesday, was held Saturday from the residence of his sister, Mrs. T. J. Best, Gilmour street. Requiem high mass was offered by Rev. F. Marrocco at St. Peter's Cathedral, and present in the sanctuary was Rev. C. J. Carroll of Norwood, a cousin of Mr. McDonnell. Interment took place in St. Peter's cemetery.

Resident in Western Canada for many years, where he was engaged in the teaching profession, Mr. McDonnell leaves two brothers, Robert of Rochester and Michael of Toronto, and two sisters, Mr. W. J. Miller of North Bay and Mrs. Best of Peterborough, with whom he spent the last two years of his life.

Pallbearers were Edward and James Hickey, Harry Gainey, Leo McCabe, Charles Carson and William Young.

BERTRAM E. CANNIFF

Former resident of Peterborough and member of a family once well-known here, Bertram E. Canniff died in Calgary last week. He was the son of the late James T. Canniff, for many years a member of The Examiner mechanical staff, and was 58 years of age.

Born in Napanee, he later lived in Peterborough and in Toronto before going to Calgary where he was the head of a printing business.

He is survived by his wife, a sister, Mrs. D. B. Fleming, of Toronto, and two brothers, Stanley, Ottawa, and Douglas, Hamilton.

MRS. C. H. BUCKLAND.

TORONTO, March 6—(CP)—Funeral services were to be held here today for Mrs. C. H. Buckland, widow of Rev. C. H. Buckland, who died Friday in Hamilton. A native of Belfast, Ireland, Mrs. Buckland lived for many years in Guelph, where her husband was rector of St. James' Anglican Church.

Surviving are four sons, A. W. J. Buckland and Alfred H. Buckland of Toronto, Frank L. Buckland of Peterborough, and E. Harvey Buckland of Chatham; and two daughters, Mrs. F. L. Goodman of Osoyoos, B.C., and Mrs. John Baydell of Vancouver.

EDGAR H. BEST.

The funeral of Edgar H. Best, district farmer, was held from his late residence, Omemee, on Saturday, with services conducted by Rev. Honey of Mount Pleasant United church. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Mr. Best died suddenly on Thursday following a heart attack. Sixty-eight years of age, he was the son of the late J. H. Best and Dinah Best. A successful and enterprising farmer, he had been a member of Mount Pleasant church and a steward of it. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Agnes Hayes, and one brother, Wilbert of Mount Pleasant.

Pallbearers were Chester Best, Austin Hayes, Hiram Best, Harold Best, H. Ball and Gordon Hayes.

Cardinal Urges Sparing Rome

QUEBEC, March 6 (CP)—A plea that the City of Rome be spared from devastation was made public here Sunday on behalf of the 50 Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops of Canada.

The statement was signed by Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, "in his capacity of Cardinal of the Church and chairman of the plenary meeting and chief executive of the Canadian hierarchy," and was made public by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Paul Bernier, French-speaking secretary of the Canadian hierarchy.

The statement, issued in English and French, said:

"The time seems to have come for us to direct to authorities responsible for the leading of the war a supreme appeal. We conjure them to spare the City of Rome, the glory of our civilization, the home of art and culture, the centre of Christianity, which 20 centuries of history have respected and venerated even to proclaim it the Eternal City.

"We eagerly invite not only our Catholic brethren, but all those as well who cannot remain indifferent to the fate of Rome, to join their prayers and their endeavors to our own, so that the nations at war dare not, in devastating that city holy among all cities, inflict upon Christianity a grief and upon themselves a wrong no victory would ever redeem in the eyes of posterity.

"We are confident that the political wisdom and military valor of our leaders shall be equal to that achievement no less noble than uneasy, to save both the human lives entrusted to their care and the Eternal City, the precious appanage of the whole of mankind."

Flint Is Held On Theft Charge

Wilfrid Flint, formerly of Campbellcroft, was arraigned in police court today on a charge of breaking into the store of R. A. Murray, Charlotte street, and committing theft.

Flint pleaded not guilty to the charge and said that he was ready to proceed with his trial.

"Are you represented by counsel?" asked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

"I have no money to get lawyer," replied the accused. "Well, I have none to give you," returned the court.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said the Crown had witnesses present and was prepared to go ahead, but Magistrate Langley demurred.

"This is a serious charge and I feel that this man should have some time to prepare his defence," said His Worship, and Flint was remanded until Wednesday.

On another charge of vagrancy under which Flint has been held in custody for some time he was also remanded until Wednesday.

Leaders Close In Volleyball

Games in the Lillico Trophy Volleyball League at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday left the three leading teams practically tied. Vincent and Hardill with 17 wins and 10 losses each and Dryland with 16 wins and 10 lost games. Scott's team is in fourth position. Stanbury's team is still a threat. El. Jones' team has hung on grimly in spite of early losses and have been giving every other team the stiffest kind of argument.

In the Dryland-Jones series on Saturday afternoon both teams battled for every point and hadn't finished the second game when time was called, this being the two longest games of the season. Jones won the first 16-14 and Dryland the second 13-11 unfinished.

In one of the games between Scott and Stanbury teams the longest and steadiest rally of the season occurred.

The standing to date is as follows:

	W.	L.	P.
Vincent	17	10	34
Hardill	17	10	34
Dryland	16	10	32
Scott	14	12	22
Stanbury	11	16	22
Jones	5	21	10

Army Gets 500 Miners

SYDNEY, Australia, March 6—(CP)—Five hundred young coal miners were called up for military service today when they refused to return to work. As the men prepared to leave for their training camps there was no sign of settlement of a month-old strike which has closed 10 big new South Wales mines with a loss of 160,000 tons of coal. The strike started when miners objected to a new method of digging coal in one pit.

Fire Department Has 12 Calls Over Week-end

Damage estimated at $150 was caused to the vacant Wand's sawmill at 68 Hunter street east Sunday night, when a fire set by a group of young boys broke out in the building. The Fire Department, which arrived on the scene shortly after 7.20 p. m., laid two water lines to deal with the blaze. Damage was to the structure alone, as no equipment or materials were stored in the building at the time.

In a week-end marked by numerous fires from beginning to end and extending over to this morning, considerable damage was caused to two private residences also. At 121 Morrow street, outside the city limits, the home of Wesley Rose took fire as the result of a defective chimney at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Damage in this case was put by Fire Chief George Gimblett at between $200 and $250.

Before noon today, Department facilities were stretched to the limit when two alarms one of them serious, came in almost simultaneously. At 10.48 there was a call from the home of William G. Lustic, 549 Sherbrooke street, where overheated pipes had started a blaze that eventually worked its way through a partition, with flames mounting a side-wall and going through the ceiling to the attic, before firemen's efforts were successful in extinguishing it. Two minutes later a short circuit in a radio at 346 London street F. Newell, brought in the second call. A ladder truck and pumper were sent to the Sherbrooke address, where damage was estimated to have been $100, and the other truck joined them there having first answered the London street alarm.

Chimney troubles were the cause of the following fire alarm Saturday: 3 Edgewater boulevard, J. Neary, 11:53 a.m.; 131 Rubidge street, R. Flint, 1:10 p.m.; 479 Downie, M. J. Brethour, 1:29 p.m.; 468 Cambridge, Mrs. M. Reid, 2:29 p.m. In addition there was a fire started in the stump of a tree near the C.N.R. tracks at Douro street at 7:14 p.m.

Sunday's alarms also included other calls that were caused by chimneys or overheated pipes, and these were at the following addresses: 269 McDonnel, A. Garvey, 7:22 a.m.; 466 Patterson, J. York, 1:06 p.m.; 17 Bethune, T. Menzies, at 6 o'clock.

Ennismore Man Struck By Car

Knocked down when his stalled car was struck in the rear by another automobile on Park Hill Road Sunday night, Frank Murphy R.R. 1, Ennismore received facial injuries and a scalp wound. Mona Lillow, a passenger in the other car, had several teeth broken when thrown against the wind shield by the collision.

Murphy's car had stopped in front of 172 Park Hill Road and he was endeavoring to start it with a crank when the other vehicle driven west by James Hopcroft, 704 Armour Road, collided with the back of the motionless machine, driving it forward 21 feet. Murphy who was in front of his car was knocked down and the left front wheel of his own automobile ran over him.

His wife and three small children and Gerard Leahy and Mrs. Frank Leahy, who were passengers in the Murphy car, escaped uninjured.

Both cars suffered damage from the impact.

IN MEMORIAM.

PUDSEY. — In loving memory of William Pudsey, who passed away March 5, 1943.

We cannot clasp your hand, father dear;
Your face we cannot see;
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.

—Ever remembered by his Wife and Family and Two Grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Hannah Ryon takes this opportunity of thanking the clergy, the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, and all the many friends who visited her and brought gifts during her recent illness.

them, so it is no wonder if you blunder into them and find that some girl has preempted you for her "steady" without your having the slightest desire or intention of becoming same.

If you have been carefully reading in the newspapers the accounts of the way the Japanese and the Nazis have been leaving dynamite concealed in the pages of a book or a package of cigarettes, or how booby traps have been set in abandoned helmets, or how even apparently dead enemies rise up and kill the Red Cross rescuers, it will tip you off to some of the dangers to which you are exposed. For a seemingly casual kiss may have TNT in it, and not every girl who suddenly goes lame and has to lean on a manly arm has really suffered a major injury.

So about all you can do is to play foxy and brace up your courage to say NO when the wolverines track you down and try to get you to spend the afternoon in a soft drink place dancing to the music of the jute box, instead of practising with your baseball team. Don't forget that in love, as in war, absence of body is better than presence of mind.

And to the wolverines I would say: Girls, as you are strong, be merciful. Have a heart. Give these poor boys whom you outnumber so greatly a break. Dance with each other and put in your time writing to the Boy Friend who is away, instead of hounding down the boy who is at home.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young-looking widow of 35. I am in love with a widower of 43 and desire to marry him, but my daughter, now nearly 17, objects. She claims that she is in love with this man's son, who is 16 and intends to join the army shortly. My daughter says that if I marry this man's father she will become his sister and not have a chance at him. Shall I marry this man, or yield to my dear daughter's wish?

MRS. J. M. G.

Girl Not Kin to Widower's Son

ANSWER — Your marrying your widower beau does not make your daughter any kin whatever to your son. In no way will she become his sister, and there will be no reason whatever for her and the lad not marrying if they want to do so. It is done very often.

I think you would be foolish to let your daughter keep you from making what seems to be a very advantageous marriage and in which your happiness is deeply concerned. In your case the elders should have the priority because, for one thing, at your age you are not likely to have many good chances of marrying. Also, your love is more enduring than that of a young girl. She would probably be over her attack of puppy love and in love with somebody else before the lad got home from the war anyway.

DEAR MISS DIX — When my father is away from home my mother runs around with other men, which is certainly not fair to him, nor to us children. Shall I tell him? He trusts my mother and it would just about kill him.

DISGUSTED DAUGHTER.

ANSWER—Don't tell your father, but tell your mother that you are going to tell your father unless she behaves. Perhaps the prospect of breaking up her home and losing her children will make her be more discreet.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, March 7

THE INDICATIONS for a prosperous and pleasant state of affairs are noted among the day's astral configurations. Both old and new matters should forge ahead to lucrative and gratifying culminations if pursued calmly, reasonably and with well-organized plans and decisive and practical efforts. Give serious consideration to the objectives desired, and shun impetuosity, lavish or extravagant handling of funds, and keep alert to treacherous intrigues. This also applies to the domestic, social and affectional relations, where happiness awaits worthy ideals.

Those whose birthday it is may work for the fulfilment of cherished ideas and ideals, if they will forge ahead steadily and calmly, and with well-thought-out plans and with logical and practical constructive efforts. An indulgence in impetuous, reckless, or extravagance in use of funds, or in other forms of over-generous or lavish conduct may prove frustrating. The same precaution in domestic, social and romantic associations may invite enhanced prestige, popularity and pleasant relations, but beware treacherous intrigues or duplicity.

A child born on this day will have many excellent talents and skills, with a steady and industrious tendency despite high ideals and aspirations. Money may "come easy and go easy" unless given early training in thrift.

St. John's Auxiliary Plans Amateur Night

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS).—Further details of the amateur night being sponsored on March 16, were discussed by members of St. John's Evening Auxiliary at their regular meeting Thursday afternoon. Mrs. G. N. Maxwell revealed that from ten to sixteen numbers had already been promised for the program and that other organizations in the church were giving enthusiastic co-operation.

The president, Mrs. H. Pearse, presided for the meeting and the program was in charge of Mrs. Marshall Sills, Group 2 leader. The main item was a chapter from the study book, "The Light of Knowledge," given by Miss Esma Cole. Arthur Babrash contributed a piano solo and Mrs. C. W. Turner gave a reading.

Britain's Worst Danger Over Says Churchill

LONDON, March 6 — (CP) — Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill Thursday told a luncheon of the Royal College of Physicians that his "Patient" — Britain — is no longer in mortal danger but is restive and impatient.

"I have a patient whom I have been looking after for some years, as you may know," he said, "and I am glad to be able to assure you that he is no longer in mortal danger; on that I can give you absolute assurance.

"You must not suppose that this has in any way reduced my work, on the contrary now that the greatest danger is past, my patient has reached the stage where the restiveness, fretfulness and impatience of convalescence and weariness of the long prologation of the disease, while they do not excite the same anxiety on one's breast, nevertheless require a very full measure of one's personal attention."

St. John's WMS Told About Presbyterial

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS).—The regular meeting of St. John's W.M.S. was held in the Sunday school hall on Thursday with the president, Mrs. J. D. Mills, presiding.

Mrs. Mills mentioned the following items: The clothing for the bale to be packed in May; the C.G.I.T. Tea in April; the W.M.S. Presbyterial to be held in Frankford, March 29; and the prayers for missionaries. A letter was read from Hazel I. Reesor, a missionary in Nigeria. This dealt with her experiences and work in that country.

Mrs. A. D. Bennett was appointed to arrange one number from the W.M.S. for the program to be given on amateur night, March 16, under auspices of the Evening Auxiliary.

There were forty-three ladies present and seventy-four calls reported. The devotional period was presided over by Mrs. O'Brien. Mrs. M. E. Clark offered prayer and Mrs. C. W. Turner read the Scripture lesson.

Mrs. J. O. Ralston and Mrs. P. H. MacMillan sang a beautiful duet, "Nearer Still Nearer," and the chapter of the Study Book "For All of Life" was given by Mrs O'Brien, Mrs. A. J. Armour and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm, in dialogue form, represented two returned missionaries dealing with medical missions.

Fine Frankford Man

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS).—A plea of guilty to being intoxicated in a public place cost Edwin Chard of Frankford $10 and $2.50 costs. He was picked up by Constable D. Bowen during a dance held here last Friday. Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., of Peterborough, presided in the police court sittings here Friday and this was the only case on the docket.

Status Claimed By Chiropractors

TORONTO, March 6. — A delegation from the Dominion Council of Canadian Chiropractors soon will interview members of the Federal and Ontario Cabinets in an effort to have the chiropractic profession accorded an equal place with the medical profession in the projected health insurance plans. This was announced yesterday at a conference of Associated Chiropractors and Drugless Therapists of Ontario.

Under the present plans, it was pointed out the chiropractic and other drugless therapists are excluded from participating in the health insurance schemes.

In urging recognition of the chiropractors under a health act, S. A. Schnick, Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Dominion and Ontario Chiropractic Associations, emphasized the chiropractors are not fighting for themselves as a body, but rather for the right of the people to exercise their choice of treatment under the act.

"The chiropractic profession is determined to have a place under the act so that the people may have the treatment of their own choice, whether medical or drugless," Mr. Schnick said.

A chiropractic college will be opened in Toronto in the fall of 1944, with courses equal or equivalent to those offered in the best colleges in the United States, Mr. Schnick declared.

Red Cross Society Has All-Day Quilting

YOUNG'S POINT, March 6 — (ENS) — The Young's Point Red Cross Society met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Traynor on Thursday for an all-day quilting with ten members out, when two quilts were quilted and one quilt tied-down.

Mrs. D. Darling, work convener, reported that, two weeks ago, one quilt was done at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson and that quilt blocks had been cut out at the home of Mrs. Edward Crapp. The following have been shipped to Lakefield in February: 7 quilts; 2 turtle- neck sweaters; 4 pairs service socks; 6 pairs gloves; 7 boys shirts and 1 ladies nightgown and hankie.

3 Children In River

KINGSTON, March 6 —(CP)— Bodies of three children missing since Thursday afternoon were recovered yesterday in the Cataraqui River, about 50 feet from shore. Police said they believe the three— Gery Orr, five, Gilbert Way, five, and his sister Annette, three — fell through a weak spot in ice which covered the river. A large opening was made in the ice to recover the bodies.

TORONTO, March 6—(CP)—A. E. Byrne, manager of the plastics supply department for an electric company (Canadian General Electric) said yesterday plastics will offer the public of the post-war world "something far surpassing the dream of ancient alchemists."

Audience Of One

Washington, March 6 (AP)

SENATOR William Langer (Rep.-N.D.) was delivering a lengthy address in the Senate Chamber recently when he recalled an error in the Congressional Record and said it should be altered. Senator John A. Damaher (Rep.-Conn.) interrupted: "Was it the senator's intention to ask unanimous consent to correct the record?" "That's right," said Langer. "Then I ask that it be noted," said Damaher, "I have no objections." That made it unanimous. He was Langer's entire audience at the time.

The death of Shirley Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Richardson, 645 Aylmer treet, occurred early Sunday morning at the Freeport Sanitorium in Kitchener, where she had been during the past six months. She was in her 22nd year.

Born in Peterborough, she attended the Queen Alexandra Public School and the Collegite here. She was also president of the senior girls basketball team. In 1941 she entered Toronto Western Hospi- G. A. A. in 1940 and played on the serior girls basketball team. In 1941 she entered Toronot Western Hospital for training and had served there two years. A member of George Street United Church, while in Peterborough, she was interested in the Young Peoples work of the church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing father and mother, her grandmother living in Barrie, and three brothers; LAC. Richardson at Uplands, and Morris and Donald at home.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Belleghem Funeral home, 190 Hunter St., west. Rev. H. L. Roberts of George Street United Church will be the officiating clergyman, assisted by Dr. J. E. Todd of St. Clair United Church, Toronto. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

WILLIAM JOHN ALLEN.

William John Allen, formerly of Peterborough and a farmer in Otonabee up until about 30 years ago when he moved out West, died recently in St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver. The funeral was held from St. Augustine's Church, where requiem mass was sung by Rev. L. A. Lamonection, to Calvary Section, Ocean View Cemetery, Vancouver, for burial.

Mr. Allen, who was born in Peterborough the son of the late Robert Allen and Lizzie MacDonald, is survived by four brothers and three sisters; Joseph R. of Haselton, B.C., Edmond of Seattle, and Augustine and Leo of Vancouver; Mrs. William Young, Turlock, Cal., Sister Sothonia of the Sisters of the Providence, Vancouver, and Miss Stasia Allen, also of Vancouver.

HERBERT STEWART WARR

The death of Herbert Stewart Warr, 49, occurred on Friday after a lengthy illness at his home, 100 Maitland street, Toronto. Born in Cannington the son of the late Frederick Warr and Mary Hogg, he had lived near Westwood most of his life, moving to Toronto five years ago. A brother, Sidney Warr of Westwood, survives.

Funeral service will be held this afternoon at 2.30 at the residence of his brother in Westwood, with Rev. J. E. Glover of Hastings United Church officiating. Interment Westwood cemetery.

WILLIAM JAMES BAIN

William James Bain, formerly of Yelverton and Lindsay, died suddenly in his 92nd year at 169 Fern avenue, Toronto, Sunday. The body rests at the Thompson Burial Co., 252 Dupont street, near Spadina road, for service Tuesday at 2 p.m. Interment in Park Lawn cemetery.

MRS. NORAH O'BRIEN.

The funeral of Mrs. Norah O'Brien of Douro, who died recently in St. Joseph's Hospital, was held from the residence of her niece, Mrs. Victor Kennedy, and was largely attended by citizens of Douro, Asphodel and Peterborough.

Requiem mass was offered by Rev. J. J. McCarthy. Very Rev. Monsignor F. J. O'Sullivan and Rev. Joseph Lynch were present in the sanctuary.

The late Mrs. O'Brien was predeceased by her husband, Phillip O'Brien, many years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, her daughter, Reverend Sister M. St. Maurice; one sister, Mrs. Margaret O'Leary, Peterborough, and two brothers, Andrew and Neil Quinlan, Asphodel, and one niece, Mrs. Victor Kennedy, to whom many spiritual and floral tributes were offered by the sorrowing relatives, friends and neighbors.

Interment took place in St. Joseph's Cemetery, burial services being offered by Reverend Father McCarthy.

Casket bearers were Victor Kennedy, James McCormick, Ambrose Quinlan, William Quinlan, Jeremiah Mahoney and Thomas Quinlan.

MUST TAKE SOME OUT

VULNERABILITY is the guide to taking out some business doubles, or leaving them in. If the opponent is vulnerable and you are not, it is better to leave the double in and beat him a couple of tricks than to make a game of your own. But if he is not vulnerable, you would have to defeat him four tricks to score more than the value of a vulnerable game for your own side. Do some estimating before deciding to leave in a business double. Don't merely pass, as the cartoonists seem to advise.

1.	1♦	1♥	Dbl
2.	1♦	1♥	Dbl	Pass
	2♣	Pass	2♠	Pass
	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Bidding actually done on this rubber bridge deal is shown in the No. 1 sequence, where North's business double was left in by South. Gingerly defense enabled the defenders to beat the contract two tricks, worth only 300 points to them. Carelessness on their part could have enabled West to limit his losses to down one, if they ever let him get into the dummy to use his diamond K for a discard. As it was, they scored three tricks in spades, two in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs.

North gave South a lesson on leaving in doubles, after the play was over. He insisted South should have taken out the double, in view of the vulnerability and the fact that a slam was in sight. No slam could have been made, but a game could have been made with probably two extra tricks, depending on how the play went. The game could have been bid easily, by the method shown in the second sequence, after North showed his great strength by ability to make a business double at the range of a one bid.

Counting a non-vulnerable game as roughly worth a bit over 400 points and a vulnerable one as worth something over 600, you can gauge how big a set must be to be more advisable, when your opponents are vulnerable and when they are not vulnerable.

Limit Supplies For Months After The War

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—Federal officials hate to puncture rosy dreams about the post-war days, but sometimes they have to face facts. And one is, they say, that victory over the Axis powers does not automatically mean all the controls over prices, supplies and so on will disappear at once.

The Prices Board, for instance, takes its authority from the War Measures Act which gives wide emergency powers to the government and lapses six months after the war ends. But the prospects are that it simply will not be possible to abandon controls in as short a period as six months. Supplies will still be limited, and if anyone is allowed to bid what he likes for anything in scarce supply there can be a burst of inflation as wild as anything the war might have seen if there had been no price ceiling.

There's something on the other side, too. The government has said it will place floor prices under agricultural prices, and that looks as if there will have to be arrangements for subsidies and price guarantees like those made effective by the Prices Board today—again under the Emergency Wartime Powers.

Courtesies: A courtly, old-world turn of phrase is used by War Services Minister LaFleche when he speaks in the House. But, sometimes, the opposition is not very sure whether a barb is hidden in these same kind words.

The other night Hon. H. A. Bruce (PC—Parkdale) was following the Minister's words attentively.

"Let me say to my honorable friend who does me the honor of looking at me at this moment that there are many excellent men in Toronto," said Gen. LaFleche.

Dr. Bruce has exchanged many verbal blows with the government benches; but he had no comment to make on the suggestion that he honored them by looking at them.

Air Route: When Munitions Minister Howe announced in the House that Canada is to carry the whole cost of Northwestern Air-Route development he mentioned that the Edmonton-Alaska northwest staging route is "the main artery for air traffic between the United States and Alaska, and beyond Alaska to Northeastern Asia."

The Minister made clear that Canada seeks co-operation with other nations in post-war commercial aviation, but Ottawa opinion is that Canadian planes will fly towards the Orient as well as Europe when the war is done, probably passing along the string of northwestern airfields spotted by pioneer bush pilots in the 30's.

The men who first flew regular services through the mountains to Yukon Territory never thought they had reached trail's end and had the war not intervened there might be Edmonton-Shanghai air services in operation today.

Canadian Drivers Good Record On Italian Front

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, March 6 — (CP) — Odds and ends about Canadians in Italy:

It's no exaggeration to say Canadian lorry and transport drivers are the best in Italy. They were carefully trained in England and have kept all their good-driving habits. In the Mediterranean theatre, they have gone back to driving on the right after months on the left in Britain.

Canadian convoys in the war area are neat-looking and fast-moving. Traffic accidents are at a minimum. The drivers are signal-conscious and habitually give the other driver as much room as possible. Whenever a convoy halts, a man leaps out and takes up a station to guide passing traffic. There is a man opposite every vehicle indicating whether the road beyond is clear, if there's traffic approaching from the opposite direction, if the road on is good or bad.

Safety leagues in Canada would take their hats off to Canadian Army drivers and their road conduct.

The Canadians salute the British Tommy for his courage and discipline. The Tommies are regarded as men who will tackle anything. They've an easygoing air which is deceiving and a mild manner which belies their fighting qualities and staying powers.

When an important move is under way, the British clamp down a road control system which permits them to move unheard of quantities of motor transport over restricted road facilities.

All around, what the British seem to lack in dash, they make up in patient organization, endurance, and inexhaustible pluck.

A soldier has to make the acquaintance of dozens of the battle sounds before he can comfortably restrict his ducking to the bare minimum.

Our shellfire and German shellfire each has its own distinctive series of sounds. Shells coming your way or going somebody else's sound differently. The German machine-gun can be recognized easily by its rapid chatter. It seems to be about three times as fast as a Bren-gun or a Tommy which also can be identified without difficulty.

The explosion of a German mortar bomb likewise has its individual sound and so have the cough-like muzzle explosions of our mortars. The whine of shrapnel through the air likewise has its own discomforting note. So have snipers' bullets.

Montreal Man Twice Awarded Military Cross

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, March 6.—(CP).—Paul Lieven of Montreal, is back in London now as a major, with a string of ribbons on his tunic and plans to share in the western invasion, even after all the frontline action he has seen in North Africa and the Dodecanese.

Maj. Lieven won the Military Cross in North Africa and won it again—the Bar to the M.C.—for his part in the defence of Leros. He wears the ribbon of the African Star and the Canadian Volunteer Medal as well. From every angle he's quite a warrior and was among the first Canadians to win double decorations this war.

With Commandos.

He doesn't look the hero type. He could pass for a behind-the-desk staff officer somewere in a London headquarters, but he's anything but that. He's 36, a big, heavy man who you'd think would have trouble leaping from an assault craft. But he went in with the first wave of British Commandos in Africa and prowled around with the same Commandos for months on the Tunisian front.

He was wounded there, came back to England, and then was assigned to the Middle East, still with the British army to which he was attached from the Canadian army for special duty more than 1½ years ago.

In September he flew to Kos in the Dodecanese with British troops, the lone Canadian army man on the ill-fated Aegean operation. The Germans bombed the island unmercifully and Lieven was ordered to Leros, where another British force was heavily attacked by the Germans in November, which finally led to the island's surrender.

Lieven said the British forces would have held the island if it had not been for the overwhelming German mastery of the air. He himself was slightly wounded in one bombing but carried on.

All In Front Line.

In the final stages of the battle the Germans attacked British headquarters and here Lieven shared in heavy fighting, in which every staff officer was in the front line.

'The Navy had received orders to leave and offered to take me along but as they could not take the other officers and men with me I thought it was my duty to remain and try to get them all out if I could, Lieven said.

"We made our way across the island—three officers and about 25 oter ranks—and came to a small bay. I hoped to find a caique there but they had all been taken by Italians who'd cleared out ahead of us. Finally we did find an Italian assault craft but there was no crew. Eventually by persuasion we got some Italian stragglers who knew how to operate the craft to come with us and we sailed at midnight in bright moonlight. We were bombed by German aircraft as well as shelled from the shore.

After a while at sea we managed to link up with the Royal Navy, who escorted us safely to Alexandria.'

Ration Board Ready To Give Out Books

HAVELOCK, March 6—(ENS)—A meeting of the Local Ration Board was held this week in the Council Chamber to discuss the isuing of the new ration books. In the absence of Reeve E. W. Seeney, Richard Sanderson was appointed chairman.

The main item of discussion was the distribution of Ration Book 4 in the week from March 27 to April 1. When suitable arrangements as to dates, hours and places of distribution have been made, they will be published in the Hastings Star, Norwood Register, Peterborough Examiner, and Havelock Standard. The following distributing chiefs and receiving deputies were appointed: Cordova Mines, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Barrons; Westwood, Mrs. J. Thompson; Trent River, Mrs. Harry Mann; Warsaw, Alexander Rose and H. Edwards; Hastings, Lewis Kelly and Mrs. W. Fowlds; Havelock, Mrs. C. Price and Mrs. D. McMillan; Norwood, B. Squire, R Ferguson and W. Dean.

More U-Boat Action

A NORTHERN IRELAND PORT, March 6—(CP Cable)—Intensified submarine warfare likely will be Germany's last gamble to win the war, Vice Admiral Percy W. Nelles said here yesterday, and the senior Canadian naval officer in Britain added that R.C.N. ships would be present to help thwart such an effort.

Wrong Addressing Delays Overseas Mail

Some indication of where the trouble may lie in reported cases of long-delayed delivery of mail to servicemen overseas may be found in the Post Office announcement that during 1943 well over a quarter of a million letters alone, due to carelessness or oversight in addressing, had to be set aside until members of the postal corps could take time to fill in the gaps or otherwise correct the address in order that the letter might be forwarded to the proper destination. This was the total out of 29,000,000 lbs. of mail despatched overseas by the Base Post Office last year, it was said.

In addition, over 1,300,000 items of ordinary domestic mail reached the Dead Letter Office from the same cause, and this at a time when the resources of the entire postal system are strained as never before to cope efficiently with wartime problems, when every minute must be made to count.

These figures, the Post Office says, attest to the need for co-operation on the part of the general public to prevent delay and loss.

G. Richardson Of Warkworth Paratrooper, War Casualty

WARKWORTH, March 6—(ENS)—Mrs. Violet D. Richardson received official word from Ottawa, Thursday night that her youngest son, Staff Sergeant Garnet Cecil (Garnie) Richardson, a paratrooper, was killed in action February 9.

At the beginning of the war he enlisted in the First Midland Regiment and trained at Ottawa, St. Johns, N.B., Niagara-on-the-Lake, Edmonton and Prince Rupert and it was from the latter place that he transferred to the special service force.

Following this he trained at Helena, Montana; Norfolk, Virginia, and Fort Ethen Allen, Vermont. During August of this year he served at Kiska. He spent two short leaves in Septmber and one in October with his mother, who was at that time in Kingston. His American uniform was well covered with insignias—a metal Canada badge on right lapel, crossed arrows to signify scout training on the left, the crown and three stripes of his rank on both sleeves, a metal parachute and wing combination atop a red, white and blue patch on the left front, a red white and blue lanyards shoulder cord, an arrow-shaped red sleeve patch on which were the words 'United States' and Canada.

He was born in Campbellford November 27, 1921, but most of his life, with the exception of a short time in Kingston and Toronto, he lived in Warkworth and vicinity. eH attended public school in this village and while in Toronto, Malvern Collegiate. He was always proud of the fact that he came from a family of military men. His father, Dan Richardson, who passed away in 1922, was mentioned in dispatches during the war of 1914-18 and his uncle, Lieut. Joseph Richardson, who lost his life in the same war, was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal and his grandfather, Thomas Richardson, served in the Northwest Rebellion.

Besides his sorrowing mother, who is at present with the Genelco cafeteria staff in Peterborough, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Elmer Treen, aWrkworth, and two brothers, Cpl. Gordon Richardson with the Canadian Army overseas and Stewart, of Kingston.

GOOD SAMARITAN—This is Prince Stevano Borghese, scion of an ancient Italian family, who opened his 14,000-acre farm to the 10,000 Italian civilians ejected from the towns of Anzio and Nettuno by the Nazis, when the German high command decided to make these resorts, rest centres for German soldiers. Landing of the Allies in that area upset the German plans. Prince Borghese is now mayor of Anzio and Nettuno with the blessing of the Allied military government.

4 Warships Sunk Off Anzio

LONDON, March 7—(CP).—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced today that the cruisers Spartan and Penelope, the destroyers Janus and Inglefield, and five "major assault vessels" are the price the Royal Navy has so far paid for establishment and maintenance of the 5th Army's beachhead south of Rome. Loss of the Penelope was announced by the Admiralty today. Loss of the other cruiser and the two destroyers had been announced previously.

Alexander also announced that shipping losses in Allied convoys ran less than one in 1,000 during the second half of 1943.

Introducing the Navy estimates in the House of Commons, the First Lord made the disclosure which dramatically illustrated progress in winning the war against German undersea and air raiders.

"In 1941 one ship was lost out of every 181 that sailed," he said. "In 1942 one out of every 233; in 1943 one out of every 344."

He said that the "average (loss) for the last eight months is also below the level of 1918," the final year of the First Great War, when the U.-Boat at last had been whipped after it had shoved the Allies

U.S. Subs May Deliver Killing Blow In Pacific

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific Fleet, reported today on his return to Washington for a series of conferences that (1) American forces have occupied the Majuro Atoll in the Marshall Islands and (2) U.S. submarines may deliver the killing blow in the Pacific.

U.S. troops encountered no opposition when they invaded Majuro, once a German supply base, the Admiral told a press conference. They found no Japanese on the atoll, he said, adding that the little island will provide American forces with a good anchorage and advance position in the mid-Pacific Marshalls.

As for the work of American submarines, the Pacific commander said they "are taking such a heavy toll of Japanese shipping that lack of shipping may soon be the controlling factor in what Japan is able to do."

"Our submarines are increasing in number and not decreasing in efficiency, even though the number of targets is slowly decreasing," he added.

Nimitz warned at the same time against discounting the importance of Japanese submarines.

He repeated naval assertions that the Pacific Fleet would welcome a major engagement with the Japanese navy.

"It would be to our advantage," he said, "to have an early encounter with the Japanese fleet, because we are prepared to meet them. It would be disastrous for their overseas communications if we could fight an early engagement and they lost a good part of their fleet. My idea is that they are preserving their fleet as long as possible."

Asked about the failure of the enemy fleet to appear in any force, Nimitz replied that "they've got a pretty big area to take care of."

Japanese Raids Are Beaten Off

NEW DELHI, March 7—(CP)—British troops operating in Western Burma have beaten off two Japanese raids on their main front west of the Mayu range, Allied Headquarters announced to-day. Severe casualties were inflicted and the British troops staged a successful raid south of Maungdaw.

Patrol clashes also were reported in the Kaladan Valley and South of the Chin Hills. Enemy opposition has increased in the Kaladan Valley.

In North Burma American and Chinese troops, exploiting the capture of Walawbum and Maingkwan, are mapping up Japanese units, and a Japanese attempt to cross the Nambyn river has been thrown back with heavy losses, the communique said.

The Americans, first U. S. ground troops to fight on the Asiatic continent, took Walawbum, 10 miles southeast of Maingkwam, and Chinese forces seized Maingkwan, chief village of the Hukawng Valley and Japanese artillery strongpoint.

New Troops Land On Los Negros

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 7.—(AP).—United States troops pushed ahead Sunday toward Japanese positions and inevitable new jungle abttles to drive the enemy from strategic Los Negros Island of the Admiralty group in the Bismarck sea—a military campaign similar to the Guadalcanal invasion.

Allied forces had a tight grip on Momote airdrome, which they seized after their daring landing Feb. 29, and have defended it against fierce attacks that cost the Japanese 3,000 killed and wounded in less than a week.

Their new move put the Americans across a lagoon north of Momote airfield and gave them a foothold on a seven mile long peninsula forming the northern neck of Los Negros Island.

By-passing a lot of rough jungle along the north-east New Guinea coast, units of the U.S. 32nd Division made an amphibious landing behind Japanese positions and established themselves 30 miles west of Saidor. This puts them in the rear of Japanese blocking the road to Madang. The Madang area was heavily bombed.

WITH ALLIED BEACHHEAD FORCES, Anzio, March 7 (CP-Reuters)—For a week during the Germans' first heavy attack against the Anzio beachhead a British force of 172 men was strung out along two miles of the permimeter defences, it has been disclosed.

Men of the 1st Reconnaissance Regiment, these troops unaccustomed to infantry fighting held off at least two German battalions and their defensive fighting was cited as a big factor in repelling the Nazi thrust.

"During the days of desperate fighting in the Carroceto area fire parties of the regiment saved the situation time and again," a colonel related. "Once rushing up in armored cars the 'Recces' saved a reserve company and battalion headquarters."

Fiji Islanders Wipe Out Jap Garrisons

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, March 7—(AP).—The score now stands at 125 Japanese killed to one Fijian dead and two wounded.

That was the way Lt.-Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of army forces in the South Pacific, disclosed today the presence of Fiji Islanders in the fight to drive the Japanese off Bougainville Island.

The stealth and courage of the tall black men is becoming something of a legend on Bougainville's dense jungles.

Sensational Action.

Their most sensational action involved a platoon commanded by 2nd Lieut. Bruce Bent, of Timaru, New Zealand.

The patrol's vanguard encountered sniper fire from trees so the Fijians deployed and silenced the enemy. Their fire aroused Japanese in a nearby village who tried to escape, but were caught in the patrol's crossfire. Bent ordered the warriors to cease fire and lie low. Presently, the Japanese thought their attackers had retired and cautiously returned to the village, whereupon the Fijians opened up again and wiped out practically the entire force.

Tossed Grenades Into Hut.

Pte. Jolame Ratu, a Fijian schoolboy warrior, crept into the village and tossed grenades into a hut believed to have been the Japanese headquarters.

On another occasion, a native lieutenant, famed for his rugby prowess, crept within 25 feet of a Japanese machine-gun position and watched the enemy camp for 40 minutes. When he turned to leave, he discovered his entire platoon had followed and were watching. They withdrew, laid attack plans and returned to wipe out 25 Japanese who were doing their laundry.

Recently the Fijians carved a small airport out of the jungle for their cub spotter planes which keep the Fiji outposts on the east coast of Bougainville informed of enemy movements.

The Fiji battalion now is commanded by Maj. Geofrey T. Upton, Cambridge University graduate and former London Daily Telegraph journalist.

Spring Thaws Worry Master Minds

Soviet Slowdown Is Likely To Increase Nazis Move To Italy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP).—Reports of early spring thaws on the Russian front caused fresh concern here today over the Allied campaign in Italy.

Any Soviet slowdown might enable the Germans to throw new divisions into the Italian fighting, in which the Allies have encountered fierce resistance ever since their initial landings last September.

The situation is not considered urgently critical, which is to say that prospects for progress in Italy are better at the moment than they have been in the recent past. But much cause for concern remains, in the opinion of competent judges, with the present danger being the danger of stalemate.

Results of Stalemate.

Stalemate would mean:

1. No advance on the main front-line and no expansion of the Anzio beachhead.

2. Failure to reap the political rewards of the capture of Rome, which appear to have prompted the Anzio assault in the first place.

3. The men on the beachhead would be placed in an almost intolerable position, with the sea at their backs and German artillery, capable of sweeping the entire area, on three sides.

Toward these ends, it is expected the Germans will reinforce and supply their armies down the boot every time changed military conditions elsewhere allow.

Settler's Wife Given Pencillin

SUDBURY, March 7—(CP).—A Northern Ontario settler's wife today was given a good chance to live after 600,000 units of penicillin valued at $10,000 had been administered to her as doctors fought to defeat septicemia, disease which attacked her following the birth of her second child.

Mrs. Harry Halverson, 22, was rushed to hospital here from her home in the Northern Ontario bush country 10 miles from the village of Verner on February 1. For three weeks sulfa drugs were given but her condition grew worse.

An appeal to the Banting Institute in Toronto brought the 600,000 units of penicillin, absolutely free. The drug—a teaspoon and a half of it—was supplied "for investigation and research purposes only" and marked the first time it had been used here.

The penicillin was administered at the rate of 160,000 units daily, diluted with water by intravenous feeding the first two days. Mrs. Halverson rallied as her fever abated, and for the last four days the injection method was followed and her condition improved steadily.

Dr. J. V. Menard said he had every expectation that the woman's recovery would be complete.

ALGIERS, March 7—(AP)—Gen. Henri Giraud, star defence witness in the treason trial of Pierre Pucheu, former Vichy interior minister, confirmed on the witness stand today two points in Pucheu's testimony and declared the trial should be postponed because "proofs are lacking here in North Africa".

The Commander-in-Chief of the French Army confirmed Pucheu's statement that he endeavoured, prior to the Allied landings in North Africa, to persuade Marshal Petain to drop his policy of collaboration with Hitler, and that he came to North Africa at Giraud's invitation.

Red Army Pushes Its Drive Within 60 Miles Of Rumania Last Railway Line Is Severed

New Russian Offensive Is Taking Enormous Toll Of German Manpower Nazi Army To South Is Threatened

LONDON, March 7—(CP).—Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army is swarming across the Odessa-Lwow-Warsaw railway in a sharp thrust toward the Rumanian frontier after severing the last westward rail connections for the German forces battling in Southern Russia, Moscow dispatches said today.

The vital Odessa-Lwow-Warsaw trunk line has been breached for a distance of 18 miles between Volochisk and Narkevichi, a Russian communique declared, and it was through this gap that Red Army columns were reported racing toward Rumania, threatening the entrapment of great masses of German troops already partially isolated to the south.

60 Miles From Rumania.

Flanges of the Russian drive were reaching out for the rail junction of Tarnopol, 30 miles west of Volochisk, and 11 miles southwest of Zarazh, another of the 200 towns and hamlets taken from the Germans yesterday. The important rail and industrial city of Lwow lies 70 miles west of Tarnopol and is the hub of six other rail lines, including the trunk line of Cernauti, Rumania.

The new Russian offensive, which was launched Saturday, is taking an enormous toll of German manpower and material, the Moscow bulletin said, reporting that one Red Army formation alone killed 4,000 Nazi officers and men in a single day's fighting.

RCAF Bombers Strike Railway Centre

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 7 (CP Cable)—The great railroad yards at Trappes, France, a strategic German transport centre, were all obliterated last night as heavy bombers, including at least eight squadrons of the Canadian bomber group, dropped tons of explosives.

The raiders met minimum opposition. Canadian bombers made up a large part of the force and included the Bluenose, Bison, Iroquois, Alouette, Lion, Ghost, Moose and Snowy Owl squadrons. Scores of other Canadians flew with the R.A.F. All said explosions dotted the entire target area after pathfinder flares lighted up the yards from which the Germans could rush anti-invasion reinforcements.

Very Easy Trip

PO. Louis Renaud of Montreal, member of the Alouette squadron, said it was "an extremely easy trip, no fighters, no flak, no searchlights."

His midupper gunner, PO. Claud Turner, of Paris, France, said, "It seemed very queer bombing my own country but I knew it was for the liberation of France."

PO. Tommy Cooper of Brantford, Ont., a Lion pilot, said one heavy flak gun indicated the target perfectly.

"We just headed in the direction of the gun," he said. "The railway tracks and vans were seen clearly along with heavy flashes on the ground as the bombs struck.

Canadian Soldiers Are Proud Of Deeds Of Major Triquet

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, March 7—(CP Cable).—Canadian soldiers in Italy learned with pride Monday that Maj. Paul Triquet of the Royal 22nd Regiment, whose inspired leadership changed the course of the Moro Valley battle last December, has been awarded the Victoria Cross.

It was the first time in history that the Empire's highest award for valor had been made to a living French-speaking Canadian. Several were awarded posthumously in the last war. Maj. Triquet too was the first soldier of the famous British 8th Army to win this decoration since last April.

Letter From Commander.

"The action for which this honor is bestowed will inspire all Canadians, particularly those of French descent," the Canadian corps' commander (Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar) said in a letter to Triquet, a native of Cabano, Que.

"It is a great thing to have been the first Canadian soldier in this campaign to receive the most coveted military decoration of the British Empire, and I am sure your name and deed will be long remembered in our homeland. May you live long to wear the Victoria Cross you so gallantly won."

At his headquarters in a shell-torn town near the battlefront the Colonel commanding the Royal 22nd echoed his corps commander's sentiments in differeng words.

"It's terrific," he said. "It's a wonderful thing for Triquet, for the regiment, for Canada."

The Colonel had learned only a few hours before that the award had come through and had not advised his men. He later summoned company commanders together to let them share in spreading through the regiment what he called "this wonderful news."

Maj. Triquet himself is in hospital, victim of his own devotion to duty. Never content with carrying the normal tasks of officer, he worked himself into a state of nervous exhaustion.

Ordered To Hospital.

"He wouldn't rest," the Colonel said, "and finally I had to order him to hospital. He didn't want to go but I insisted for he was exhausted."

(Defence Headquarters at Ottawa last night announced that Triquet had been slightly wounded last Jan. 8 and that he remained on duty until Feb. 12, when a recurrence of his wound forced him to leave the battlefield for treatment.)

After the recommendation for the award went in with accompanying testimonials from divisional and brigade commanders and soldiers who survived the fight, it seemed as though Triquet might be fated not to receive the award. A house was struck by shells while he was in it, but he was not harmed.

Army Officer Goes Beserk

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 7—(AP)—Two girls and a policeman were slain and five other persons were wounded yesterday at nearby Camp Anza by a 31-year-old army officer before police bullets injured the assailant, the camp commander reported. A military board of inquiry is seeking to establish the motive for the shootings.

Killed when 2nd Lt. Beaufort G. Swancutt, of La Crosse, Wis., suddenly cut loose with a .45-calibre army automatic Sunday night, said Col. Earle R. Earles, camp commander, were:—

Miss Dorothy Douglas, 18, of Long Beach, Calif.

Miss Loudine Livermore, 18, of Long Beach.

Arthur B. Simpson, 34, a Riverside police radio patrolman.

The camp commander and witnesses thus described the affray:—

Swancutt, his friend, 2nd Lt. Harry J. Light, and the two girls were sitting in the Camp Anza officers' club about 10:30 p.m. playing cards. Suddenly Swancutt rose from his chair, drew his side arm and quickly shot Miss Douglas and Miss Livermore in the chest and Lieut. Light in the hand and leg.

Another bullet struck the leg of Lieut. Aldace Minard, 25, of Pomona, Calif., who was passing.

From East and West Allies Strike Hard

Great Gap Is Ripped In Germany's Eastern Defences While Bombs Shatter Cities

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Yesterday was a blue Monday on Hitler's calendar as great Allied offensives tore into him from both sides in the climatic campaigns of the war.

Both Russia and the western allies continued to push the all highest beyond his limits. The U.S.A. again demonstrated her growing aerial might in a terrific drive which shook the foundations of an already shattered Berlin, and Britain's air force last night strewed death and destruction over a wide area.

The detonations of the Allied block-busters more or less tell their own story. The Muscovites' fresh master stroke in the southern Ukraine, however, is a bit complicated and attention is invited to come of the most beautifully-developed strategies of the war.

The fresh development is that Marshal Zhukov's new southwestward offensive has ripped a great gap in the vital Lwow-Odessa railroad at the junction of Volochisk, just east of Tarnopol. This means that Zhukov has severed Hitler's life-line to Odessa and the Dnieper Bend area. That road was the last important communication left to the Nazi dictator in this area.

With the Lwow-Odessa railroad cut, German Marshal Von Mannstein is in a tough spot. He may be forced to pull his south Ukrainian armies back to the Bessarabian border. His communications with the fatherland then would be via the roundabout route through Rumania. Ultimately he would have to retreat into that Balkan state.

This is exactly the position for which the Red staff has been manoeuvring for long weeks, ever since the Russians consolidated their hold on recaptured Kiev Using Kiev as a pivotal base, they started the westward drive which has thrust a spearhead into the heart of pre-war Poland.

As that steadily-growing column extended into enemy territory, the Muscovites kept shooting sickle-like offensives out of it to the south. These fast moving hooks gathered in large bodies of Nazis and annihilated them.

From the beginning the Red aim had been the same—to slash the Lwow-Odessa railroad far to the west and compel Von Mannstein to face about and fight with his back to the Balkans.

Von Mannstein has known what was happening to him. He's been doing a suicide political job for Hitler. The Rumanian gateway to the Balkans had to be protected at all hazards. A breach of that gateway would mean an explosion of the Balkan peninsula, and southeastern Europe thus would be lost to Germany.

Just take a look at that long, finger-like Nazi salient which extends eastward into the Russia-held territory of the Dnieper Bend. Within the bend there were at one time some 800,000 German troops. These Red hooks which have reached down from the north have annihilated many, but there still are strong Hitlerian forces hanging on. Other Nazis are clinging to the Crimea,

Marriage For Rehabilitation

Government Dowry Suggested For CWAC Members

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP)—J. O. Perdue, chairman of the Canadian Legion Rehabilitation Committee in Ottawa, speaking last night to 400 C.W.A.C.'s said the best form of rehabilitation for the majority of ex-service women was marriage. Mr. Perdue suggested that a government dowry be provided to take care of expenses which marriage involves.

Mr. Perdue explained that the rehabilitation of an ex-service woman was a different problem in many ways than that of an ex-service man. "The vast majority would no doubt prefer a home and children to a career. "I am old-fashioned enough" said Mr. Perdue, "to believe that the woman's peacetime place is still in the home and that they can serve the nation better there than in industry."

Spring Thaws Worry Master Minds

Soviet Slowdown Is Likely To Increase Nazis Move To Italy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP).—Reports of early spring thaws on the Russian front caused fresh concern here today over the Allied campaign in Italy.

Any Soviet slowdown might enable the Germans to throw new divisions into the Italian fighting, in which the Allies have encountered fierce resistance ever since their initial landings last September.

The situation is not considered urgently critical, which is to say that prospects for progress in Italy are better at the moment than they have been in the recent past. But much cause for concern remains, in the opinion of competent judges, with the present danger being the danger of stalemate.

Results of Stalemate.

Stalemate would mean:

1. No advance on the main frontline and no expansion of the Anzio beachhead.

2. Failure to reap the political rewards of the capture of Rome, which appear to have prompted the Anzio assault in the first place.

3. The men on the beachhead would be placed in an almost intolerable position, with the sea at their backs and German artillery, capable of sweeping the entire area, on three sides.

Toward these ends, it is expected the Germans will reinforce and supply their armies down the boot every time changed military conditions elsewhere allow.

Settler's Wife Given Pencillin

SUDBURY, March 7—(CP). — A Northern Ontario settler's wife today was given a good chance to live after 600,000 units of penicillin valued at $10,000 had been administered to her as doctors fought to defeat septicemia, disease which attacked her following the birth of her second child.

Mrs. Harry Halverson, 22, was rushed to hospital here from her home in the Northern Ontario bush country 10 miles from the village of Verner on February 1. For three weeks sulfa drugs were given but her condition grew worse.

An appeal to the Banting Institute in Toronto brought the 600,000 units of penicillin, absolutely free. The drug—a teaspoon and a half of it—was supplied "for investigation and research purposes only" and marked the first time it had been used here.

The penicillin was administered at the rate of 160,000 units daily, diluted with water by intravenous feeding the first two days. Mrs. Halverson rallied as her fever abated, and for the last four days the injection method was followed and her condition improved steadily.

Dr. J. V. Menard said he had every expectation that the woman's recovery would be complete.

Giraud Defends Action Of Pierre Pucheu

BY JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, March 7 — (AP) — Gen. Henri Giraud, star defence witness in the treason trial of Pierre Pucheu, former Vichy interior minister, confirmed on the witness stand today two points in Pucheu's testimony and declared the trial should be postponed because "proofs are lacking here in North Africa".

The Commander-in-Chief of the French Army confirmed Pucheu's statement that he endeavoured, prior to the Allied landings in North Africa, to persuade Marshal Petain to drop his policy of collaboration with Hitler, and that he came to North Africa at Giraud's invitation.

Red Army Pushes Its Drive Within 60 Miles Of Rumania Last Railway Line Is Severed

LONDON, March 7—(CP).—Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army is swarming across the Odessa-Lwow-Warsaw railway in a sharp thrust toward the Rumanian frontier after severing the last westward rail connections for the German forces battling in Southern Russia, Moscow dispatches said today.

The vital Odessa - Lwow-Warsaw trunk line has been breached for a distance of 18 miles between Volochisk and Narkevichi, a Russian communique declared, and it was through this gap that Red Army columns were reported racing toward Rumania, threatening the entrapment of great masses of German troops already partially isolated to the south.

60 Miles From Rumania.

Flanges of the Russian drive were reaching out for the rail junction of Tarnopol, 30 miles west of Volochisk, and 11 miles southwest of Zarazh, another of the 200 towns and hamlets taken from the Germans yesterday. The important rail and industrial city of Lwow lies 70 miles west of Tarnopol and is the hub of six other rail lines, including the trunk line of Cernauti, Rumania.

The new Russian offensive, which was launched Saturday, is taking an enormous toll of German manpower and material, the Moscow bulletin said, reporting that one Red Army formation alone killed 4,000 Nazi officers and men in a single day's fighting.

RCAF Bombers Strike Railway Centre

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 7 (CP Cable)—The great railroad yards at Trappes, France, a strategic German transport centre, were all obliterated last night as heavy bombers, including at least eight squadrons of the Canadian bomber group, dropped tons of explosives.

The raiders met minimum opposition. Canadian bombers made up a large part of the force and included the Bluenose, Bison, Iroquois, Alouette, Lion, Ghost, Moose and Snowy Owl squadrons. Scores of other Canadians flew with the R.A.F. All said explosions dotted the entire target area after pathfinder flares lighted up the yards from which the Germans could rush anti-invasion reinforcements.

Very Easy Trip

PO. Louis Renaud of Montreal, member of the Alouette squadron, said it was "an extremely easy trip, no fighters, no flak, no searchlights."

His midupper gunner, FO. Claud Turner, of Paris, France, said, "It seemed very queer bombing my own country but I knew it was for the liberation of France."

FO. Tommy Cooper of Brantford, Ont., a Lion pilot, said one heavy flak gun indicated the target perfectly.

"We just headed in the direction of the gun," he said. "The railway tracks and vans were seen clearly along with heavy flashes on the ground as the bombs struck.

Canadian Soldiers Are Proud Of Deeds Of Major Triquet

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, March 7—(CP Cable).—Canadian soldiers in Italy learned with pride Monday that Maj. Paul Triquet of the Royal 22nd Regiment, whose inspired leadership changed the course of the Moro Valley battle last December, has been awarded the Victoria Cross.

It was the first time in history that the Empire's highest award for valor had been made to a living French-speaking Canadian. Several were awarded posthumously in the last war. Maj. Triquet too was the first soldier of the famous British 8th Army to win this decoration since last April.

Letter From Commander.

"The action for which this honor is bestowed will inspire all Canadians, particularly those of French descent," the Canadian corps commander (Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar) said in a letter to Triquet, a native of Cabano, Que.

"It is a great thing to have been the first Canadian soldier in this campaign to receive the most coveted military decoration of the British Empire, and I am sure your name and deed will be long remembered in our homeland. May you live long to wear the Victoria Cross you so gallantly won."

At his headquarters in a shell-torn town near the battlefront the Colonel commanding the Royal 22nd echoed his corps commander's sentiments in different words.

"It's terrific," he said. "It's a wonderful thing for Triquet, for the regiment, for Canada."

The Colonel had learned only a few hours before that the award had come through and had not advised his men. He later summoned company commanders together to let them share in spreading through the regiment what he called "this wonderful news."

Maj. Triquet himself is in hospital, victim of his own devotion to duty. Never content with carrying the normal tasks of officer, he worked himself into a state of nervous exhaustion.

Ordered To Hospital.

"He wouldn't rest," the Colonel said, "and finally I had to order him to hospital. He didn't want to go but I insisted for he was exhausted."

(Defence Headquarters at Ottawa last night announced that Triquet had been slightly wounded last Jan. 8 and that he remained on duty until Feb. 18, when a recurrence of his wound forced him to leave the battlefield for treatment.)

After the recommendation for the award went in with accompanying testimonials from divisional and brigade commanders and soldiers who survived the fight, it seemed as though Triquet might be fated not to receive the award. A house was struck by shells while he was in it, but he was not harmed.

Army Officer Goes Beserk

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 7—(AP)—Two girls and a policeman were slain and five other persons were wounded yesterday at nearby Camp Anza by a 31-year-old army officer before police bullets injured the assailant, the camp commander reported. A military board of inquiry is seeking to establish the motive for the shootings.

Killed when 2nd Lt. Beaufort 43, Swancutt, of La Crosse, Wis., suddenly cut loose with a 45-calibre army automatic Sunday night, said Col. Earle R. Sarles, camp commander, were:—

Miss Lourdine Livermore, 16, of Long Beach.

Arthur B. Simpson, 34, a Riverside police radio patrolman.

The camp commander and witnesses thus described the affray:—

Swancutt, his friend, 2nd Lt. Harry J. Light, and the two girls were sitting in the Camp Anza officers' club about 10:30 p.m. playing cards. Suddenly Swancutt rose from his chair, drew his side arm and quickly shot Miss Douglas and Miss Livermore in the chest and Lieut. Light in the hand and leg.

Another bullet struck the leg of Lieut. Aldace Minard, 38, of Pomona, Calif., who was passing.

From East and West Allies Strike Hard

Great Gap Is Ripped In Germany's Eastern Defences While Bombs Shatter Cities

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Yesterday was a blue Monday on Hitler's calendar as great Allied offensives tore into him from both sides in the climatic campaigns of the war.

Both Russia and the western allies continued to push the all highest beyond his limits. The U.S.A. again demonstrated her growing aerial might in a terrific drive which shook the foundations of an already shattered Berlin, and Britain's air force last night strewed death and destruction over a wide area.

The detonations of the Allied block-busters more or less tell their own story. The Muscovites' fresh master stroke in the southern Ukraine, however, is a bit complicated and attention is invited to come of the most beautifully-developed strategies of the war.

The fresh development is that Marshal Zhukov's new southwestward offensive has ripped a great gap in the vital Ldow-Odessa railroad at the junction of Volochisk, just east of Tranopol. This means that Zhukov has severed Hitler's life-line to Odessa and the Dnieper Bend area. That road was the last important communication left to the Nazi dictator in this area.

With the Lwow-Odessa railroad cut, German Marshal Von Mannstein is in a tough spot. He may be forced to pull his south Ukrainian armies back to the Bessarabian border. His communications with the fatherland then would be via the roundabout route through Rumania. Ultimately he would have to retreat into that Balkan state.

This is exactly the position for which the Red staff has been manoeuvring for long weeks, ever since the Russians consolidated their hold on recaptured Kiev Using Kiev as a pivotal base, they started the westward drive which has thrust a spearhead into the heart of prewar Poland.

As that steadily-growing column extended into enemy territory, the Muscovites kept shooting sickle-like offensives out of it to the south. These fast moving hooks gathered in large bodies of Nazis and annihilated them.

From the beginning the Red aim had been the same—to slash the Lwow-Odessa railroad far to the west and compel Von Mannstein to face about and fight with his back to the Balkans.

Von Mannstein has known what was happening to him. He's been doing a suicide political job for Hitler. The Rumanian gateway to the Balkans had to be protected at all hazards. A breach of that gateway would mean an explosion of the Balkan peninsula, and southeastern Europe thus would be lost to Germany.

Just take a look at that long, finger-like Nazi salient which extends eastward into the Russia-held territory of the Dnieper Bend. Within the bend there were at one time some 500,000 German troops. Those Red hooks which have reached down from the north have annihilated many, but there still are strong Hitlerian forces hanging on. Other Nazis are clinging to the Crimea.

Marriage For Rehabilitation

Government Dowry Suggested For CWAC Members

OTTAWA, March 7 (—CP)—J. G. Perdue, chairman of the Canadian Legion Rehabilitation Committee in Ottawa, speaking last night to 450 C.W.A.C.'s said the best form of rehabilitation for the majority of ex-service women was marriage. Mr. Perdue suggested that a government dowry be provided to take care of expenses which marriage involves.

Mr. Perdue explained that the rehabilitation of an ex-service woman was a different problem in many ways than that of an ex-service man. The vast majority would no doubt prefer a home and children to a career. "I am old-fashioned enough" said Mr. Perdue, "to believe that the woman's peace-time place is still in the home and that they can serve the nation better there than in industry."

68 American Bombers Lost When More Than 850 Stage Day Raid On Berlin

More Than 850 American Bombers Hurl Over 2,000 Tons Of Bombs Upon Berlin In Great Daylight Attack

By RICHARD K. KASISCHKE—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 7—(AP).—The great American air fleets smashing Berlin Monday knocked 176 Nazi planes from the sky, but lost 68 four-engined bombers in one of the greatest plane battles of the War, U.S. Army Headquarters disclosed today. R.A.F. night bombers kept the attack rolling, with a heavy blow last night on railway targets at Trappes, France, 15 miles southwest of Paris, and Mosquito bombers darted against targets in northwest Germany, all without loss.

Halifax bombers of the Canadian bomber group formed a substantial part of the force making the Trappes attack, R.C.A.F. headquarters said. R.C.A.F. Intruder aircraft destroyed a German Focke-Wulf 190 during patrols over occupied territory. All aircraft returned.

More than 850 American bombers hurled over 2,000 tons of bombs upon burning Berlin, and in the swirling aerial battles all the way from the Netherlands coast to the capital, gunners of Flying Fortresses and Liberators bagged 93 enemy planes while fighter escorts shot down 83.

It was the second highest single day's score in victories for the U.S. air forces. The record still is the 307 German planes downed during the Schweinfurt and Regensburg raids last August 18.

Record Loss Suffered.

But the bombers suffered a record loss. Sixty-eight of the big craft and 11 fighter planes plunged down. About 700 trained airmen were lost.

The great daylight attack on the heart of Germany was flaming warning that virtually no section of the Reich is safe from 'round-the-clock bombing, and it caught the imagination of Britons. British newspapers cheered it as a major victory, marking a tremendous new phase in the air war.

The Air Ministry said first reports on last night's raid at Trappes indicate the bombing was "accurate and well concentrated." The planes may have carried the new six-

Great Praise Is Given Canada By Winchell

NEW YORK, March 7 (CP) — Walter Winchell, whose Daily Mirror column usually is jammed with asterisks and "inside information" on every subject imaginable, today devoted about 1,000 words to tell United States readers the contribution Canada is making to the war.

Under the heading "Things I never knew 'till now of Canada's war effort," Winchell reviewed in terse sentences everything from growth of the Dominion's fighting forces to development of an anti-seasickness pill.

He reminded readers that Canada had and was continuing to provide from her natural resources numerous things essential to the United Nation's war machine. In addition, Canada has "developed a new secret explosive for the invasion—the most powerful in the world."

Predicts Great Future

Winchell didn't load his column with cold statistics, though he occasionally mentioned comparative percentages of this and that. He described Canada as "the only one of America's allies which has not used lease-lend help," and went on to predict that "when the smoke of war clears, Canada will emerge as one of the very great powers of the air crossroads for Europe and Asia."

The columnist touched the production front, the fighting forces, the home economic front and had a word also for "the Canadian Foreign Office" which he called "a completely independent diplomatic service" described by United States diplomats as the finest in the world. This was "a strange coincidence, since that's what our army and navy men say of the Canadian fighters."

Canada's contribution in production of such war metals as aluminum and nickel was mentioned, and Winchell said also that the most important discovery on this continent of tungsten ore—"the backbone of battle armour"— is being developed by the Canadian government.

With dots and dashes he listed such Canadian production achievements as: Shipbuilding, in which Canada is second only to United States; production of 16 types of gun carriages and mountings, manufacture of more than 1,000,000 rifles and enough ammunition to fire 300 shots at every German soldier; Canadian radium, without which Allied field services and hospitals would be almost helpless. Also, Canada provided the invention which beat the magnetic mine.

Five of every six Canadian soldiers were volunteers, giving the Dominion the largest volunteer force in the world. He reminded Americans the British Commonwealth air training plan is based in Canada, and "19 out of 20 of the boys who are dropping the bad news on Germany got the know-how in Canada."

On the home front, he said, the price ceiling means something, and the cost of living increased only two per cent in two years, while in the United States and Australia it jumped 12 per cent "on the same scale of measurement."

Canadians, moreover, are shelling out taxes "at a rate which would equal more than 30 billion dollars in this country."

"Our best customer to the north is also our best protection when the chips are down," he concluded.

Social Subjects Are Discussed With Club

At the regular meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club Dr. E. W. Young, of St. Andrew's United church, was the guest speaker. He was introduced by H. Vass. Dr. Young gave a very interesting address entitled "Some Social Subjects." Under this heading Dr. Young spoke on juvenile delinquency, health insurance and the Beveridge and Marsh reports, illustrating the present trend towards a social security. Dr. Young finished his address by mentioning the recent passing of the Order in Council on "Collective Bargaining." He was thanked by A. Northcott, who forwarded the club's appreciation of the address.

A large number of guests attended the meeting, who were introduced by J. McBride.

At the meeting next week, Mr. McKone, the principal of the Peterborough Normal School, will give an illustrated address on astronomy.

Post-War Plans For Highways Are Commended

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP) — President C. Alex Sollitt of Peterborough Monday told the 37th annual convention of the Ontario Motor League that it was gratifying to motorists to see that plans for highway improvement were included in post-war construction projects of both provincial and federal governments.

Reporting that while there were few highway accidents in the last year there were more fatalities Mr. Sollitt suggested scientific study of accident causes and steps to prevent them.

W. G. Robertson, general manager and secretary, reported 6,000 new members were enrolled in the league last year. He said there were 691,294 motor vehicle registrations in 1943, compared with 623,918 in 1939. Greatest number on record in Ontario was 739,194.

The board of directors reported the following nominations for league offices: President, R. C. Berkinshaw, Toronto; vice presidents, M. J. Overall, Hamilton, Dr H. M. Torrington, Sudbury, and Ernest Lashbrook, Rodney.

Stimulus to Business

Post-war construction programmes by both provincial and federal authorities, Mr. Sollitt said, "are only logical, for there are few other public works of which there is as great a need or which in process of accomplishment give greater stimulus to business generally, or more widely distribute wages in useful employment.

"The building of highways and bridges, and the elimination of dangerous highway-railway level crossings, all on a scale hitherto unapproached, will be advocated by the Ontario Motor League, and I believe may be confidently expected following the successful outcome of the war," Mr. Sollitt said.

With regard to the higher number of fatalities resulting from highway accidents, Mr. Sollitt had this to say: "It is difficult to account for and may be but a temporary trend. The records show that the great majority of those losing their lives have been pedestrians, and findings of coroners' juries indicate that in most cases the accidents have been due to pedestrian carelessness.

"It may be that the psychology of wartime is at variance with the idea of "safety first" which holds sway in time of peace, or it may be that so many more persons being about early and late in wartime industry increases the hazards. Whatever the reason," the Motor League president stated, "the causes of these accidents should be sought out in a scientific manner, and the appropriate preventive measures applied. While suffering such great and unavoidable losses in the battlefields, we can ill afford to overlook the preventable loss of life at home."

Mr. Sollitt added a word of praise for the administrators of wartime emergency motor regulations. "The League has a great deal of sympathy with those in special authority in these difficult times," he said, "and does not regard them as oppressive bureaucrats, but as fellow-citizens who are charged with necessitous responsibilities and oftentimes ardous and distasteful tasks which in the main they endeavour to carry out to the best of their ability, and only too often at the expense of their health."

close to disaster in earlier years of that war.

His statement was particularly striking against the background of the fact that the combined shipbuilding capacity of the Allies is far greater than in 1918 and showed that the U-boat has been much more thoroughly defeated than it was in the last war.

Strong In Submarines.

This victory may not yet be regarded as final, the First Lord made clear in warning that although the German navy had been balked and baffled, Germany still has at least as many submarines as she had at the start of 1943 and "there is not the slightest evidence that the enemy has in any way abandoned his intention to cripple our sea communications if he possibly can."

Revealing officially for the first time that the Mediterranean route to the east is in full use, Alexander said its re-opening "is worth about 1,000,000 gross tons and liberation of North Africa and Italy together have brought in half as much again in actual ships."

He said the Royal Navy now is stronger "in relation to enemy naval strength," than it has been since the fall of France.

He disclosed that 13 British warships were sunk on Russian convoy duty and merchant ship losses were heavy there, but that 88 per cent. of cargoes got through and those goods "so costly in ships and blood had been magnificently turned to account in the hands of the Red army."

He said the Germans are trying to develop tactics calling for the use of "very long range aircraft" in cooperation with submarines increased construction of concrete shelters in operational areas is the best evidence that the Germans "aim at putting more U-boats in the fight."

Alexander disclosed also that of 11 blockade runners sent from Japan to Germany in the last 12 months, only two reached Nazi ports and both were damaged.

Other facts saaid figures he aid before Parliament, along with a request for naval appropriations in an undisclosed amount:

The British merchant ship output up to the end of 1943 appreciably exceeded the total for the last war and warship output was nearly equal.

The Navy, while devoting its immediate effort to the coming assaults on Europe "is looking beyond them to the time when we shall descend with our full might on the Japanese."

Nazis Suffer Casualties On Beachhead

Sharp Clashes Occur At Cassino On 5th Army Front

NAPLES, March 7—(AP)—Sharp clashes have flared between Allied patrols and the Germans inside battered Cassino, headquarters announced today, and Allied troops have thrown back two small Nazi attacks near Cisterna on the Rome beachhead.

The Germans opened up with heavy mortar and machine-gun fire at Cassino, then sent patrols out, but no gains were made. Rain and mud bogged down both armies. The Rapido river rose three feet.

Allied artillery again took a heavy told of the Nazis attacking the beachhead and played a major role in blunting the thrusts. Another minor Nazi thrust southwest of Carroceto on the other side of the beachhead also failed.

Attacks Beaten Off

The Germans also launched two small attacks against Indian troops of the 8th Army near Orsogna, but they were beaten back. Canadian artillery again smashed an enemy motor supply convoy near Ortona on the Adriatic coast. Wintry weather was reported on the Canadian Corps front.

Spitfires left a schooner flaming in Kotor Bay on the Yugoslav coast and strafed a freight train and a troop-carrying truck convoy near Dubrovnik, causing casualties.

Fighter-bombers attacked gun positions north of the beachhead and roads and railways near Rome, but the weather continued to hamper aerial operations, the communique said. Fighters flew battleline patrols.

Fighter-bombers also lashed at shipping off the Dalmatian coast and at German communications in Yugoslavia, the bulletin said.

Allied planes flew about 500 sorties, with three of the craft failing to return. There was no enemy air activity reported over the battle area.

Allied troops, who hold about one-third of Cassino, made several probing jabs into the German held part of the town, which resulted in fierce local fighting. The Germans appeared nervous and responded with intense fire, also slinging grenades.

The Germans have increased the number of snipers along the beachhead perimeter. They lie in concealed positions, ready to pick off Allied soldiers the second they expose themselves.

Southeast of Carroceto an enemy patrol of 20 men sought to penetrate the American lines, but was driven off. Three prisoners were taken. Southwest of Carroceto British troops raided a house occupied by the enemy, killing 10 Germans and capturing one.

Continued rain has deepened the mud on the beachhead and flooded many low areas, making the life of the troops still more unpleasant.

In the lower Garigliano River region of the main 5th Army front, British patrols had local skirmishes with the enemy and took four prisoners.

From the Canadian corps sector of the British 8th Army front in eastern Italy, Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported that wintry weather curtailed activity yesterday after lively patrolling Sunday night when several Germans were killed or wounded.

Enemy material captured or destroyed included 323 tanks, 482 guns, 617 mortars, 860 machine-guns, 3,000 trucks, 30 armored cars, 40 military depots and an armored train. In addition 500 towns were liberated, a total of 700 for the three days to date.

Refrigeration Important In War Effort

The Lions' Club of Peterborough at their regular meeting Monday night heard a talk on refrigeration and dehydration by Walter Smallwood, manager of the air conditioning division of the Canadian General Electric Co., Toronto.

The speaker outlined the part that refrigeration is playing in the production of the new wonder drug penicillin, and the tremendous aid it is giving humanity generally, by its contribution to the war effort. Mr. Smallwood was very emphatic in presenting his facts as concerned the part that refrigeration played in the Allied invasion of North Africa.

One of the major problems that the Allied commanders faced was feeding the invasion forces. A man in the armed forces eats practically twice as much as in his civilian occupation, and in order to insure that adequate food would be available, cold storage refrigerators were constructed here, filled with frozen food and transported bodily to North Africa, he said. The speaker explained that these refrigerators are independently operated by a self-contained gasoline-driven refrigeration machine.

Through the use of portable refrigeration machines, the spread of infection from battle wounds in the front line is arrested until medical aid can arrive.

The Air Force has also been greatly benefitted by the use of refrigerators, inasmuch as parachutes were found to deteriorate in storage due to high relative humidity. This has now been controlled by refrigeration. The testing of all aviation equipment is vitally necessary under conditions of actual operation. Refrigeration plays its part in this field by being used in testing chambers as low as 100 degrees below zero. This gives aviators the benefit of pre-tested equipment and assurance, when they must hit high altitudes where the temperature is many degrees below zero.

Dehydration plays its part by contributing greatly to over-burdened shipping facilities, by saving over 50 per cent. shipping space in cargo vessels and thereby releasing valuable cargo space.

Mr. Smallwood, while explaining the various experiments made by General Electric and other prominent manufacturers toward home dehydration equipment, went on to suggest that commercial processors would probably still keep this field as it has been found that mass production still gives the most favorable result.

In closing, the speaker outlined the possibilities of heating homes and other buildings by means of reversed refrigeration, which would take heat from the outside air and utilize it to heat the modern home or building.

The speaker was introduced by a fellow-worker, Lion Sim Gledhill, and thanked by Lion Gordon Powell.

Guests included Lionel Brown of Canada Packers, Ltd., Keith (Shockey) Mien of Cleanrite Cleaners, and Joseph Boland of Johnston Coal Co.

Giraud said Pucheu contacted him in Lyon in September, 1942, and showed him Pucheu's report to Petain recommending aid to the Allies, a move which Geraud said he supported. Early in 1943 Pucheu wrote him from Madrid asking permission to enter North Africa to serve with the Army.

German Pressure

"I thought I could not forbid Frenchmen from serving in the Army," Giraud said.

Giraud stood stiffly erect, facing the Judge, throughout his testimony. In speaking of German Gestapo, he said: "I have been struck myself," referring to his daughter, of whose death in captivity he learned only last week.

When the French National Committee discussed Pucheu's case early last summer, Giraud said, "I though the (treason) charge should not be brought because proofs of such a serious charge were lacking in North Africa. I consider such grave cases should be held until our return into France."

He said that when he agreed Pucheu could come to North Africa he told him he should "use a false name and abstain from political action."

He declared he was surprised to learn Pucheu came under his own name and was causing agitation. Consequently he placed Pucheau under house arrest "to maintain order and calm."

The trial is being held before a special military tribunal. Three members of the National Council of Resistance, a French underground organization, are demanding that Pucheu be put to death.

Coincident with the trial it was announced yesterday that Devil's Island has been established as a place for confinement of political prisoners.

Pallbearers were six nephews, C. S.M.I. Tom Griffin, Victor and Fred Griffin, Joseph and Albert Stewart, and Jack Playford.

ALBERT E. MOYNS

The death occurred on Monday, in his 79th year, of Albert E. Moyns 350 Park Hill road. Ill during the past two years, he passed away at Nicholls Hospital.

For over 37 years a resident of the city and employed by the C.G.E. between 1919 and 1933, Mr. Moyns was born in Bradford, Yorkshire, England, coming here from London England. He saw action in the first World War, serving overseas. His wife, the former Georgina Slack, predeceased him 17 years ago. One daughter, Mrs. Norman Moore (Lucy), survives. Mr. Moyns was a member of the Salvation Army for over 60 years.

The body is resting at the late residence until Wednesday morning, and the funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. Major John Wood of the Salvation Army will officiate, and interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

HARRY PEARSON.

The funeral of the late Harry Pearson took place on Wednesday from the home of his son Wellington, R.R. No. 1, Lakefield, wth services conducted by Mr. Robert McNaught of Kingston, Mrs. Charles Wood and Mrs. Robert Fulton, nieces of the deceased, sang the hymn, "Good Night and Good Morning." Interment was made at Rae cemetery, Lakefield.

Mr. Pearson is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Galvin Dunford (Ida) of Smith and Mrs. Wilbert Northey (aMry) of Lindsay; and by three sons, Reginald, Wellington and Stanley, all of Smith. His wife, Druscilla Pendergrass, predeceased him 17 years ago, and a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Trude (Violet) passed away in 1929.

Pallbearers were two nephews, Gordon Pearson and William Pearson, and four members of his hunt club, William Gill, Steve Elliott, James Geraghty and Joseph McGillan.

KENNETH GORDON READER.

A large number of friends and relatives were present at the funeral of Kenneth Gordon Reader, which took place last week at 2 p.m from Nisbett's Funeral Parlour.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reader, 84 Gladstone Avenue and died following an operation about two weeks previous.

Kenneth Reader was a student at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Miss Howson, his former teacher and his fellow students were present in a body to pay tribute to their young friend. The large number of floral tributes showed the esteem in which he was held.

Six of his school chums were pall bears: Duncan Watson, Arthur Wells, jr., Douglas Clark, Jack Mathews, Kenneth Schron and Glen Hagerman. The coffin was carried by the pall bearers between two rows of flower bearers made up of his former class mates.

He was a faithful member of Park Street Baptist Sunday School and Mr. Whan, his pastor, who took the funeral service, spoke highly of him.

He leaves to mourn his loss, beside his parents, one brother Earl, and three sisters, Mrs. Fred Martin, Mrs. Sidney Ferguson, and Lorraine at home.

Senator Duffus Urges Renewal Of Efforts Towards Fife Memorial

"This is the psychological time for us to retract our steps and renew our efforts toward the establishing of a suitable memorial to the life work of a humble farmer who lived in the Township of Otonabee upward of a century ago," declared Senator Joseph J. Duffus in urging before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon on Monday the desirability of immediate action toward providing a memorial for the contribution made by David Fife to the national wealth of Canada through his development of Red Fife wheat.

Senator Duffus reviewing previous efforts in the same direction, said that the proposal had been sympathetically received in 1928 by the then Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Dr. Motherwell, but the Government had been defeated shortly afterward and nothing more was done until 1938. The arrival of Hitler on the scene had again interfered, but Senator Duffus declared that he was convinced that now was the proper time to renew the movement for a Fife memorial, and that if strongly pressed before the Dominion Cabinet that success would crown the effort.

The speaker's subject was "A Debt Unpaid," and he presented to Rotarians the romantic story of how the Scottish pioneer resident of Otonabee, David Fife, had realised the need for better wheat and had left no stone unturned until he had developed the Red Fife wheat that resulted in the development of Canada as the greatest wheat producing country in the world, and added many millions of dollars to the national wealth.

How It Started.

Senator Duffus, remarking that there were several stories as to how the wheat that eventually was developed into the Red Fife had been obtained, one that a friend of Fife's had sent it out from Scotland and the other that Fife himself had gone to Scotland to get it, told how the Fifes, ignorant of the nature of the wheat had planted it in the spring. Later they discovered that it was fall wheat and only five heads matured. Two of these were eaten by one of the Fife oxen, but Mrs. Fife had arrived on the scene in time to drive the animal away and save three heads. From them had been developed the Red Fife wheat. The heads were harvested, hung on the log beam of the ceiling of the Fife home in Otonabee until spring when they were threshed in the palm of David Fife's hand. Then the kernels were counted and placed in the ground like small pieces of gold.

That aws the start, the speaker said, of Red Fife wheat. Gradually the supply accumulated until it was possible to spare small samples to friends and neighbors.

"The long evening of subsequent winters found Mr. and Mrs. Fife and the members of their family," said Senator Duffus, "each taking plateful after plateful of wheat and removing therefrom all small and doubtful kernels. Thus it can truly be said that the David Fife farm in Otonabee became the first experimental farm in Ontario, if not in the Dominion."

Led to Marquis Wheat.

The speaker described the efforts made by the late Dr. William Saunders to improve Red Fife wheat which reigned supreme, he said, until 1916. Dr. Saunders' research work had failed to produce the wheat he was seeking, but later his son, Sir Charles Saunders, had saved one of his father's samples, known as Hard Red Calcutta, an early maturing variety obtained in India, and he had crossed it with Red Fife wheat to produce the famous Marquis wheat.

"All this serves," said the speaker, "to accentuate the inestimable gift which the late David Fife presented to the people of Canada in a day when the only specialists were shrewd, honest, toiling pioneers like himself, and when apparently the only experimental station in Canada was the newly broken acres of the Fife farm in Otonabee Township."

Noting the presence at the luncheon of Reeve Peter Mather of Otonabee, Senator Duffus said he hoped Reeve Mather would take the lead in organizing a committee and preparing for a deputation to go down to Ottawa and lay the matter before the Cabinet.

"I have my own views as to the form the memorial should take," said the speaker, "but I prefer not to discuss them now."

"The immediate and all important question is, shall we take action or delay longer?"

Senator Duffus was introduced by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, who read letters from Senator W. A. Buchanan of Lethbridge and Senator W. H. Maguire of Toronto expressing regret at their inability to attend the luncheon, but endorsing the project of the Fife memorial.

Rotarian James Dutton, in moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, also emphasized the debt owing to the memory of David Fife.

Guests at the luncheon were Edwin Fife of Otonabee, grandson of the late David Fife and Donald Fife, also of Otonabee, great-grandson of the discoverer of Red Fife wheat, along with Reeve Peter Mather, Otonabee, and Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan.

President George A. Gillespie was in the chair during the luncheon.

206,702 Serve In R.C.A.F. Commons Told

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP).—The Commons today will look inward to see if its business can be speeded up after spending yesterday in completing study of Air Department estimates for the fiscal year 1944-45 totalling $1,090,000,000.

The House will have before it the report of the committee on standing orders which, in a document tabled last week, set forth its belief that debates might sometimes be long but still were justified. It suggested, however, that House busine might be hastened if divorce bills were handled elsewhere than in parliament.

Air Minister Power, answering a series of questions from members, yesterday told of the growing might of the R.C.A.F.

Use 12,000 Aircraft.

He said the R.C.A.F. now has nearly 12,000 aircraft used for training purposes and has on order 960 more which may or may not be accepted, depending on developments in the war.

He gave the present strength of the R.C.A.F. at 206,702, including members of the women's division.

If the House concludes its discussion of the standing orders committee report, it will proceed to further examination of a bill to set up an

Citizens' Job To Improve Post-War Plans

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — (ENS).—Post war conditions, whether good or bad, rest entirely with the people themselves in a democracy such as Canada, for what is important here is how the individual thinks and acts. This was the advice given by A. J. Meyers, former mayor of this town, who was guest speaker at the luncheon of Rotarians here Monday.

Addressing members on "Our Peace Time Problems," Mr. Meyers said these could roughly be divided into those of the individual, municipal, provincial, federal and international. And when the majority of individuals had elected men to represent them "they expect these men to give serious thought to consideration of their problems. Our problems are for the most part going to be individual and we must co-operate to the fullest extent with the municipal council and they in turn must co-operate with the provincial and federal government and the proposals these governments make."

Speaking in retrospect Mr. Meyers said that when he became Mayor in 1921, the population of the town was 2,800 (about the same as it now is); there were several industries, all of which with the exception of the Northumberland Paper Mills, are still functoning. The only sewer the town boasted was one they had been compelled by the Department of Health to install for the Public and High schools and this ran from them directly to the core wall. The installation of sewers subsequently cut down the amount of contagious disease that annually infected the town.

The oily concrete walks were those on the main streets in front of stores while the remainder of the town was 'served by about six miles of wood sidewalks in various stages of decay. Both the Public and High school were badly overcrowded and in need of extensive repairs (the new High school built in 1920 relieved the overcrowding) and because of this it was not unusual to see the red placards for measles, diphtheria and other diseases scattered freely about the town.

At this time the town owned its own power house, but the Water and Light Commission had not reached the point where they were able to carry the financial burden without aid from the town, so approximately $11,000 to $12,000 was taken from the town treasury each year to pay debentures and the upkeep of transmission lines. By 1925 the power plant was put on a paying basis and had a surplus on hand of $25,000 after giving the corporation a grant of $8,000. From their reserve fund they each year were able to loan the town money to reduce its overdraft until current taxes were paid in June.

Construction of six miles of concrete sidewalk cost the taxpayers no more in debenture interest than they had been paying annually for repairs and maintenance. The annual debenture cost was $1,742 while upkeep ran from $1,000 to $2,000 per year. The installation of sewers and water mains was a tremendous job as Campbellford is founded on rock. Mr. Meyers went on to say that all of the sewage work was done with town labor, and at times the streets looked like a battlefront. By 1925 the sidewalks and sewers had been completed and during the five or six years that construction work was in progress the town spent about $125,000.

Peterboro Teams Plan To Stage Play-off

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 7 (ENS) —An opportunity to compare Intermediate B Hockey with the fare that has been presented locally during the winter, will be given fans here Thursday evening. The occasion will be a play-off between two teams in Peterborough's industrial loop—the Canadian General Electric and Genelco, which up to the present have been staging their exhibitions in Norwood in the absence of a rink in Peterborough. Local enthusiasts should welcome the opportunity of seeing the class of hockey that these teams play, and if the support they give warrants, it is possible other play-offs will be held here providing the ice lasts.

Business Section Fights $25,000 Blaze

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7 (ENS) —This town's worst fire in the past three years did damage estimated at close to $25,000.00 here at six o'clock on Monday afternoon when A. D. Bennet's furniture store and W. S. Wiggins billiard and tobacco parlors were gutted.

The blaze was first noticed at 5:50 and an alarm was sent in by W. A. Kingston, who was in the furniture store at the time. Miss Leatha Davidson, a clerk, heard what she described as "a hammering" that seemed to be coming from beneath a stair well that from a part of the partition between the furniture store and billiard parlor in what is known as the Irwin block. On opening the door that leads to a small store room there smoke poured out into the store in heavy clouds.

The fire alarm sounded three times as a signal to citizen and firemen that there was a serious blaze to fight, and although in its early stages it was unspectacular as smoke poured from cornices of the building, it finally burst through the roof and into the second floor ceiling of the building where much valuable furniture was displayed.

100 Citizens Help

Firemen under Chief C. B. Williams poured three streams of water into the buliding, two of these were from Front street and a third came from Rear street. The blaze was confined mainly to the front of the building and by 5:30 when the serious nature of the fire became realized, nearly a hundred citizens fought their way through dense clouds of black smoke that billowed down from the roof, to remove all the furniture from the main floor of Bennett's. Though much of the furniture received slight damage from water, most of it reached a storehouse two hundred yards further down the street, undamaged.

It was the first time in years that the fire department had to haul out its hook and ladder section, and when it reached the scene firemen protected by gas masks mounted to the roof in an effort to fight the blaze from this point of vantage. For a short time the Bell Telephone office and the Wallace block were threatened as sparks shot up with huge sheets of flame from the roof of the building. Tenants on the second floor apartments of the Wallace block began to remove their furniture as the fire reached its peak.

More Damage

Only firemen with masks were able to gain entrance to second floor windows of the building and it was here that the greatest amount of damage was done as many valuable house furnishings as well as the casket department were located there. The items that were not destroyed by the fire were damaged either by smoke or water.

A false ceiling in the roof of the building hampered the efforts of firemen to reach the flames, and picks and axes were used to remove sections of the roof from the outside in an effort to get at the base of the flames, but it was not until sections of the ceiling caved in from the inside that they were able to bring it under control.

Rooms Flooded

In the billiard parlor, the room became literally a pool room as tables which had been covered with a protective oilcloth were covered with three inches of water. Upwards of $1,500 damage was done to stocks of tobacco and candy in the establishment but the exact amount of repairs that would be necesary to put tables in condition again was not known. Mr. Wiggins told the press that he had visited the small store where the fire was believed to have started, at four o'clock in the afternoon and found everything in order. Cellars under both the Wiggins store, Bennett's and B. T. Company, were flooded to a depth of four feet but actually little was stored in the basement of the building.

It was nine o'clock before firemen left the scene of the blaze satisfied that it had been completely extinguished. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

So many members of the council were assisting the firemen quell the blaze, that the regular council meeting had to be adjourned. About three members joined the mayor at the appointed hour, and after waiting a short time, the meeting was postponed until Friday night at the same time.

Horses Take Fright Head For House Door

GORE'S LANDING, March 7. — (ENS). — Hauling a load of wood down the steep incline back of the manse in the village, a team of horses were stopped within a few feet of running into the back door during a wood hauling bee recently.

Five teams bringing wood for Rev M. C. Fisher were strung along the back road in the village. One team was down at the house unloading, while a second team turned in at the gate and stopped at the top of the incline. The driver left his team for a few minutes when the horses decided to go down without him.

The heavy load of wood behind the horses forced them down the driveway at a good rate before the men at the house noticed they were without a driver.

Several men threw wood beneath the sleighs and grabbing the horses, they were stopped within a few feet of running into the kitchen door.

He said the food board should see that farmers are able to change their milk delivery point.

Man Arrested After Hold-up In Belleville

BELLEVILLE, March 7—"This is a hold-up," warned a stranger as he held his hand in his windbreaker pocket to suggest he was armed upon entering the Kent Shoe Store, 225 Front street, early Saturday evening. Mr. J. E. McGee, manager of the store, complied and opened the cash register, while the stranger snatched a hand full of bills and retreated out of the store.

A hectic police chase along back streets and over property fences in the downtown area followed and terminated when police apprehended Everett Van Allen, Belleville, on Victoria avenue. At the police station some $80 in cash was found on Van Allen and today he is being held on a nominal holding charge of vagrancy. No weapon or gun was found on his person, police officials revealed.

Followed to Rear of Store

As J. E. McGee, manager of the Kent Shoe Store, entered the store at six o'clock, Saturday evening a strange man, wearing a windbreaker followed him to the rear where Mr. McGee took off his overcoat. Then the stranger approached and said: "I want to see you" and turned towards the front of the premises, allowing Mr. McGee to lead the way. When near the cash register the man whispered, "This is a hold-up, open the cash register." Glancing around Mr. McGee observed that the man's right hand was in his windbreaker pocket, indicating he was armed and although attempting to signal to customers in the store, Mr. McGee complied to the order and opened the register. The man grabbed the money and backed towards the door, where he broke into a run.

Shouted for Help

J. C. Latta, another employee at the store, suddenly realized the situation and joined Mr. McGee in the chase, as did Miss Evelyn Fox, a store clerk.

Outside the store, Mr. Latta shouted, "Robber, police," and fortunately P. C. Wright was standing only a short distance down the street and hearing the commotion joined the chase that led east on Campbell street, where P.C. Carruthers, who was near at the time, also hove into sight. The two officers chased the fleeing man north on Pinnacle street, to an alleyway north of the Belleville Sargent Co., when the fugitive sought to escape by clearing a fence. However, P. C. Carruthers followed, while P. C. Wright raced around into Victoria avenue, where Van Allen finally ran into the latter officer and was quickly taken into custody.

In the meantime Mr. McGee had notified police headquarters and it was but a matter of seconds before Sergt. Ellis and P. C. Thompson arrived at the scene in the police car and the entire time elapsed from when the stranger entered the Kent Shoe Store and the time of the arrest, was less than three minutes.

Political Liberty First

So much is written and said about economic rights these days that it is refreshing to hear a voice insisting on the greater importance of political rights. In his book The Foundation of National Well-Being Professor J. L. McDougall of Queen's University gives the strongest expression to his opinion that political rights come first, and that economic rights may be expected to spring from them, and not vice versa. He maintains that a nation's freedom is founded on two things: (1) the power of the majority to change its political masters; (2) the individual's right to freedom of thought and expression which makes it possible for minority groups to develop their ideas, to popularize them, and to seek support for their fulfilment.

Prof. McDougall was asked to produce "a report on how full employment could be maintained after the war without sacrificing all of our liberties to one overwhelming and uncontrolled central authority". The author discusses his subject soberly in the light of what is possible; he puts forward no new theory, but insists that we must give a fair chance to an old one which is in danger of being forgotten, and that is that national prosperity is likely to be the outcome of a large measure of individual liberty, and that it cannot be coerced by government controls and manipulated, or "planned" finance, as this is understood by some of our aspiring economic dictators. As Prof. McDougall sees it, the problem today is to reconcile our high-powered, mass-producing, exchange society, with dignity and liberty for the individual.

If the individual can be bamboozled into relinquishing his dignity and his liberty everything becomes easy. Germany, Italy and Japan have shown us what miracles of production can be achieved by a powerful state in which the individual is debased and public opinion debauched. We have had to fight these nations, and in order to fight them efficiently we have had to use economic and productive methods strongly resembling their own; we have found that these methods work very well, particularly as wartime conditions make it unpatriotic to protest against them. We have cried, "If we can have full employment for destruction we can surely have full employment for construction", and have suggested that the controls and restrictive measures applied to the nation's business in war might be retained in peace. In fact, although it appears that we shall beat the Axis physically, their ideas have conquered hundreds of thousands of our people mentally.

Stupid worship of the state has its counterpart in stupid worship of the individual — the exaltation of uncooperativeness, as it may be called. It has few exponents at present, but they have had their day before, and will be heard from again. The Doukhobors are perhaps outstanding uncooperative citizens at present. The most satisfactory and pliable state, in Prof. McDougall's opinion, is that in which individual freedom and cooperation for production are carefully balanced off against each other; it is in the maintenance of the balance that governmental skill is shown.

Prof. McDougall's criticism of the social security schemes, and parts of schemes, which have been put forward to set right the ills of Canada, is that they deal with nothing except economic matters, and the means which must be employed to put these schemes to work are all strongly suggestive of totalitarianism. The joker in the pack is that in Europe, once totalitarian government was established, economic rights which had been promised to the people shrivelled, either because it was impossible to realize them, or because the party in power found it convenient to forget them. Political power must be kept in the hands of the people. Once they lose that, they have lost any economic rights they ever had. Powerful totalitarian governments which will brook no opposition are easy to put in power, but only revolution will ever get them out again.

And what is Prof. McDougall's suggestion? It is undramatic, but it is sound, and it is along lines which this paper and a great section of the press has long supported. Full employment and genuine progress for Canada can be ensured by providing incentive for some men to offer work to others and the avoidance of abnormal trade conditions. If initiative, ability and industry are well rewarded there will be no lack of employment, no sudden slumps and consequent decline in the standard of living and, if the national trade is well-founded, no deceptive booms. As an alternative to the Workhouse State, based on the assumption that none of us are able to look after ourselves, Prof. McDougall's argument is refreshing good sense.

Reviewing Liquor Restrictions

The curbs and restrictions on the sale of all sorts of liquor which have been in effect for more than a year were initiated by the Dominion Government, although the job of enforcing them was handed to the provincial authorities. Premier Drew now suggests that the Dominion and provincial governments should review the situation, and make whatever changes in the restriction program seem desirable and necessary. The Ottawa government produced the liquor restrictions baby, and immediately handed it to the provinces to tend and cherish; after a year of annoyance the provinces seem ready to hand the tiresome infant back to its mother.

During the period of the liquor restrictions the public has learned some interesting things. It has learned, for instance, that the production of alcohol for war use has been so well managed that there is still plenty of time and manpower to make beverage alcohol as well. It has learned that 2,322,108 gallons of Canadian beer have been exported to the United States, although beer has been very short in this country. It has learned that drinking has increased since the imposition of restrictions, and that bootleggers are up to their old game. It has learned that our system of licensing and operating beverage rooms needs an overhaul. And having learned these things, it wants to know what is going to be done about them. The liquor problem in Canada is political dynamite, and a review of the whole matter is needed if there is not to be a serious explosion. It is perfectly clear that the responsibility in the matter rests with Ottawa and that refusal in that quarter to consider the matter will greatly increase the discontent which is felt in the provinces.

Religious Education Squabble

As the Ontario Government has declared itself on the matter of religious education in the public schools, it is interesting to learn that a similar move in British Columbia has provoked a squabble. The Minister of Education for that Province has introduced a bill providing that all B.C. schools should be opened with Bible reading, followed by a repetition of the Lord's Prayer. Commenting on this the Vancouver News-Herald says: "A pagan has as much right to his religious convictions as any of the innumerable varieties of Christian, and he has a perfect right to protest vehemently against his money being used to disseminate a religion to which he is opposed".

A pagan, or an agnostic, or an atheist in Ontario might take such a stand, but we think it unlikely. For one thing, pagans and atheists and agnostics are usually people of more than average intelligence, and a great many of them have arrived at their dissenting opinions after a close study of the Bible. What is more, many atheists and agnostics have the greatest admiration for the Bible, cherishing and studying its wisdom more assiduously than many professing Christians; ignorance of the Bible is far more common among lackadaisical churchmen than among militant atheists. No intelligent atheist would try to keep the Bible from his child any more than he would forbid it to read the Analects of Confucius, or the Bhagavad-gita.

The Examiner has already expressed itself as wholly in favour of sound Bible study in the schools of Ontario. Whether they are from the homes of orthodox Christians, Jews, or agnostics, children will be exposed to much ancient wisdom through Bible study and at least will gain an acquaintance with a volume which is a fundamental part of their literary heritage.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"War Production Eases Off Across Canada" says a headline. But we haven't heard anything yet about the war easing off.

G. B. Shaw On Wartime Taxation

(From a letter to the London Times)

WHEN an institution is found to be unjust and anti-social, the popular reaction to the discovery is not to alter or discard the institution, but to injure those who profit by it. And when an obnoxious Government is overthrown the first impulse is to liquidate all its functionaries and replace them with congenital revolutionists. Both policies are disastrous. Their results in Russia in the few years which followed the revolution of 1917 were terrible enough to warn us off any attempt to repeat them here. Nevertheless it seems quite probable that we shall repeat them all, and learn from experience, at an appalling cost, what we are incapable of learning from history.

We are, for instance, facing an irresistible drift of economic changes from absolute private property ("real" property) to public property, from Cobdenist private capitalism to Fascist State-aided capitalism, from freedom of contract to State-regulated trade, from competition to co-operation and communism, and from the widest and most disruptive inequalities of income to a more stable equality. Such changes, unless very carefully, wisely, and gradually guided, may smash up civilization. Yet the first notion of their advocates is to reduce every exploiter or beneficiary of private property and private enterprise to destitution. The Bolshevists, convinced that private property in land is a baneful institution, took the successful farmer, the Kulak, by the scruff of his neck and threw him out into the lane to beg. The inevitable result followed: the farm ceased to produce anything but weeds and desolation, and Russia began to starve. Lenin soon had to pick up the Kulak out of the ditch — what was left of him — and pitchfork him back into his farm with instructions to cultivate and exploit it for all he was worth and until the Soviet was ready to take on his job.

THE moral is clear. It may be finally desirable to get rid of landlordism; but while we have landlords let us have rich ones, and encourage them to become richer, rather than poor and persecuted ones. And what applies to private farming enterprise applies to all enterprises. Lenin had to rehabilitate the trader just as he had to rehabilitate the Kulak. Collective farming and collective trading may come in time; but meanwhile the more private farming and trading flourishes the better for everybody. Dukes are better landlords than needy freeholders.

BEFORE the resumption of the war, in 1939, I was a prosperous playwright, taxed on a scale that would have seemed mad to Gladstone or Queen Victoria, but within my taxable capacity and leaving me able to pay my way. Today I am a tax collector for the Inland Revenue, compelled to act as such for a commission of 6d in the pound, which does not pay overhead, much less for my work in earning, which, in 88th year, is heavier than it was in my 28th. The more I earn the faster my means vanish into the Exchequer. The more productive my work is, the smaller is my commission, so that all my business activities are directed to reducing its productiveness to a point at which my commission will be increased from 6d to 4s. I have just been endowed for life with an income from a property valued at £150,000. The net result is that I have to pay £40,000 as well as the income of the estate to Sir John Anderson. My haunting dread is that some of my many admirers, by dying and leaving me a million or so, may consign me to an almshouse. As a man of letters, I belong to a profession in which one lives precariously from hand to mouth and acquires capital enough to provide for dependents and educate children only by windfalls that seldom occur more than once in a lifetime and never more than two or three times in 10 times as many years. Yet when I get such a windfall I am taxed on it at the same rate as fellow-citizens with settled incomes of the amount of the windfall. My property rights are limited to 50 years after my death, and half nationalized at 25; theirs are everlasting.

AND I am not alone in this special grievance. The property of inventors is limited to 14 years. Cabinet Ministers in comparative opulence may by the next general election, or a reshuffle of the Cabinet, be reduced to hand-to-mouth salaries. Many traders are subject to still more sensational fluctuations. Formerly an attempt to adjust this was made by taxing, not on the current year's income but on an average of three years. But this concession has been withdrawn, and the wretch who makes £21,000 in one year, and a bare subsistence in the years preceding and following, is ruined by its withdrawal.

I am very far from being a millionaire, but since 1939 I have had to give the Exchequer £20,000 a year to pay for a war which would not have occurred if my advice had been taken in 1919. I now advise Sir John Anderson in framing his 1944 Budget to put his engines in reverse and operate as follows:

1. Exempt from surtax all legitimate earned incomes exceeding £20,000. The immediate effect will be that the potential earners of such incomes, instead of as at present straining every nerve to reduce their incomes to below that figure by piling up idle reserve funds, staving off not their creditors but their debtors, reducing their output, and sabotaging their own business, will do their utmost to redouble their activity and productivity. Their successes should not only be rewarded by the exemption but recognised by a new civil variety of the D.S.O.

2. The three years' average should be revived and made extensible in hard cases to any reasonable period.

3. Abolish the Excess Profits Tax root and branch.

THESE changes will be enough for one year. They will be resisted and denounced fiercely, by the Diehards on the extreme Right who believe that the only way to make the rich richer is to make the poor poorer, and those on the extreme Left who are equally convinced that the only way to enrich the poor is to add the rich to their underfed ranks. The gentlemen who write to The Times so piteously to deplore the Excess Profits Tax will make a poor job of defending its abolition, because though strong in the facts they are weak in theory and consequently muddled in argument. Sir John must take an iron stand on the ground that to the extent to which we have left our culture and our industry to the pampered rich, we must pamper them for all they are worth, and, far from crying that nobody must profit commercially by war, make war the most profitable of all businesses until it ends in victory.

Letters To The Editor
Proposed National Park

A FARMER'S VIEW

Sir,—Reading your issue of March 1st I notice in your paper a letter from our member, Mr. Harold R. Scott regarding a park in the northern part of our county to be organized.

He asks people to write letters to get the reaction of the public which naturally would mean them of interest for the park or no.

Now I am a farmer living on a piece of land about 1,000 acres part tillable, part pasture, the rest woodland and marsh. On this I have done a great deal of improvements, such as building dams on the marsh ground for the purpose of trapping in the season's legal (location). My land just mentioned near and just east of this said and proposed area for park bounded on the east by the Apsley Road.

I am on the east side of Apsley Road joined by another park called the Peterborough Crown preserve, which agreed to go around my land at beginning.

At present in making their boundary they try to force through my land dividing my property in two.

This is very disagreeable and a great loss. I am speaking as one of some experience and I am only one of many in the same boat.

Now we have many things said referring to post-war days in these times, do we understand the real formula or do we go by our own imagination which lead us astray some times.

Now it takes all people of many occupations to make a community or a world, therefore I do not agree in crowding out the less privileged person in making his livelihood. These things might have a great pressure in the preserving of peace and prosperity.

I remain, Yours truly,
P. MURPHY.

Head of Stoney Lake.

A LUMBERMAN'S VIEW

Sir,—Friday evening's Examiner carried a letter over the signature of Fred C. Marshall on the editorial page in which statements were made to which the writer wishes to reply particularly to the paragraph which states,

"As for the lumber interests. There is little merchantable timber left in the proposed area, and having in mind the ability the lumber companies have displayed in the past in looking after their interests, I do not think we need be greatly concerned."

Being associated with a lumber company which has been connected with the lumber industry in the county of Peterborough and surrounding district for over 100 years, I regret Mr. Marshall's statement since it is evident he is misinformed.

The writer would deem it a favour for you, Mr. Editor, to set before your readers the following facts as they pertain to the company with which I am employed and are applicable to an area of approximately 14 per cent. of the proposed National Park area in the County of Peterborough, this being held under license from the Provincial Government:

1. In early 1939 an understanding was entered into between the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests and my employers, that we would undertake to operate these licensed lands on the basis of recognized silva-cultural practice. In laymen's language this means, the logging of forested areas with judicious cutting, the result of which will be an area of forested land which will yield another crop of timber every twenty to twenty-five years after a logging operation has cut over and removed the more mature trees of commercial value. In other words the establishment of a perpetual forested area in this county.

2. Such an understanding having been reached, qualified forestry engineers of the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests cruised this particular area and reported that there was approximately 18 million board feet of timber of commercial value in it, and approximately 10-15 million board feet which would become of commercial value in about twenty-five years.

3. The Provincial Department of Lands and Forests proposes to use the information so obtained from such an operation as outlined above to improve forestry practice throughout the Province of Ontario particularly as it applies to Crown lands, thereby conserving the forest wealth of this province for future generations.

4. Mr. Marshall's inference regarding the lumber industry's ability in the past might be considered as a criticism of those early settlers in this area of whom I am sure we are all proud and to whom we all owe thanks for having established the community in which we presently reside. Water that has gone over the dam can not be gotten back so why live in retrospect. Changing conditions warrant and demand new methods and I suggest that my employers are trying to co-operate to this end.

Regarding the basis on which a National Park could or would be established, I would like to say that the present policy of the Federal Department of Mines and Resources under which a National Park would come is—That the title of all lands to be included in a National Park must be vested in the Crown.

Only Crown Lands would be affected and Deeded Lands of settlers or rather residents and cottage owners in this area would be excluded from National Park regulations, but in order to carry out practical park management it is highly probable that such Deeded Lands would be expropriated, and under which conditions it would become necessary for the present owners or occupants to move therefrom and find new homes beyond the confines of the National Park Area.

Under the regulations applicable to a National Park, all hunting, trapping, logging and wood cutting would cease in the Park Area and only fishing would be permitted.

It is the writer's personal opinion that with the availability of Algonquin Park to this county, situated north of the county, a distance of approximately 125 miles more or less, that the request to the Honourable W. G. Thompson for the Province of Ontario to turn over to the Dominion Government certain areas in Peterborough County in which to establish a National Park be withdrawn and the petition now being circulated to this effect be presented to the Minister by duly appointed members of the county and municipal councils after the petition has been completed and placed in their hands.

Thanking you for publishing this letter.
GORDON H. MUNRO.

A COTTAGE OWNER'S VIEW

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—May I be allowed space to express some views regarding the proposal to establish a National Park in Peterborough County, with Highway 28 on the east, the Oregon Road or Highway 36 on the south and the Catchacoma road on the west, as boundaries.

My view has always been, that in any public development, the first consideration is the effect directly or indirectly to the citizens of the area generally.

To date I have read quite a lot on the benefits of the establishment of such a park but have not read one word of explanation of what a National Park is or any explanation of the regulations governing the same. We have a number of these parks in the Dominion, so that a copy of regulations should not be hard to obtain.

It is only natural, that when a proposal is made, which, in any way affects one's home they are interested and also opposed to it till they know what effect it will have.

Now in this proposed area there are 70 residences in which live 229 men, women and children, also 1 store, 5 school houses, 1 church and approximately 86 cottages.

I am personally interested as I own a cottage in this area and hunt there, but this is only a small interest compared to the above residents whose home has been established here for 80 years or more and who have made 80 per cent or more of their livelihood from the timber they owned and preserved by only cutting the full grown and dead trees and not only these but people whose residence is on the other side of the road and the timber on the park side.

I am personally acquainted with nearly all these people and know their situation and the questions they are asking, are, Will we have to move to a new home and at our age learn to do something new.

Now, Mr. Editor, I feel that those who are sponsoring this park should have this information and should have published it at the very beginning. By not doing this, all sorts of rumours have been circulated and hence much opposition is developing, not only from those residing in this area, or directly affected by it, but by a large section of the general public of the county and city.

I feel that anyone certainly should not commit himself as being in favour of this proposal till the sponsors present the information on what the establishment of this park will mean directly to those who are affected.

Incidentally the residences affected are the homes of eight members of the armed forces, that I know of, and maybe more, six boys and two girls. How is this proposal going to affect them on their home coming?

Yours truly,
ROY BROWN.

Lakefield.

A Bible Message

Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people. My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust.

Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished. (Isa. 51: 4-6.)

For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones. (Isa. 57: 15.)

Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches: but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise lovingkindness, judgment, and righteousness, in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord. In A Democracy

It is healthier in a democracy for the people to be allowed to let off steam than try to contain it by the power of statutes. It is better over a period of time to let the people make their own decisions in the field of opinion and ideas than to call in the State. Otherwise, there is neither trust in democracy as a principle nor the wisdom of the masses of people, and, logically, from that initial step of governmental action comes a further, dependence on the State which, is extreme form, is totalitarianism or the denial of all individual rights. We would be more in the American democratic tradition if we continue to repose our faith in what John Milton called "strenuous liberty" and, in the words of Zechariah Chafee, Jr., leave "the remedies for objectionable ideas to counter-argument and time."—Providence Journal.

Should Read Hansard

Perhaps if there were a little more reading of Hansard there might be less loose and ignorant criticism of the House and its way of conducting the public's business. Great oratory may be rare in it; "talking for Buncombe" not unknown; close reasoning and fine logic not present in every speech; but, taken one with another, the speeches of the men who sit there, whether on Mr. Speaker's right or left, whether close to his chair or in the back rows represent—in the vast majority of cases—the sincere efforts of honest men to express themselves on public business with clarity and with a high degree of courtesy and deference to the great venerable traditions of Parliament.—Montreal Star.

Labor Action Is Pledged On New Federal Code

TORONTO, March 7 —(CP)— Speakers from all three of the major parties probably will be heard today as the Ontario Legislature holds day and night sittings in the continuing debate on the throne speech, which is expected to occupy the House for the remainder of the week.

G. H. Mitchell (CCF-York North) adojurned debate at the conclusion of yesterday's sitting which heard addresses by Labor Minister Charles Daley, W. A. Dickson (L-Perth) and J. B. Salsberg (LP-Toronto-St. Andrew.)

Mr. Mitchell, first speaker today, will be followed by William Murdoch (PC-Essex South), government whip, and probably A. Belanger (L-Prescott). Other speakers will be lined up for the night sitting, second of the new legislature's session.

Labor Minister Daley struck back yesterday at C.C.F. criticism of the government's labor policy, especially in regard to acceptance of the new Federal labor code covering war industries. He said the province was not entirely in agreement with the new code, but that Ontario was a loyal province. He said: "We are going to accept it and do everything in our power to make it work and to get our boys back home as soon as possible."

A provincial code could be set up, he said, but it would only cause confusion and create a situation which would be "ridiculous and unworkable."

The minister read to the House a letter from a man whom he did not identitfy, but who claimed to have been a member of a union and to have been paying five cents a week to the C.C.F. Mr. Daley said he would like to get verification of the statement that the C.C.F. was obtaining money in this manner for political purposes.

48-Hour Week

He spoke of the Ontario Government's plan to introduce a bill for a 48-hour work week with one week's annual holiday with pay. Some said it should be a 40-hour week with two weeks' holiday, and with this he would not argue. But the government planned to see that never again would there be a situation where men who wanted work could not find it.

Mr. Dickson said the farmers' plight was not quite as black as it had been painted. However, he believed plans should be made to help young returned men to get established on the land. He suggested a farmers' bank or perhaps some revision in the present financial system to allow farmer-minded servicemen to get post-war loans at low interest rates.

"Let's be fair to the young men who come back," he said amid applause.

Mr. Salsberg urged legislation to enable municipalities to set up local housing boards, and called for a public inquiry into the whole question of minimum wages in Ontario. He called the government's labor program "insufficient" and urged the province to seek changes in the new federal labor code.

Regardless of the final form of the federal code Mr. Salsberg said he believed that Ontario should bring down its own legislation.

Mr. Salsberg welcomed government legislation now before the legislature prohibiting advertisements reflecting on any race or creed and suggested legislation should also be brought down to prevent non-employment of anyone on racial grounds.

Premier Drew told the legislature that government plans for education taxation will be discussed when education matters come before the house.

He was answering a question by A. A. MacLeod (L.P.-Toronto Bellwoods) who referred to a Canadian Press dispatch last Friday quoting a source close to the premier as saying that while the government planned "sweeping revisions" in educational taxation it was not likely any bill would be introduced at the present session.

Mr. MacLeod asked for more information and the Premier replied it would be discussed at the appropriate time.

A MILD mustard poultice was the answer to the severe coughing attack that afflicted Mrs. L. Mercer, of Regina, Saskatchewan, last Winter. As she suffered from this choking cough, her voice left her entirely.

"The strain of coughing brought on a hermorrhage and I was alarmed. It suddenly occurred to me that a good mustard poultice might help so I mixed one (1 to 3) and placed it well up over my throat. Soon the phlegm moved and gave me quick relief."

Mustard Bath for Baby's Convulsions

"I have had four children and have always used mustard baths for convulsions," says Mrs. Mercer. She uses a dessertspoonful of mustard to a baby bath of quite warm water. After bathing the baby she wraps it in a warmed blanket. "This is as good a help in relieving convulsions as I know of," says Mrs. Mercer.

Use Dependable, Full-Strength Mustard

You can use Mustard in foot baths, complete baths, poultices or plasters to relieve the pains of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired Muscles, etc. Thousands depend on it year after year to relieve Chills, Colds, Grippe or other Winter infections. A mustard poultice should not be left on for more than twenty minutes. When symptoms are at all serious, it is wise to call a doctor promptly.

Pure Mustard is Safest

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Special Board To Issue Licenses To Hotels

TORONTO, March 7—(CP)—Attorney-general Blackwell gave notice of motion in Monday's Ontario Legislature votes and proceedings of two bills designed to transfer licensing authority for "on-the-premises sale" of beer and wine in Ontario from the Liquor Control Board to a specially-appointed three-man board which will tour the provinces and rule on all licensing matters.

One bill, the Liquor Authority Control Board Act, 1944, will provide for the setting up of the three-man judicial board which will hold public hearings in various parts of the province and rule on all licensing matters for "on the premises" sale of beer and wine, such as applications for new licenses, renewals and cancellations.

BUDGET YOUR SPENDING FOR VICTORY

Join the Budgeteers — Get simple new budget plan without obligation

HERE'S something you can do to bring Victory sooner. Resolve to budget your spending in 1944! The way you spend your money during this eventful year is extremely important to your country — as well as to you.

How a budget can help you

Your pay cheque now has a double job to do. It must help keep our armies fighting on the battle fronts — and it must keep your family fighting on the home front. If you carefully plan your spending in advance you can meet higher taxes and war savings more easily. You can cut out many unnecessary expenses. You can feed, clothe and house your family for less.

Why don't you start your planning now before the year gets a day older? The Budget Calendar can be a big help to you. This is an utterly new kind of budget book. It gives no fixed way for you to spend your money, no rule of so much for this and so much for that. Instead it helps you make your own spending pattern to fit your own way of living and your own income.

All who use the Budget Calendar are invited to join the Budgeteers. The Budgeteers are encouraged in their efforts by receiving a new booklet or letter from time to time. Their letters and questions are welcome, and are answered personally. Special recognition is given to Budgeteers who complete a year of budgeting.

Go to Grafton and Co. Ltd's. Store in Peterborough and ask for a FREE copy of their new booklet "Some Interesting Facts about Grafton and Co. Ltd.", and also for an official Entry Form. Then take the booklet home and read it—get your family to read it too—because in it you will find the subject for your story.

Choose your own subject from any idea that suggests itself to you as you read the booklet—for either a fact or fiction story. Every page will give you ideas—a character sketch of one of the people illustrated, a humorous or serious essay on old-time fashion, an historical article on the old brass coffee urn or oak grain header shown in the book, a romantic story of a sailor and his sweetheart, a human-interest sketch of Mike Sullivan's little lad and his dog—you'll think up even better ideas aplenty as you look at the many pictures with which the booklet is filled. Then you will want to get started right away! Get all the help and advice you wish, so as to make your story as good as you possibly can.

Rules For Story Contest

(1) The Contest is open to any young man or woman in the Peterborough district under 19 years of age.

(2) The subject must be taken from any idea suggested by a reading of the booklet entitled "Some Interesting Facts about Grafton and Co. Ltd."

Oshawa Takes 3-2 Win From Falcons

OSHAWA, March 7—While more than 3,000 of the faithful held their breaths in anxiety here last night, Oshawa Generals managed to eke out a 3-2 victory over St. Catharines Falcons and thus even up the seven-game series at two apiece.

Visitors Play Cagey

The game itself was a weird checking affair with the visiting team lining up at their own blue line frequently to completely disrupt all attempts at wide open play, only to suddenly lash out with vicious two and three man attacks that had the Oshawa defence and goalie on the jump all night long.

Bill Ezinicki steered a pass into the net just 11 seconds after the face-off and it looked as if the fans were in for another wild scoring orgy. Instead, the Falcons decided to play it cagey and wait for the breaks. Smith banged in Taggart's passout to make it 2-0, but later in the period, Warecki took a clean pass from Peterson and sizzled a shot past Bennett, which the Oshawa goalie fanned on completely.

The second period was a no-hit, no-run affair with neither penalty or goal to give the scorer any bother. Both goalies had some close calls but for the most part Falcons laid back and attacked only with two-man breakaways. Struck by Barber's skate, Juckes had to leave the game for a stitching job in his face. Barber was spilled by Shewchuck and as he was spilled, his skate flew up to strike his own teammate just as Juckes was about to check Shewchuck.

Oshawa got a goal to make it 3-1 early in the third period and relieve the pressure on themselves and their supporters, with Love batting in Ezinicki's passout. It was scored while F. Long was serving the only other penalty of the game, earned when he fell on the puck and grabbed it with his own hand, in the goal mouth, while he was preventing Oshawa from scoring during a ganging act. The goal went in just 12 seconds before Long got back on to the ice.

St. Kitts cut the lead again with less than four minutes left to play, when their determined attacks finally clicked, Phillips stepping right around the defense to pull Bennett out of the net on the prettiest play of the night, after taking a pass from McMurdy.

In the dying moments Falcons pressed hard, but the canny Generals played it smartly and managed to keep play outside their own blue line until one second before the final bell.

Barker, Batten, Taggart and Smith were the pick of the homesters last night, but as a team they were checked closer than ever before this season and their own hogging tendencies made things even easier for St. Kitts. Jessiman, in goal, and Peterson, with a superb display of forechecking, were easily the stars for St. Kitts, although Phillips, McMurdy, Warecki and the Long brothers also deserve special mention for their continual trying.

St. Catharines—Goal, Jessiman; defense, Nicowski and McMurdy; centre, Peterson; wings, Delmonte and Warecki; subs, Phillips, P. Long, F. Long, Barber, Juckes and McBride.

Oshawa—Goal, Bennett; defense, Batten and Shewchuck; centre, Love; wings, Ezinicki and Chenier; subs, Barker, Curry, Smith, Porter, Taggart and Pulham.

Referees—Mike Rodden and Jim Primeau, Toronto.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

It is Tuesday night again and once more Promoter Frank Tunney moves six of his outstanding mat artists into Peterborough for the weekly brawls at the Brock Street Arena. The Toronto promoter is evidently determined to keep up the quality of his local shows for the bill tonight includes half a dozen of the star performers on the roster, including three of the direst villains in the Tunney stable, the bumping Bob Wagner, otherwise the Strangler, the battling Jan Gotch and the Pueblo Greek Tom Zaharias who uses all the technique of his brother George and adds a bit of his own skulduggery to the mixture. Wagner whose home when he's there and that isn't very often is in Portland, Oregon, is of course booked for a return battle with the California flash big Vic Holbrook and out of that should come a main bout that will send folk away talking. Holbrook was beaten a week ago when Wagner bounced him down on top of the ropes and the popular Vic not only lost all interest in the proceedings but lost the decision as well. It was the first Holbrook loss here and the likeable young giant from California did not think very much of it. In fact he liked it so little that he demanded a chance to show his Peterborough admirers that it was all a fluke and Impressario Tunney obligingly re-matched the two for tonight. The result should be plenty of excitement.

* * * * * *

Coming back tonight, too, is that other stylish mat star who made such a hit on the last card here, Frank Sexton, the Columbus, O., power-house. Sexton, big, powerful and cleancut went over big with the Peterborough customers who enjoyed the appearance of the Pacific Coast champ and appreciated the mastery of wrestling he showed. Sexton is matched with the powerful Pole, Jan Gotch, a mat bad man who is tossed in against all the top-notchers and who battles—and we mean battles—them all alike whether he is matched with Wild Bill Longson or a prelim boy named Joe. Gotch will give all he has against the Ohio product and it should be a quite a bout. The same goes for the preliminary which brings together the wily and tough Tom Zaharias and the hard-working Hamilton wrestler Jack Wentworth. The latter showed plenty of style in his other appearances here but in going against Zaharias he will need more than style for the big Greek knows all the answers right up to the $64 question and he is not too careful about the way he handles his opponents. All in all it looms up like a most interesting card with a little of everything tossed in.

A Memorable Game

This should be a memorable anniversary for hockey fans with good memories for just 20 years ago tonight the Peterborough intermediate squad was beaten 3 goals to 1 by Niagara Falls in the first game of the Ontario finals played in the Niagara Falls Arena, then a brand new hockey cushion. It was a close hard-fought battle between well-matched teams with the Cataracts having the edge in the early stages and the Petes finishing strong, only to be foiled by Mayo in the Falls' nets. The Niagara team scored a goal in each period but their second one did not come until the second session was almost over. Gene Fraser, manager and stalwart defence player of the winners notched both of those and then early in the final period Steve Rice, the Toronto boy who played on the forward line fired the third Niagara marker. With seven minutes to go the late Frankie Collins scored for Peterborough on a pass from Bert Burgess and the Petes attacked continuously until the end of the game without beating Mayo again. The Peterborough team had Joe Dwyer in goal, Grover Halpin and Snap Parker on the defence, Frankie Collins centre, Burgess right wing, Ray Rose left wing and Ranger and McPherson as alternates. Only Halpin, Rose and Burgess are still residents of Peterborough.

Fierce warfare in junior hockey circles may be expected now in view of the fact that George H. Campbell, Oshawa sports commentator has turned his guns on Rex Stimers, the St. Catharines radio sports announcer. Says Bre'er Campbell: "Fans who heard Rexie Stimers (Skunk Cabbage from the Garden City) blast forth at Oshawa Generals and particularly Bill Ezinicki, are thoroughly disgusted. Mr. Stimers is coming to Oshawa to broadcast the 4th game of the series, here on Monday night and he'd better be a good boy because there's no such privacy as a "sound booth" in our Arena. He could only stay in the "press box" for one period last Wednesday night but he's got to stay put for the full three periods on Monday. Stimers, Thursday night, expressed himself as disgusted. You can figure how much he knows about hockey when he makes the statement that "there was little good hockey displayed in Oshawa on Wednesday night." He just neglected to add—by the St. Kitts team. The Generals flashed so much hockey that the Falcons were plucked before they could get off the ground. However, howling that there was no real hockey shown and that his team was robbed right at the start by a cheap penalty, that's all we expected from Mr. Stymied. We wonder do his St. Kitts' radio fans know that he bragged to us that he himself was "cashing in" by having bet on Oshawa? Tell 'em that one, Rexie!"

A Real Shellacking

Just what kind of haockey they have been playing in the Belleville junior B group we don't exactly know but can form a fair guess from the fact that the Kingston juniors invaded Stirling the other night and defeated the Marmora-Stirling Combines who won the group 20 to 5. We'll let Ken Colling tell about it as follows: "No doubt the supporters of the "Combines" must have thought there was somewhat of an explosion happened at the Stirling rink last night. Coach Jackson took a husky squad of Kingston junior players into Stirling, but things went along rather smoothly for two periods, although the Limestoners were always on top and led 3-2 and 6-3 at the end of the middle frame. Came the explosion —yes, believe it or not—the Kingston kids scored 14 goals in the last period and even while this was all going on the Combines managed to squeeze in a brace of counters to make the final count 20 to 5 for Kingston. Now, we wonder, how the Kingston crowd expect to induce a following in the Jock Harty Arena? At least the visitors saw a capacity house as over 1,000 jammed their respective ways into the Stirling rink, but wended out less happier. Reports say Doug Patterson sustained a possible fractured arm which in no way helped the Combines in that disastrous third frame."

* * * * * *

The O.H.A. senior and junior A playoffs are plowing right ahead and already the ranks of the junior clubs are beginning to thin out. Brantford Lions and the Galt Kists have already gone, the latter disappearing last night when the St. Michael's team beat them 5 to 2 and took the series three games to one. Oshawa Generals and the St. Catharines Falcons are all tied up in their series with the standing two games each after last night's argument which saw Oshawa nose out the St. Kitts' youngsters 3 goals to 2. The Falcons, despite one lop-sided beating are proving tough opposition for the Motor City selects. Hamilton Whizzers in the other series of the junior playoffs took the lead in their round with the Toronto Navy winning 4 to 2....In the senior finals the Hamilton Majors who looked like the best team by a mile at the beginning of the campaign and then blew hot and cold all season are evidently sizzling now for they invaded St. Catharines last night and handed the Saints a 7 to 0 beating that must have had Rex Stimers speechless in front of the mike. The Majors lead the series two games to one and play the next engagement at home and that is about the only break for St. Kitts in sight. They have done better in Hamilton this season than before the home customers.

Grove Wins Thriller In Overtime

LAKEFIELD, March 7—The Grove School's First hockey team scored a convincing 7-6 triumph over Trinity College School in an exciting hockey contest played at Lakefield on Saturday. After spotting their rivals three goals in the third period, the Grove boys were forced into overtime. The goal that clinched the game was scored after four minutes and fifty-seven seconds of the regular ten minutes of overtime play when Andy Harris polished off a superb stick-handling play by dumping the puck past Beamont, T.C.S. goalkeeper.

The game was played on fast, hard ice, and resulted in wide-open play by both teams. The Port Hope boys opened the scoring early in the opening period when Sinclair, nifty little center player got a shot away from the blue line after taking a pass from Huycke. A minute later, the Grove evened things up. Giroux took a pass from Harris and coasted in on Beamont, who never had a chance on the play. The first penalty of the game came two minutes later when Giroux was sent off for high-sticking, and shortly after MacMurrich of T.C.S. was waved off for tripping. After pressing for some time the Grove boys were rewarded when Strathy split the Port Hope defense and rifled a hard short in the corner of the net. There was no further scoring in the period.

Holding on to their 2-1 lead, Lakefield forechecked and backchecked desperately at the start of the second stanza. At 3:11, Mackenzie banged a shot past Beamont after receiving Harris' pass in front of the Port Hope net to make the score 3-1. A minute later Eayrs was sent off for tripping, and Britton of Port Hope was also in the box for the same offense. There was no scoring during these penalties, although both teams pressed very hard; Hyde and Beamont, the two net-keepers made some very spectacular saves. Five minutes of see-saw play went by, and then Dobell was waved into the box for charging. The Grove team took advantage of the extra man and at 14:28 Harris grabbed off a pass from Mackenzie to give the Grove a 4-1 lead. Two minutes later Harris scored the prettiest goal of the night after stick-handling through the entire T.C.S. team. This goal came when the Port Hope team was again short-handed, Fisher having been sent off the ice for tripping. There was no further scoring in the period, although Port Hope came very close when Giroux got a minor penalty.

At the start of the third frame, the Port Hope boys really opened out. They potted their second goal of the game after five minutes of play when Dobell finished a play set up by Laing and Gilbert. Less than a minute later, they scored again, this time on a shot by Huycke and Barker. Giroux, fast left-winger on the Grove first line was hurt and had to leave the game. With their line-up thus disarranged, the Grove boys tried to hang on to their 5-3 lead, but T.C.S. kept up the pressure and at 13:48 Delahaye took a hard shot on a pass from Dobell that beat Hyde for the fourth score. Twenty seconds late, Mackenzie came back for the Grove, notching a beautiful goal after a solo rush down the right boards. The Port Hope team fought right back and a few minutes later Huycke sank another goal on passes from Gilbert and Sinclair. With less than two minutes to play and the score 6-5 in their favor, the Grove team seemed to have the game well in hand. However the T.C.S. team never stopped trying, and a 18:30, Sinclair scored the goal that put the game into overtime. There were no penalties in the period.

Overtime Period

Both teams started out in the extra frame determined to get a win, and it was apparent after a few minutes of wide-open play that it was anybody's game. It fell to Any Harris, tricky centre and the Grove team's captain to score the deciding goal.

NEW JOB — By Jack Sords

Same 8 Clubs Played For 52 Years

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—If you think baseball should fold up for the duration, or that the fans will not turn out to see the talent-depleted teams in action, you can get yourself a swell argument with John A. Heydler.

Come August, Mr. Heydler will be 75 years old, and he's spent a mite more than 50 of those years with the National League, 16 as its president before retiring in 1934 when he accepted a lifetime job as chairman of the league's board.

The man who has seen the National game weather many storms should know whereof he speaks.

"Don't worry about baseball giving up in wartime. Discounting the huge investment angle, the clubs and the leagues have other and greater reason for continuing," he said.

"For 44 years the National League has operated with the same eight clubs. Counting the eight years those clubs were part of the old 12-team league, they've been together 52 years. Why, Boston and Chicago haven't been out of the league a minute since it was organized back in 1876.

"The American League has had the same eight clubs for 42 years.

"To me it appears we are in for an interesting season—one full of thrills. The fact that no one can possibly predict the outcome should add to the interest."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just eight years ago today the English football league's ban on advance listing of week-end contests resulted in a 500,000 attendance drop. Less than half-a-million persons saw the 44 games. The league was trying to defeat pool promoters but came out second best, reverting to pre-arranged schedules March 9.

400 Baseballers Serving In Armed Services

By The Canadian Press

The Major Baseball Leagues have a total of 400 players in the armed services, of whom the American loop has contributed 203 and the National circuit 197, it was reported at New York last night. This representation is sufficient for the formation of two complete leagues of a size equal to the major clubs' playing roster after the trimming-down date of June 15, when each club is restricted to a squad of 25 players, it was pointed out in a statistical review.

First of the baseballers to be drafted was Pitcher Eugene Stack of the Chicago White Sox who joined the U.S. army Jan. 7, 1941. He died of a heart attack June 26, 1942, the only Big Leaguer to die in the service thus far. Pitcher Hugh Mulcahy of the Philadelphia Phils was called up March 8, 1941, and he is now a sergeant. The latest to go, Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds, reported to the Sampson, N.Y., Naval Training Station Saturday.

Eddie Arcaro, the jockey of the hour, may become the third man in history to win the Kentucky Derby three times.

Arcaro, who regained national prominence with his victories in the Flamingo and Widener Stakes at Hialeah Park, triumphed in the 1938 Derby with Lawrin and repeated in 1941 with Whirlaway, famed all-time money winner.

So far the skilful little jockey hasn't received a mount for the May 6 classic at Louisville, but racing observers believe that is a formality that will be attended to long before post time.

Isaac Murphy and Earl Sande, famous jockey of the 1920's, so far are the only riders to thrice win the coveted Churchill Downs classic that started in 1875.

Cain Is Leading By 2 Points Over Bentley

MONTREAL, March 7.—(CP). — With only a few schedule games left to play, the National Hockey League scoring race has tightened into a hot contest that looks as though it will continue to the final game.

The league's official weekly figures released to-day showed Boston's Herbie Cain still leading the point-getters, but his 70 points to date gave him a two-point margin over Doug Bentley of Chicago, who in turn was three up on his team-mates Bill Mosienko and Clint Smith.

Toronto's Lorne Carr sagged to fourth spot with 63 points, one ahead of Bill Cowley of Boston, Carl Liscombe of Detroit and Canadiens' Elmer Lach.

Cain and Bentley were tied for goal-scoring honors with 34 each, three up on Mud Bruneteau of Detroit. Lach led the assist column with 44, one more than Smith.

Detroit's Harold Jackson remained asq penalty king, with a total of 70 minutes in majors and minors, three more than Mike McMahon of Canadiens.

Win For Detroit Fatal To Bruins

By The Canadian Press

It's Detroit Red Wings at Boston in the only National Hockey League game on to-night's card, and this time the Bruins are going to do or die for Art Ross. With only five games left, the Bruins are five points behind Toronto Maple Leafs, who occupy fourth place and last play-off position. Boston can't quite be eliminated yet—but a loss to-night will do them no good whatever.

Whether the Bruins seriously hope to get into the play-offs depends a lot on veteran Bill Cowley, back after a long lay-off through illness. Cowley scored four goals and got two assists when the Bruins beat Rangers 10-9 Saturday, but that tussle was hardly a fair test of the drive that faces the Bruins. Cowley, incidentally, didn't get a point when the Bruins and Rangers tied 4-4 Sunday.

The Wings aren't under the same kind of pressure, and for that reason might win handily.

The two teams have clashed eight times this season, Detroit taking five and Boston one, with two ties.

Burlington Leads

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Adding four points to his total, Tom Burlington of the Cleveland Barons continued to hold first place in the individual scoring records of the American Hockey League with 74 points, six more than his team-mate Les Cunningham. Lou Trudel of Cleveland was third with 67 points.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 7 (CP)—Former world featherweight champion and British lightweight king in 1938, Dave Crowley spent a week at suburban Islington studios as adviser in a film fight between actors John Mills and Stewart Grainger. That was because Mills and Grainger disdained doubles.

The two fought each other all over the set for three days. It wasn't a battle under Queensberry Rules but an all-in affair with nothing barred.

Crowley, like all experienced boxers, knows all the blows which may not be stuck. So he taught his pupils some of the unorthodox ones. Grainger, he described as a first-class boxer. Mills, a boxing fan, learned much about the game when he frequently watched Crowley training for a fight.

LAC. Jack Watkins outpointed Johnny Bartlett of London in a six-round boxing bout at Islington—then handed his purse money to the loser.

The air force fellow from Gloucestershire had heard that Bartlett's wife was to have a leg operation. He made the gesture as a contribution towards the expenses.

Said Watkins: "We had a good fight and I'm only too glad to help a sportsman."

Flour-bag jerseys accentuate wartime austerity of Hartlepool Rovers, classy Northern England rugby club.

A supporter presented the Rovers with some used flour bags. Since their sweaters were old and shabby and there was little chance of new ones because of shortage of clothing coupons, the players had their wives and girl friends make the bags into jerseys. Even the color was changed from pink to white.

It's a strange wartime job for a former open golf champion, but George Duncan helps plow up golf courses—and not with a mashie either.

Professional at Mere Country Club in Cheshire, George acts in an advisory capacity with officials of the county war agricultural committee which has requisitioned many acres of golf courses for farming.

There are few golf links in the county that have not lost some of their land as Britain moves more and more toward becoming self-sustaining. Most boast only nine or 12 holes of the original 18.

Jolting Jackie Paterson, World, British and British Empire flyweight titleholder, has lodged challenges for the British bantamweight and feather titles with the British Boxing Board of Control. A former Glasgow shipworker, the wee Scot is a physical training instructor in the R.A.F.

Hamilton Whips Saints 7-0 To Assume Lead

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Majors shellacked St. Catharines Saints 7-0 last night at St. Catharines to assume leadership in the Senior O.H.A. final play-offs two games to one in the best-of-seven series.

The winners scored two goals in the first period, three in the second and two more in the final frame. Doug Runions was the outstanding star with five counters, Dillon Brady and Dinning splitting the other two tallies.

In the junior playoffs, St. Michael's College eliminated Galt Kists on Toronto ice with a 5-2 victory, their third win in four games played, giving them the best-in-five series. Bobby Schnurr was the Students' leading scorer with three goals, Ted Lindsay ramming in the other two. W. McArthur and Bill Curik registered the counters for Kists.

Oshawa Generals and St. Catharines became deadlocked at two wins apiece in thier best-of-seven junior bracket when the Generals counted a 3-2 verdict at Oshawa. Generals took a 2-1 lead in the first stanza; there was no scoring in the second period, and both teams found the net for a single tally in the keenly-contested third frame. Scorers for Oshawa were Bill Ezinicki, Ken Smith and Bob Love; for the Falcons, Henry Warecki and Nick Phillips.

Hamilton Whizzers entertained Toronto Navy juniors in the first of their two-game set-up, turning back the Sailors 6-4. Comfort was the outstanding performer for Whizzers with four goals. Lymburner and Sclisizzi getting one apiece. High scorer for Navy was C. Walsh with three goals, Armstrong bulging the twine once.

Fliers Defeat Bombers 5-4

TORONTO, March 7.—(CP). — The Centralia Fliers defeated the Mountainview Bombers 5-4 here last night in a sudden death game for the hockey championship of No. 1 Training Command of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The two teams were survivors of more than 50 squads who had been providing exercise and entertainment for airmen throughout Ontario.

Hub Macey scored two goals for Centralia, the winners' other counters coming from Ace Bradley, Tony Hawkes and PO. George Shaw, formerly of Cornwall.

For Mountainview the scorers were Gene Bauer and Rocky Robillard, formerly of Ottawa St. Pats, Brock Fuger, formerly of Quebec Aces, and Bud Boudreau, formerly of Montreal Canadiens.

Centralia reached the final by beating St. Thomas, Aylmer and Fingal for the Western Ontario championship, then beating Brantford, the Niagara district champions. Mountainview conquered the No. 6 repair Depot, Trenton, in the Eastern Ontario final and then eliminated Camp Borden, the Toronto district winners.

Line-ups:

Centralia: Goal, Cliff Young; defence, Sqdn. Ldr. Bill Elevein and Doc Webb; centre, Ace Bradley; wings, Jim Forsyth and Hub Macey subs, George Shaw, Joe Weizorek, Bill Bagnell and Tony Hawks.

Mountainview: Goal, Claude Bourque; defence, Ray Savard and Dave Brock; centre, Pat McCreavy; wings, Brock Fuger and Gene Bauer; subs, Dan Cowley, Rocky Robillard, Bud Boudreau, Frank Aube, Bil Dixon Mike Michinick and Duquette.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 7. — (CP).— One argument against building basketball into a major sport in Canada is that the game has no crowd appeal....Hal (Edmonton Bulletin) Dean recalls that in 1930 a crowd of 6,792 paid to see Edmonton Grads beat Chicago Taylor-Trunks 40-13 in an international game at the Edmonton arena....And that was women's basketball....Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens claims a good goalie is the greatest asset of any hockey team and that's why Canadiens are N.H.L. champions. "Bill Durnan is playing some of the greatest hockey I've ever seen displayed by a goalie since the late Chuck Gardiner"....Durnan's great ability, says Irvin, is to keep his feet so that, if there is a rebound, he is in position to handle it.

Query:

Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell refers to the army's plans for a national boxing tournament in Ottawa and comments: "It will be remembered of course that when the R.C.A.F. made a winning drive for hockey, the team was concentrated in Ottawa. The army followed suit."

He Hum!

Gault Gillespie, tireless Quebecker who won the Canadian cross-country ski title two successive pre-war years at Fort William and Banff, Alta., is still one of the East's leading skiers. Bill (Montreal Gazette) Weintraub) recalls the time Gillespie missed the train from St. Agathe to Ste. Marguerite where he was due to race. Gault skied 20 miles and arrived just in time for the race. He won the 12-mile race, then skied back to St. Agathe. A mere matter of 52 miles altogether!

Incidentally:

Herman Gruhn, who helped St. Boniface win the Memorial Cup in 1938 and Regina Rangers win the Allan Cup in 1941, now is playing Air Force hockey at St. Thomas, Ont. A team-mate is Eddie Kullman who was with Winnipeg Rangers, Memorial Cup champions, a year ago....Queen's University is planning a new rink to be built after the war, possibly near the football stadium. The old rink site is needed for an extension to the medical building. The new structure will have accommodation for 4,000....Toronto swimming circles are high on the prospects of 11 year old Billy McIlroy who has turned in some fast backstroke times.

St. Mike's Hold Lead Over Galt

TORONTO, March 7. — Taking advantage of a tripping penalty to Jake Forbes, St. Mike's scored twice in the last two minutes to defeat Galt 5-2 last night at the Maple Leaf Gardens before a paid attendance of 5,190. The win gave the Irish this O.H.A. Junior A best-of-five playoff series three games to one. Furthermore, it advanced them into the next round. Paul McNamara's boys meet either Navy or Hamilton.

Schnurr Seals It.

That's the cold body all ready for examination. And what a full-bloooded, vibrant body it was before Bobby Schnurr knocked it kicking with those two last-period tallies.

It was the best game of the series, possibly the best junior game this season at the Gardens. The best hockey wasn't displayed, although there was plenty of that. What made it grip the crowd from start to finish was the rugged play; the checking, which, though close, allowed both teams to swing rapidly up and down the ice; the confusion and haranguing through a penalty mixup in the second period; the mounting tension throughout the final frame, which became almost unbearable as Galt scored twice and surged stronger and stronger; the first break in the tension with Forbes' penalty, followed by St. Mikes' winning outburst; and the brief fistic outbreak with a second left that blew off all the excess steam.

The short bunching bout occupied about every one on the ice and had two sections. It resulted in major penalties to Frank Melong and Pete Babando. Two interesting sidelights were: Bob Schnurr and Harry Kazarin chatting amiably as the first part died, then falling furiously on each other as the action started up again; Long John McCormack getting himself in a fight with short Bruce Philbey to start the fireworks up again.

Tried To Drown Small Baby In Water Pail

KINGSTON, March 7— (CP).—Mrs. Rita Wagar testified yesterday at the resumption of the murder trial of her mother, Mrs. Annie May McCumber, repeating evidence she had given at the first trial of her mother, when the jury disagreed.

Mrs. McCumber is charged with the murder of the infant son of her daughter, Mrs. Wagar told the jury yesterday that Walter Haley, the father of her child, told her that he had tried unsuccessfully to drown the baby in a pail of water. Then he told her, she said, that "the baby won't last long where I put it." Two days later Haley forced her to accompany him when he carried a length of stove pipe, stuffed with newspaper at each end, to a groundhog hole where he buried the baby's body.

Mrs. Wagar swore that she did not know the baby's body was in the stove pipe until Haley buried it.

Dr. C. S. Tennant, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, testified that Mrs. McCumber was of low mentality. Regarding statements she made to police after the baby's body was found he declared the accused was "pliable to suggestions."

Hundreds of miles eastward, on Bougainville Island in the Solomons, Allied planes bombed and strafed Japanese concentrations against the American perimeter at Empress Augusta Bay, and artillery pounded the Japanese positions. There was mounting evidence that the thousands of Japanese stranded on Bougainville were massing for some desperate thrust at the Empress Augusta Bay positions.

Southeast of Bougainville, abandoned Japanese on Choiseul Island were blasted and strafed in a leisurely daylight raid in which even slow-moving Catalina patrol planes took part. These Japanese, gathered on northern Choiseul beaches waiting for evacuation barges that never arrived, were believed largely wiped out.

Rabaul, on New Britain, was struck in a mid-day attack and Army and Navy bombers bombed three Japanese positions in the Marshall Islands March 4.

Six Seamen Escape

VANCOUVER, March 7—(CP)—An intensive search for six British seamen who escaped through a steel-barred window Friday night continued today. The six who had been awaiting trial on charges of deserting from the Royal Navy were C. Spinks, J. Stewart, D. Moyle, A. Roberts, A. York, and W. Gilles.

Dr. A. Thompson On Monday Dies In Havelock

HAVELOCK, March 7—A medical practitioner for 57 years, Dr. Arthur Septimus Thompson, 85, died here Monday. He had been active in practice until a few weeks ago. He was a brother of Ernest Thompson Seton, the writer.

Dr. Thompson was born in Smithfields, England, coming as a child with his parents and nine brothers to Canada, and first settling in Lindsay. In 1868 the family moved to Toronto. As a young man Dr. Thompson went to Western Canada where he homesteaded. Graduating in 1887 from Manitoba Medical College, he took post graduate work in London, England, and Edinburgh, Scotland. Returning to Canada, he practised for a time in Western Canada and later established a practice in Eastern Ontario, coming to Havelock 25 years ago.

Dr. Thompson retained interesting reminisences of having served as a field-dresser in the Northwest Rebellion in 1885. He was a member of Knox-Presbyterian church, Havelock.

The late John Enoch Thompson, one-time consul for Spain, of Toronto, was a brother. Surviving are his widow, Anna Simpson Thompson, formerly of Innisfail, Alta., two daughters, Jean and Helen, both of Toronto, a son, Cpl. Arthur Thompson, R.C.A.F., in Sydney, N.S., two brothers, Ernest Thompson Seton of New Mexico, and Alan C. Thompson of Toronto.

Cosgrave Lost His Grip On Irish Party

BY JOSEPH DENNIGAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, March 6 — (CP) — William Thomas Cosgrave's retirement from the leadership of Fine Gael, the principal opposition party in the Dail, and from political life now is complete.

He has notified the clerk of the House that he wil not accept any further allowances as a member of the Dail or leader of the opposition.

Why has this veteran statesman broken with politics so abruptly? The party explanation is that he is tired and needs a rest after 25 years of hard work.

There are, however, other reasons. Even before last year's election, Cosgrave' grip on the party was relaxing. Fine Gael has for many years been losing ground in the country. Last summer, a group of farmers known as the Sons of the Soil — newcomers to politics—captured nearly half the Cosgrave seats in the house.

Inside the party—people were saying it was time they had a little more vim in it. Cosgrave must have known that one day the safety valve would burst and he did not wait.

Gen. Richard Mulcahy, the new leader promises developements. Party discipline is to be tightened and more attention is to be paid to the problems of Agriculture — no doubt with an eye on the Sons of the Soil who sit across the floor beside the government benches and challenge the Fine Gael claim to ownership and the farmers and their problems.

Not Member of Dail

Mulcahy suffers the disadvantage of not being a member of the Dail, having lost his seat in the 1943 election. He is, however, active as a Senator and it is believed that the first opportunity will be taken to provide him with a seat in the Dail. Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, meanwhile, leads Fine Gael in the house.

Mulcahy has a passion for statistics, graphs and precision. One of his failings is that he has never been quite able to rid himself of the bitterness caused by the tragic years of civil war after the treaty with Britain establishing the Irish Free State, now Eire.

Meanwhile, William Norton's labor group wrestles with internal difficulties which have split the party.

It began with the nomination of the veteran Jim Larkin as an official Labor candidate, a risky political venture in view of the fact the principal prop of the Labor party was William O'Brien's Transport and General Worker's Union.

O'Brien and Larkin have been implacable foes for 30 years and O'Brien notified the Labor party he was withdrawing his support and directed union members who are Dail members to discard Norton's leadership. Five of the eight deputies obeyed the order.

Norton is seeking their expulsion from the party while they, in turn, have asked the speaker to give them a committee room of their own and separate seats in the Dail chamber.

The blow on Berlin was delivered with the full weight of the U.S. 8th Air Force.

Photographs brought back by Maj. Walton Weitner, a reconnaissance pilot who flew alone in an unarmed plane over Berlin, showed numerous fires and great devastation were left among war plants and other targets, American aerial experts said.

83 Fighters Bagged.

In the fierce battles which waged from the Netherlands coast to Berlin and far on the road home, the American fighter fleet scored a record kill of 83 Nazi fighters and a single bomber group knocked down at least 40 more. Other bomber groups got the rest.

Sending up a barrage of rockets, 20 millimetre shells and other flak—including a rocket-type which crewmen said "burst in geysers as big as haystacks"—the Nazi defenders made a virtual hell in the skies and created a scene over Berlin which one gunners described as "Dante's Inferno."

Claimed 100 Bombers.

The German radio—while blaring that 129 American planes, including more than 100 bombers, were downed—admitted that a major portion of the bombers broke through.

Travellers reaching Sweden said the attack was delivered between one and three p.m. and was concentrated on the northern and eastern sections of Berlin. One bomb, they said, dropped on Tempelhof airdrome.

Unlike Saturday's assault on the capital by one formation, yesterday's great raid found the Nazi air force lying in wait for an all-out effort to repel the attack.

"Only 10 minutes from the target the Germans lined up in front of us and really came in," said one pilot. "There were hordes of them and they came at us in waves—ME-410's first and then FW-190's and ME-109's."

"They just lined up tail to tail and started circling us like Indians used to make war on a lone covered wagon," said another flier in describing an attack by 10 Nazi fighters against his bomber which had dropped behind his formation.

industrial development bank with maximum resources of $100,000,000 which will assist industry—particularly small industry — in financing after the war.

Should this business also be completed, the members will proceed to consideration of Navy Department estimates totalling $410,000,000 for the fiscal year 1944-45, which compare with estimates of $489,144,967 for 1943-44.

The House spent almost the entire day on defence affairs. Immediately after opening of the session members applauded loudly as Defence Minister Ralston announced the award of the Victoria Cross to Capt. Paul Triquet of the Royal 22nd Regiment for valor in Italy.

Hon. Cyrus MacMillan, Parliamentary Assistant to Maj' Power, reviewed education facilities provided for R.C.A.F. members. He said more than 7,000 French-Canadians have graduated from the School of English at No. 1 Manning Depot at Toronto.

War Lectures

To meet the need for general information on the part of airmen the Air Force has inaugurated a series of "Progress of War" lectures, said Mr. MacMillan.

A definite time is allotted for such teaching which constitutes lecturing, discussions and films, all with the object of making all ranks more familiar with the ideals for which they fight, with their responsibility and with possibilities the post-war holds for all—"in a word, to make them more effective members of the Air Force community to-day and better citizens of the world to-morrow."

In addition there are trade improvement classes, self-improvement classes in cultural subjects, including languages, home making courses for airwomen, correspondence courses with 10,000 personnel enrolled at high school and university levels, pre-aircrew education for ground crew wishing to remuster as aircrew of whom there have been some 11,000 to date.

Maj. Power assured the House that Canada will be in the war against Japan "until the end."

"We are going to shift from the European theatre to where Canada can do the most harm against Japan at the proper time," he continued.

The air minister said that a transport air training school will be opened next month where R.C.A.F. men will be trained in air transport.

25,971 From Ranks

He announced that of 32,000 men holding R.C.A.F. commissions, 25,971 were commissioned from the ranks.

In R.C.A.F. squadrons overseas, there are six officers to every five other ranks in air crew, while in ground crew there are 13 other ranks to one officer.

New Democracy Leader Blackmore said that Maj. Power should make inquiry to see that there was a sufficient difference in pay to make it financially worthwhile for a man to accept a commission from non-commissioned rank.

The minister said he would look into the matter, but Flt. Lt. James Sinclair (L—Vancouver North), himself wearing the R.C.A.F. uniform, said no man in the service suffered by having a commission.

Flt. Lt. Sinclair said he thought the time had come to cancel special flying pay for non-flying personnel. They could claim $2 flying pay a day for flights although flying was as safe as other means of travel. If they built up sufficient flying time they might claim income tax exemption.

NEW COMMAND—Brig.-Gen. Benjamin Giles, who is to take over the command of U.S. forces in the Middle East from Gen. Ralph Royce, who is leaving shortly for another theatre of operations.

Rescue Five Airmen

HALIFAX, March 7 — (CP) — Five airmen who survived the crash of a Liberator bomber Feb. 18 have been brought to an airport in a remote section of the east coast, an R.C.A.F. Public Relations Officer here said last night. The fliers were brought out by dog-teams, which took several days to mush the 30 miles from the airport to the spot where the big-four-engine plane crashed up with the loss of one life. The crash victim was F.O. David Griffin of Toronto, R.C.A.F. Public Relations Oficer and former newspaperman.

BANKING IS ADAPTABLE

...it changes constantly to meet this country's changing needs

FOR INSTANCE...

Ever wonder where your ration coupons go? The answer is that your grocer takes your sugar, butter and other coupons to his bank, which acts as the government's agent in identifying and accounting for millions of spent coupons. This vast bookkeeping job—known as "Ration Coupon Banking"—is just one of the new, additional assignments which the banks have assumed as part of their wartime service.

Another is the payment, on behalf of the government, of certain subsidies arising out of wartime price control. Still another is the handling of exchange transactions as agents of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

At the same time the banks have arranged facilities to serve military establishments and new war-industry centres alike.

Through loans to industry and agriculture, they have helped to increase the supply of raw materials, weapons and food.

They have acted as issuing agents for approximately $5,700,000,000 worth of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, as well as lending direct financial aid to the government through short-term loans.

...All this in the face of widespread staff changes resulting from enlistments of 8,360 trained bank employees.

The war emergency has proved the readiness and ability of Canada's banks to adapt their services to new conditions. It has proved, once again, the strength of your banking system, which is providing a firm base of financial service for the greatest economic effort in the nation's history, and will with equal resourcefulness meet the challenge of the years ahead.

LOSES HIS TICKET AND PASS

A Peterborough soldier home on leave has had the misfortune of losing his wallet on George street. The most important contents were his return ticket back to camp and his pass.

SECOND SALVAGE DRIVE.

Peterborough's next salvage drive is scheduled to begin the week of April 10 and will be carried out under the same arrangement as was employed in the campaign just concluded. Proceeds of the first drive amounted to a little over $220, and this will be shared equally by the five women's auxiliaries that were affiliated in organizing the drive.

FIRE REPORT.

Rubbish behind the stove in the coal and wood office of E. J. Metcalf, 201 Antrim Street, caught fire at 9.30 p.m. Monday night, burning the wall and causing damage estimated at $15. Earlier, at 8.37 p.m., firemen went to a reported house-fire at 496 Rogers Street, but it turned out to be only a chimney fire and no damage resulted. This morning at 10.10 there was another chimney fire at 6 Bruce Street, J. Cowery.

BOTTLE COLLECTION

The Military Training Centre's appeal for medicine bottles to help alleviate its shortage is meeting with a ready response from private citizens. At Elliott's and Miller's drug stores, where collections are being made, bottles are being brought in steadily. Elliott's reports "about 100" of various sizes already on hand, and an uncounted, but really large number has come in at Miller's, especially since Monday afternoon.

HAD TO BE CAREFUL

In spite of the slippery condition of the city streets on Monday night and this morning as a result of freezing rain, police report that there were no serious accidents of any kind. The state of the roads forced motorists to drive very slowly and with unusual care, and as a result mishaps were rare. The greatest difficulty was getting up and down hills and some motorists preferred to walk rather than to take a chance.

31-Mill Rate Is Confirmed By City Council

Confirming the one-mill increase over last year, as recommended by its finance committee, the city council Monday night formally set the tax rate at 31 mills for Public School and 34 mills for Separate School supporters.

In a discussion of the budget bylaw and a question of the possibility of avoiding an increase, the council adjourned to go into finance committee to reconsider the estimates. The net result of that temporary retreat was a reinforcing of their conviction that they had no alternative and escape from the necessity of advancing the rate to 31 mills.

A letter from the Peterborough Property Owners' Association, signed by its secretary, William Langford, urged the council "to refrain from increasing the tax rate if it can possibly be avoided." This appeal mentioned the new peak in income taxes, the approaching Victory Loan and some other general obligations, and suggested that the surplus and reserves of the City Trust Commission and Utilities Commission were at an all time high, and that it should be easy to obtain a transfer to the city treasury of an amount equivalent to one mill in the rate.

Sees Rent Increase

"In respectfully making this suggestion," Mr. Langford wrote, "the Association has the interest of the citizens as a whole in mind, as the new rental law allows property owners to increase rents by the same amount as taxes are increased, and an increase of one mill would cause the rent of hundreds of houses in Peterborough to be increased without delay should taxes be advanced for 1944."

At the conclusion of the meeting Alderman Cotton moved, seconded by Alderman Glover, that the clerk be instructed to write the Association advising them that the council had reconsidered the estimates and found it impossible to compress the rate to 30 mills.

No Trust Money

When the report of the finance committee was read by Alderman Cotton, chairman, including the 31-mill rate recommendation, Alderman Glover said he would like to see it kept the same as last year. He said there might be a good deal in what the Ratepayers' Association suggested.

"Absolutely nothing in what they say about getting any money from the City Trust or the Utilities Commission," Mayor Hamilton declared, "but I feel a considerable amount of money is to be paid out by the citizens this year," presumably a reference to the incidence of war costs on the individual purse.

Alderman Glover: "I feel sure if we approached the City Trust at their meeting Tuesday afternoon they'd agree to pay the $6,500 for the Allin property. When we thought of cutting down to 30 mills the other night, we had only a little to spare, but we immediately put the rates up to 31 mills."

Mayor Hamilton: "I don't think we did."

Alderman Glover: "My recollection is that we got down to thirty mills but it was felt we had too little to spare for unforeseen requirements during the year."

Mayor Hamilton reminded the council that three trucks were ordered last year, two for the Board of Works and one for the Parks Committee, an expenditure of $7,500 "and they might come in any day". With that item in the background, a request to the City Trust would not prevent an increase in the rate.

Alderman Mark said "we practically decided on a 30-mill rate the other night", but Mayor Hamilton said there was no such decision.

Alderman Sullivan said he had in mind last week the possibility of an easing in labor this year, and the Board of Works could accomplish more work and necessary work if they had the money.

"What I am fearful of is that if we reduce the rate to 30 mills," he continued, "we shall not feel free to go ahead with undertakings of the Board of Works and other departments."

Alderman Cotton "We have cut down on a lot of works in the last two or three years because we have not money enough, or the rate would have been higher. This summer there may be more men looking for work. Some of them probably haven't saved any money. The factories are not going to open up on post-war work because the Department is not letting them have materials. That is why I feel that there may be men looking to us for work, and we should be in a position to provide."

Only $800 Margin

Alderman Dutton: "I feel that not a member desires to increase the tax rate, and I consider that we have gone into the matter very thoroughly. If my memory of the committee meeting serves me right we had an estimated surplus of $800 with a 30 mill rate. We have no right to budget for a surplus, but if we do not budget for unforeseen expenses during the year we are likely to leave ourselves open to criticism. I feel that certain work ought to be done as we go along from year to year. If deferred work comes in one year the council would have to face an increase of two or three mills in the rate. I feel that it is a mistake to try to get along on 30 mills unless we can get assistance from some other source."

Mayor Hamilton said he had seen the day when the council finished a year with a deficit, and that amount had to be made in the following year.

Move to Reconsider

Alderman Dutton referred to the committee's action in rejecting an item for unpaid accounts and others to provide for much needed painting this year in the requisition from the Nicholls Hospital.

Alderman Sands:— "If we are going into individual items again, I'd move that we return to the estimates in finance committee where we can discuss them with the figures before us."

Mayor Hamilton: "Well. we should do it right now. It is so important, let us do it tonight if we don't do anything else."

Alderman Swanston: "I think we ought to approach the City Trust about the Allin purchase. That money was really for park purposes. I'd suggest that the Mayor go to their meeting Tuesday, and make the request. The chairman of the finance committee (Alderman Cotton) could also go if he'd like to."

Alderman Sands moved, seconded by Alderman Swanson, that the council adjourn into committee "to reconsider the estimates".

After Bigger Game

Mayor Hamilton: "I'm disappointed that you would ask the City Trust for this amount. Possibly later on we might ask them to do something a great deal larger. I don't think the $6,500 would affect the rate to any great extent."

Presumably "the great deal larger amount" referred to a rumor that the council may appeal to the City Trust to provide the money for a site for the new city hall.

Alderman Dutton: "Even with the $6,500 we'd have less than $8,000 to work on."

Alderman Glover: "I don't know a rate that would prevent us doing necessary work or that would leave us with a deficit."

"Let's take the bull by the horns," Mayor Hamilton said, and the council retired to the committee room.

City Treasurer Shaver estimated that a 31-mill rate would provide a margin of $20,200 more than the estimated required.

First was subtracted $7,500 for the three new trucks leaving $12,700; an estimated loss of $2,700 on the wood bought by the city, cut the margin to $10,000.

Alderman Dutton: "I suggest that we might have to face competition in wood that would leave us $1 to $2 a cord less than now."

"Sell Every Stick"

Alderman Glover: "No one can see that. But, if that is to be the case we might better begin selling now every stick we've got on hand.

The discussion veered around to Board of Works employment, and Alderman Swanston enquired: "How many of the fellows coming back are going to dig sewers. They know how the old gang were fooled. I don't think there is any use talking about digging sewers to fellows who have been driving tanks and tractors over there."

$12,700 for Contingencies

The upshot of the committee session was unanimous agreement that the 30-mill rate was not feasible, and it was finally decided to pay the $7,500 for the three expected trucks out of the $20,200, leaving $12,700 for the miscellaneous account.

Alderman Cotton said he was not thinking so much of employment this year of men from the armed services as for the men at home who have been working in factories and who might be looking for work by summer time.

Alderman Swanston remarked should be considered, but the members finally returned to the council chamber, and the tax rate was clinched to stay at 31 mills.

Rev. J. D. Howson Joining Navy

Rev. J. Donald Howson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howson, Aylmer street, announced to his congregation at St. Andrew's church, Fredericton, N.B., Sunday that he had been granted leave of absence from his parish for the duration of hostilities in order to enter the Chaplaincy service of the Royal Canadian Navy. He will conduct the last services of his four years of ministry at St. Andrew's on March 19.

Widely travelled and possessing a thorough knowledge of Presbyterian tradition, Mr. Howson was ordained in Saint Andrew's church on Ascension Day, 1940. He received his B.A. from Trinity College, University of Toronto, in 1937 and immediately went to Saint Mary's University, Saint Andrew's Scotland, to take the required course in theology. Continuing his studies there until the outbreak of war in 1939 made further attendance at university in Scotland impossible, he returned to Canada and graduated from McGill University in 1940 with the degree of L.Th.

A favorite with his congregation, Mr. Howson's departure is the source of much regret to his parishioners. Throughout four years of service he has been highly interested in the organization of young people's activities in Saint Andrew's church, and has stimulated congregational thought by many eloquent sermons.

Soldier Letters Fail To Get Through

Letters to Canadian soldiers who are prisoners in Germany do not seem to be getting through, but Red Cross parcels are arriving regularly, Charles and Mrs. Rose, 423 Driscoll Terrace, report.

Their son, Corp. Vernon Rose, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, has been a prisoner for five months and they have just received a letter from him.

"He says that he has not had a letter from us, although we have been writing regularly," Mr. Rose, an employee of the city parks board, said this morning. "He has been getting Red Cross parcels, however, and says they are a wonderful comfort to the boys."

The Roses are not having much luck with mail in regard to their mail.

Another son, Corp. Edward Rose, also of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was wounded on September 2, but his parents have not heard from him in 16 weeks.

"All we know is what we have heard about him from boys who have come back from Italy. They say that he was badly wounded in the legs, but we have had nothing more from the military authorities as to his condition and nothing from Edward himself for nearly four months," the parents stated.

Still another brother is at the front in Italy. He is Pte. Donald Rose, and a fourth is Trooper Alfred Rose with the Canadian Tank Corps at Newmarket. A son-in-law, George Chamberlain, is also in Italy with the Canadian forces.

City To Assess Suburbs For 1945 Taxes

"That annexation take place as of January 1, 1945, but that every effort be made to have the necessary order of the Ontario Municipal Board and the necessary Private Bill of the Legislature approved in 1944, and that the expenses in connection with the annexation proceedings be shared between the city and township on a proportionate basis of population."

This was one of the clauses in the report of the committee of the whole council Monday night on the progress of annexation of two areas of North Monaghan.

City Solicitor Hycke informed the council that the Private Bill was likely to be adopted in the general terms and form of the Hamilton-Saltfleet annexation and that details would be eft to a local conference.

"If we can't agree on any matters they may be referred to the county Judge or some other person. Mr. Huycke said, "but the Bill generally must be first approved by an Act of the Legislature."

The committee report including the valuation of $62,500 of the two township schools was "laid over for the time being".

The committee of the whole also recommended in its report that the city pay the township each year the monies required to meet payments of the local improvement debentures, incurred for local improvements within the annexed area, and in turn the city charge on a frontage basis, similar to that prevailing in the city, to the property owners benefiting from them the payments required for these local improvements.

That is the exact wording of the pellucid clause in the report.

Accept Payments

Another clause:— "That the township enter into an agreement with Wartime Housing Limited to accept payments in lieu of taxes for Wartime Housing projects in the township and negotiate its own financial terms with the Peterborough School Boards for the education of children from the Hatton area, and that the city make no charge to the township for municipal services given by the city to these Wartime Housing areas."

The township also agrees to permit this year assessment of the proerties to be annexed, and the city's Court of Revision hear appeals against these assessments and confirm the assessments before December 31.

"That the city give special consideration for assessment purposes for a period of five years from the time of the commencement of the annexation to properties in the area annexed which are classed, according to standards to be agreed upon, as lands used for agricultural purposes, with the understanding that, if deemed necessary, permission later will be sought to extend the period of this agreement for special consideration in respect of these properties."

Damage Action Taken From Jury

Mention of an insurance company in evidence for the plaintiff caused the discharge Monday afternoon of the assize court jury empanelled for the trial of a suit by Timothy A. Collins against Wallie Edwards for $10,000 damages in a motor accident, the hearing of which was continuing this afternoon.

A witness casually referred to a detail of information suggested "by the insurance company," and T. J. Carley, K.C., counsel for the defendant, requested Mr. Justice J. A. Hope to take the case from the jury. His Lordship acceded at once, informing the jurors that the casual circumstance of evidence terminated their participation in the work of the court.

Court practice excludes any reference to defense insurance in traffic actions for damages in trials before a jury.

Mr. Collins was seriously injured May 15th about 10.30 p.m. at the intersection of George and Princess street., when struck by an automobile driven by Wallie Edwards. He was carrying a parasol against a light rain.

Medical evidence by Dr. Raymore Scott and Dr. F. A. O'Reilly showed that Mr. Collins had suffered the fracture of nine or ten ribs on the right side, some facial and head injuries and an impairment of his right arm at the shoulder that might be permanent.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the plaintiff, said at the noon adjournment today that he expected to complete the evidence on Mr. Collins' behalf early in the afternoon.

APPOINTED ARCHBISHOP — Most Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan has been appointed Roman Catholic Archbishop of the Archdiocese of Kingston, which includes Peterborough. He is a native of Hamilton, and before his appointment as Bishop of Charlottetown in 1931, was president of St. Augustine's seminary, Toronto.

License Refused Piccadilly Club

Neglect of Louis Yeotes to have a light placed over the exterior fire escape at the Piccadilly Club, 337½ George street, prompted Fire Chief Gimblett to refuse a license for the continued used of the premises. And it was also pointed out that the Club was not operating under a provincial license.

The Piccadilly and its license returned to the attentions of the council Monday night as a familiar, an old friend who hasn't been around for about a year. And the whole question of licenses in general stirs up about the same discussion from time to time, and nothing ever happens.

Alderman Dutton admitted that nothing ever happens about these things. Most people pay their license fees, but some try to dodge them, at least as long as they can get away with it. Both he and Alderman Sands were so peeved about it that the incident seemed almost humorous in at least its aspect of bland and innocent return and repetition.

"Well, what are we going to do about it," one of the members enquired.

Mayor Hamilton said he would go around to the police station in the morning, and they'll have to close the place.

"That's just what happened about a year ago. You were going around to the police to tell them to do something, and now we've got the same thing all over again. Can't we get some established policy for these matters."

The sharpness in the Sands tone probably suggested to Alderman Dutton that it might be well to ask the legal committee for a report on the whole matter. Alderman Sands is chairman of that committee. The Dutton resolution carried.

Incidentally, it seems that Sanitary Inspector MacPherson also turned a thumb down on the refreshment bar in the Piccadilly.

Friends Help War Victims In Time Of Need

The name "Friend" is one which is capable of a varying interpretation, ranging all the way from something that might be quite casual, to one that has a depth of feeling that possibly provoked the quotation of "A friend in need, is a friend indeed".

The last word of this quotation might easily be divided into two parts "In Deed" to emphasize the fact that deeds of friendship were the things that really counted most in the particular sphere to which they might have reference.

In all the records of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, not one particular acknowledgement of donations given has appeared more frequently than this name of "Friend", itself a concrete evidence of the important place it holds in many people's esteem, when designating their identity in relation to an act of good for others in trouble.

This undoubtedly is the highest type of friendship that any person or persons can offer, for one of life's greatest missions is to give comfort to those who are in trouble, and if possible help to alleviate their sufferings in as practical a way as circumstances will permit.

This perhaps is the first day of its kind, when the entire receipts go to the credit of those who desire to be unknown as friends, among whom is one living in the district outside of the city who comes forward with a substantial gift of $35, while another suggests that more than one person is implicated in the amount of $9.00 that stands to its credit, and the other is listed in an amount of $5.00, making a nice total of $49.00, which brings the fund now within less than $900.00 required to complete the next donation of £500.

Choir Festival March 13

One of the finest musical treats of this season is promised for next Monday night, March 13 in the Salvation Army Temple, when the Choirs of Mark Street United church and Murray Street Baptist church will combine with the Temple Band and Songsters of the Salvation Army to give a concert from which the fund will share the net proceeds with another worthy fund assisting in the war effort.

With D. G. H. Melton acting as chairman for the occasion, this event will commence at 8 p.m. and there is every promise of a capacity audience, for tickets which are selling at 25 cents have had quite a brisk demand. The program will be diversified to quite some extent, choral numbers by the combined choirs having a full share, interspersed with numbers by the band under the direction of Bandmaster R. G. Routly, and the Northrop brothers specialties, with solo numbers by Mrs. James Goldie.

This almost duplicates a similar event given about a year ago which was so eminently successful, the arrangements as at that time again being in the hands of Messrs. Harry and Stanley Northrop, Ben Smith and R. G. Routly.

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

Children who are thin, nervous and under par, science has discovered, are often found to be eating foods which do not give them enough of the essential food elements everyone needs for health.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in the diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins—all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, why not start giving New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

Miscellaneous Showers

Prior to her marriage to C.P.O. Lorne Mullen, Miss Helen Liddell was entertained at several miscellaneous showers. Mrs. A. O. Phillips gave a shower at her home, 696 George street, and Miss Audrey Rose and Mrs. H. Dafoe (nee Helen Grant) were joint hostesses at a shower held at the former's home, Water street. The girls from the production department of the C.G.E. were present at a shower given by Mrs. C. Banks, Rubidge street. Later in the evening, Mr. S. O. Shields presented Miss Liddell with a beautiful travelling case and a set of pictures on behalf of the office staff.

Margaret Millar Weds Peterboro Man

Daffodils, calla lilies and fern formed the floral background for the marriage ceremony recently, when Margaret Lilias Millar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Millar, Belleville, became the bride of George Wellington Eastbrook, Peterborough, son of Mrs. Eastbrook and the late Mr. Herberet Eastbrook of South Devon, New Brunswick. Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiated at the ceremony, which was conducted at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Muriel Wells played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon velvet, fashioned on princess lines. The bodice had a Sweetheart neckline, and the long, tight-fitting sleeves came to a point over each wrist, while the full skirt lengthened slightly to form a train. Her floor-length veil of embroidered silk net was caught to her head with a cap of ostrich tips, and she carried a muff of velvet, accented by a small spray of calla lilies.

Miss Isabelle Taylor, of Peterborough, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue corded taffeta, on similar lines to that of the bride. A short veil fell from her small matching Juliet cap, and red roses were pinned to her muff of blue corded taffeta. Mr. Hunter Tate of Toronto was best man.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother received the guests at the reception, wearing a blue sheer redingote, with matching accessories, and corsage of red roses. For a wedding trip to South Devon, N.B., the bride donned a gold crepe ensemble, with chocolate brown accessories, a muskrat coat, and wore a corsage of green orchids. On their return, the young couple will live in Peterborough.

Included in the out-of-town guests were friends from Hamilton, Toronto, Bowmanville, and Brockville.

Oldest Member Presents Badge

Mrs. Mills, oldest member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, presented Mrs. A. Porter with her past-president's badge, and also with a gift, on behalf of the members of the Auxiliary, as its regular meeting, Monday evening in the Legion Hall. Mrs. E. Houghton, convener for sewing for the past sixteen years, was also presented with a gift from the members by Mrs. W. Downer, the president.

Seven new members were welcomed at this meeting, and reports from the Auxiliary's representatives to the Local Council of Women and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board were given. It was announced that the Auxiliary would sponsor another bingo, April 10, with proceeds to go to war relief. Mrs. J. Little and her committee served refreshments.

Helen Liddell Weds Sailor At Pretty Navy Wedding

Murray Street Baptist Church was decorated with ferns and Union Jacks for the naval wedding of Helen Ada Liddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Liddell, 2 Anson street, to Chief Petty Officer Lorne V. Mullen, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Mullen, Smith township. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiated. Mrs. George Nicholls, aunt of the bride, played the weding music, and Mrs. E. Kitney sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory embossed slipper satin, with a tight fitting bodice buttoned down the back to the waist, a Sweetheart neckline, leg-of-mutton sleeves, and a full skirt. Her long veil of fine white net was caught to her head with a Queen Anne headdress of net, and she wore silver slippers and carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Harriet Reid was maid of honor, in yellow taffeta, with a Queen Anne headdress, gold slippers, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. Misses Phyllis Liddell and Audrey Rose were bridesmaids, and were frocked alike in baby blue taffeta, with matching net gloves, Mary Queen of Scots caps and shoulder-length veils, silver slippers, and carried bouquets of pink snap dragons and daffodils.

Chief Petty Officer Stephen E. Tripp was best man, and ushers were Ord. Smn. Andy Basciano and Ord. Smn. Gray Gibson.

At the reception, held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of orchid crepe, with an orchid petal hat with a veil, and a corsage of Talisman roses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, in blue crepe, matching accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

For a trip to Toronto and points west the bride chose a dress of powder blue sheer, with matching hat and brown accessories. She also wore a Navy locket, the gift of the groom. Her gift to the groom was a pen and pencil set.

Gifts to the bridesmaids and maid of honor were a china cup and saucer and a Royal Winton cream pitcher to each. The best man received a Navy wallet and the ushers received leather zippered water-proof writing cases.

Park Hill Group Gives Greeks $5

The members of the Park Hill Fellowship Group decided to send a donation of $5 to the Greek Relief Fund at the regular meeting of the group held at the home of Mrs. H. Schram, 504 Glengarry street. Ways by which each individual might raise talent money for war charities were discussed.

Mrs. W. McBride was in charge of the devotional period, and Mrs. A. Cummings read the second portion of the study book, "Our India's Story." The hostess and her assistants served refreshments at the close of the meeting, and it was announced that the next meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. A. Emslie, 417 Bellevue street, March 16th.

Lily Lake W.A. Plans Canvass

Mrs. Orville Young and Mrs. Arthur Beardsmore were joint hostesses for the March meeting of the Lily Lake Women's Association, held at the former's home, Aylmer street, when plans were made to canvass the community during the Red Cross and Community Fund drive.

Fifteen members answered the roll call with an opinion on programs heard on the radio, in relation to their effect on home life. Mrs. Gordon Hancock read another chapter of the book, "The Man Nobody Knows," entitled "Jesus the Outdoor Man." The chapter, "Jesus the Sociable Man," will be read at the April meeting.

Two letters of thanks for Christmas parcels were read, from Jack Ferguson, who is in England, and Douglas Darling, who is with the R.C.A.F. Plans for the making and quilting of a quilt which had been ordered were also made. The hostesses served tea during the social hour which followed. The April meeting will ge held at the home of Mrs. C. Chapman, with Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. W. Steinkraus and Mrs. F. W. Rowland as hostesses.

I.O.D.E. Plans Empire Study

A highlight of the regular meeting of the Jeanette Scott Chapter, I.O.D.E., was the introduction by Mrs. J. Nornabell of a plan for Empire study which she will conduct during the year. The first topic, "Forms of Government Within the Empire," was given by Mrs. Nornabell, and the study promises to be of interest and value to the members.

During the business session, Miss Ann Heideman, hospitality convener, requested the names of hostesses who could billet soldiers and soldiers' wives for week-end leaves. Letters of appreciation for Christmas parcels were read by Miss Heideman from a soldier in Italy and a nursing sister. Mrs. Robert Allin gave the educational convener's report, and an amount was set aside for the purchase of pictures for the chapter's adopted school.

Donations were made to the I.O.D.E. endowment fund and the Red Cross and Community Fund. A request to the members to knit comforts for the H.M.C.S. Peterborough was read, and a bridge tournament for members of the chapter was discussed. Mrs. E. Spurway agreed to take charge of the arrangements, assisted by Mrs. J. Richardson and Miss Grace Comstock.

Miss Isabell Weddell, the regent, was hostess for this meeting.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday March 8

IT IS PROBABLE that some sudden visitation, disruption or disintegrating circumstance may make it desirable to concentrate all plans and programs on future or long range objectives rather than current affairs. The judgment may be erratic or unsound, and the impulses or emotions too insistent for rational or dependable thinking and planning. With postponing or referring critical situations to elders, friends or sound heads of experience and conservative views ultimate benefits may be most stable and eminently worthwhile. In home, social or romantic adventures preserve calm and avoid erratic outbursts.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of sudden and unforeseen developments, of separative, disintegrating or devastating force, which suggests postponement of current affairs until future opportunities may be relied upon and the personal judgment be less emotional, erratic or turbulent. In crises seek wise counsel, elders, friends or superiors whose vision is riper and more dependable. There is much to be gained by this long range planning for future security and stability, with domestic, social, financial, even romantic and emotional adventures gaining by these benign postponements and patience.

A child born on this day may have much stability and soundness of character in spite of eccentric ideas or emotional or temperamental outbursts.

MARRIAGE'S CIVILIZING EFFECT

Nothing Else So Strengthens Moral Muscles, Produces Efficiency, Deflates Ego.

IF MARRIAGE had nothing else to recommend it, it would still be worthwhile for the civilizing effect that it has upon both men and women. True, there are those who are not amenable to its influence and whom no number of weddings can tame or housebreak, but they are the exceptions rather than the rule. Taking it by and large, marriage is a humanizing experience that everyone should try once, at least, for their souls' sake and for the development of their characters, even if they have no especial urge towards the holy estate.

Nothing else will do so much to strengthen their moral muscles, harden their skins to the pinpricks of fortune, toughen their resistance and teach them how to take punishment. By the time they celebrate their silver wedding, the average married couple is fit to take on all comers.

Wedlock Aids Prosperity

Of course, one of the most obvious advantages to marriage is that it is first aid to prosperity.

Very few men ever save any money as long as they are single, or make much headway in their careers. It is their wives who sew up the holes in their pockets and protect them from borrowing friends and grafting relatives, and who are the spur in their sides that sets them going. Half of the fortunes were started by penny-pinching wives, and the other half by extravagant wives whose husbands had to struggle so hard to pay their bills that they became millionaires before they knew it.

Another beneficial effect of marriage is that it is the best remedy yet devised for the prolongation of life. Especially for men. Doctors tell us that it is the Little Woman making her husband eat what she thinks he should eat instead of what he craves and nagging him about wearing his rubbers that keeps many a man out of his grave long after a bachelor would have been in his. And marriage is equally efficacious as a preservation for women, as is proven by the vast numbers who survive their husbands and live to take trips on their insurance money.

Companionship Deflates Person's Ego

But it is in the upper brackets that marriage gets in its beneficient work of lifting us to a higher plane. It deflates our egos, for one thing. Before marriage we think ourselves just about all right and expect everybody to admire us as much as we admire ourselves. But it doesn't take six months of marriage for Friend Husband or Friend Wife to stick pins in our little pink balloons and leave our vanity collapsed. None of us has any idea of what poor, weak, miserable creatures we are until after we get married.

Then marriage is the real school in which diplomacy is learned and in which people acquire the fine art of side-stepping each other's peculiarities and prejudices instead of bashing into them. Any husband and wife who live together harmoniously have acquired a suavity that fits them to sit at the Peace Table.

Marriage is a great life, if you don't weaken.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Suits of every style are heading the spring fashion parade. Let them be man-tailored, classic, or the soft dressmaker type, they are all in the picture for the busy days and nights through spring. Plain colors, in either dark or pastels, stripes, and tweeds. For that added touch of color to set off your spring suit, there is nothing more chic than a smartly tailored blouse. Some have the high neckline with a saucy bow of bright color at the throat. Another blouse with the jewellery neckline opens all the way down the back, and the ever popular mannish tailored, long sleeve blouses.

The versatile vestees, in lace, organdy and batiste, give the added charm to the plain blouse, or dress gives them a more dressed up appearance.

I saw such a charming spring outfit the other day. The suit was red, plain gored skirt, hip-length jacket with cut away front. A white blouse buttoned down the front, with Peter Pan collar and black bow tie, also a black belt. With this was worn a white felt beret, white gloves and hand bag. With the hat was worn a black face veil, caught tightly around the chin. The effect was wonderful.

Another stunning costume in royal blue and military red. The skirt was of blue virgin wool material, very softly draped, and the waist of red. This was made in an over blouse effect, tied at the waist line with narrow blue streamers and an off the face hat set well back on the head. Of course, we all know that the brighter the colors this spring, the more we are in the fashion, and the above described costume was certainly in the limelight for both style and color.

The hats this season are different, and yet so wearable. It is said about the designers of the Easter hats, that they must have kissed the blarney stone, for the styles are flattering, and they add so much to either the spring coat, suit or dress. The smart new sailors, either large or small, are so smart and I am sure your husband will say so when he sees you in one of the many smart spring hats. Off the face hats, low and tipping berets, the new half hats or the smart casual, all have their place in the spring parade.

The colors are bright and cheering, the military reds, royal blues, light greys, purples, and always black, brown, and navy. White will be among the leaders at Easter and looks so very chic when worn with the darker suits and coats.

Corvette Crews Unsung Heroes Of Ocean Lanes

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

A PORT IN NORTHERN IRELAND, March 7 — (CP). — The frigate Waskesiu and the corvette Summerside are two ships of the Royal Canadian Navy which you probably haven't heard much about recently, if at all.

They haven't just sunk a submarine or two. In fact, they haven't done anything spectacular at all. But they have done a steady, skilful escort job bringing convoys over the North Atlantic.

It is rough and dangerous work but it doesn't make headlines when it's everyday duty for these crews. However, these ships are representatives of scores of other Canadian frigates and corvettes who may never see action for a year on end, but whose constant vigilance enables huge convoys to reach the British Isles.

So this is a little yarns about two "regular" ships and the men who sail in them, who get no great praise but who are helping plenty to win the war.

The Waskesiu was the first frigate built in Canada for the R.C.N. A shipyard turned her out and she was commissioned last June.

The captain is Lt.-Commander J. H. S. MacDonald of Liverpool, N.S., who commissioned the first Canadian corvette, the Windflower, back in 1940 and sailed her across the Atlantic on her first voyage, with scarcely any armament aboard at all, to be fitted out in Britain.

John Lincoln of Calgary is the first lieutenant and other officers are Lieuts. Ed. Williams and Jack Holmes, both of Victoria, A. A. MacLeod of Sydney, N.S., and Courtney, B.C., Jim Farmer of Windsor, Ont., George Manson of Vancouver, F. J. Rennie of Seanichton, B.C., and Sub.-Lt. Peter Nares of Winnipeg.

New Medical Officer.

Lieut. Tommy Russell of Toronto was the medical officer since commissioning, but he has gone to another appointment, and taking his place is Lieut. R. H. McFarlane of Winnipeg. Lieut. Thomas McPhee, Bala, Ont., signals officer for the group in which the Waskesiu operates, is sailing in her now too.

On a recent trip the Waskesiu was at sea for 31 days without a break, one of the longest periods any Canadian escort or sub-hunting ship has been constantly at sea. She returned to this port with her larder practically bare. There was not even any hardtack left.

The Summerside was commissioned in September, 1941, and has been slogging around the Atlantic and the Mediterranean ever since. For a while she ran from Newfoundland to Iceland and from November, 1942, to April, 1943, was in the Mediterranean where she did more sea time than any other corvette there.

She ran convoys into hot spots like Bone, east of Algiers, when the German and Italian bombers were supreme in that area. She worked from Gibraltar to Oran to Algiers and back again many times. It was all heavy work, with little glory.

Last spring she joined an all-Canadian escort group in the North Atlantic and hasn't seen a sign of the enemy since.

Lieut. G. St. A. Mongenais, a French-speaking officer from Montreal, is commanding the Summerside now and his officers include Lieuts. G. E. Cross of Montreal, G. C. Carscallen of Hamilton, Ontario, H. P. Timmons of Sydney, N.S., and Sub-Lieuts B. J. Kennedy of Hamilton, Don McGivern of Saint John, N.B., E. T. Coggins, N.S., and Dave Howden of Vancouver.

SMOKE SCREEN — Edward V. Broderick, defence lawyer for Wayne Lonergan, Canadian aircraftman, seems to be hiding behind the screen from his cigarette as he leaves criminal courts building, down in New York, after the trial of Lonergan was declared a mistrial by Judge Freschi. The blue ribbon panel of jurors was dismissed.

St. Paul's Association Hears Story Of Origin

BETHANY, March 7 — (ENS) — The W.A. of St. Paul's Anglican church were entertained last week at the home of Mrs. Clara Armstrong. There were fifteen ladies present. Rev. Mason read the Scripture lesson and conducted prayer. A letter of appreciation was read from a sick member of the church. Letters are to be sent to absent members, those recently bereaved, and another family whose son has been lately wounded on actve service, now in the hospital overseas.

The convener of the sewing commitee reported work accomplished, and distribution of other articles to be made up for Dorcas and bazaar supplies. Mrs. Kennedy brought in a quilt for Dorcas. Finished goods were pieced before being stored.

Members of church council gave an interesting report of plans issued at last session. Work was resumed while members enjoyed the reading of the 4th chapter of the book entitled 'Our Story,' dealing with the origin of the W.A. in Canada in 1885, read by Mrs. Mason.

The ladies were served dinner by Mrs. Armstrong, Miss Reynolds and Mrs. Phillips and a social hour spent. Mrs. F. W. Reynolds invited the ladies to meet at her home for the April meeting. The lunch committee is to be Mrs. Gribble, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Jarvis.

Art Exhibition To Help Seamen Proves Popular

By ANITA FREEDMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 7—(CP)—It's a far cry from the grim business of convoying precious war materials to the serene and timeless world of art but nonetheless the masters have been enlisted in aid of Allied merchant seamen.

The Toronto Art Gallery has an impressive collection of about 90 great paintings on exhibition the proceeds of which go to the Navy League of Canada. The group is necessarily confined to what was available on this continent but private collections and art galleries from Mexico contributed. One or two canvases—such as Hogarth's "The Graham Children" from the National Gallery in London and Vermeer's "Milkmaid" from Amsterdam —were sent here in 1939 for the World's Fair and are being held on this side for the duration.

The finest in the world of art is represented in the exhibition. The selection, made over a period of two years, is based on a poll among regular gallery-goers. Rembrandt headed the list with Whistler and Van Gogh next in order. Cezanne and El Greco, Rubens and Degas were among 30 others listed by a discerning public.

Two Canadians are included in the show—Tom Thomason and Montreal-born James Wilson Morrice. Thomson's familiar West Wind is there but his blue and sunrise-tinted "Northern River" in the first two weeks of the four-week show has been voted the most popular picture at the exhibition—oldtime masters notwithstanding.

Second in the voting is the charming "Graham Children" by Hogarth who, though better known as a satirist, shows perception and understanding in portraying children. High on the list is Rembrandt's rich, low-toned "Philosopher," Constable's cloud-swept "Hampstead Heath" and Rivera's panel "The Flower Vendors," which—sent from Mexico —probably travelled the greatest distance for the exhibit. Hals' "Portrait of a Man Seated" and Reynold's "Viscount Malden" are not far behind in popularity.

Curator Martin Baldwin justifiedly refuses to set a monetary value on the collection but it is whispered that it is worth about $3,000,000. "Man with a Wine Glass" by Velasquez alone is insured for $500,000.

A section of the exhibit is dedicated specifically to the merchant marine. The Royal Canadian Navy and the National Film Board cooperated to provide equipment and a series of graphic photographs depicting various aspects of its work.

Some 20,000 people have seen the exhibit. Artist and dilettante rub shoulders with businessman and housewife. School classes march through daily and gallery attendants have been struck with the fact that the child shows a surer aesthetic instinct than the adult. For example, adults usually stand in frank bewilderment before a Picasso oil which the catalogue not very helpfully describes as "the climax of Picasso's synthetic cubism, at least in its rectilinear phase." One afternoon a child, without benefit of catalogue, exclaimed on first seeing the picture; "Why that looks like modern music." It was. The painting was "The Three Musicians."

CARRYING ON

BRISBANE, Australia (CP) — A Queensland woman is chief official of a Methodist circuit, plays the organ, conducts the services, preaches the sermon and takes up the collection.

ROMAN BATHS, CANADIAN STYLE—When a Canadian mobile bath unit arrived in Italy minus equipment, they were told to "improvise." Pte. Neil D. Campbell of Port Stanley, Ont., decided that this 40-gallon oil drum had a future as a boiler. Pipes were obtained from obsolete Bren gun mountings. Shower heads were manufactured from vacuum tank floats. Gradually portable shower unit takes shape which will supply hot water continually, provided the boys can scrounge enough hose to reach the nearest ditch.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gillis Honored By Friends

CAVAN, March 7—(ENS)—Approximately two hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the Cavan Community Hall last week to extend their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Gillis, newlyweds of the community.

Mr. Lloyd Sutton acter as master of ceremonies for the following program: Song, 'The Second Minuet' by Elaine Argue and Jean Gillis; reading, Margaret McNeil solo, accompanied by guitar, Robert Carr. An amusing mock wedding was also held. The bride (Elaine Argue), entered the hall on the arm of her father, (Betty Moncrief) to the strains of the wedding march played by Catherine Elson. The bridesmaid was Audrey Keen. The groom, played by Jean Gillis, was attended by Barbara Argue, as best man. The minister, Ronald Argue, officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis were invited to seats of honour, when an address was read to them, by Mrs. A. Miller, and a presentation of a china cabinet, two occasional chairs, combination end table with magazine rack, and a blue satin pillow was made to them, by the committee, Elias White, Albert Olan, Gerald Armstrong and Ronald Argue. The remainder of the evening was spent dancing to the music of the Gilmour orchestra, Mr. E. Powell and Mrs. L. Pudsey.

Personals.

Mr. James Paul is seriously ill in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wood and family, of Peterborough, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Reynolds.

Miss Audrey Wood of Bailieboro, was a week-end guest of Wren Nan Fallis at her home.

Wren Nan Fallis returned to Ottwa this week, having spent her furlough with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lavergne M. Fallis.

A euchre party is being held in Cavan Community Hall Wednesday evening in aiad of boxes for boys overseas.

W. J. Seymour's Cow Tops In Milk Giving

In recent milk production records the mature cow "Springdale Inka Prancy," owned by William J. Seymour of Cavan township, attained the top position in the 305-day division with 693 pounds of butter-fat from 18,903 pounds of milk.

The performance of this cow has been consistently outstanding through her years of production. She is now five, and in her fourth year her figures were 16,015 pounds of milk for 599 pounds of fat; in her third year 15,607 pounds of milk and 538 pounds of fat; and in her second year, which was for the full 365 days, 15,045 pounds of milk for 534 pounds of fat.

Her total for four years is 63,571 pounds of milk and 2,364 pounds of fat.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Merriam's Orchestra, Cobourg and refreshments were served at midnight. The next bingo and dance will be held March 10.

DIED FROM HUNGER

LONDON— (CP) — Netherlands sources in London report more than 200 Dutch regular Army officers died in a German concentration camp of hunger. They belonged to a group of 600 who refused to "volunteer" for forced labor and were deported to a penal settlement.

W.M.S. Holds Meeting And Prayer Service

SPRINGVILLE, March 7—(ENS) —Mrs. Bernard Preston was hostess to the W.M.S. for the combined monthly meeting and Day of Prayer service.

Mrs. S. S. Staples offered her home for the March meeting and Mrs. Dunn's group will be in charge of the program. The roll call will be answered by a Bible promise.

It was decided to give half of the February offering to the Day of Prayer service fund. Mrs. Preston and Mrs. J. Whitfield were appointed a committee to secure a speaker for the Easter Thankoffering service. Mrs. Edison Kimbal was appointed key woman for the society for the 1944 Day of Prayer.

Letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. T. H. McIndoo and Harry M. S. McBain, and from Helen Staples.

Mrs. Everson gave a report from the recent presbyterial and Mrs. S. S. Staples gave an account of the memorial service in connection with it. The Day of Prayer service was then followed for the remainder of the program.

Mrs. Bothwell played soft music in opening. The parts of leader and second leader were taken respectively by Mrs. Preston and Mrs. Owen Murray. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Harold Cathcart and Mrs. Frederick Clarke. A solo was sung by Mrs. Vincent Whittington of Peterborough, accompanied by Mrs. Williamson, and a brief devotional talk was given by Mrs. Jack Whitfield.

2-INCH MORTAR

Chief Sitting Bull would have had his own name for it; probably "Small stove-pipe go boom! Make much smoke." But the Old Chief wouldn't have sat long in the vicinity of bursting 2-inch mortar bombs.

Primarily a smoke-producing weapon for screening movements, and unexcelled in that role, it is also a regular little Jack the Giant-Killer when it comes to lobbing high explosives into inaccessible enemy positions. It doesn't pack enough authority to be useful against armour-plate, pill boxes or even buildings, but in an anti-personnel role it's a mean little devil capable of seeking out the enemy in his hidden positions and making life very, very miserable.

Every infantryman is a 2-inch mortar man, so that no matter what happens there's always someone handy who can put the weapon into action.

That's the Infantry! The versatile lads with brains and fighting hearts!

IN MEMORIAM.

MONTGOMERY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Wellington Montgomery, who passed away six years ago to-day, March 7, 1938.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Sadly missed by his Wife and Sons, Arnold and Noble.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reader and Family wish to thank the nurses of Nicholls Hospital, attending doctors, friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses shown them during the recent illness and death of their son Kenneth.

The Family of the late Mrs. David Robison wish to express sincere thanks and appreciation for acts of kindness and messages of sympathy received from the many friends and neighbors during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a loving mother and grandmother.

The Family of the late Harry Pearson wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to the attending doctors and nurses of Nicholls Hospital and for the messages of sympathy, acts of kindness, and floral tributes from friends and neighbors during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a loving father.

Mrs. William Irwin and Family, Ennismore, wish to extend their sincere thanks for acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, and flowers received from Rev. Mr. Kitchen and their many friends and neighbors during their recent sad bereavement.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

"Constant vigilance is the price parents must be prepared to pay if they are to assist properly in the development of good character in their children," said Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, addressing the "Father's Night" meeting of Central Home and School Association. His topic was "In the Service of Children," and he sang a solo, "My Task," which he made the keynote of his talk.

Rev. Sutcliffe emphasized that parents must have time for their children. "Not only is character fashioned mainly in childhood," he continued, "but also the individual's attitude towards his fellow men, which is so important to a well-rounded life. Lack of proper character traits often prove an insurmountable barrier to success in a person's occupation."

"The teacher's role in the development of character and good thought habits is often more important than that of the parents," Rev. Sutcliffe went on, "since they are properly trained to guide the young."

Mr. F. H. Dearborn gave a brief resume of current events and Miss E. Richardson's class won the attendance prize. Mrs. D. Munro was at the piano for the singing of the National Anthem. Refreshments were served during the social hour which followed, with Mrs. P. Martyn and her committee serving.

effect of well-planned and thoughtful care, were discussed by Major R. M. Bamsey, addressing the regular meeting of Queen Mary Home and School Association on the subject, "Home Education."

"The word 'education' suggests a teacher with a background of experience," said Major Bamsey, "and we should go to the school of experience for the answer to our problems." He pointed out that parents are the foundation of the home, and that the home life of the child should be planned.

"Parents must also have the fortitude to say 'no,' when it is best for the child, rather than a 'yes' that would be easier," the speaker continued. "In home education we, as parents, must first face our own responsibility." He mentioned the Home and School Association, and its work, and said that parents were fortunate, since they now had the unity of the home and school which did not exist years ago.

Make Good Citizens.

"Our chief aim is the development of the children into good citizens," Major Bamsey went on, "and the parents must mould their lives to the best of their ability. The effect of home education, coupled with school education, can be seen now in the lives of camp men. Good homes, decent, loving care and unty of parents, do much, because children imitate their parents."

Turning to the spiritual angle, the speaker said that parents must pray for wisdom and understanding. He pointed out that the first responsibility lay with the parents, and that when they had something worthwhile, they should transmit it to the child.

"We might ask ourselves this question," Major Bamsey said: "Have you given your children something of yourself, and, if you have, what have you given? Some parents seem not to care, and some children don't seem to react, but if you have sincerely done all that you can, the children will have received something."

In reviewing the home situation, the speaker said that parents should act as sign posts for ther children, and the depth of the appreciation of the parents' task is shown when they wish their children to be better. "It is a severe responsibility we have, but if the spirit of the home is right, all will be well."

Two numbers were sung by the Murray Street church quartette, made up of Miss Marjorie Stenton, Mrs. Harold Scott, Mrs. Gordon Welch, and Miss Phyllis Rome, accompanied by Mr. Stanley Northrop. Two piano solos were played by Joan Carley and Agnes Howson.

Mrs. T. J. Carley gave a resume of current events, reviewing the situation in Europe, the Pacific, and China. The banner for attendance for the junior grades went to Miss M. Stenton's room, and to Mr. O. M. Steer's room for the senior grades.

The program for the next meeting was announced, and the guest speaker will be Mr. M. Singleton, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

As their opening number they sang the theme song which they are planning to use on their broadcast on Monday evening, entitled "The Teacher". Other numbers were "Jeannie" with Miss Pauline O'Donnell as soprano soloist; two negro spirituals "I Got Shoes" with Miss Aileen Tanner as soprano soloist and "Steal Away".

Declaring that the children of today spent too much time listening to the radio and this was becoming quite a concern to parents, Mr. Singleton explained types of recreation which would greatly help the boy and girl. The first type was a natural friendly interest by parents in all childrens' recreational pursuits; the home should be the centre of recreation and a home of this type holds an invaluable place in the community. In the third he urged to develope a knowledge in their children according to their age and not all at once expect them to be young adults. The speaker asserted that children were frustrated if driven to attainment beyond their natural inclination. Children should be versatile in recreation and urged parents to offer a wide variety of recreational skills especially when they had children who hesitate to compete with others.

In the fifth case he urged parents to maintain an intelligent control over their childrens' recreational activity. Here too often childrens' activities can be detrimental to their health and rather than these being healthful to them they become overtired. Finally parents should participate with the children in some of their activities. In this connection he declared all intelligent parents have a responsibility to see that their proper recreational activities in their community.

Mrs. Arnold Olmstead moved a vote of thanks to Mr. McKinney, his choir and Mr. Singleton.

The girls and boys of Mrs. Charles Pilon's room had a bazaar table and sold articles which included pot holders, bird houses, daffodils, tea pot stands that they had made. The proceeds will go to several worthy organizations and funds. Mary Craw on behalf of the class thanked the Home and School members for patronizing the table.

Mrs. V. R. Henry announced that

The vice-skips' bonspiel got well under way Monday evening, and we expect (weather permitting) that some of the rinks will reach the eights by to-night.

There were a couple of outstanding games that drew attention. The Nelson-Spicer game went into overtime before the Nelson quartette were declared the winners. And the same thing happened over on No. 6 ice. Arthur Robinson and C. Shaughnessy fought it to a tie on the ten ends of regular play, but Mr. Robinson managed to push over two on the extra end.

In the playoff game to break the tie in Group D, Tom McArthur's rink came out on top by a 12-9 score. Taking the lead on the very first end and never letting up his rink breezed home in fine style.

The McArthur rink will now compete with the other group winners for the Harry F. Foote Memorial Trophy.

proved a little too strong for Mrs. J. Green's quartette. Stepping out in front, on the first two ends, by a 4-0 score they held their advantage and came down the stretch well ahead. And so the ladies finished another contest that looked for a while as if the soft weather would force the committee to withdraw it, gut in spite of all the broken weather this winter, it is surprising just how much curling has been accomplished.

Veterans Come To Aid Of War Bride and Baby

GUELPH, March 7—(CP)—Unable to find rooms for herself and her two-year-old daughter because of the housing shortage here, the English wife of a Dieppe war prisoner today has a snug home of her own, thanks to a group of First Great War veterans.

During the week-end the veterans came to the rescue of Mrs. Reginald Sherwood and virtually rebuilt a small cottage to provide living quarters for the two. Carpenters, electricians, stone masons and other craftsmen joined in the work, transforming the dilapidated cottage into a suitable home.

Mrs. Sherwood is the wife of Pte. Reginald Sherwood of the Essex Scottish, wounded at Dieppe and held in a German prison camp.

Bloc Populaire Is Out Of Provincial Field

MONTREAL, March 7 — (CP) — Paul Gouin, former supporter of the Bloc Populaire, said here last night the bloc "had no intention of making any real fight in the next Quebec Provincial elections." He added in a radio address that will be rebroadcast every night during the next week over different Quebec stations that he, Rene Chaloult and Dr. Philippe Hamel were kept out of the bloc "because they were the only members with the necessary experience to fight Maurice Duplessis (Union Nationale Opposition leader) and lead a strong election campaign in this province."

12 Million New Cars

New York, March 7 (AP)

LT.-GEN. William S. Knudsen, United States Army production chief, says that Americans will want 12,000,000 new automobiles after the war—and will begin getting them six months after the peace. In an interview here the former General Motors Corporation president said the first wave of post-war cars will be 1942 models, the so-called super-car won't be much like those depicted by artists today, and main progress in the air will be in bigger passenger and freight planes, rather than "flivver planes."

With The Armed Forces

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

"Although Canadian soldiers in Sicily and Italy feel sorry for the hunger and pitiful conditions of the natives, they are continually annoyed at the way in which the people refuse to help themselves or one another," Lieut. John Pierce, of the R.C.E. in Sicily writes. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pierce, 492 Homewood avenue.

"We stopped one day in a small wired off enclosure in the heart of a city to prepare our lunch. A crowd of men, women and children soon collected on the outside shouting for the scrapings off our plates. When the cooks passed the box of empty tin cans out to them, they scrapped over them like wild animals. You can't help thinking these people don't help themselves very much. Their homes are in many cases like pig styes with filth ankle deep to the door. I don't think they know much about plumbing for the streets seem to take most of the refuse.

Describing Sicily as the land of sunshine, "except when it isn't," Lieut. Pierce gives an interesting description of historical spots which he has encountered.

Visits Catacombs

"In Syracuse, you can be guided through the mysterious catacombs, by an old monk with his lantern. They were first built or dug out of the rock about 405 B.C. They branch off from a main passageway which splits them into a north and south section. The Christians met there during the Roman reign of terror.

There is an old chapel hewn out of the rock down in that maze of tunnels and it makes you feel a little funny when the old monk tells you that in this very place, St. Paul perished on his way from Malta to Rome and it was against that pillar 'over there' that St. Matthew was stoned to death.

"Later I visited the Greek ampitheatre, where plays and operas were staged. This practice continued every three years right up until 1939. The talent of the continent would gather to play before an audience of thousands seated on the same circular stone tiers. In the Roman ampitheatre, not as large, they fed 'em to the lions."

Ancient Gestapo

Another of the old spots visited by Lieut Pierce, was the Greek stone quarry, which was started about 500 B.C. He said that in later years the Romans brought their captives by thousands to work there. The roof caved in some years ago, but that only aids the sightseer, he adds.

"Beside the quarry is an old political prison also cut out about the same time. It is really quite a marvellous piece of work and in plan is shaped like the letter S. It's only 100 yards or less long. At an upper end is a listening room, where guards could listen in on the talk of political prisoners and so learn their secrets, because of the marvellous acoustics. The guide tore a little piece of paper and the sound that came rolling back was remarkable. You could deafen yourself with a shout almost.

Beautiful Scenery

"One good thing about our line is that we get sent around the country, doing all sorts of jobs. It is always lots of fun and we enjoy seeing how the people live here and there. There is lovely scenery. I doubt if there is a more beautiful sight than the sun rising behind snow capped Mt. Eyna, or the way the snow is a crimson glow when the sun sets. I don't think I have seen another country assume so many different shades as Sicily can. It is very rough and mountainous. On some roads the driver can look around on the hairpin curves and see if his tail-light is still on.

"There are many pitiful sights. Perhaps the one that makes us think a little more than others, is that of the small hastily erected wooden cross, with the soldier's helmet placed at the base, and his name scratched on in pencil. You find them of friend and foe in the ditches, by the roadside and in orange groves, anywhere."

Honor Staff Members

In memory of the 113 members of their staff who have enlisted in the armed forces since war began, the Outboard Marine, has erected a beautiful honor roll, which hangs in their main foyer.

It is made of dark oak with three panels, and the central one is joined to the other two with huge bronze links. On either side of the central piece, are laurel leaves, at the top, the Dominion crest in bronze and at the bottom of the two rows of leaves are two small crowns.

When a member of the staff enlists the name is placed on a small bronze plaque and for those killed, the named is mounted on a silver on. There are two of these silver ones now, Bernard Saunders and Gordon Black. There are 101 names actually posted and 12 more are to come. The management is also planning to add another small panel to take care of extras. The names of a few girls also appear on the honor roll.

Sgt. James Lynch of Peterborough was a member of the crew with which FO. Lou Warren Somers, Toronto, now presumed dead, was flying. Some months ago they made a daring raid over Essen which Sgt Lynch described as follows:

"We were all by ourselves and Jerry coned us three times and riddled our kite with flak holes, but luckily none of us was hurt. We even put on a bombing show and just after we jettisoned, we saw a dandy fire burning. Lou weaved all over the sky and did a marvellous job of getting us clear while the Nazis hammered us with everything they had."

Two weeks after this raid, FO. Somers was reported missing.

Cpl. R. Orm Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Benson, 57 George street, has recently been appointed as Canadian representative to the Christian International Service, whose members are described in one paper "as modern Christian crusaders."

The group began two years ago after some Cambridge students heard Dr. Frank Hilberbrandt, former assistant to Pastor Niemoeller, give an address. Today it has grown to such an extent that it expects soon to be recognized by the British Council of Churches.

Cpl. Benson was employed at the Brinton Carpet Company when he enlisted four years ago, with the R.C.A.F. The organization in which he has taken such an interest, plans as soon as possible after the war to "invade" the continent, trying to rechristianize the Nazified peoples. In preparation, he along with others is planning to train himself in several European languages, first aid and a refresher course in Christian beliefs and European religions.

A letter of thanks to the Peterborough Women's Active Army Auxiliary from Pte. Joseph McIntosh, R.C.O.C. has been forwarded to the Examiner, as evidence of the delight the men overseas get in receiving parcels from home.

He wrote that he received the parcel on February 13, and though it was a little late for Christmas, he received the same thrill "as if it had been a million bucks."

"The people back home can't realize how much a parcel from them means over here. I have been overseas for 15 months now and will be glad when I can get home after the war."

St. Andrew's Church To Dedicate Organ

MARMORA, March 7 — (ENS) — Good congregations were present at St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday when the preacher of the day was Rev. R. C. Wright of Sharbot Lake. In the morning the text chosen was Matthew 5, 8. His subject at the evening service was "The Peril of Uselessness."

The new organ is to be dedicated next Friday evening by Rev. J. Semple, Moderator, of Belleville. An organ recital will be given by Reginald Howe, formerly organist of St. Stephen's, Toronto, and the vocal numbers will be given by the members of the Ladies' Choir of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, under direction of Miss Leona Riggs.

Grove Wins

He carried the puck up the ice from behind his own net, and weaving through the Port Hope team clinched the game by drilling a hard shot past Beamont, to make the score 7-6 for the Grove. For the remaining six minutes of overtime play, Port Hope tried everything to tie the score, but Hyde in the Grove nets coolly stopped everything tha tcame his way. Two penalties, to Patton of Lakefield for holding, and to Howard of Port Hope for boarding, were handed out in the overtime period.

The 7-6 defeat of Trinity College school came just three days after they had been edged by Ridley College 3-2 in a game played at Varsity Arena in Toronto. The win for the Grove came in the second meeting of the two clubs, Port Hope having trounced their rivals 13-6 two weeks before.

CAN OVERDO ANYTHING

NO MATTER how good an idea may be, overdoing it is possible. That is most definitely true of the "no trump complex." All of the best players strongly prefer getting into No Trump games as compared to minor suit ones, as they require only nine tricks instead of 11. But when they carry this preference too far, they can even get themselves set in a No Trump game when a slam could be scored in a minor.

North: ♠ 10 8 6 ♥ K J 4 ♦ A 7 6 4 2 ♣ K Q
West: ♠ A J 9 7 4 2 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ 10 5 ♣ 10 5
East: ♠ K Q 5 ♥ 10 9 3 ♦ 8 ♣ 8 7 6 4 3 2
South: ♠ 3 ♥ A Q 8 7 ♦ K Q J 9 3 ♣ A J 9

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1♦	Pass	2♦	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♦	Pass
3 NT
2. 1♦	Pass	2♦	Pass
2♥	Pass	4♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5♦	Pass

In a rubber game, the bidding on this deal was exactly as given in the first sequence. After South's 2-Hearts, North bid only 3-Diamonds because he did not want to "take the bidding above the No trump game level." South had done all of the real strength-showing up to that stage, and decided to gamble for game by shifting from three of a minor to three in No Trumps. It proved to be too high, for the spade 7 lead to the Q, followed by the K return, gave the defenders six tricks, setting the contract two.

At the time of the post-mortem, a kibitzer of the North hand opined that, if the suit which had been bid had been a major instead of diamonds, North's cards would have justified an immediate jump to show strength, as the hand did have about enough power to guarantee 10 tricks. But since it was a minor, in which 11 were needed, a single raise was enough at the start.

South's reverse bid then of 2-Hearts made North able to jump to assure game. Since South's hand was somewhat stronger than indicated, the Blackwooding and slam contract would have been justified. The slam was of course makeable, with the loss of only a spade trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ K Q J 6 ♥ K 8 ♦ K 7 5 ♣ A K 3 2
West: ♠ 10 7 3 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ Q J 6 3 ♣ Q 8 4
East: ♠ 9 5 4 2 ♥ 5 4 ♦ 10 9 2 ♣ J 10 9 7
South: ♠ A 8 ♥ A J 10 6 3 2 ♦ A 8 4 ♣ 6 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If strong bidding gets North into 7-No Trumps on this deal, why should West refrain from doubling?

AC2 D. Seymour Receives Ring

SPRINGVILLE, March 7—(ENS)—Many friends of AC2 Duncan Seymour, who is taking a course in radio technology at the Central Technical school in Toronto, gathered in his honour at Springville United church recently.

Rev. J. F. Everson was chairman for the program. Gordon Morrison led in community singing, followed with a solo by Viola Neals. A piano duet was given by Clara Nisbett and Laura Neals. Jack Preston contributed a violin solo, accompanied by Joy Preston; two readings were given by Jean Fairbairn.

Duncan was then asked to come to the front, when Dorothy Cathcart read an address and Cliff Johnston presented an air force ring with the inscription, "From Your Springville Friends," engraved on the inside.

Speeches were given by Reeve M. H. Johnston, S. S. Staples and Manson Cathcart. They all stressed the splendid help which the airman had been in the church and community, particularly his choir work. He had also been active in the Young People's Society and the Sunday school.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE IN PHILADELPHIA—Under the ensign of the United States Navy at Philadelphia, Penn., four airwomen and one officer of the Royal Canadian Air Force serve the Allied cause of victory. Attached to the United States naval supply depot, Philadelphia, this group aids in the procurement of equipment for Canada. Pictured here before the building in which they work are Sqdn. Ldr. J. R. Belmont Council Requests Survey

HAVELOCK, March 7 — (ENS)—Preparations for a by-law asking for a municipal survey was authorized at the March meeting of Belmont - Methuen Township Council on Saturday. This survey was to run from 12th Concession line of Belmont from Lot 14 to Lot 22; also a survey of the boundary line between the Township of Belmont and Methuen from the 5th Concession line of Methuen easterly to the boundary between Belmont and Marmora and Lake Townships, showing the markings of the concessions in both Belmont and Methuen. The by-law was passed on motion of Councillors McNeely and Newton.

The clerk was authorized to have the J. E. Hubble property placed on the roll of 1944 known as N½ of Lot 2, Concession 5, NW¼ 2, Concession 4, and SE ¼ of Lot 2, Concession 5, this to be at same valuation as in 1943.

On a motion by Councillors Purdy and McNeely the clerk is to remove two dogs from the assessment roll of William Ketchen for year 1944.

Pay Accounts

The following accounts were ordered paid:

Alexander McLaughlin, sheep injured, $6; Rae Williams, relief, $12; Ross Barrons, stamps, $2; Voucher No. 2, roads, $87.68; Joe McNeely, expenses to roads convention, $15; George Newton, expenses to roads convention, Toronto, $15; Toronto Stamp, stencil works and dog tags, $10.41; Robert Marshall, part 1943 salary, $25; A. Leeson & Son, relief account, $16.20.

War Workers Plan To Hold Garden Party

BEWDLEY, March 7 (ENS)—A special meeting of the exective of the Bewdley War Workers and Red Cross was held last week at Rice Lake Inn. Seventeen were present, and decided to hold a garden party.

It was agreed to donate $100. from the funds to the local representative for the Red Cross Drive. The secretary was advised to write a letter of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. W. Arnott (Billie and Kay) of Toronto for the entertainment they presented a week ago. The main item was the dicussion of a proposed garden party to be held on the grounds of the Bewdley Improvement Association on July 3. It was voted to have the party, and tickets will soon be available with a prize included. Mr. Arnott will help in locating Bingo and other games as well as popular talent and an act by the Arnotts for the evening performances. Another meeting is to be held next Wednesday evening to form committees. The funds will be for War Work.

Canucks Set Up Notable Record In Sub Warfare

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A PORT IN NORTHERN IRELAND, March 7 (CP)—Lone Canadian corvette commander in the Royal Navy "Killer" group, is Lt. Cmdr. Jim Plomer of Saint John and Winnipeg who wears the blue-white ribbon of the Distinguished Service Cross and whose score against German submarines in the North Atlantic is one destroyed, one probable, one possible.

He's one of the Canadian anti-submarine aces and in his Royal Navy Corvette "Sunflower" has shared in the major actions of the offensive group of destroyers, corvette, frigates and sloops led by Commander P. W. Gretton, one of the navy's most successful U-boat hunters.

Plomer has been commanding the famous Sunflower for a year and his work has been outstanding. Gretton thinks he's one of the best men he has.

A big, lean six-footer with a shock of unruly blond hair, Plomer is 33 and looks like a North Atlantic viking. He's not the man to talk about his exploits or himself but if you sit long enough in his wardroom when he's in port here and ask enough questions you find out some facts like these.

You find out that in his first real action he sighted a German submarine on the surface ahead of him in a heavy mist. He sent the Sunflower surging in on the U-boat and rammed her dead-on. He only claimed a possible on that one.

In his second battle, the sturdy Sunflower attacked in weather at night with a heavy sea running. After the first depth charge attack Plomer saw the enemy U-boat astern with its bow out of the water. He turned the corvette so rapidly her starboard rail was nearly submerged and attacked again as a giant wave broke over the ship nearly sweeping overboard sailors handling the depth charges on the low deck aft. More depth charges were dropped, however, and the U-boat disappeared. This was a probable.

Gee One of Five

Some weeks later came his third effort. He was sailing with the Gretton group as usual and a large concentration of U-boats was located in path of an approaching convoy. For several days the group with aircraft fought the submarines and finally drove them off after destroying five and damaging three.

One of those destroyed went to Plomer. He and his crew finished it off with depth charges and wreckages floated to the surface to prove that the kill was definite.

Plomer was born in England but left there when a mere child and since he's lived in Canada since he was 17 and feels he's a Canadian.

In his youth he moved around a good deal, living for a while in South Africa and later in the United States before going to Canada. Before the war he was working in a bank and was in the Canadian naval reserve. In the spring of 1939 he sailed on the destroyer Skeena on training cruise to the West Indies and the commander of the Skeena then was Capt. H. T. W. Grant, who commanded the cruiser Enterprise in the Bay of Biscay action late last year when she and the cruiser Glasgow attacked eleven German destroyers and sank three of them.

NOW COMBINED IN ONE TINY TABLET

¶ In "ALL-in-ONE" you get these five basic vitamins all compounded in ONE tablet —A, B1, C, D and Riboflavin.

One month's supply—taking TWO tablets a day—costs, at your drug store only $2.15

HERE ARE FACTS you should know about health-giving vitamins: (1) Each vitamin requires the other vitamins to make it function. (2) It takes only a microscopic amount of vitamins to provide full nutritional protection—but you must take this minimum amount EVERY DAY because the body does not store vitamins.

For the first time, you can now get all five vital vitamins combined in one tiny tablet—"ALL-in-ONE". The secret? They are compounded with a special vegetable-base yeast which holds their potency and helps their ready assimilation.

Further, in "ALL - in - ONE" Tablets, you get a valuable supply of minerals—phosphorus, iron and calcium—all essential to health.

Keep fit—at the peak of energy and health! "ALL-in-ONE" Tablets bring essential vitamin supply at a sensible price you can afford.

Mission Work Shown In Pictures Of China

ROSENEATH, March 7—(ENS)—Through the medium of moving pictures, glimpses of life in China and India were revealed to an audience including members of St. James' Anglican church and members of the United church W.A.

The event, sponsored by the Anglican W.A., was held in the town hall on Friday night and the pictures were shown by Rev. W. J. Lennox, the Anglican rector. The background of China's religious life long before the birth of Christ was shown with brief references to Confucianism, Buddhism and Taoism.

From time to time brief comments were made by Mr. Lennox who revealed that following the war, one thousand missionaries will be needed in China. Of particular interest were the pictures of a Chinese hospital staffed by St. Paul's Anglican church, Toronto, now in Japanese hands, the walled cities of China, and the church in action in China.

Perhaps the most interesting pictures of India were the scenes showing the medical missionary treating the members of a leper colony.

The contact made by the missionary abroad with servicemen from Ontario who visit the mission when on leave, would, opined the speaker, result in awakened interest by the home folk in foreign missions.

A liberal offering was received to be applied to the China relief fund.

900 Rangers Wiped Out At Beachhead

U.S. Commando Units Die Fighting When Surrounded

NAPLES, March 8 — (AP) — Two battalions of American rangers, 900 strong, infiltrated four miles through enemy lines in the early days of the Anzio beachhead operation, nearly reached Cisterna and there fought to the bitter end when surrounded by superior German forces, it was disclosed today.

The night and day action occurred Jan. 30. Only a few stragglers managed to filter back into Allied lines where they told their story

As the spearhead of a planned general attack on Cisterna, then five miles distant, the Rangers slipped away at 2 a.m. on their mission to "get through the enemy lines as quicky as possible; get into town; entrench yourselves and start raising all the hell possible."

Although it still is not clear whether the Germans laid a clever trap or benefitted from a fluke, during the night the first battalion of Rangers passed a heavy contingent of German reinforcements heading toward positions before the Allied lines. The opposing forces by-passed each other except for a few German guards the Rangers killed - quietly.

It is apparent that only the advance party got into the outskirts of Cisterna. With a little more time the Rangers could have entrenched themselves solidly. But the second, reinforcing Ranger battalion ran into the Nazis whom the first battalion had passed in the night. Their advance was slowed. The first party was unsupported. The fighting became general as the Germans moved in from all sides for the kill.

Capture 2 Tanks

The Rangers carried out part of their mission—"to raise all the hell possible." They took what cover they could find and fought with all their might.

One platoon reached a building where two German tanks were parked. They machine-gunned the sleeping crews, appropriated the tanks to spearhead their lash into Cisterna.

But back in Allied lines, Allied gunners, seeing only the two German tanks were roaming around in the area where the Rangers were supposed to be, promptly knocked them out.

Casualties mounted. Ammunition ran out. When only a handful of his men remained, the captain of one platoon, wounded but still directing the fight, ordered his men to escape as well as they could. Only one man of that platoon got back.

The story of that platoon apparently was duplicated by the others.

The last message from the beleaguered Rangers came in about noon, saying they were nutnumberel and were being overpowered.

ITALIAN STRIKE OVER

Japs Not Quitters

London, Ont., March 8 (CP)

"I don't think the Japs will quit. They are a tough proposition, and we've never heard of any Japs quitting yet. In the whole Malayan campaign, I don't think we took 50 prisoners."

This warning against complacency in respect of the war in the Far East was made yesterday before the London Canadian Club by Captain Lawrence Impey, a war correspondent for the London Daily Mail during the campaigns in Malaya and the Dutch East Indies in 1942, and for 20 years a resident in the Orient.

American Forces Whip Japs On Three Fronts

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 8—(AP) —The United States 6th Army is whipping the Japanese on three fronts around the border of the Bismarck Sea.

The Allied headquarters communique today said the American forces have won control of Los Negros Island in the Admiralty group at the northern approach to the Sea, and had buried 479 more Japanese dead.

Marines attached to the 6th Army made a quick thrust 110 miles east of Cape Gloucester, New Britain Island, and landed Monday with mere rifle fire opposition on Willaumez Peninsula, on the north coast of the Island. Soldiers on the south coast advance 24 miles eastward from Arawe to Amgoring. New Britain forms the south boundary of the Bismarck Sea.

Landed Behind Jap Lines

On New Guinea, which limits the sea to the west, 32nd Division troops who landed behind the Japanese lines at Yalau, 30 miles west of Saidor, have expended their positions. The drive here is on Madang, Japanese coastal base.

Solomons - based bombers and fighters continued their hammering of Rabaul, enemy base on New Britain, 170 airline miles east of the Marines' Monday landing near Talasea on Willaumez Peninsula.

The bombers hit Rabaul township and Tobera Airdrome Sunday, blasting waterfront installations, parked aircraft and harbor shipping.

On Los Negros Island, navy construction workers have restored Momote airdrome and now small planes used as spotters for artillery fire are landing there.

It was only nine days ago that troopers of the 1st cavalry division dashed ashore at Los Negros and quickly captured the Momote airdrome.

A headquarters spokesman said the Americans had pushed north of the airfield to Salami Plantation and west almost three miles to Porlaka on Seadler harbor, which separates Los Negros and Manus Island, to the west.

Allied bombers loosed explosives on Japanese troop concentrations around the perimeter of the American beachhead at Cape Torokina, on Empress Augusta Bay, Bougainville Island in the Solomons.

3rd Daylight Swoop In One Week Bags 27 Nazi Planes

LONDON, March 8 (CP)—Strong forces of United States four-engined bombers today attacked Berlin, dropping more than 350,000 incendiaries and 10,000 high-explosive missiles, in the third American attack in a week against the German capital.

The daylight raiders set out a few hours after powerful R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. forces hit German-used railway yards at Lemans, 110 miles southwest of Paris. The night force, which included bombers from all squadrons in the R.C.A.F. bomber group, suffered no losses despite an anti-aircraft barrage and some night fighters. Fliers saw a great explosion that lit up the sky, and one crew saw a big building blown to pieces.

U.S. Medium bombers flew into Holland today, striking unspecified targets in an area where many German airfields have been bombed in the past.

8th In 10 Days

The attack on Berlin was the eighth big assault by American heavy bombers in 10 days and came after one day's interval since the last heavy attack on the German capital.

A communique said that the Flying Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by large formations of British and American fighters, "attacked industrial targets in the Berlin district."

The American daylight aerial campaign against Berlin started last Friday when fighters penetrated to the capital. This was followed up Saturday by the first American bomber attack, by one formation.

Monday's big attack was made by a force estimated unofficially as upwards of 850 bombers.

The German radio, as on Monday, reported heavy air battles in progress over northwestern Germany and west of Hanover.

This aerial combat started about 1 p.m., said the radio, about half an hour after the American armada crossed the German frontier.

Russia Rejects Polish Boundary Offer

BY JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 8 — (AP) — British newspapers said today that Russia had rejected the latest Polish compromise offer to settle the Russo-Polish boundary dispute, but Premier Stanislaw Mikchajczyk declared his Polish government had not been informed about it.

There was resentment in Polish circles over reports published by The London Press and circulated by diplomats that the Soviets had rejected the plan for a temporary settlement - a proposal which Mikolajczyk described as a British rather than Polish suggestion.

The Poles felt that their government should have been informed if Stalin had refused to agree to the plan transmitted to the Soviets by Prime Minister Churchill.

Remove Anti-Soviet Elements

It was understood here that in rejecting the counter-proposals, the Kremlin reiterated that no understanding can be reached unless certain allegedly "anti-Soviet" elements are eliminated from the Polish government, and the Curzon line is accepted as Poland's eastern boundary.

Reds Hold Odessa-Warsaw Railroad Within 70 Miles Of Lwow Flooded Lakes Impede Russian Armies

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 8—(AP).—Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army fought today against some of the worst ground conditions of the Russian-German conflict and what a Red Star front-line reporter called the "growing resistance of the enemy." But still the Red Army rolled on, seizing a firm hold on the Odessa-Warsaw railway and moving to within 70 miles of the important industrial and rail city of Lwow.

"The landscape is becoming exceedingly more complicated," reported Capt. Andrei Belaiev, the Red Star correspondent. He said there were many small lakes, which have overflowed large areas of the countryside, as well as numerous streams and small forests.

In this battle of mud, Belaiev reported, the Russians resorted to the use of long lines of sledges hitched behind tanks. Tommy-gunners were piled into the sledges and tanks, which cut through the muddy Ukrainian fields to reach the roads behind the enemy lines.

Field dispatches said the Germans have congregated large forces of infantry and tanks, seeking to hold their communication lines in the Ukraine.

Pressing forward over a countryside turned into a mire by early spring thaws, Russian spearheads yesterday captured the town of Igrovitsa, nine miles northwest of Tarnopol and only four miles from the Warsaw railway, a Russian communique announced. Other forces operating east of Tarnopol actually severed the line in two places 20 miles apart—at Kochanovka, five miles south of Volchisk and Zelent-

Coffee Demands Action Against Franco

BY C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 8 —(CP) — Democratic representative John M. Coffee of Washington said in an interview that he had information through "underground" sources, that German airmen wearing Spanish uniforms were operating Military aircraft from seven airports in Spain.

These same sources convinced him, Coffee declared, that great volumes of United States commodities shipped to Spain were immediately sent into Germany.

"It's the damnedest thing you ever heard of," Coffee shouted from behind a pile of letters and telegrams which he said were from people all over the western hemisphere, 95 per cent of them endorsing his demands for a break with the Franco government of Spain.

In the Senate, on the public platform and in broadcasts, Coffee has been appealing for a break with Franco and active, practical assistance to the Spanish supreme council of National Union which he claims is the real organization of democratic Spain.

Medical Examination Urged Before Marriages Performed

TORONTO, March 8—(AP).—A resolution urging provincial governments to amend the Marriage Act making it compulsory for both parties to have medical examination at least 10 days before obtaining a license was passed here today at the 19th annual meeting of the United Church of Canada Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

Other matters under discussion included a Government-set floor price for producers, the relationship of the Church with the nation, juvenile delinquency, the efforts of chaplains with Canada's forces at home and overseas, and the work of church women in war service units. Rev. W. J. Gallagher of Toronto presided.

In passing the Marriage Act amendment resolution the board agreed full results of the medical examination should be communicated to both parties and to the Provincial Department of Health and Public Welfare. Issuing of a licence or publication of banns would be withheld until medical certificates showed the health of the contracting parties to be satisfactory.

The board expressed appreciation of the fact that the yearly number

British Force Defeats Japs

NEW DELHI, March 8—(CP)—British troops in Western Burma have dispersed an enemy raiding party in the vicinity of Zetanbyin, inflicting casualties, and have captured high ground south of the Maungdaw-Buthedaung Road, an Allied communique said today.

A second announcement said that Chinese and American troops have linked up in the Walawbum area of Upper Burma and now are fighting side by side.

Japanese counter-attacks on the British-captured high ground "met with no success," it was announced. Prisoners and equipment were captured by the British force.

In the north Chinese forces have occupied Hpungnye, three miles southwest of Maingkwan and captured Shingban, three miles to the south. Capture of Maingkwan, main Japanese base in the Hukawng valley, was reported yesterday.

Trap Is Closing

Jaws of the trap in which the Japanese were forced by encircling tactics are beginning to close rapidly, the communique reported. Walawbum has been completely isolated by U. S. troops, who have severed the enemy's main lines of communication with other Japanese forces to the west and north.

Republican Wins Denver's Seat

DENVER, March 8 (CP)—A 59-year-old Republican business man defeated a wounded and retired Second Great War hero for Denver's vacant Congressional seat in a special election Tuesday.

Dean M. Gillespie, truck dealer and oil man and avowed foe of government "bureaucracy," received a margin of 2,978 votes over his Democratic opponent, Maj. Carl E. Wuertele, 30, on the basis of unofficial tabulations. He will be the first Republican Congressman from Denver since 1932.

The vote, heavier than had been anticipated, was Gillespie 41,418, Wuertele 38,440.

Wuertele is holder of Silver Star and Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf clusters for action in the South Pacific.

In Washington, political observers said Gillespie's victory apparently demonstrated that the Democrats must find something more than a candidate with a military background to stem an otherwise adverse voting tide.

Gillespie's victory raised Republican representation in the House of Representatives to 210 members, only six short of the Democrats' 216.

Rumanians Flee Bucovina Province

BERNE, March 8.—(AP).— The latest advances by the Russian army have led to a new flight from Bucovina province of Rumanians who forced their way on trains despite government orders against travel, it was reported to-day.

The Budapest correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten said the storming of railway stations by the populace occurred in Cernowitz, Radauz, Suzeva and other cities.

Northern Bucovina province was ceded to Russia in the 1940 boundary adjustment. Subsequently Germany declared Bucovina and Bessarabia a part of Rumania. Russians troops now are within 90 miles of the Prut river.

Million Spent To Equip Civil Defence Workers

OTTAWA, March 8—(AP).—The Federal Government has spent an estimated $1,086,298 to equip civil defence workers with steel helmets, firemen's coats, rubber boots, anti-gas equipment and other supplies, a return tabled in the Commons showed today.

The return, for George Cruickshank (L.—Fraser Valley), listed the amount of clothing and personal equipment issued and the number of articles distributed on a unit basis. It also listed the cost of each of the articles. Unofficial calculations set the total cost of the equipment at $1,086,298.

The number of civil defence workers in Canada was not listed in the return but a year ago government officials estimated that there were 225,000 such workers. Since then, air raid precautions restrictions have been lifted in Ontario and western Quebec. This relieved an estimated 10,000 workers of their duties.

The return said the equipment was distributed by the Government to civil defence organizations in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

These organizations provided their members with the personal equipment, but not with the equipment issued on a unit basis. Such equipment was kept at organization headquarters for use in an emergency. The anti-gas equipment was in this category.

Bulgaria Calls Up Additional Troops

BERNE, March 8—(AP)—Bulgaria has called up more troops following a visit by German Balkan commanders to Sofia and discovery of a large store of armaments cached by Partisans, the Basler Nachrichten reported today in a Budapest dispatch.

Strongly- armed Partisan bands are established near Sofia, and Bulgarian troops have started a general offensive against them. After one clash in which 150 Partisans were killed, Bulgarian regulars found enough guns and supplies to equip four regiments, and also found a radio station, the dispatch said.

Sofia officials were said to estimate that 27,000 Partisans now are being supplied by airplanes from Southern Italy, maintaining direct contact with British general headquarters at Cairo.

German Sniper Missed His Prey

WITH THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD FORCES IN ITALY, March 8 (AP)—Lieut. L. F. Edwards of Reigate, Surrey, is a fast man when it comes to thinking about food.

Before dawn yesterday he crawled to the crest of a hill dragging a telephone with him and when daylight came he relayed information back to his artillery unit that resulted in seven direct hits on a big house which the Germans held and which was causing serious trouble to the forces on the beachhead.

After the house was destroyed Edwards tried to get back to his original position, but was pinned down by a German sniper and forced to lie there until noon with no chance of getting back in time for lunch.

Edwards solved the difficulty by picking up the telephone and ordering lunch. The lunch, with an additional 50 feet of wire, was attached to the telephone line and Edwards hauled in his lunch hand over hand, maintaining communication with his unit at the same time.

Later in the afternoon it began to rain, and when Edwards saw the sniper remove the telescopic sights from his rifle and begin to wipe them off he made a break for it and won.

New Offensive Boiling Up Against Japan

Famine Conditions In India Have Been Vastly Relieved—New Drive Approaching

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Appearance of American troops alongside Chinese colleagues on the battlefield in the fever-ridden jungles of Burma is a new development in the great offensive which is boiling up against Japan from the Allied base in India.

Also it's a reminder that another report on the famine and the political crisis in India is due in this column, since that country is the main base for southeast Asia. My pipe-line brings both good news and some that's not so pleasant.

First off, famine conditions have been vastly relieved. Having said this, we find a difference of opinion as to the exact extent of the relief. One Indian source says that despite great improvement people still are dying from hunger. A British official quarter tells me there now is food so that all may eat, although deaths continue from famine diseases and from malnutrition contracted during the foodless days.

Anyway, it's agreed that things are immeasurably better. The great province of Bengal, just across the Bay of Bengal from Burma, has been brought back from a veritable valley of death. Bumper crops and imported food have halted the plague of hunger.

That's important, not only from the humanitarian viewpoint but for military reasons. Big military headquarters are in Bengal—not a healthful atmosphere, in view of the famine diseases which swept the province.

The central government took over control of all distribution of food in the great city of Calcutta. People who fled from their foodless countryside to the metropolis were moved back by the military, an operation that gave rise to a curious situation. Many of these primitive natives at first were panic stricken when the army lorries appeared to carry them away.

The political crisis between the British government and the Indian Nationalists—outgrowth of the home rule quarrel—appears to be deadlocked. The question of granting Dominion status to India has been shelved for the duration of the war.

Mahatma Gandhi, and some 19 other leaders who comprised the high command of the All India Congress, remain in confinement where they have been since the anti-government disturbances and bloodshed of late 1942. I'm informed that there they will stay until they give guarantees there will be no further trouble if they are released.

A government source assures me that things are well in hand and that there's no fear of further disturbances. That sounds like a correct estimate of the position.

The Nationalist answer is that the situation is breeding bitterness which may react against the western world in post-war days.

18,000 R.C.A.F. Men Serving

18 Australian Squadrons Serving Commonwealth

LONDON, March 8 — (CP) — Because the activities of the R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. are featured in the press of Canada, it should not be forgotten that the "R Double-A. F." — or, more proudly, The Royal Australian Air Force — is in there, too, and "in strength," as the communiques say.

More than 18,000 R.A.A.F. men, mostly air crew, are serving in Britain, the Middle East, India and other theatres of war besides the southwest Pacific. Some are in R.A.A.F. squadrons, but most are in R.A.F. units with airmen from all parts of the Empire and a few are in Canadian squadrons. In addition to R.A.A.F. personnel serving with the R.A.F., there are 18 Australian squadrons serving outside the Commonwealth.

In the Southwest Pacific, the number of Australian squadrons on operations is only slightly less than the number of American squadrons.

Found Guilty On Old Charge

36-Year-Old Lumberjack Guilty Of Manslaughter

MONTREAL, March 8.—(CP). — A court of King's Bench jury last night found Paul Bibeau, 36 year old ex-lumberjack, guilty of manslaughter for the death of Patrick Campbell, 19 year old stableman, he was charged with having murdered exactly 13 years ago.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lasure postponed his sentence to March 22 after the jury recommended clemency in Bibeau's case.

Thirteen years ago last night Patrick Campbell was left dying in a stable here. The next morning he died in hospital of 26 body wounds. Police at first thought the victim had been trampled to death by horses in the stable, but later examination indicated homicide.

Bibeau was arrested last December along with his brother-in-law, William Durocher, who committed suicide in jail while awaiting trial.

French Railway Yards Are Heavily Attacked By R.A.F. In Night Raid

Second Successive Night's Attack Made On Enemy Communications In Northern France By R.A.F. Bombers

LONDON, March 8—(CP).—R.A.F. bombers heavily attacked railway yards last night at Lemans, 110 miles southwest of Paris, and Mosquito raiders stabbed simultaneously at objectives in western Germany, the Air Ministry announced today.

It was their R.A.F.'s second successive night attack on enemy communications facilities in northern France, a big fleet of bombers having blasted at Trappes, 15 miles southwest of Paris, the previous night.

It was the Mosquitoes' sixth successive night raid on Germany.

In mid-morning today the Hilversum, Bremen and Friesland radios went off the air, indicating the Allied aerial offensive was still rolling.

No Losses Suffered.

Last night's operations were carried out without the loss of a single aircraft, the Air Ministry said.

The forays followed a sharp daylight attack yesterday on a German airfield near Conches by United States medium bombers. Small forces of British, Dominion and Allied Bostons, Mitchells and Mosquitoes also joined in daylight assaults on military objectives in northern France. Conches is about 75 miles south of the port of Dieppe.

Two German fighters were shot down by an R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadron when 10 enemy planes tried to intercept the Conches raiders. Sqdn. Ldr. L. M. Cameron of Winnipeg, commanded the squadron.

The fact that last night's operations were carried out without loss indicated anew the lightness of the

Gunfire Duels At Cassino As Huns Regroup

NAPLES, March 8 — (AP) — Gunfire, mortar and grenade duels raged for the second straight night in shell-torn Cassino on the main 5th Army front, headquarters announced today, and observers have spotted movements behind the German lines south of Rome, possibly indicating a regrouping for a fourth all-out push against the Allied beachhead.

New Zealand seige guns hammered at a German-held rail station about a mile south of Cassino while American troops west of Cisterna on the beachhead engaged in a fierce machine-gun and mortar duel with the Nazis, but there was no change in positions. The Germans made a concerted but futile effort to infiltrate British positions near Carroceto, on the Rome side of the beachhead.

Discussing the German movements behind the lines headquarters said the Nazis "appear to be on the watch for any opening in our forward positions."

Weather Hampers Efforts

Foul weather continued to hamper the ground fighting and the communique declared that "heavy snow in the mountains and deep mud in the valleys have made all movements difficult."

Allied planes flew about 1,300 sorties yesterday, with heavy bombers blasting the Toulon Naval base in southern France and medium bombers striking at rail yards in Rome.

The escorted heavy bombers plastered shipping, docks and oil stores at Toulon, it was disclosed, and also pounded rail facilities at Prato, near Florence. Medium bombers struck at the Ostiense and Littorio rail yards in Rome, and at the

70,000 Miners Out On Strike

LONDON, March 8 —(CP) — The flow of coal from Welsh mines on which British War industries are largely dependent dwindled to a trickle today as a wage strike spread steadily throughout the area and there were indications that production might be halted entirely by nightfall.

Best estimates said 60,000 or 70,000 out of 100,000 miners in the Welsh fields had walked out.

With the situation hourly growing worse, Britain looked hopefully to a meeting of owners and miners in London this afternoon under the chairmanship of Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George to produce some solution for the wage problem, which the miners say needs a general overhauling.

The entire Rhondda valley, a highly productive area, was tied up by the strike and almost 7,000 men were idle in the Aberdare Valley, where every pit was closed.

Included in the pits which closed yesterday was the Agergorki Mine, which has flown the Union Jack at the Pithead for 40 consecutive weeks in recognition of its quota-exceeding record during that period.

RCAF Bombers Raid Lemans

By LOUIS V. HUNTER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 8 —(CP Cable) —Heavy bombers of the R. C. A. F., over France in force for the second successive night, joined R. A. F. squadrons in a strong attack on Lemans railway junction south of Paris last night.

All the Canadian bomber group squadrons took part in the attack which was launched despite unfavorable weather conditions over the target.

The objective was bombed without loss and fliers said the defences consisted almost wholly or light flak in moderate amounts.

FO. Archie Gardner of Lansing, Ont., member of the Bluenose squadron, described explosions he saw as "gigantic flashes— something like when a photographer's flashbulb goes off."

No Fighters Out.

He said the "sky was full of bombs and we were going round like a bunch of mad hens but nobody bothered us. The only fighter I saw was one of our own Mosquitoes."

Three Canadian squadrons were led by their commanders, the Bluenoses by Wing Cmdr. Chris Bartlett, D.F.C., of Fort Qu'Appele, Sask., the Goose by Wing Cmdr. Donald S. Jacobs, D.F.C., of Toronto and the Thunderbird by Wing Cmdr. Bill Swetman, D.F.C., of Kapuskasing, Ont.

"They were hosepiping flake at us," said FO. Jerry Philbin of Valleyfield, Que., an Iroquois squadron pilot. "It came in a steady stream, then suddenly stopped as if the bombload had saturated what defences they had."

The only enemy aircraft encountered was reported by FO. Jerry Burns of Montreal, a Porcupine squadron pilot.

FO. Jack Bower-Binns of (23 New Street), Aylmer, Ont., a navigator, saw several red fires under the clouds.

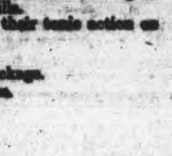
Chinese troops on the Allies' left flank have cleaned the enemy from the area around Lashu Ga, nine miles northeast of Maingkwan, the bulletin added, and have reached the village of Hkakawp Ga.

R.A.F. and U.S. heavy bombers attacked the arsenal and aircraft factory at Bangkok Monday night and mediums bombed the Sitang bridge in the Moulmein area.

All Allied aircraft returned from more than 400 sorties. One enemy aircraft was destroyed.

A Help to Those Who Are Past Middle Age



When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little ailments and sicknesses seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

1,000 Teachers Carry Out Health Tests

TORONTO, March 8.—Revelation that 1,000 Toronto school teachers were year-long voluntary subjects of a diet and vitamin-mineral test, carried out by a committee seeking to ascertain what influence would be shown on absence from duty, dental decay and general health, is contained in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

In an article prepared by Drs. J. H. Ebbs and F. F. Tisdall and Marjorie L. Scott, M.Sc., the results of the test, made in the year between May, 1941 and May 1942, provided evidence that improved diet or consumption of a vitamin-mineral preparation caused a slight reduction in tooth decay, and the claimed evidence on the part of the group taking the vitamin pills that more than one-half their number enjoyed better general health.

Factors, such as lack of actual physical examinations of the teachers during the test, and the previously general high living standards of the teachers causing less difference when diets were improved, prevented the test being as accurate or comprehensive as might have been possible under greater control measures, the article indicates. However, a control group of teachers (not participating in diet changes or vitamin consumption) had greater dental cavity incidence than either group under the test conditions.

The test was carried out, the article says, by a committee of the Toronto Board of Education, the Toronto Teachers' Council and the Department of Pediatrics, University of Toronto, with the object of observing the influence of diet and vitamin-mineral pills, plus the desire of increasing teachers' interest in nutrition, and, through them, the interest of pupils and parents Volunteers were sought, and 1,000 teachers responded. They were divided into three groups: Group 1, which followed dietary advice; Group 2, taking pills; Group 3, taking nothing.

Each teacher and each school had a code number, with a teacher in each school responsible for forwarding reports. Teachers in the first two gorups recorded their illnesses, absences from work, dental fillings during the year preceding the test period. Then each teacher was supplied diet information, based on weekly reports of what he or she was then eating or with vitamin-mineral pills. During the year there were three basic reviews of diets of every individual with Group 1 receiving advice on changes. Diet advice was formed from recommended intake of five basic groups: Dairy products vegetables, fruits, cereals and meat.

Summary of Article.

Completing the year, and not dropping out because of enlistments, changes of occupation, etc., were 360 in Group 1 387 in Group 2 and 293 in Group 3. The summary of the article reads as follows:

"Some improvement in dietary habits was obtained in one group, as was shown by analysis of weekly dietary records at three periods during the year by pointing out deficiencies to the individual.

"No marked improvement was shown by the records of illness or absence from teaching duties either as a result of improved diet or as a result of taking a vitamin-mineral preparation daily.

"The number of new dental cavities was slightly reduced in the group with improved diets and in the group taking a vitamin-mineral preparation in comparison with their records for the year previous. The records of a group of control teachers showed a higher incidence of dental cavities. (The summary does not show what the article reports; that the Group 3 dental fillings exceeded both other groups.)

"A higher percentage (60 per cent) of the teachers who received the vitamin-mineral preparation reported their general heath improved." The Group 1, or diet control group, reported 40 per cent felt general health improvement.

sy, 16 miles west of Proskurov.

Yesterday's advance by the forces under Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov liberated 200 more localities in the densely-populated western Ukrainian country, Moscow announced. The Germans hurled strong infantry and tank forces against the Red Army, especially in the Staro-Konstantinov sector south of Shepetovka, but were hurled back, leaving more than 1,000 dead on the battlefield, the Russians said.

The district centre of Staraya Sinyava, 50 miles southeast of Shepetovka and 30 miles northeast of Proskurov, was among the more important towns listed as taken.

25 Miles of Railroad

Capture of Staraya Sinyava not only cut the Staro-Konstantinov railway, but brought Soviet vanguards to within 25 miles of the Odessa-Warsaw line west of Zhmerinka. Svinnaya, another town captured yesterday, is only four miles from Staro-Konstantinov.

Other Red Army units, Moscow said, stormed the village of Sharzhintsy, southeast of Shepetovka and 33 miles southwest of Berdichev, and apparently were seeking a junction with 1st Ukrainian Army forces holding that city.

Zhukov's advance, now in its fourth day, is averaging more than 20 miles a day, in some areas as much as 30 miles, according to Moscow advices.

The capture yesterday of Podvolochisk, extended the Russian-held sector of the Odessa-Warsaw railway to 26 miles, with its western end about 25 miles east of Tarnopol. In this sector, Russian troops are approximately 60 miles from the Rumanian frontier.

Moscow also reported advances far to the north where the Russians are battling to enlarge the Narova river bridgehead in Estonia. The late bulletin said the Germans were bringing heavy air reinforcements and 55 German planes were brought down during the day while 500 Germans were killed in the land fighting. The Russians announced capture of several German strong points and repulse of 10 German counterattacks in one sector.

lajczyk in a letter:—

"In view of the Russian refusal of the Polish compromise offer, do you see any further hope for reestablishment of relations between the Polish and Soviet Governments?"

The Polish premier replied:—

"I regret not to be able to answer your question, as the Polish government has no knowledge of a Soviet refusal to the latest suggestions of the British government."

The compromise offer in the Polish reply called for Polish administration of territories west of the Curzon Line, with modifications to include Vlna and Lwow on the Polish side. Permanent boundaries would be fixed by negotiations with the elected government in Poland after the war. This plan was approved by the Polish cabinet after heated sessions in which Mikolajcyzk threatened to resign.

Mikolajczyk is said to have taken the firm stand that no Polish government can cede territory to the Russians without an election in Poland.

Thus the Russo-Polish dispute appeared headed for almost a deadlock which even mass Polish cabinet resignations could not break in face of the persistent Moscow demand for settlement of the boundary question now.

of civil marriages in Canada was small and said any increase in this form of marriage "would be a decided challenge to the Church and an ominous threat to Christian home and church life."

Contending that the farmer is in a dilemma, a recommendation made by Rev. H. M. Beack of Glengarry County, Ont., said governments in setting prices should begin with a floor-price which would give the producer a fair wage for his labor and enable him to enjoy a desirable standard of living.

The recommendation said one of the evils of the present system was that it took from the producer all authority in the deciding of rewards for his work and "made him a simple laborer without the power to determine his economic standing."

Board Secretary Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto told the meeting the church enjoys a "healthy working relationship" with Canadian labor, farmers, miners, educationalists, government officials and leaders in social welfare work.

Charge Dismissed

COBOURG, March 8 — (ENS). —A charge against James Gillard, local merchant, of failing to comply with the Unemployment Insurance regulations in connection with making returns, was withdrawn in Court on Tuesday when Alan Field acting for the Board, said that Mr Gillard had sent his cheque covering the amount outstanding. The Magistrate accordingly dismissed the case.

Canadians Told To Banish False Modesty

TORONTO, March 8— (CP) — Premier Drew called upon Canadians last night to banish "False Modesty" and assert where they want Canada to stand in relation to the British Empire. "We seem to have become hesitant about expressing our sentiments," The Ontario Premier told the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

There were sound business reasons for maintaining close ties with Britain, Col. Drew said, stressing that he was not advocating merely preservation of an emotional association, but a business proposition that "means more to us than any other business association."

There was "tremendous significance" in the fact that all but 3,000,000 pounds of 129,000,000 pounds of cheese Ontario produced in 1943 went overseas.

Cheese Policy Criticized

Members of the Association heard criticism of the Federal Government's cheese policy voiced by Association president, W. H. Montgomery, Carrying Place.

Mr. Montgomery blamed Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner's failure to raise the cheese ceiling price above 25 cents a pound and slashing of the milk subsidy from 30 to 20 cents a pound as contributory to decline in Canadian cheese production.

J. F. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board, said Canadian farmers had earned "a great deal of credit" in increasing Canada's Milk production in 1943. He said domestic shortages of Dairy products could be largely attributed to exports to the United Kingdom, and cited as another drain on supply the increasing number of food parcels being shipped to prisoners-of-war.

Thinks Farm Labor In Better Position

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8. — (ENS).— While still a somewhat acute problem, the farm labor situation is somewhat better than last spring in the view of Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury. In his opinion, farmers who can afford to hire help should be sure their request is in the hands of any of the Selective Service offices at either Trenton, Cobourg or Peterborough in good time, as there are a great many men on temporary permits working in factories and airports, who have till April 1 to get back on the farm.

"Wages offered are particularly attractive this year," adds Mr. Banbruy expressing the hope that most of these men would appreciate the serious side of the situation, in that their work as farmers is designed to take the place of service in the army.

"Both jobs require men of ability and conviction and I hope each farm worker will view his case in the light of service rendered to his country, and avoid taking work where he cannot make a good production showing. Such men can only have a clear conscience either when they produce plenty of food or fight in the armed forces."

Former Aide Accused Of Sharing Fee

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Representative Louis Miller (Rep., Mo.), saying that a former Presidential aide "may have shared" in a $50,000 fee in connection with sale of a radio station, accused the Roosevelt Administration yesterday of shutting off an investigation of the Federal Communications Commission for fear of the political consequences.

"If they permit this investigation to reveal even a small fraction of the corruption which must exist after 12 years," he told the House of Representatives, "they will already have lost the election next November.

Miller directed his House remarks chiefly to the decision by a majority of the House committee investigating the F.C.C. to suspend an inquiry into sale of Station WMCA, New York, by Donald Flamm to Edward J. Noble, former aide to Harry Hopkins. The majority decided on the suspension until New York litigation in connection with the sale is completed.

Flamm already has testified he sold the station because he was told the transaction was "greased from the White House down," and feared the F.C.C. would not renew his license if he retained the station.

"As the mystery of this new deal drama unfolds," Miller told the House, "you will find moving mostly behind the scenes the significant name of Thomas J. Corcoran, once an aide to Mr. Roosevelt. It will be shown later on that Mr. Noble employed the former chief counsel of the F.C.C. (William J. Dempsey) at the suggestion of Mr. Corcoran, and that Mr. Corcoran was in the picture to the point where he may have shared in a fee estimated to run as high as $50,000."

Smaller Than Monday

The term "strong force" in the official announcement indicated that fewer bombers were out today than on Monday when the phrase "very strong forces" was used, but today's raiding fleet undoubtedly numbered several hundred.

Shortly before 5 p.m. the German radio acknowledged "American bombers again attempted with strong forces to reach Berlin."

"The execution of this attack was very nearly perfectly similar to the one adopted the day before yesterday," the Berlin radio continued. "A new big defensive success for German air defence is expected."

The first group of escorting fighters to return reported shooting down 27 Nazi planes.

Coupled with the blow at Lemans, R.A.F. Mosquito bombers raided Western Germany for the sixth successive night. These speedy wooden bombers now carry a ton of explosives, putting them in the medium bomber class.

Sugar Combine Blamed For Scarcity

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP).—New democracy leader Blackmore said in the House yesterday he believed there need have been no scarcity of sugar in Canada during the war. But the production and sale of sugar had been "manipulated by a sugar trust or combine" and one of the dominating units in this trust had been the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company.

"Plenty" of companies had been ready to finance sugar refineries to produce beet sugar, but those who proposed to establish new sugar factories had been refused concessions they needed.

"What is the relationship existing between the Government and this great sugar combine, and between the Government and head of this corporation, one John W. McConnell?" asked Mr. Blackmore.

Mr. King would allay "considerable suspicion" if he said that the Liberal party had never received any contribution for campaign funds from the sugar refining company or Mr. McConnell or from anyone representing them.

Mr. Blackmore also said: "We would be equally relieved to receive an absolute assurance from the Prime Minister that Canada Packers has made no contribution to the Liberal party's campaign funds."

Speaker J. A. Glen called Mr. Blackmore to order for introducing something not within the purview of the bill before the House, to establish an industrial development bank.

"All I am seeking to do," said Mr. Blackmore, "is to show how the Government can allow scarcity to control in this country."

Mr. Speaker: "I would ask the honorable member to desist from his references to campaign funds."

Mr. Blackmore: "I will desist from that kind of discussion."

Delay Decision On Charge Of Too Few Coupons

COBOURG, March 6 (ENS) — John F. Watson, former service station proprietor of Cobourg, appeared in police court Tuesday afternoon on a charge that in the months of November and December of 1943, he sold a quantity of gasoline without receiving the corresponding amount of gasoline ration coupons. The case had been adjourned from last week in order that a test could be made of the tanks. Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved his decision. Alan Field prosecuted for the Board.

M. L. Harrington of Peterborough, investigator for the W.P. and T.B., testified that inspections had revealed that from April to December of last year, the service station was short some 451 gallons of gas, when compared with the gas coupons on hand. This amount was the balance when 271 gallons had been allowed for on the basis of a percentage for loss through spillage, etc.

Questioned by Fred C. Richardson, counsel for the accused, Mr. Harrington said that he had no knowledge of a gas pump in Port Hope being closed because it was not pumping accurately. It had not come under his investigation and might have been as the result of an examination made by the oil company's inspector or by a representative of Weights and Measures. He admitted the possibility of old tanks leaking. The measurements the Boards' inspectors used were with the measuring stick the reading on which was in inches and the gallonage was arrived at by consulting a chart.

Leave Meters Alone

"Your department never checks the meters?" Mr. Richardson asked.

"No, we only check the stock, not the sales," witness replied.

"Yet this charge is based on sales and coupons," commented Mr. Richardson.

Mr. Field asked the witness about the tests made on March 6 at the service station in presence of the accused, the local manager and defence council, Mr. Harrington consulted the records of the test which showed that in one of the tanks the gas measured 3 inches in the tank or about 14 gallons and that when 150 gallons were pumped in, the measured amount was 17¼ inches. However the measurement should have indicated 164 gallons instead of 174, indicating an error of ten gallons. In the other tank there were 18 gallons or 3½ inches and when 200 more gallons had been put in, the measurement was 20¾ inches or 221 gallons instead of the actual amount of 218 gallons, an error of 3 gallons. This made the error for 350 gallons, a total of 13 gallons, Mr. Harrington said.

Finds Shortage

Watson testified that when Harrington called in November of 1943, he told the inspector that he was glad he called as he had been having a shortage and didn't know what was the cause.

"I never sold gas without getting the coupons and I couldn't understand where I was running short, although I knew from experience that I could not depend on the accuracy of the tank reading. On one occasion it was supposed to be able to take 250 gallons but it started to run over before that amount had been put in by the driver," he testified.

The accused asserted that it was possible for anyone at night to get gas out of the fill-pipe as it was not locked. He said that he never could believe the 'dipstick" and relied on the meter for his records. Witness denied that any tests had been made in his presence during the months of June, August and September of last year.

Reserves Decision

Addressing the court, Mr. Richardson pointed out that the charge was not that the accused was short of gas or short of coupons but that gas had been sold without the corresponding coupons. It was not logical that he would break the law knowing that the inspector was checking up on the tanks he said. The method used by the Board was not reasonable as they relied only on the dipstick to check contents instead of checking the sales and the coupons. Defence counsel said that he had been informed of a court finding which had stipulated that the amount of gasoline in a tank could not be held conclusive as to the amount sold but had been unable to find the exact case.

"Well I am going to reserve judgment and if you want to give me that case you speak of, I will be glad to look into it," stated Magistrate Baxter.

Industrial Development Bank's Resources Said Not Sufficient

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 7 — (C P) — Members of four parties in the Commons last night said that the proposed Industrial Development Bank, with resources of $100,000,000, falls short of what will be required in the financing of industry in the post-war period.

Speaking on second reading of the bill to set up the Bank, New Democracy Leader Blackmore said that as now proposed the institution would be unequal to its responsibilities. But it could have a paid-up capital of $250,000,000 instead of $25,000,000, the money being created by the Bank of Canada.

The Bank then could be expanded to the point where it would be able to lend all the money necessary in any part of Canada. It could be used to "bring the Banks into line" and control interest rates.

Mr. Blackmore and Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC - York - Sudbury) agreed the Bank might be used to decentralize industry through its financing authority. But Mr. Hanson said he believed that with a continued high National income private means of financing would be adequate.

Receives C. C. F. Support

M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, said the bill setting up the Bank fell short of what it should be at this time. The proposed institution largely destroyed the argument in favor of "so-called free enterprise" and went some distance in removing the "risks for which the public is supposed to pay those engaged in free enterprise." The C. C. F. supported the measure in principle.

Capt. Walter Tucker (L - Rosthern) said the rate of interest charged by the Bank should not be more than three or 3½ per cent and it should be in a position to assist those returning from overseas becoming established in businesses of their own. The capital resources of the Bank might well be larger.

After three hours' discussion the bill was held over for further discussion prior to second reading, after which it will be referred to the banking and commerce committee.

During the afternoon sitting yesterday the House members discussed proposals of a committee to speed up business of the House by revising the rule of procedure.

Some of Proposals

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government was making no suggestions and taking no responsibility for rejection or acceptance of the committee's report, the principal proposals of which are:—

1. Increase from five to 20 the number of members required to support an appeal from a speaker's ruling before a vote is allowed;

2. Limit speeches of members when the House is in committee to one on each clause or item and that speeches be not longer than 20 minutes with no limit of the asking of questions;

3. Shorten procedure on divorce bills by sending them direct to the private bills committee on coming from the senate instead of putting them through the usual steps of presentation of the senate reading, first reading and second reading.

Speaker J. A. Glen, who headed a committee reviewing the standing orders, said that a paramount thought had been to see that the rights of minorities were not impaired.

Mr. Hanson said that he could not agree that abridgement of speeches in the House to less than 40 minutes was necessary. No divorce bills should be brought before parliament and all should be dealt with by the courts.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) said the rights of minorities must be protected, but it was recognized the majority must rule and the government must have means to curtail debate.

Ligouri Lacombe (CDN-Laval-Two Mountains) said that divorce should be abolished to protect married couples against themselves and for the protection of their children.

Tom Reid (L-New Westminster) said the House rule forbidding the reading of speeches should be strictly enforced.

J. F. Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) said he felt the proposed amendments to the standing orders had been inspired by fear of the "yellow press" and "certain club men who know nothing about what is going on in parliament but pass judgment upon us while smoking long cigars between drinks of Scotch."

The prime minister said he had hoped the House would have found it possible to endorse a reference to a committee of at least some estimates which now occupy considerable time in the House.

A. W. Neill (Ind-Comox-Alberni) opposed the suggestion that members in the House be compelled to vote in the event of a division.

Save All Your Paper

Montreal, March 8 (CP)

CANADIANS were warned here last night by Charles La Ferle, national salvage director, that the shortage of wastepaper may jeopardize Canada's war effort. La Ferle said paper board mills were operating "from hand to mouth" and some might have to close down unless supplied with a minimum of 20,000 tons monthly east of Port Arthur, Ont. The present monthly level, he said, is 17,500 tons.

10-5 Score Puts Outlaws Behind In Series

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 8 (ENS) —With the Hydro team eliminated from the play-offs when they went down before a 5 to 3 count in their game with the Clerks last Wednesday, Clerks and Outlaws met for the first of a best of three play-off series here Monday evening. Playing a flawless game on the defense and exhibiting their best in rushes at the enemy bastion the Clerks went on a scoring rampage that gave them a 10 to 5 victory before a comparatively small crowd.

It was a well earned victory for the Clerks who got off to flying start counting five times before the Outlaws entered the picture. The first frame was enlivened by a bout between Owen Hendy and 'Pastry' Milne who tangled in a session of fisticuffs and wrestling in which they were soon joined by Bud Peloquin and Duffy Nicholas as the period ended.

In the second stanza the Outlaws narrowed the Clerk's lead by counting four times to the Clerks once and both teams settled down to steady hockey with close checking limiting the work of net minders McComb and Martin who nevertheless did some nice work. The period ended with the Clerks still on the best side of a 7 to 5 score. In fact this frame ended the scoring for the Outlaws who worked desperately to get out of their cellar position during the final period but were outmanoeuvred on every play. It was while they were forcing the play at the opposite end that Clerks managed to break-away and score three more to bring the final tally to 10-5.

Bud Peloquin lead the scoring for the winners registering four times while Hendy counted three, Burgiss 2 and L. Nesbitt, one. For Outlaws P. Milne, B. Oliver, K. Sutton, B. McKelvie and P. Free each counted one.

Clerks: Goal, E. McComb; defense, O. Hendy, C. Poulton; centre, D. Burgess; wings, C. Post, Bud Peloquin; alternates, Fred Turner, H. Dooher and L. Nesbitt.

$300 Grant Made On Mortgage

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8.—(ENS).—Seymour township will pay its usual grant of $300 to the Seymour Agrculture Society this year. However, this amount (the largest single grant received by the society annually) will be paid over with the provision that the society apply it to the principal of the mortgage they owe on their grounds and buildings. W. Ward Archer, president of the Agricultural Society, addressed council requesting the grant when members met for their March meeting here Monday afternoon. Reeve William Rowe presided for the meeting.

The main business at the meeting was acceptance of the 1943 tax roll from collector G. G. Stephens This indicated the township was in its best financial position in years with only $916.31 balance on current taxes due and arrears previous to 1943 amounting to but $460.18. Last year's collection totalled $37,525.86 on current taxes and $427.24 on arrears.

The clerk read a communication from the Ontario Municipal Finance Officers' Association announcing a conference at Niagara Falls on April 10 and 11.

The following pay sheet was passed: J. H. Archer, sheep killed, $18; Fred Hay, sheep killed, $125; Alex S. Leith auditor $124.78; E. A. Bell, ins. premium, $8; H.E.P.C. acct., $64.14; Municipal World acct., $16.44; A. D. Bennett, charity, $9; Bell Telephone Co., $2.75 G. W. Anderson, school att. officer, $10; William Allen, lab., $11.20; William Bateson, lab., $8; J. McCredie, lab., $11.10; Stewart Hay, lab., $8; Robt. Bateson lab., $3.20; D. H. Petherick, acct., $17.25; G. G. Stephens, salary and expenses, $51.75.

Council Votes $10 To Hospital

MILLBROOK, March 8—(ENS).—Millbrook Municipal Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Reeve H. D. Bigelow presiding, and all members present. The communications included letters from P. B. Seymour, re audit, Mrs. E Brooks re claim for damages, from the Sick Children's Hospital re grant, and from Mrs. Maude Armstrong. The clerk was instructed to write Mrs. Brooks that the claim is out of the Council's hands; and on motion of Councillors Harrington and Olan, a grant of $10 was made to the Sick Children's Hospital.

It was moved by Harrington and Olan that the clerk be instructed to secure prices on a police officer's uniform.

The firemen made a report of practice on this date and all equipment in good order. Councillor M. Ball, relief officer, reported relief dispensed during February, 1944, amounting to $19.70, and on motion of Councillors Powell and Olan the report was received and accounts ordered paid.

H G. Skitch addressed Council, asking permission to cut tree on King Street in front of his property, which is said to be dead. Councillor Harrington was delegated to look into the matter and report.

Present Accounts.

The following accounts were presented and on motion of Olan and Ball were ordered paid:

Hydro, street lighting $61.12, halls $4.27, $65.29; Decon Telephones Ltd account, $4.84; H. Whyte, caretaker $16; Snow removal, $1; J. J. Kellett, constable, $12; D. Dunlop, removing snow, $22.60; W. S. Kennedy, snow plowing, etc., $10.50; H. M. Trick, coal for Fire Hall, $18; H. Murney, snow removal, $1; L. Olan, sanding hill, $1.70; D.L. Armstrong, sand, $3.80; Provincial Treasurer, insulin account, $3.59 Office Specialty Co., cabinet, $41.87; W. A. Reid, account various, $6.63; G. E. Burnham, goods relief, $17.20; F. Hutchinson, shelter, $2.50.

Badge of Honour

In 1943—109,313 Certificates for First Aid and Home Nursing were awarded jointly by the St. John Ambulance Association and the Canadian Red Cross Society.

These certificates are indeed "Badges of Honour". To the recipient they represent many hours of hard study and intensive training; they are symbols of good citizenship and sound practical knowledge.

These certificates are also symbols of the unflagging efforts of the Order of St. John to serve humanity. For it is through the St. John Ambulance Association, controlled by the Order that the public may secure instruction in First Aid and in the elementary principles and practice of Home Nursing and of hygiene and sanitation.

That hundreds of thousands of Canadians have won the St. John Ambulance Certificate is a credit to their fine spirit; the Order of St. John is proud of the part it plays in helping these men and women acquire the knowledge and training which stands back of these "Badges of Honour".

How To Make Mischief

We cannot imagine what, except the desire to make mischief, moved Mr. M. J. Coldwell to suggest to Parliament last week that the Canadian Government Bonds might decline in value. He said that "if this Government were changed for a still more reactionary Government then they (the Bonds) would be worth a lot less when the war is over than they are now". Which, being interpreted, means that if the Liberals were put out and the Progressive Conservatives were put in, the Victory Bonds would drop in value, and therefore the only safe thing for the Canadian people to do is to elect Mr. Coldwell and his experienced, discreet and intelligent colleagues to govern the country. Yes indeed. But as Mr. Coldwell said in a carefully considered statement last September that a C.C.F. Government would undertake a capital levy, and as Bonds are perhaps the easiest sort of property to confiscate, we do not think that the Canadian people will be impressed by his warning. The public statements of the C.C.F. leaders have such a dizzy air that we often wonder if party policy is not decided while Messrs. Coldwell, Scott, Jolliffe, Winch and the rest ride on a merry-go-round.

Canada has been governed either by Liberals or Conservatives since 1867, and a lot of money has been borrowed from the people during that time; never, at any time during that period, has the Dominion failed to pay in full, and there is no reason why it should default in the future. Let us examine the matter with some care. Canada's war finance has been on the soundest possible basis; we are paying for about fifty per cent. of our war effort out of taxes, and we are paying the remainder by borrowing; we have borrowed, up to the present, seven and a half billions of dollars. We have borrowed this great sum at a very low rate of interest. If the investment had not been entirely sound, it would not have been possible to raise such a great sum at that rate; but not only individual investors who may not be money-wise, but great investment corporations who know exactly how these matters are arranged, have bought Bonds to the utmost limit of their power, convinced that the investment is the safest offering at present. Money in Bonds is as good as money in the bank. The price of Government bonds has remained at par, or a little above par, ever since they were issued. Canadian Government finance is as firmly founded as any in the world; if it were not so our contribution to the war effort would be markedly less than it is.

Mr. Coldwell's suggestion was that the Government should undertake to guarantee to keep the price of its Bonds at par at all times. What reason could he have had for putting forward such an idea unless, perhaps, it were a desire to shake the confidence of thousands of small investors in the value of their Victory Bonds? If he succeeded in doing that it would be hard for the Government to borrow from the people at the next Loan, and the interest rates on the Bonds would have to be raised to tempt investors. That way lies inflation and economic chaos; and of course Mr. Coldwell has always predicted that if we continue to finance in our present way for a day longer, economic chaos will come of it. We do not think, however, that many investors, even those of his own party, will pay much attention to Mr. Coldwell's insinuation. No one doubts for a moment that Canadian Bonds will be redeemed at par, and at present most of them are saleable at more than cost. What more does any investor want?

War Profiteers

Certain of the neutral countries seem to be doing rather well out of the war. Consider the case of Turkey, for instance. For more than a year now Turkey has been flirting with the United Nations, and particularly with Britain; the suggestion has been that Turkey really wants a United Nations victory, and would even be glad to join in the fighting, if a favourable excuse should turn up. To encourage this friendly attitude Britain has been sending Turkey large quantities of arms — millions of dollars worth of arms—which presumably would be useful when the excuse for war was good enough. Turkey has never been so friendly with Britain, however, that she has allowed her friendship with Germany to fall into disrepair, and now Britain has tired of the double game. The presents of arms have stopped.

Spain has never been on friendly terms with the United Nations. Franco has always done as much as he dared to bring about a fascist victory. And, incidentally, Spain has snatched what profit she could from the war, and not always by honest means. Not long ago there was a scandal about a cargo of oranges containing time bombs, which reached Britain from Spain. There is another orange story behind that one. During the first two years of war Germany bought the Spanish orange crop; last year Britain bought it, and paid for it while the fruit was still green on the tree. When the time for shipment came around the agent who had purchased for the British reported that the fruit was rotting and worthless, and so it was decided to abandon it to save shipping space; the object of keeping the fruit from the Germans seemed to have been accomplished. It was not long afterward that Spanish oranges were plentiful in Germany. An investigation showed that the British purchasing agent had been a Nazi secret agent as well, and had connived with the Spanish in selling their crop twice. A dirty business, and a clear sign that birds of the fascist feather flock together.

Britain has dealt sharply with the indecisive Turks. Already the Spaniards have been warned to watch their step, and it is to be hoped that the United Nations will take a much firmer line with them.

Who Is "Average"?

We should like to make a protest against a statement which is repeated everywhere these days, by people who seem to us to have no more sense than parrots. It is this: "The purchasing power of the average individual today has greatly increased, while, at the same time, spending outlets have been restricted."

Who is this "average individual". Where are we to find him and what does he look like? What is his job? How much money does he get every week, and how much did he get before the war? Is he a real creature or is he a creation of the statisticians, who do not know a man from an abstraction?

We know some people who are getting a lot more money now than they did before the war. We know that even when they have paid their taxes they have left more than they had during the depression. But we also know that they need every cent of it to keep up a decent —not a luxurious—standard of living, to pay their rent, to clothe themselves and their children, and to meet their obligations.

We also know a great number of people who are getting now exactly what they got before the war. Their taxes have vastly increased and they are paying more than before the war to keep up the standard of living which they have set for themselves. When they have paid their taxes, bought their bonds, and met their obligations, they are lucky if they have a cent to bless themselves with. Are they not just as "average" as the first group?

But a great many people insist on talking, and writing, as though there were thousands of free spenders with large bankrolls running about the streets, squandering their money on luxuries, turning the national economy topsy-turvey. If these people exist, where are they?

Although Canada's payroll is bigger today than it has ever been before, we do not believe for an instant that the average man—if such a creature can be found—has more money to spend than he had before the war. We think that his budget—particularly if he is in a job which he did before the war—is as straight as a plumb-line, and that the slightest deviation will upset his finances for a year. He does not complain, because he knows that his money—most of it—is being used to fight the war. But he does not like to be spoken of as though his pockets were stuffed with easy money, when he is stretching every dollar to its uttermost.

It is recommended that the Board of Governors of the CBC should have a representative of labour, one of agriculture, and one of the press. And, as a novel proposal, may we suggest somebody to represent the arts and another to represent the Forgotten Man of Canadian radio—the listener?

Survey Of Russian History

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

BERNARD HUMPHREY SUMNER, a Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford, has produced a most useful and timely book called "A Short History Of Russia" (Thos. Nelson & Sons). Most of us have an extremely patchy notion of Russian history, gained from reading a few Russian novels in translation and seeing a few movies which dealt with downtrodden serfs, mad czars, seductive empresses, scoundrelly monks and other picturesque characters. Our ignorance is perhaps excusable; histories of Russia are uncommon, and those by the best authorities are forbidding in appearance and, in translation, perplexing reading. Mr. Sumner's book fills the need for a good, brief Russian history for the general reader.

MR. SUMNER has not written his Russian history in the usual chronological form. Instead he has devoted a section of his book to each of the principal influences which have gone to form Russia and determine her historical path. Although this method involves a certain amount of jumping backward and forward in time for the reader it results at last in giving him a more complete survey of Russian history, in less space, than could have been done by the conventional method of writing. The great influences in Russian history according to this authority—and B. H. Sumner is an authority of high repute—are the Frontier, the State, the Land, the Church, the Slavs, the Sea and the West. In an article of this length it is not possible to summarize his argument successfully, but a few of his main points may be mentioned.

RUSSIA, like the United States and Canada, is a land in which the frontier is a dominating element; Russia is four times as large as Europe, and it has less than half Europe's population; its population, furthermore, is not homogeneous, for Russia is a land of many peoples. The czars were content merely to dominate a great land area, exacting tribute from the peoples who came most readily within their grasp. The U.S.S.R., in attempting to make a coherent whole of Russia, has undertaken the gigantic task of bringing law and civil organization to all the peoples of Russia, of shifting population from poor land to good, of estimating the resources of the whole great area, and relating it all to a central government.

IT should not surprise anyone that the Russian State is autocratic. It has always been so. The czars, from Ivan the Terrible downward, have had to rule with the iron hand if they meant to rule at all. But not every czar had the iron hand of Ivan, and inevitably a bureaucracy grew up to supply the rigour which the ruler was unable to supply personally. How else could a vast country, with a predominantly illiterate population, be ruled at all? Russia is greatly changed today, but the soul of Russia has not changed. Centuries of despotic rule may create a prejudice in its favour and it seems possible—though Mr. Sumner does not say so—that the modern Russians do not distinguish as clearly between Marshal Stalin and a czar as we do. Neither do they find anything novel or especially abhorrent in the existence of a secret police or the liquidation of political prisoners; they have always been used to it. The modern Russian has a liberty greater than his ancestors enjoyed, but it is not liberty as we understand that condition.

A SECTION of the western world has been horrified by the attitude of Soviet Russia toward the Church, and has seen in the League of the Militant Godless not simply an organization opposed to the Church Militant, but a blasphemy of Apocalyptic dimensions. They should read Mr. Sumner's account of the Church which was swept away by the Revolution. It had its good points, and it even bred a few saints, but it was a terrible instrument of oppression none the less. It was undoubtedly the opium of the people, and like opium it paralysed the will and rotted the mind. Russia was well rid of it. Now the Russian Church is appearing in a cleansed and chastened form, and if it behaves itself it may once again minister usefully to a fundamentally religious people.

MR. SUMNER'S book should be read by everyone who is anxious to make sense of the modern world situation, in which Russia is rising to such great prominence. Let it be clearly understood, his book is a history, it is not merely a discussion of modern Russia with historical references. But in its brief survey of the history of Russia it explains many things which would otherwise be dark to us, and one of these is Russia's Panslavic ambition. For centuries Russia has been a 'recipient nation,' taking its culture, its philosophy and its science from the West, and with the Western trappings still clinging to them. Russia is now convinced that she has something to give to the world—a great Slavic civilization as rich as any the world has ever seen. Russia has no desire to impose it on the world by force. Civilizations travel quickly and without fighting. But it may well be that Russia in the future will dominate the world of thought, art and manners just as France did during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. For with all her handicaps Russia has one enormous strength—her Russian people, who are just waking into a new age. Of that people it was written in 1942: "You could make nails of them, and never would nails be stronger....Yes, of these people you can make everything—nails, tanks, poetry, victory."

We Wouldn't Believe

One of the most difficult things for free and decent men to understand about the aggressors was that they meant what they said when they promised the civilized world destruction. When Mussolini ranted against democracy and declared that war ennobled the race, we called it bluff and bombast. When Hitler's voice cracked, we called it sound and fury. All the tyrants, all the aggressors could afford to make a noise about what they were going to do. It gave their own people an awesome confidence in them. And as for us, we wouldn't believe it.—Christian Science Monitor.

War Veterans' Rights

Post-war plans are necessary, without question. On the other hand, it remains exceedingly difficult to find a post-war plan these days that has in it much recognition of the returning veterans as the chief beneficiary of measures ostensibly designed in his honour. What the veteran will really be looking for is a reasonable return to civilian life, and not a nine-month ride on some public building.—Victoria Colonist.

WOTAN NEVER HAD CANADIAN OPPOSITION —By Thomas

A Brewery In Your Cellar

(CALGARY HERALD)

IT appears that some thirsty souls in Canada are making their own beer. They are quite within the law: all they need is a permit from the excise department of the Federal Government. They must also take care that the alcoholic content of the beer stays within certain bounds. It must be what Shakespeare described as "small beer".

They make this beer from a powder manufactured in Montreal, which has now been placed on sale in Calgary. The manufacturers claim that it will produce drinkable beer in six days.

So far, so good. But how does this tally with Mr. King's exhortation of December 16, 1942? In that speech, Mr. King said that the Canadian people were drinking too much beer, and he was going to cut down the supply.

But here is a way in which the Canadian people can drink more beer. Small beer, it is true, and entailing a lot of thought and worry and physical effort. With one or two explosions, perhaps, occasioned by the inexperience of amateur braumeisters. Nevertheless, beer. And legal beer, at that.

How about the breweries? Well, they could make more beer, too, but the Federal Government, at Mr. King's behest, forbids them to do so. Beer may flow from the basements, but not from the breweries. Amateurs can make it, but not professionals: presumably on the theory that home-made beer is less dangerous to the nation's morality than the kind you buy in cartons.

The Federal Government thus marches on to greater heights of achievement. It has made bootlegging a profitable industry: it has created a state of affairs which places a permit in the hands of every man and woman: it has produced the time-wasting, soul-killing line-up system which wastes enough man-hours in Canada every day to build a couple of battleships.

Now comes the crowning accomplishment — small beer. Father buys the ingredients, mother does the stirring, and the children help with the bottling. Mr. King has given his followers a perfect slogan for the next Federal election — a chicken in every pot, two cars in every garage, and a brewery in every basement.

Lawyer Defends Tax Collectors

(THE PRINTED WORD)

COMMENT in the February issue of The Printed Word on what seemed to us, and others, as excessive zeal on the part of tax collectors employed by His Majesty's Canadian government has brought from a lawyer the remark that we were somewhat unfair. This lawyer who has much to do with the internal revenue boys, says that they are a good lot. A tenfold increase in their work in a couple of years may have made them a bit irascible and hurried, he says. Otherwise they are a blameless, hard-working crowd of civil servants. In so far as we were wrong, we herewith tender apology.

It is interesting to note that it is a lawyer who defends them. Information on which we based our criticism came from several members of a highly ethical profession — chartered accountancy. Many of the tax collectors are chartered accountants. So there we are.

Yet our lawyer friend makes a case. His argument is that neither man nor beast, civil servant nor citizen, lawyer nor jurist can tell what the income tax law of this fair Dominion really is. It has grown into a hodge podge of contradictory amendments from year to year, until one man's guess is as good as another man's lawyer. Every now and then the Privy Council makes a stab at interpreting the Canadian law, based on decisions relating to laws in other parts of the Empire. But our law is a constant temptation for civil servants to tinker, and the citizen pays and pays.

Take that matter of the attempt to have a certain industry capitalize repairs. In that instance, the zealous fellows working out of Ottawa might, we are told, go home with their tails between their legs if informed that the highest court says a repair is a repair and not a capital expenditure unless such repair makes the machine, or what have you, better than when it was new. That sounds sensible.

Yet if this is so, we wonder about the ruling—or is it law?—that a new roof on an old house is a capital expenditure and not deductible from operating revenue. If a new roof makes an old house better than it was when first built, real estate buyers and sellers are silly.

It is well established in law that expenses incurred in the promotion of a business are an operating expense, but money spent to save, or preserve, a business must be charged to capital. Advertising, therefore, is an expense, because it is assumed that advertising is designed to help sales. But a long time ago, in New Zealand, some brewers raised a fund to beat a proposed licensing law and in due course the Privy Council decided the money was taxable, even though the proposed law would have put the brewers out of business.

By the same token, it would seem as if fire insurance premiums should be taxable. They pay for protection, not promotion of a property. But these expenditures always have been allowed. Legal fees also are allowed as an operating expense, although if you ever wish to start a bear market in any company's stock, just put a lawyer in charge of sales.

Seemingly, what this country needs is a complete re-writing of the income tax law. And then there should be a commission established which will take over the departmental duty of interpretation. Very likely many of our present grievances arise from a law faulty, vague and cumbersome. But there is also a fault that the department which does the collecting also makes the rulings. One may concede that there are well-meaning men in the civil service, but it is human to make rules, if one has the power, to facilitate one's own work and make a showing with the boss.

But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name: thou art mine... This people have I formed for myself, they shall shew forth my praise. (Isa. 43: 1, 21.)

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise. For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel....

For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself; and hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of man....

I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me. (John 5: 19, 20, 26, 27, 30.)

Geographical Speeches Are Out

Under the caption "Mr. Bracken Woos Quebec," the Toronto Star says that Mr. Bracken made a speech in Quebec City which he would not likely make in Ontario, invites him to make it in Toronto. Having read the text of Mr. Bracken's speech, we don't think there was anything in it that he couldn't have said acceptably right on the Star's doorstep, or on the doorstep of the Telegram, for that matter. As a matter of fact, the passage in Mr. Bracken's speech that the Star refers to—one dealing with our "home army"—has been spoken again and again in Ontario.

But, come to think of it, how in these days can a public man like Mr. Bracken make a speech in one part of Canada that isnt' read just as widely in every other part of Canada? Mr. Bracken's speech was read in Toronto; all the papers there published it. If Mr. Bracken had delivered it in Toronto instead of Quebec City it would, so far as its publicity was concerned, have made no difference at all.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago, before news agencies like The Canadian Press started national coverage of important national happenings, a politician might have one speech for Quebec and another for Ontario—and get away with it. That can't happen now. What is spoken in Montreal—if the speaker be important—is read in Toronto, and vice versa; with the business of politics on the basis of longitude and latitude pretty much out. Which is probably a good thing.—Ottawa Journal.

"A Dirty Jew"

There was an unpleasant incident in the New York subway the other day when a woman of Swiss-German birth refused the offer of a seat from a man with the retort: "I wouldn't take a seat from a dirty Jew." Not content with that, she continued to make insulting remarks toward him from the Bronx until she got out at 34th street. The man, accompanied by several other people, left at the same time, and had difficulty in persuading a policeman to arrest her for insulting language, the officer remarking that the case would be thrown out of court any way. Even when taken to the police station the woman continued to abuse the complainant. The policeman was quite right in his prediction. The case was thrown out of court.

The prosecution was undertaken by the National Committee to Combat Semitism, and not until she was brought into court did the accused say she was sorry. The magistrate thereupon advised the counsel for the Jewish people "to swallow his pride" and not proceed with the case. The lawyer objected, whereupon the magistrate said to the woman: "Are you really sorry?" "Yes, I am," she replied. Whereupon the magistrate dismissed the case with the advice to the defendant that before she made remarks about anybody again she first count ten. That part of his judgment was certainly wise.

The magistrate's name? McGee.

We wonder if the magistrate would have swallowed his pride if the woman had said: "I wouldn't take a seat from a dirty Irishman."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

SCOUT CRAFT SHOW

We are very pleased to be able to publish the tentative Cub program for the Scout Craft show. We want to congratulate Akela Marshall on the thought that she has put behind the ideas and would urge that every Cub Leader will follow out the suggestions.

The demonstrations are on the following lines, The Guide Badge, First Aider Badge, Second Star Message, Houseorderly Badge, Signalling, Fire lighting, Union Jack, Athlete Badge and First and Second Star Athlete, i.e., skipping, book balancing, leap-frog, hopping and physical exercises.

Each group will be given a different task to perform and it will not be necessary to travel from their own headquarters to put the work into practice. It is felt that much precious time can be saved and it will not be burdensome to the officers to put in many extra nights on their now taxed to the limit evenings. Definite instructions will be issued to the Packs concerned.

An Apology

News from the St. Andrew's Pack has been destroyed by error.

Old Scouts Attention

Several letters to Old Scouts have been sent out asking for data on their Scout actions and connections of years ago. Attention would be appreciated. Also any former Old Scout that has not yet been contacted please phone 3067 or write 296 Rogers street. If you were in Scouting 10, 20, 30-years ago, you are the man wanted.

Scouters Club

The Scouters Club will meet in the Paragon Hall on Wednesday evening at 7.30 p.m., and will take in the Scout Leaders' Training Course as part of their evening's program. Every officer possible is requested to attend. The matter of the Scout Craft Show will be fully discussed.

Good Work

Last week marked the first anniversary of the Park Hill Scouts and Cubs getting into action. They have made another contribution to the work in the printing of their Group paper, "The Mascot." One of the highlights of the paper this week is the report on a recent hike to Lily Lake and the cooking over an open fire. Also the investiture of James Hirter into the Great Brotherhood of Scouts. The following boys passed tests: Wallace Hewitt, laws, signs, salute, Union Jack and whipping ropes; Irvin Robbins, laws, signs, salute and uses of Scout staff; Casper Wiechorek, fire lighting and compass; William Clark, laws; Lelise MacDougall, fire lighting and cooking; Ralph Goodfellow, fire lighting and cooking; Keith Gordon, service, first aid, Kim's game, fire lighting and cooking.

St. Luke's

The Cubs Grand Howl was led by Billie David. Attendance and inspection was carried out and the game of "As you were" was led by Baloo. The Cubs were busy in their lairs trying out test work with the following results: Douglas Baptie, Union Jack; Ralph Barker, knots and somersault; Douglas Britnell, leap frog and hopping; Gordon Barker, leap frog and hopping. Kenneth Pammett, signs and salute; Hugh and Peter Rose, laws and promise; Jack King, savings. Ronald Fuller was accepted into the Pack as a new Chum and was made welcome on the Jungle Trail. The Blue Six won the medal for last month's competition. At Red Flower, Baloo told the story of how "Cub Rolph made a friend."

After the meeting a Sixers Council was held. All Cubs are asked to attend the meeting Tuesday.

At the last meeting of the Scout Troop, the inspection was followed by the playing of two games "Knot Relay" and "Earth, Air and Water." Allan Payne has been very busy of late gaining ground on his First Class badge in the passing of First Aid, tree felling and map reaing. Promotion was awarded to Rudolf Pollock and Allen Payne who were appointed to the rank of Patrol Leader and Assistant Patrol Leader in order named. Albert Dew and Albert Wardell were accepted into the Troop.

St. John's

Akela James Wallace was a visitor at the Pack meeting. The Green Six were duty six for the evening. Games and instruction were on the program of the evening with the visitor helping in the passage of the various tests.

George Hall, Albert Buckton, Jimmy Robertson passed physical exercises; A. Buckton, savings; Billy Cummings, George Hall, Jim Robertson, first aid; John Biddle, knots and cleanliness; reports were received on the recent paper collection.

Parents' Night

The All Saints' Cubs and Scouts held a successful Parents' night, which owing to faulty heating, and with the kindness of the Knox church group, was held in the Knox church Sunday School. A good attendance was enjoyed. Commissioner E. Wolff and Assistant Commissioner A. Hope were visitors of the evening and both gave short words of encouragement to the officers, boys and parents. The evening took the shape of the demonstration of the life of a Cub starting from the day he became a new Chum right through his career to the winning of his second star, and the whole action was brought to a fitting climax when Gerry Excel, a war visitor to this district, left the Pack and joined the Troop in the going up ceremony.

HEALTH STANDARD.

LONDON —(CP)— Nutrition expert Sir John Orr says if "a proper standard of health nutrition were adopted," the expectation of life in England would be increased by about five years and in Scotland by about 10.

PROFITABLE BUSINESS

LIVERPOOL, England— (CP) — Schoolboys working as soapbox cabbies between a railway station and a big R. A. F. training centre have cleared $4,500 in the two years they have been organized. The firm bears the dignified name of "United Nations Transport Service" and the profits are turned into war savings or clothes.

PROTEST FUEL FUMES

LONDON —(CP)— The Transport and General Workers' Union is urging the withdrawal of gas-producer road passenger vehicles. The Union alleges they cause physical discomfort and sometimes mild illness.

TAMBLYN
EMPHATIC COSMETICS ESSENTIAL
A man once wrote, "A pretty girl is like a melody," which in effect is the highest degree of compliment or appreciation from one of the opposite sex. No one will gainsay the aptitude of this phrase, but what is important is the effect upon the ladies themselves that comes from the innate assurance of "looking one's best." In these days of trial and stress when we read continuously of the activities on the many military fronts, it must be borne in mind that, we of the Home Front of necessity must have a Front to work behind. To the Ladies, Beauty is that Front, a type of defence which tends most definitely to bolster the morale. That is a proven fact. There are, of course, many contributing factors to Beauty—of which one of the most necessary is Physical and Mental "Well Being," and the preservation of this Health and Beauty is essentially a Home Front duty. In all cases, however, the careful use of Cosmetics is plainly indicated. Your Tamblyn Drug Store at any time can be of the greatest assistance to the Ladies in their search for these "Beauty Requisites," and this week is again featuring and stressing their undoubted value. So may we suggest a visit to your nearest Tamblyn Store, where will be found displays of the highest quality cosmetics—applicable to all types. As an aid to your selection, a number have also been included in this list of

KELLIE'S CORNER

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Has the drive that was aimed to put a modern sports centre and hockey cushion in a prominent place in Peterborough's post-war construction program bogged down? We have been asked that question and all that we were able to answer was that if it hasn't the progress that has been made must be something in the nature of a military secret for nothing is being given out. For weeks this column knows nothing was done because the committee found it impossible to get any one to take the responsibility of chairman. The result has been that all the initial enthusiasm engendered when the project was first announced last fall has been allowed to leak away and before long it may be found that the failure to get the campaign under way with plenty of snap and enthusiasm has resulted in us missing the boat entirely. We hope not. An arena is a "must" so far as sport development is concerned and every effort should be made to see that one of the community's greatest needs is provided. But frankly we don't like the policy of drift that seems to have set in. What is required is the public spirit that has been shown by the citizens of Welland who have got a similar proposition well on the way to completion.

The St. Catharines-Oshawa series has a lot of folk guessing and among them is Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald who before the fourth game of the round had this to say about the tussle: "The Oshawa-St. Catharines series is the most puzzling of the lot, and when one considers the three games staged to date it might lead to any one of several conclusions. St. Kitts took the first encounter 8-3, lost the second 14-3 and then came up with victory No. 2 Saturday night when they beat the Generals 4-3. The thing just doesn't jibe for some reason. Either Oshawa are homers or front runners, or are merely toying with the Falcons and extending the series to the full complement of seven games. Which is correct, this corner has no way of knowing, but certainly these scores just won't jell here. On their form throughout the regular schedule the Generals appear to have a decided edge on St. Kitts. They had little trouble disposing of Stratford Kroehlers by lopsided counts in both encounters, while the Falcons experienced plenty of trouble beating Kroehlers in overtime in one game, and were fortunate in gaining a tie on their second visit to Stratford."

It must have been galling to Kingston hockey fans to see the hockey talent that has been going to waste there this winter because of the military ruling. The Army played an exhibition game with the Navy there the other night and Scribe Bill Walshe has this to say: "There were two regrettable features to the soldier-sailor exhibition hockey game Saturday night at the Jock Harty Arena in aid of the Hockey Hall of Fame; the small crowd and the fact that the Kingston army team was not playing for the Ontario championship. The cold weather, previous visits of the Toronto Navy team and the disgust of the fans at the army banning open hockey may blamed for the many vacant seats but the fans who failed to attend missed a splendid display of wide open hockey by some of the top-name stars of the sport. Kingston had a team composed of 12 former National Hockey Leaguers and two of the top amateur stars, a club that would be favored to win the Stanley and Allan Cups if conditioned and working as a unit. Baz Bastien, one of the best goal-tenders in hockey, Buck Jones, Jack Church and Vic Grigg, Maple Leafs; Chuck Phillips, Canadiens; Red Hamill, Chicago; Frank Mario and Jim Conacher, Boston; Chuck Corrigan, Leafs; Gus Marker, Maroons and Leafs; Red Doran, Detroit; Jim Peters, Providence, and Jim Imlach, leading scorer of the Quebec Senior all played for Kingston, in fact the team was so strong that Red Tilson was loaned to the Navy. Sgt. Jack MacDonald must be given credit for a grand job in the rapid reorganization of the soldier team."

Ken Colling has arrived at the conclusion that there is something lacking in the hockey played in the Quinte district. Says the Belleville sports scribe: "Over the week-end the management of the Combines notified O.H.A. convener Allan Meagher that they had been forced to withdraw from further O.H.A. competition for 1944 and defaulted their return game at Kingston. Of course the Limestone management did not help their own cause any too much when they stepped into Stirling and beat the Combines 20 to 5 last Friday night. A return game wouldn't have attracted enough people into the Jock Harty arena to pay for the night's lighting. The decision of the Combines' management came after it was announced that Bert Bastedo, play-making centre player for Coach Neal's squad, would not be available for future games owing to a back injury. Then Doug Patterson sustained an injured arm and was forced to the sidelines during Friday's game breaking up the Stirling Bastedo brothers-Patterson front line. Thus it's curtains for junior hockey in the district for 1944, but considerable interest was worked up during the season. The final turn of affairs would indicate the calibre of hockey played in the Quinte area, especially in the lower brackets, wasn't on a par with other centres. The Whitby Juveniles and the Kingston juniors proved that."

Some Tall Rolling

Bud Weese of Jay's team, after being in and out of first place at least a half dozen times during the last three months, is the leading bowler in the Men's City League again according to the official averages covering all games rolled up to the present time. His average is 248 for 63 games and is two points above his own 246 mark which was tops for the league when the last official list was published at the completion of the first half of the schedule on January 6th. Doug. Abraham, the Cleanrites' ace, is in second position with 246 for 66 games and Bob Dyer of the Ramblers is third with 243 for 60 games. Two other men from Jay's team are holding down the 4th and 5th places, with Fred Martin, their team captain bowling a steady 242 for 69 games and the current city champion, Jack Playford, 236 for 69 games. Tick Caccavella is the only other trundler above 230. He is now showing 232 for each game rolled.

The figures reveal that the bowling men of this league are on their toes with no fewer than 75 of them averaging over 200 each. The highlights since the first of the year has been the consistent brand of high scoring dished up by Melville Anthony of the K. of C. aggregation and the upward climb of the veterans Tom Curvin, Chief Gimblett, Jim Cullen and Bill Howes. Anthony has jumped ahead in leaps and bounds by going up a full 13 points. Cullen has registered a nine point gain, while Curvin, Gimblett and Howes are up 7 points each. Another old-timer Nels Routley was out a lot of the time through illness but is still in the 200 class with a 202 average. The high three for the league is Bud Weese's 960 score rolled last week, while no one has yet been able to come even close to Tick Caccavella's 445 single which was chalked up in December.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Boston Bruins' chances of a playoff berth were practically eliminated last night when Detroit Red Wings defeated the Rossmen 8 to 4 at Boston.... Bill Calladine was scoreless.... However the Peterborough boy has had a good season with the Bruins and his total of 40 points—15 goals and 25 assists—would have been good enough to have led the loop in several seasons. Only Herb Cain, Bill Cowley and Art Jackson have any better record among the Bruins.... Incidentally ten years ago this week Calladine and Jack Crawford of the Bruins were battling against each other, Calladine for the Petes and Crawford for St. Michael's College.... Carl Liscombe had four assists in helping to beat Boston last night.... Interest in junior hockey will centre on the Oshawa-Falcons game in St. Catharines tonight.... They are really playing a best-of-three series now and with two of the games in St. Catharines the Generals have to win one of those away-from-home fixtures to take the round. So far in the playoffs they have been beaten twice in St. Kitts... It looks like Canadiens, Red Wings, Black Hawks and Leafs in that order for the Stanley Cup stakes.... Gus Mancuso is listed as a holdout. He wants better terms before reporting to the New York Giants.

Seconder Forced Into Ring By Irate Fans

A lend-lease gesture by Tom Zaharias, the Greek mat artist, in undertaking to second Strangler Bob Wagner in his main bout with Vic Holbrook in the wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night not only cost the Strangler the decision, but precipitated one of the wildest windups since the Tunney wrestling entourage began visiting Peterborough.

After Holbrook had taken the first fall in twenty minutes Zaharias protested loudly that the Portland battler had been robbed, and he volunteered to act as his second for the remainder of the brawl. That was a fatal mistake. Zaharias, shouting instructions to the Strangler, took up his position at the top of the steps just outside the ring and the fans were quick to resent his presence there.

The round had just got nicely under way when some of the more excited customers determined to do something about it and they made a raid on the garrulous Greek. Police hurried to his rescue and Zaharias tried to defend himself against the milling fans, but they threatened to pull him off the steps. Finally to get away from his assailants he climbed into the ring, and Referee Maxwell promptly disqualified Wagner because of the presence of his second inside the ropes.

There was a wild scene for a while. The crowd swarmed around the ring, a chair was brandished, some one threw a half of a pair of rubbers at Wagner and there was general confusion. Wagner did not help matters when he made a sudden attack on Holbrook and tried to strangle him with a towel, and wound up by hammering the Californian on the back of the neck with the rubber that had been tossed into the ring.

It looked like more trouble but police finally opened a way to the dressing-room and Wagner and his pugnacious second made their exit with the crowd at their heels.

A Tough Bout

The unexpected ending climaxed a bout that had been full of interest. Wagner proved a tough opponent for the popular Holbrook, and the first round was jammed with action with the Portland battler doing a big share of the attacking. He could not throw the Californian but he had him in a jam half a dozen times and mixed in a lot of hair-pulling and solid punches whenever he got an opportunity. Holbrook, usually as clean as a whip, took a hand in dishing out a few swings to the jaw himself and the crowd really liked that. He got the biggest cheer of the night in fact when he drove the Strangler to the ropes with a barrage of punches.

Referee Maxwell had a busy time. Near the end of the round he was pushed around by both battlers and must have felt like a corvette tossed about by its own depth charges. Holbrook finally took the fall after a spirited exchange when he dropped in front of Wagner as the latter backed into the ropes, with the result that the Portland product toppled over him, and the Californian cashing in on the opportunity pounced on his opponent and spread him for the fall.

Then came Zaharias, the near-riot and Wagner's disqualification.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

It was for President E. Thomas to make one of the outstanding shots in last night's vice-skips bonspiel. It all happened on the 10th end of the Williams-Paterson game. Williams was one up coming home, but by some fine playing the Paterson boys were lying three and pretty well guarded and it did look as if Hickey, who was subbing for Paterson, might pull the game out of the fire. But ex-Tankard Thomas had other ideas. He played his last stone well up, slipped past a couple of guards, then went on right into the ring and hit the first stone on the nose. It went further on and picked up two more more stones on the way out and cleared the ring of all of Hickey's stones, and also settled the issue.

On ice No. 5 Harold Darling came from behind to help himself to a big three on the last end, and by so doing won the game from Bert Austin by two shots.

And then on ice No. 6 Art Nelson and Herb Ralph fought a game that ended up in a tie at the end of the 10th end. On the extra end it was all in favor of Ralph and when Nelson came to play his last stone, Ralph was lying three shots. Art took steady aim and came right down centre ice, slipped by one guard and then another to go right in to the tee, removed Ralph's stone and his stone shot. It was a great finish to a great game.

The vice-skips' bonspiel continues this evening.

It is more than likely that we will commence the Leads and Seconds bonspiel on Friday night.

Activity Is Increasing In Baseball

NEW YORK, March 8 —(AP)— With the start of spring training less than a week away baseball activity has picked up everywhere.

Yesterday, for instance, came news that Bob Klinger, right handed pitcher for Pittsburgh Pirates and Dick Bartell, veteran shortstop of New York Giants, had passed their pre-induction physical examinations while Joe (Flash) Gordon, star second sacker for the champion New York Yankees, had been called for his exam March 16 at Portland, Ore.

On the other hand Dixie Walker, star outfielder for Brooklyn Dodgers, was rejected for military service because of an old shoulder and elbow injury.

Here are the latest developments:

National League

Brooklyn—In addition to Dixie Walker rejection, Branch Rickey learned that Luis Rodriguez Olmo, star rookie outfielder, plans to leave San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 10 to come to New York and confer with Rickey over 1944 salary.

Philadelphia—Robert R. M. Carpenter, president of newly named Blue Jays, ordered to report for army duty March 17.

New York—After learning Bartell expects to be assigned to Navy, Giants heard Harry Feldman, pitcher, will report to Lakewood, N.J., camp to complete contract negotiations. At Houston, Tex., however, veteran catcher Gus Mancuso said he would not report "unless offered better terms."

Pittsburgh—In addition to Klinger, Pirates learned Catcher Bill Baker has been inducted into Navy. Pitcher Xavier Rescigno signed contract, however, and Outfielder Johnny Barrett sent word from Lawrence, Mass., he had been classified 4-F.

American League

New York—With Joe Gordon slated for his physical examination next week, Yankees received word from Pittsburgh that Catcher Bob Collins, catcher for the Yanks Kansas City farm last year, may stay at work in steel mill.

Washington—Hillis Layne, infielder, sent in his signed contract from his Chattanooga home.

Chicago—Bob Okrie, 19-year-old sandlot outfielder, signed with White Sox. He lives in Detroit and is 4-F.

Bagby, Mancuso Only Hold-outs In Major Ball

By The Canadian Press

As the major league baseball clubs hover on the brink of spring training an Associated Press survey reveals that virtually the only known hold-outs are Jim Bagby of the Cleveland Indians and the veteran Gus Mancuso of the New York Giants.

Washington and Pittsburg are the only teams with complete squads so far, but none of the remaining outfits anticipates any trouble signing its men—except Bagby and Mancuso.

Bagby seems determined not to play another season under Manager Lou Boudreau, and that little problem may be solved any day now because only a physical examination stands between Bagby and the Maritime Service, while Boudreau himself is 1-A in the draft.

Mancuso said at Houston, Texas, last night that he won't report for spring training with the Giants next Tuesday unless he's offered better terms. The 38 year old Mancuso has been a major leaguer since 1930, and figures he should get the same salary as last year. But he says his contract has been slashed by $1,500.

Title Bout.

Sammy Angott, the N.B.A. lightweight champion, lays his title on the line in a bout at Los Angeles to-night with Juan Zurita, who'll be the biggest man in Mexico if he beats Angott. Pre-fight odds make Angott the 1-4 favorite.

Walker Rejected.

Dixie Walker, the Brooklyn outfielder, was rejected for military service after examination yesterday at Fort McClellan in Alabama. The rejection was because of an old shoulder and elbow injury.

Red Wings Take 8-4 Decision From Boston

By The Canadian Press

Nothing but a major form upheaval will enable Boston Bruins to reach the Stanley Cup eliminations.

Unable to win against any team but New York Rangers in recent weeks, Bruins lost what may be their last opportunity to gain ground last night when they dropped an 8-4 National Hockey League decision to Detroit Red Wings.

The loss left Bruins five points behind Toronto Maple Leafs, who now hold fourth place and the leagues last qualifying berth. Bruins must pick up six points or more in their remaining four games while Leafs go pointless to oust the Toronto team.

Manager Art Ross, back on the Boston bench for the first time in more than a month, used four defencemen for the first time this season in an effort to check the Wings, but the solid blue line phaland didn't bother the champions. They outscored Bruins by two goals in the first period and by one in the last two with Murray Armstrong and Don Grosso each scoring twice.

Adam Brown, Syd Howe, Cully Simon and Thomson also scored for Detroit. Pat Egan grabbed a pair for Boston with Bill Bowley and Dit Clapper getting the other scores for the Bruins, who disappointed a home crowd of 7,500.

Victory practically clinched second place for Detroit.

NAVY FIRST IN 600-YARD DASH—John B. Caskey, U.S. navy man, came in first in the 600-yard run in the I.C.A. A.A.A. track meet at Madison Square Garden, New York. Second was John D. Dibeler, of Penn State; third, George C. Berger, of the U.S. Army.

Day Conducting Extra Classes For 'Varsity' Line

TORONTO, March 8—"Professor" Clarence Day hauled out the old blackboard at Maple Leaf Gardens late Tuesday afternoon for the first of a series of lectures. He'll wield the ancient hickory wand over a small but select class, and out of the noble experiment hopes to produce honor students for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Professor's pre-playoff campaign calls for concentration on the mechanical defects of Toronto's third or "Varsity" line of Jackie McLean, Windy O'Neill and Jackie Hamilton. The Hamilton end of this youthful partnership is functioning okay both as a scoring cog and as a defensive operator. But the McLean and O'Neill wheels, handicapped throughout the season by lack of practice, need adjusting, in Day's opinion.

Hence the late afternoon drill at the Gardens yesterday, with others planned at regular intervals to accommodate the McLean-O'Neill student section, which can't dodge school for morning workouts of the Leafs at the Gardens—and can't make all road trips.

McLean and O'Neill have managed to get into 30 games apiece of the 46 played this season by Leafs, but they've never had time to brush up on a passing attack at any time. Not even in the pre-season training at St. Catharines. Their lot has been definitely tougher than most of the N.H.L.'s war-worker players.

Fresh from junior ranks, young O'Neill has scored eight goals in his 30-game appearance with Leafs. McLean, a rugged work-horse with freshman experience from last winter, has never found the goal range successfully. He's had only three scores in his 30 outings.

"There aren't two more willing kids in hockey," Day said last night, "and it isn't their fault they've failed to come along as expected as potential scoring factors. And I'm hoping it's not too late to inject some system into their passing."

Benny Grant, hockey's "forgotten man' of recent months, after being heralded as Toronto's "Reincarnation Kid" at St. Catharines, will serve as the netminder in today's "Dance of Youth."

Only other performer invited to the class is Mel Hill, who is hoping to coax himself back into shape for the playoffs. He may even be ready in time for the last game of the season, an engagement with Boston Bruins here a week from Saturday.

Leafs plod through the N.H.L. stretch in fourth place, five points in advance of Boston Bruins and two back of the Hawks.

There's still a mathematical chance of Bruins jolting the locals out of the fourth playoff spot but the kind that requires the greatest measure of black magic Art Ross can command. Each club has four more games. Bruins have to win all four and Leafs lose three out of four for the upset.

Leafs make their final road trip Sunday, appearing in Detroit. They finish against the Bruins. The Bostonians have home games with Canadiens, Chicago and on the road against Detroit and Toronto.

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP). — Customary closing surge of Chicago's galloping horsemen in the National Hockey League's scoring race is an awesome spectacle. Doug Bentley did it last year, coming from behind to win the crown by one point over Boston Bill Cowley with a record-equalling 73. This year Bentley threatens to repeat. While the leader, Herb Cain of Boston, collected only five points in seven games, Bentley accumulated 14 in his last six games to hurtle into a contending position only two points off the pace.

Chicago's other two horsemen, Clint Smith and Bill Mosienko, are also hot. In their last six games Smith collected 16 points and Mosienko 11 and they are tied only three points behind Bentley with 65 apiece.

Coincident with the Bentley upsurge last season and this has been the fade-out by Toronto's Lorne Carr. On January 24, 1943, Carr led the league with 46 points for 31 games. At the same time Bentley was 10th with 36 points. Lorne finished the season with only 60 points, 13 behind Bentley.

On January 24 this year Carr led with 54 points for 33 games, while Bentley was sixth with 43. In his last 13 games Carr has collected only 9 points and, with only four games remaining has practically no chance of finishing on top.

Incidentally:

Doug Bentley has three brothers playing in top-flight company — Scoop with New Westminster Lodestars, B.C. champions, Reg with Trail Smoke Eaters, and Max with Calgary Army. Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell quips: "I heard about a hockey team the other day which didn't have a Bentley playing on it."

Across Canada:

Orange Hall, where Vancouver wrestling shows have been held since 1935, has been taken over by Wartime Housing for conversion into suites. Orange Hall, at the corner of Hastings Street and Gore Avenue, was chosen for wrestling shows by Jack Whelan, former British Empire heavyweight champion now chairman of the Vancouver Wrestling Commission..... Windsor's Kennedy Collegiate which produced two of Canada's greatest football stars, Tony Golab and Joe Krol,has another Krol on its list of sport stars. He is Bob Krol, a cousin of Joe and an outstanding basketballer.

Hockey's Big Seven

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 8—(CP)—The Canadian Army Mustangs who whipped an American Army unit 16-6 in the first Canadian-American rugby game in Britain, took things so seriously they did nothing but train for more than two weeks before the game.

The practice locale was a rugger field near Aldershot where the high-priced talent that made up the Mustangs concentrated on American rules one-half the day, and Canadian regulations and plays for the remainder. At night there were chalk talks.

When the big day came, a crowd of 30,000 in London's White City Stadium watched the Americans held to no score under their own rules in the initial half, although pre-game Mustang strategy allowed for two American touchdowns. Then, the Canucks ran their opponents dizzy in the final half.

The American Pirates were master-minded by Maj. John Donovan of Boston, Mass., for 10 years line coach at Harvard University and chief scout for Columbia and Lafayette Universities. Against 30 players dressed by the Mustangs, the Americans had 25 of whom the best-known was Frank Dombrowski, team captain and formerly quarter-back with University of Detroit.

Outstanding player on the field was 26-year-old Orville Burke, Mustang quarterback and former Ottawa Rough Rider star, who arrived in England a few months ago. He previously had been instructing in armored warfare at Camp Borden, Ont.

A small looking fellow who weighs in at a deceptive 185, Orville heaved all the forward passes, two of which went for touchdowns.

Maj. Denny Whitaker, Hamilton Tiger ace who won the D.S.O. at Dieppe, acted as both coach and playing captain and confined most of his field activity to the second half when he snared one of Burke's forwards for a major score. He played a great game.

The tilt probably marked Denny's farewell gridiron appearance. There won't be more such games over here and Denny isn't getting any younger.

On the basis of comfort, the press had the best seats in this great arena which seats between 80,000-90,000. The press section was in the restaurant, situated behind glass at the back of one section of the stands. Waitresses hovered about the linen-topped tables where each Saturday the elite ponder over greyhound selections and make bets on totalisators situated immediately behind them.

Some of the visiting press just couldn't take all this elegance—the place was carpeted and heated, too. They left at half-time for the colder but more homelike atmosphere of the open stands or the players' benches.

How much

It is not so much a question today of what you would like to do for your family through your estate but how much you can do and the best way of doing it. The Estate Planning and Information Department of this Corporation can advise you of the limiting conditions which have entered into estate planning since pre-war days and which may continue to operate after the war. We invite your inquiries; they will place you under no obligation.

Weissmuller Is Given Haircut

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 — (AP) —Johnny Weissmuller, old Mr. Tarzan himself, has just finished the first real haircut he has had in months, and he doesn't care if he never again essays the role of a jungle breast-beater.

The former swimming champ has signed a new movie contract with the stipulation that he will not be required to swing through trees or utter shrill calls. After 12 years as Tarzan, he is putting on clohes and will play a Marine combat correspondent and after that, a cowboy.

Weissmuller has kept busy being Tarzan since 1931, a year after he left the amateur swimming ranks and turned professional. He has made 11 of the pictures, and has just signed a contract to do one more a year for three years.

Reds Trounce Buffalo 9 to 4

By The Canadian Press

The American Hockey League's cellar-dwelling Providence Reds gained their 10th victory of the season last night when they trounced Buffalo Bisons 9-4 after scoring four goals in the first five minutes of play.

Buffalo stood a good opportunity of tieing Hershey Bears at the top of the eastern division before last night's game, but the loss crimped their chances.

It was Reds' first victory over Bisons this season.

Harold Cooper paced Reds attack with three goals—one in each period. Lloyd Roubell, John Gagnon, Bill Whittet, Bill Stewart, and Roland Forget with two were other Providence scorers.

Pete Horeck, Larry Thibeault, Bob Walton, and Roger Leger scored for Bisons.

Probe Story Of Boxer Paid To Throw Fight

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—The office of Attorney-General Blackwell said today that Crown Attorney J. W. McFadden of Toronto has been asked to investigate reports that a Toronto boxer had been "paid" to throw a fight on a card at Massey Hall here last Monday night.

The investigation follows a statement of the Ontario Athletic Commission last Saturday, saying that it has "conclusive proof" that a fight-fixing ring is operating in Toronto comprising "at least three men whose names are known" to Chairman Lionel Conacher.

The commission statement added that the names of the men were being given to all promoters and that they would be barred from entering any building in Ontario where boxing matches were being held.

50 Under Arrest In Drive To Erase Polygamy

SALT LAKE CITY, March 8 (AP) — Federal and State authorities arrested more than 50 persons in raids in Utah, Idaho and Arizona today in a move which the Assistant United States District Attorney, John S. Boyden, said was designed to stamp out polygamy.

Six persons were named in seven Federal Grand Jury indictments, charging violation of the Man Act. In each case the defendant was accused of taking a woman from one State to another to "live with him as his mistress and concubine."

One indictment charged use of the mail to send allegedly obscene matter, and another charged violation of the Lindberg kidnapping law.

Twelve persons named jointly in another indictment charging conspiracy to use the mails to circulate the pamphet "Truth". The pamphlet, the indictment said, appealed "to natural sexual instinct and appetites for unlawful and immoral indulgences under a cloak of religious santity and approbation."

Simultaneously Utah State authorities in Salt Lake and Washington Counties made arrests on complaints charging unlawful cohabitation and conspiracy to "advocate promote, encourage, urge, teach, counsel, advice and practice polygamous or plural marriage.

Virtually all those named in the Federal indictments were included as defendants in the State cases. The latter also included a dozen women, allegedly some of the polygamous wives involved.

Generally members of the group lived in scattered homes and did not congregate in any particuar colony, the attorney said. Six were apprehended at a Salt Lake City residence, which Boyden described as headquarters for the cult.

Salt Lake County Attorney Harold E. Wallace said one man was known to have had five wives.

"This is a co-operative effort of the State and Federal Government and with the complete co-operation also of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Church," Boyden said.

During its early colonisation days the Mormon Church advocated the practice of polygamy. It was outlawed before Utah was admitted to the Union in 1896, however, and in recent years persons known to have practiced polygamy have been excommunicated by the church.

chorage and possible air base in the bypassed eastern Marshalls was announced at Pearl Harbor.

The atoll is Majuro, considered so important by the Germans when they owned the islands before the First Great War that they made it their major base.

Headquarters disclosed that Majuro was taken early in February, without opposition from its four Japanese occupants, giving the American forces an entering wedge into the Eastern Marshalls.

The 21-by-six mile island has a lagoon which can accommodate all classes of warship and a strip of land suitable for building an airfield.

Obituaries

JOHN H. CAMERON

John H. Cameron of Peterborough passed away at his residence, 494 Aylmer street on Tuesday. He was born 91 years ago in Asphodel, son of Ann Malcolm and Duncan Cameron, who were among the earliest settlers on The Cameron Line, arriving there in 1837.

He lived 45 years on the farm and 45 years in Peterborough, having at one time owned a grocery store at the corner of Hunter and Bethune streets.

Mr. Cameron was a staunch Presbyterian, a devoted member of St. Paul's Church, and greatly enjoyed the Sunday broadcasts. He will be missed by his many friends who admired his gentle, kindly manner and honorable disposition.

Mrs. Vivian Lancaster of Crescent avenue is a niece. Also surviving are seven nieces and nephews in the United States.

The late Mr. Cameron is resting at the funeral parlors of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street, where services will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

ISAAC H. FEE

OMEMEE, March 7 (ENS)—The funeral of the late Isaac Havelock Fee, conducted by the Orange Lodge, was held from his Omemee residence on Saturday afternoon, with interment at Emily cemetery.

Mr. Fee, son of the late Eliza Beatty and James Fee, was born on the Fee homestead, about 3 miles southeast of Omemee, on November 26, 1859. Here he lived until he moved to Omemee 25 years ago. His death occurred on Thursday, after an illness of only one week.

Always active in municipal affairs, Mr. Fee was, for many years, Reeve of Emily township, and after moving to Omemee he was a member of the village council for some time. He was also a Director of Lindsay Central Exhibition for a number of years. He was an honorary member of L.O.L. No. 41 at Orange Corners, and a member of the Black Knights Lodge.

His wife, the late Catherine Jane Ford, predeceased him in 1942. Three children also predeceased him: Bert of Soo Lookout, Laura (Mrs. L. Howell) of Detroit, Michigan, and Della (Mrs. N. Laidley) Omemee.

Left to mourn his loss are two daughters, Gladys of Omemee and Marguerite (Mrs. M. C. Rowan) of Toronto; and two sons, Norman, on the Omemee homestead, and James of Kamloops, B.C. There are fifteen grandchildren: Gordon, R.C.A.F. (missing overseas), Murray and Gwen Fee; Gladys and Bill Laidley (R.C.N.); Margaret, Henry (U.S.N.), Eric and Fred Howell, Clifford (R.C.N.) and Jim Fee (R.C.A.F.); Ford (R.C.O.C.), Merle, Fred and Jean Rowan

Many beautiful floral tributes bore witness to the esteem in which the late Mr. Fee was held. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. M. Patterson, and the pallbearers were: R. McAdam, R. Tully, W. Magee, H. Deyell, O. Bannon and F. McBain.

MRS. ALBERT WEASE

The funeral of the late Mrs. Albert Wease, who passed away on Friday at her home, 208 Rubidge street, was held on Monday from the Nisbett Funeral Home, with interment at Little Lake cemetery. Relatives and friends from Toronto, Norwood, Havelock and Smith Falls attended the service.

Mrs. Wease leaves to mourn her loss her husband Albert Wease, formerly of Norwood, and one daughter, Mrs. Mossom Golloher (Iva), 137 Stewart street.

Pallbearers were: Arthur Munro, Goldie Newell, Arthur Andrus, Arnold Dafoe, Harry Wease and Willard Hubble.

HORACE URQUHART

Mrs. Jessie McIlwain, Park Hill Road, received word today of the sudden death of her only brother, Horace Urquhart of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of Peterborough. He was born in England fifty-five years ago and he came to Peterborough at the age of fifteen to reside with his sister.

The late Mr. Urquhart enlisted in World War 1 and served four years overseas, later returning to Peterborough where he lived until 1924. He then left to reside in Rochester where he lived until his death. He is survived by his wife and six children.

German defences in Northern France. In the Monday night smash by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers on Trappes, not a plane was lost. The Air Ministry said the attacking aircraft bombed for nearly a half hour with "little interference."

Germans Claim Victory.

Meanwhile, the Germans claimed they had scored a victory against the United States air force in its 2,000-ton smash at Berlin Monday. The German controlled Oslo radio broadcast late yesterday a D.N.B. dispatch which described the attack on the German capital as "a catastrophe for the Americans."

An original recording of the transmission had indicated it was the Germans who considered they had suffered a catastrophe but the Ministry of Information last night confirmed the expanded quotation.

Three armed trawlers were set afire when Beaufighters escorted by Mustangs pounced on an enemy convoy off the Frisian Islands, the Air Ministry said. Two Beaufighters failed to return.

Other heavies bombed Pontassieve and Castel Fiorentino and airfields at Orvieto and Viterbo and Fabrica Di Roma.

Night bombers slashed at the port of Santo Stefano again last night, the bulletin added.

Attack Railways.

Other air operations included attacks by light bombers on gun positions, railways and road transport in the battle area.

The Germans made about 25 sorties over the battle area, headquarters said.

Night fliers also hit at Tarquinia.

Coastal air force units ranged over Northern Italy, lashing at German communications in the Po Valley and at Capalbio, a short distance inland from Santo Stefano.

Fighters shot up a freight train at Capalbio and strafed a radio station on Monte Cristo Island. Mosquitoes riddled nine trains in night attacks in the Po Valley.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 8 — (CP).— Moderate trading was reported in rye futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Tuesday, with prices unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher.

American buyers and commission houses were in the market early. Some offerings from Southern houses appeared on the advances.

Little activity was reported in wheat, while trade in coarse grains was light.

Sermon On Mount Shows Better Conduct

KEENE, March 8 — (ENS) — At the United Church service on Sunday the sermon was based on "What Christ Taught in the Sermon on the Mount." He brought a new spirit into the life of the world —a new sincerity to life. He gave a new and sacred meaning to human conduct. "The Beatitudes," said Rev. G. Murray, "still remain the manifesto of God's great love for mankind but especially to those who put their trust in Him." Next Sunday the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed, with the preparatory service on Friday evening.

HER WRIST BROKEN.

Mrs. Charles Wooll, 517 Sherbrooke street, slipped on the sidewalk on Sherbrocke street on Tuesday and sustained a fracture of her wrist. She was taken to the Clinic for treatment.

MARSHES ARE FROZEN.

Although the trapping season for muskrats in the section of Peterborough county south of Highway 7 opens officially on Friday, March 10, there will be little trapping done in this section until the conditions change. With not much snow for protection the marshes are said to be frozen solidly to the bottom, making trapping operations impossible.

BREAKS LEG IN FALL.

James Edwards, Sr., St. James Street, an employee of Canada Packers, Limited, fell on slippery ice near his home Monday morning. He lay helpless on the ground nearly an hour. Finally his calls for help were heard by his son, James, who with his wife, found him nearly frozen. Mr. Edwards had to be removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where X-ray disclosed that he had fractured a leg in his fall.

ORGANIZED DRIVE

Charles "Hap" Harrison, for years a popular member of the Peterborough Central Ontario League ball club and now a resident of Port Hope organized the recent Food Dealers' War Saving campaign in Port Hope and evidently made a good job of it for he has received a telegram from the Dominion and provincial headquarters congratulating him upon the results. "Port Hope district did an especially good job" the message said.

FIRE REPORT

The department answered a call from 298 Elias avenue, the residence of L. Florence, Tuesday night at 8.30 to find a young lad had been playing with a blow torch and filled it with gasoline while lit. Though no damage resulted, there was danger of a serious explosion. Off to a fast start this morning firemen answered three alarms for chimney fires before 10.15 a.m. They were at 7.25 a.m., 770 Stewart street, J. Pammett; 8.32 a.m., 210 Edinburgh, B. J. Cain; and 10.15 a.m., 272 Thomas street, C. Gilders.

Appeal $115,091 Damage Award

TORONTO, March 8 —(CP) — Notice of appeal was filed at Osgoode Hall yesterday against the award of Mr Justice Keiller Mackay of $115,091 to John Alexander Martin for injuries received when he was struck by a car on the Queen Elizabeth Highway near Burlington, Ont.

Mr. Justice Mackay's judgment, given recently, was one of the largest damage awards in Ontario history.

The defendants, in their notice of appeal, claim that the damages awarded Martin were "grossly excessive."

Bert Howden Escorts King, Montgomery

The highlights of Bertram Howden's life came early in February when he was one of a group of five men in the Provost Corps to be chosen to act as a special guard for His Majesty the King and General Bernard Montgomery.

"They were very nice and friendly to all the boys," he wrote "and we were all proud of being given the honor. Our motorcycles were painted white, our revolver holsters were white and even our stripes had to be in white. They woke us at 1.45 in the morning and we started out to our meeting place."

Bertram Howden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Howden, 201 Romaine street. He has been serving in the Army for more than three years and has been overseas for more than a year. Among other places he accompanied the King and the General to Westminster Abbey and London Bridge.

REACHES ENGLAND—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Black, 185 Princess Street, have received word of the safe arrival overseas of their son, LAC. Gladstone Black, R.C.A.F. Before enlisting in the Air Force, in 1942, he was a foreman for the Eastwood Construction Company. LAC. Black received his training at Manning Pool, Mountain View and Jarvis. His wife and children reside in Hamilton.

Chamber Notes Progress Made In Civic Affairs

Bank clearings in Peterborough last year were $7,478,401 in excess of the total for 1942, according to statistics in the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce as prepared by its secretary, J. J. Dorris.

Clearings for 1943 amounted to $49,478,787, close to $50,000,000, as compared with $42,000386 for 1942.

Customs and excise receipts were up slightly from $3,827,214 in 1942 to $3,828,634 last year.

Building permits, declining in number from 323 to 331, showed an increase in value from $308,912 to $320,617.

Real estate transfers last year were down from 541 in 1942 to 486.

Population of the city as shown in the report advanced from 28,500 to 30,000, and if annexation takes place Peterborough's population will be around 34,000.

The number of telephones last year was 7,208 and in the previous year 7,083.

Employees in thirty industries 9,560 as against 6,285 in 1942.

Relief expenditure dropped from $20,791 to $16,449.

The Dorris review discusses the Chamber and tourist revenue, cottage renting service for tourists, Kawartha Lakes Tourist Association, Business Men's Association, Community Centre and Arena, Border Crossing Regulations, C.N.R. line to Port Hope, proposed airport, plan for Hospital care, municipal elections and other topics including the issuing of motor vehicle licenses.

The total vote at the municipal elections on January 1 showed "a lamentable spirit of apathy among some 70 per cent of the electors who did not bother to cast their votes and exercise a franchise that is denied today to millions in wartorn Europe. To be exact, only 32.2 per cent of the electors apparently just didn't bother their heads. If an act were passed compelling them to vote, or if they were disfranchised, what a mob would get up and raise the roof, when under ordinary circumstances they wouldn't go across the road to elect to office the best man or woman in the community."

Change in Election Date

The Chamber, feeling keenly the need of more publicity to a discouraging situation and the duty of this organization to bring the matter to the attention of the electorate, contracted for considerable space in the Examiner in an endeavor to stimulate interest, "but apparently more than that is necessary. It is an unfortunate situation which seems to be chronic in many municipalities. Possibly a change in the date of elections should be made, a matter which has been recommended to the City Council by this Chamber, and which we feel should be tried in an effort to remedy a state of affairs that sometime or other may prove a dangerous situation for this community. We feel it is certainly worth a trial."

The Chamber supported the Plan for Hospital Care and some 3,000 members have enrolled.

"Our largest industry has its own sick benefit and accident insurance society functioning and did not need to adopt the plan. We look for a steady increase, which has been the experience in practically every centre which adopted the plan. Enrolment is open to anyone who is employed where there are five or more on the staff, including management, and where the employer cooperates in collecting subscriptions and forwarding them to the Plan. The Chamber feels delighted with the splendid results the Plan has already obtained, and in the fact that it has the lowest per capita maintenance cost of any similar plan on the continent."

The Chamber expresses its appreciation of the financial assistance of the council, and "for the loyal support of many citizens by their memberships and contributions."

The resort season in the Kawartha district was reported in some sections "about the best they ever had. It was surprising the number of our own Canadian people who came into the district for the first time, and helped in no small measure to take up the slack."

The Chamber also refers to the airport and arena projects as prospective undertakings to which its members wish to give the utmost support. "We have got to have an airport to keep abreast of the times." They also express satisfaction that their efforts, in association with other local and district interests, succeeded in effecting the continued operation of the C.N.R. line to Port Hope. "No change, if any, will be made until after the war, so we won't cross the bridge until we come to it."

Bread Wagon Mishap Brings $7.50 Fine

In a case arising out of a traffic accident at Aylmer and Sherbrooke streets on Saturday, February 5, in which a bread wagon was struck and badly damaged by an automobile and two persons were injured, Ernest Perritt, Douro township, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding in police court this morning.

"There were cars parked on both sides of the street and the bread wagon coming north," said John A. Bradshaw, who appeared for Perritt. "The damages have been settled."

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., fined Perritt $7.50 and $2.50 costs. The minimum penalty is $5 and the maximum $50 for the offence.

A careless driving charge against Perritt was withdrawn when the Crown offered no evidence.

Papal Service Cancelled

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—The Vatican radio said last night in a recorded broadcast that the Papal service which would customarily be held at the Vatican Apostolic Palace next Sunday on the fifth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII and all other celebrations of that occasion had been cancelled "in view of the present grievous circumstances."

Western Sunday School Caravans Now Serve 50,000 People

Details of a "Sunday School by Post," a service which is given by the Western Sunday School Fund, and which sends lessons to over 50,000 people, were given by Miss Iris Sayles, to a meeting of St. Luke's Women's Guild, held Tuesday evening. Miss Sayles travelled with the Sunday School "caravans," which cover most of western Canada, and spoke from wide experience, illustrating her points with colored slides.

Miss Sayles said Sunday School lessons are sent out by the Fund, and are studied. The questions enclosed are answered and returned to headquarters for correction. In this way, remote sections of Canada are served and spiritual guidance is given to people who are too far fom churches, and who would otherwise never receive any help.

Giving the history of these caravans, Miss Sayles said that they were begun in 1920 by Miss F. H. Eva Hasell, M.B.E., who received the authority from the Primate of Canada to start the Western Sunday School. Some help from England was received, and about one-quarter of the $7,000 needed annually to keep the Fund in operation, is still received from Britain.

To Preach Gospel

The speaker explained that the idea behind the establishment of this service was to bring a knowledge of the Bible to people who could not travel the long miles to the widely scattered churches in Canada's great western stretches. The first equipment was a horse and wagon, but since Miss Hasell and Miss Sayles could not hope to cover their vast territory with such inadequate transportation, a light truck was purchased. The truck was equipped with two bunk beds, and the supplies were packed in the back.

"A number of these caravans are now in operation," said Miss Sayles, "but more volunteer workers are needed to keep up this service." She explained that unless nine workers and nine drivers could be procured, nine trucks would not be able to start out in the spring. "These trucks cover certain districts, with the whole territory being divided into 11 dioceses, stretching from the Pacific to the borders of Quebec," she continued.

Miss Sayles said that the first church on the Alaska highway was built by this group, and there are now nine churches and three clergymen serving the highway. A nursing outpost, about 40 miles from the highway, was started five years ago, she said, and a nurse and one teacher are always in attendance.

Queen Interested

The speaker said that in 1939 when Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, were visiting Canada they inspected one of these caravans at the R.C.M.P. headquarters in Regina. The Queen was most interested in the work being done by these workers, and when she returned to England a large bale of clothing was spent to the fund. Miss Sayles said that H.R.H. Princess Alice is also interested in caravan work.

Miss Sayles stressed the fact that eighteen volunteers are needed to keep up the service of the travelling caravans, and explains that the regular visits of these caravans were almost the only link with the outside world of many remote outposts. The spiritual help and teaching given to these people was inestimable, she concluded.

Miss Sayles' visit was sponsored by the Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Anglican Church, and Rev. A. J. Arthur introduced the speaker. Mrs. D. Wyatt, president, thanked the speaker for her address, and refreshments were served by Guild members, with Mrs. R. J. Parsons and Mrs. F. Adams pouring tea.

Award Collins $1,820 In Court

Judgement for $1,820 and costs was awarded by Mr. Justice A. Hope today to Timothy A. Collins in his his assize court action against Wallie Edwards for $10,000 damages in a traffic accident at Princess and George streets last May.

His Lordship determined the amount of damages at $2,800 but assessed the degrees of contributing fault in the cause of the accident at 65 per cent against the defendant, and 35 per cent against the plaintiff, Mr. Collins. The actual amount of the damages for which Mr. Edwards was hed liable was 65 per cent of $2,850.

Trial of this case began Monday afternoon and ended at noon today. G. N. Gordon, K. C., represented Mr. Collins, and T. J. Carley, K.C., the defendant, Edwards.

Prime Minister Poor Marriage Prospect Member Says While Pressing Divorce Law

OTTAWA, March 8—As a marriage prospect, 69-year-old Prime Minister King is not so good.

According to married 65-year-old Richard Burpee Hanson (P.C., York-Sunbury) the bachelor Prime Minister "at his time of life" is hopeless.

Drawing from his store of knowledge of people and why they act that way, Mr. Hanson yesterday submitted in Parliament: "It is only widowers who get married at his (Mr. King's) time of life. Perhaps they have more courage than discretion."

Mr. King did not comment, but he laughed with the rest of the House.

The Prime Minister's unmarried status was reviewed briefly in a discussion about the possibility of eliminating divorce legislation from Parliament Hill, a suggestion that was warmly supported by Mr. Hanson.

He knew, he said, it was a delicate question. He was not going to hurt the religious sensibilities of any one. "I believe in the principle of divorce," he said. "I believe that there is such a thing as unholy wedlock and it may develop into unholy deadlock."

He gave credit to A. P. Herbert whose novel of the name, "Holy Deadlock," was written while he was a member of the British House of Commons. It is credited with being largely responsible for extending the causes for divorce by act of the British Parliament.

"I commend the book to the Prime Minister as good reading for relaxation," said Mr. Hanson.

3 Pupils Help To Convict Break-in Suspect

Because three St. Peter's High School students kept their eyes open and had a full appreciation of their responsibility as citizens, Wilfrid Flint, 29, Sackville street, Toronto, was convicted in police court this morning on a charge of breaking and entering the confectionery store of Richard A. Murray, 290 Charlotte street on Sunday, February 20 and committing theft.

Flint, who had a previous record, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. to six months definite and three months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

R. A. Murray, owner of the store, said that he had locked the place at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon and later in response to a call had gone back to the shop and found the glass in the back door broken and the lock broken.

Missing were $20 or $25 worth of cigarettes, six or eight bottles of bay rum and about a dollar in silver, witness said.

"What is the bay rum used for?" asked Crown Attorney McElderry.

"We sell it for an after-shave lotion," replied the witness.

"It contains alcohol, does it not?" asked Mr. McElderry and witness replied in the affirmative.

Clair Conroy, St. Peter's High School student, said that on the Sunday afternoon of the break-in he had gone to Murray's store and on looking through the window saw two men inside. Flint, he said, was one of them.

"One man was handing things down from the shelf to the other man," said the witness. "When I tried the front door, which was locked the two ran out the back."

Shadow Suspect

Conroy said that on the next day he and several chums had seen Flint on Charlotte street and some of them had followed him. In the meantime the police had been called and the man was arrested.

William Sheehy, another St. Peter's student, identified Flint as one of two men he had seen outside Murray's store on the afternoon of the robbery. The boy said that he and Timothy Donnelly, another student had been walking along Charlotte street when they were stopped by the men and asked for a match.

Next day he had seen Flint again and had recognized him as the man he had noticed outside the store the previous day. Sheehy told of Flint being followed and the police being called.

Timothy Donnelly who had been with Sheehy corroborated evidence and positively identified Flint as one of two men who had been outside Murray's store on the Sunday it was robbed.

No evidence was called for the defence and W. C. Grant who defended Flint argued that while the break-in had been proven the crown had failed to show the theft.

Magistrate Lar ley said that no other inference would be justified on the evidence than that the goods that were said by Murray to be missing had been taken by the two men seen inside the store, one of whom had been shown to be Flint.

His Wership said that he had accepted the complete evidence of the three boys as plain unvarnished statements of what they had seen.

Another charge of vagrancy against Flint was dismissed with the crown offering no evidence. At the accused's request his sentence was dated from February 22.

Farmer Fatally Hurt

KINGSTON, March 8 — (CP)— Charles Henderson, 47, Lime Lake farmer, was fatally injured yesterday when the truck in which he was riding left the highway near Marlbank and plunged down a 70-foot hill side. He died shortly after the accident. Irving Young, drive of the truck, was unhurt.

Keene Shippers Add $50 To Good Record

All successful organizations no matter what their type may be, pause at regular intervals to take stock of the progress they have made, from out of which comes their plans for whatever the future may seem to hold.

Centred around Keene, the farmers of this district are banded together into what is known as the Keene Co-operative Shippers Co. Ltd., a mutual benefit concern whereby a saving in shipping and other costs is made, which might also have some reflection in lower prices to the consumer as well.

Unlike most businesses, it is not one that pays out dividends in the sense of the average limited liability company, but naturally it must operate on a paying business, and then annually it has been their custom to allocate whatever surplus there might be, to some worthy cause.

Headed by Fred Eason of Route 1, Keene, as president, G. S. Taylor who operates a store in Keene as manager, and S. M. Comrie of Route 8, Peterborough as secretary-treasurer, they recently held their annual meeting, from out of which has come another donation of $50 to assist sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

They Total $200.

This marks the fourth year in succession that they have made a contribution to the war effort in this same manner which now gives them a total credit of $200 for this one fund alone, and from the nature of its source is a very creditable showing indeed.

To accompany this contribution in to-day's receipts, another one from the outside district comes as a result of a draw held at a birthday party held by Jackie Brackenridge of Hastings on his 5th anniversar wrich netted the sum of $2. Do tions have appeared in this column on former occasions in this same boy's name, an excellent way in which to mark a birthday by doing some good for others in need.

St. Patrick's Dance and Draw.

On St. Patrick's Day, Friday, March 17, under the leadership of J. H. Jamison and the staff of the C. D. S. Stores, a dance is being held in the Canadian Legion Hall on Murray Street, to give assistance to the fund, in connection with which, they are also selling tickets at 10 cents each or three for 25 cents on a cedar chest filled with all the good things that any home-maker loves to have.

This is the fourth consecutive year they have sponsored an effort of this sort for the fund, their previous contributions making a total of $743.79, and they are hopeful of pushing it well above the four figure mark this time, for which purpose they have arranged an attractive program for the evening itself, which includes novelty and Irish dance numbers by Marion Perry Laird, a half hour broadcast, and the announcement of the winner of the draw, which will be made by His Worship Mayor Hamilton.

Music for this event will be supplied by Jack Marshall and his orchestra, and tickets are now on sale at $1.50 per couple from any member of the staff at the C. D. S. Store. Dress will be formal.

Extend Citizenship

BUENOS AIRES, March 8—(AP) —The Argentine Foreign Office announced last night that an exchange of German and Argentine diplomats had been postponed because of the inability to obtain guarantees of safe conduct and to settle other questions involved.

Farmers Smile On Pigs Again; Beef A Worry

Farmers are gradually buying and cleaning seed as the March days lengthen and the miracle of another spring prepares for unfolding.

Hastings reports some hay being sold for U. S. delivery, and seed cleaning plants are operating at capacity. In Northumberland the seed situation is more satisfactory than was expected, and there is no scarcity of feed.

Frontenac quotes weanling pigs at $15 to $16 a pair as contrasted with the late fall market when farmers couldn't give them away, and prices were down around a couple of dollars apiece. The market was overcast with deep gloom, farm hope had taken wings, and the lively young pigs were frowned on as nothing but a liability. Now they are back to $7 and $8 each, in the Frontenac countryside, and somebody ought to be happy. Breeding sows are in increasing demand. Glengary unloaded another car of seed grain, and indications point to a shortage of seed barley.

Want Help

Demand for farm help continued throughout the province. A few lambs arrived already in Lennox-Addington. Some of the larger hatcheries in Renfrew are sold out to the middle of June. Esban, Cartier and Vanguard oats are being offered at $1.40 to $1.50 a bushel, f.o.b. Renfrew.

Manitoulin farmers report heavy losses from wolves attacking livestock. Here are some Bruce county sale prices: —horses $115 to $134 newly weaned pigs $5.75; hay at $9.75 a ton; a binder $300; side rack purchased for $60 thirty years ago brought $75. "Indications point labor being a bigger problem this year than it has been to date."

Mink and silver fox pelts are bringing satisfactory returns to some Grey farmers. Some of the beef cattle men in Western Ontario have been marketing stock with expressions at the winter turn of prices.

Three Cousins To Share O'Dea Millions

LOS ANGELES, March 8 (AP)—A jury decided yesterday that three first cousins, one deceased since his claim was filed, are entitled to the estate of Michael Francis O'Dea, estimated at $4,000,000 and contested by 465 litigants during the six years the case has been in the courts.

O'Dea, Los Angeles real estate man and recluse, died intestate in 1938. The cousins are Mrs. Bridget Lynch Woulfe of County Claire, Eire, and Mrs. Mary Lynch McCarthy of Limerick, Eire. A third cousin, who died, was James Lynch, and the jury ruled that his four sons in County Claire should receive his share.

Lucy Fay Bales, who claimed she was O'Dea's daughter by a dancer, was declared by the jury to be unrelated to him. However, relationship of 35 second cousins was recognized by the jurors, and they will share in the estate by reason of an out-of-court agreement with the first cousins.

The jury was charged by Judge Frank G. Swain with determining the relationship of claimants to O'Dea. They were given the case this morning, after 16 months of testimony in the concluding phase of the trial, during which claimants had been reduced to approximately 40.

Jury Kept On

The jury, which originally numbered 13, lost two members, an alternate, who was killed in an automobile accident and another who withdrew because of illness. It was stipulated however, that the jury should continue to hear the case and that agreement among eight of them would constitute an acceptable verdict. Their decision naming the cousins as nearest of kin was unanimous, court attaches said.

When the celebrated case went to trial six years ago, claimants numbered 465. Five judges successively heard testimony, and in the last phase alone the transcript filed 46,000 typewritten pages.

Most of the claimants were from Toronto, where O'Dea was born; Rochester, N.Y., where he spent his boyhood, or Los Angeles. He came here in 1894.

PROMOTED — William Nelson Foster (Nels) of the R.C.N.V.R., has recently been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant. He enlisted in 1941 as an ordinary seaman and has worked his way up to his present rank. Before enlisting, he was employed at the Westclox.

Jos. Sasserville Given Fine Of $10

COBOURG, March 8 (ENS) — Outcome of a row at a Port Hope hotel on February 21, Joseph Sasseville of Haldimand township appeared for sentence Monday in police court. On a charge of illegal consumption, on which charge the magistrate had deferred his decision, he was found not guilty. For obstructing a police officer during the performance of his duty, he was allowed on suspended sentence for one year upon posting a bond for $100 to keep the peace. For being drunk in a public place he was fined $10 and costs.

Harry Deyman represented the Crown and Fred C. Richardson was defence counsel.

According to the evidence given in Port Hope police court last week John W. Hunter and Joseph Sasseville were arrested at a Port Hope hotel on the evening of February 21, by constables R. Carr and W. Oliver. The accused were on the second floor and during the efforts of the police constables to bring them out and down the stairs, Sasseville's arm struck Constable Carr in the face. Hunter also mixed things up with the other constable. Both the accused were drinking, it was stated.

Plan Easter Parcels

HASTINGS, March 8 — (ENS) — The regular meeting of the Red Cross of the Fife's Community met at the home of Mrs. Scott Fife. There were six ladies present. During the afternoon they quilted a large quilt. Yarn was handed out to the members to knit socks for the Easter parcels for the boys in uniform. The next meeting will be held at the same home.

Japan Scheming To Fool Us Again London Daily Mail Asserts

LONDON, March 8—(CP)—Under the heading "Japan is scheming to fool us again," the Daily Mail printed an editorial page article to-day signed by Simon Harcourt-Smith which warned against appeasement with Tokyo and said a certain group in the financial city of London and in the House of Commons "has lately begun work for a compromise peace with Japan.

The Daily Mail said Harcourt-Smith's personal interpretive articles did not reflect the editorial opinion of the newspaper.

The basis of the article was a Japanese broadcast from conquered Batavia which the writer quoted as saying:

"If Japan's constructive war object cannot be fulfilled in our time, it will be carried forward to the next generation and if it is still not done, it will be turned over to the succeeding generations until final victory and peace are achieved."

The article traced at length the Japanese course since entering the war and commented that the Batavia broadcast "epitomizes the new Japanese policy of 1944—a policy no less fraught with danger for us than the overt manoeuvres which led to the capture of Singapore."

The writer also said that in the early days of the war Japan and Germany were "close cronies" but "a breach between the two criminal confederates has widened until now nothing links them save an occasional dash into Lorient or Hamburg of a Japanese blockade runner with a cargo of rubber."

Harcourt-Smith writes occasional feature articles for the Daily Mail as a contract writer but is not a member of the staff.

There have been no accounts by any House of Commons reporters or other political writers of any undercover move to compromise with Japan.

Prisoners' Boxes Make Demand On Dairying

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP) — Canadian Red Cross shipments to Prisoners of War require about 5,200,000 pounds of butter, 5,200,000 pounds of dry whole milk and 1,300,000 pounds of cheese annually, J. F. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board, said in addressing the Ontario Cheese producers Association today.

The Red Cross parcels, sent to Allied as well as Canadian prisoners, include one pound of butter, one pound of dry whole milk and one-quarter pound of cheese, and they are going forward at the rate of 100,000 a week, Mr. Singleton said.

It was probable the quantities of dairy products for this purpose would increase in the future.

Institute Enjoys St. Pat's Party

HAVELOCK, March 8 — (ENS) — —An unusually large attendance of members and visitors were present on Monday afternoon at the Women's Institute and enjoyed the St. Patrick's festivities. Mrs. Fred McKenzie was the convener of the program. An Irish contest made up of jumbled letters forming names of Irish places and people was won by Mrs. Lawrence Sanderson. Mrs. Donald Holdcroft sang "Ireland Must Be Heaven," accompanied by Mrs. Donald Kirk at the piano. Everyone present was required to take part in a drawing contest, with Mrs. Donald Kirk winning the prize. A vocal duet by Misses Dora Ketchen and Margaret Anderson, "When I Dream of Old Erin." Everyone present was given a green shamrock bouquet with a numeral centre, and a lucky ticket was drawn, with Larry Sayers being the winner.

The co-operative programs were distributed and a decision of short courses, conferences or rally will be made at the next meeting. One dollar was received for rental of dishes to the High School. Two of the older members, Mrs. A. Anderson and Mrs. J Kinnaird are ill and are to be remembered with a box of fruit by the sick committee, Mrs. H. Hoard and Mrs. W. Rice. The library books, piano and dishes have been insured and the premium paid for three years.

To Help at Cemetery.

The caretaker of Maple Grove Cemetery, John Ruttan, was present, and spoke regarding the upkeep and care of the cemetery and the difficulty in securing help for cutting grass on the plots. The Institute agreed to carry on this work again, and the price of caring for each plot has been raised to $1.50.

Canvassers for the village are: East-end, Mrs. W. Moodbeck; Centre, Mrs. J. Hoffman; West-end, Mrs. H. Pollock and Mrs. C. Taylor, with Mrs. C. Price to handle the mailing list. The report of the leap-year dance showed receipts of $44.50. It was decided to donate a pair of blankets or sheets to a family that had recently lost their home by fire.

Establish Precedent

VICTORIA March 8 — (CP) — A precedent was established in the British Columbia Legislature yesterday when a unanimous vote was recorded in a division. The vote approved second reading for an amendment to the Public Schools Act providing among other things for compulsory Bible reading in schools.

IN R.C.A.F.—AW.2 Helen Sage, who was formerly employed in the armature department of the C.G.E. before enlisting in November, 1943, is stationed at Guelph. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Sage of Buckhorn.

KILLED IN ITALY—Staff-Sgt. Garnet Cecil Richardson, a paratrooper, was killed during fighting in Italy February 9, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Violet D. Richardson, Warkworth. He went overseas last fall.

Norwood Institute Takes Prayer Cards

NORWOOD, March 8—(ENS)—The Norwood branch of the Women's Institute held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. George Graham with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the reading of Jerusalem, the song used by the W.I. in England, followed by the members singing the pledge cards to pray daily for the peace of the world (a) by showing goodwill in a practical way in all dealings with others in the home and in business. (B) By befriending people in distress at home and abroad.

Mrs Thompson and Mrs. Graham handed in a quilt they had finished. A letter of condolence to be sent Mrs. C. Davey in the death of her sister. Mrs. H. Rogers and Mrs. L. Edmunds are to meet the council to ask about a room for sewing. It was decided to hold a euchre party March 10, and Mrs. W. Golloher, Mrs. G. Oitment, Mrs. A. Davey are to be a committee to plan another dance in the near future. The sum of $15 was donated to the Russian Relief.

Mrs. C. Davey took charge of the program which opened with the singing of "Home on the Range" and "White Cliffs of Dover." Mrs. F. Parker recited "Three Leaves of Shamrock," Mrs. W. Golloher read "A Soldier's Visit," Mrs. Charles Davey read "Beautiful Snow," Mrs. H. Godin and Mrs. A. Davey sang "The Old Rugged Cross," and Mrs. H. Godin won the bean contest, guessing the number of beans in a jar.

IT'S TECHNIQUE THAT COUNTS!

Today, it's true that all leading tire makers use synthetic rubber from the same source.

It is also true that before the war they all used the same natural rubber. Yet . . . there existed then, as today, a wide difference in tire quality.

Obviously, it takes more than rubber to build a tire. It takes steel, cotton, carbon black and compounding. Yes, and it takes still more to make a great tire.

It takes engineering to figure stresses, strains and proper balance. It takes chemistry to properly blend ingredients. It takes skill and experience to build flawlessly. Test tube or tree rubber . . . it's technique that counts.

These are the things that have made Goodyear "The greatest name in rubber" . . . the factors that give you the plus in Goodyear Tires.

As always, your best assurance of quality is this fact, true for 28 successive years . . . "More People Ride on Goodyear Tires Than On Any Other Kind."

WARNING: The rubber situation is still critical. Synthetic rubber tires are now being produced, but they are for the armed services and "essential" civilian vehicles only. Your needs will be taken care of just as soon as humanly possible.

As your next tires probably will be made of synthetic, the following information is important to you. Synthetic rubber tires are comparatively new, they do not yet match natural rubber tires in all-around performance. The continuing laboratory and road-testing work will, undoubtedly, hasten improvements.

In the meantime, however, synthetic rubber tires will meet present needs and see us through the emergency, IF CARE is exercised AT ALL TIMES. Driving at reduced speeds (35 M.P.H. or under), no overloading, accurate inflation, regular rotation (switching tires from one wheel to another), immediate attention to tire damage and frequent inspection by a Goodyear Dealer will enable you to get satisfactory service from synthetic rubber tires.

Legislators Are Urged To Work In Harmony On Post-War Planning

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP) — A heavy volume of new legislation and the prospect of possibly four speeches in the continued debate on the throne speech faced the Ontario Legislature today as it continued the third week of its new session.

A total of 13 bills including three government measures were introduced yesterday and G. H. Mitchell (CCF - York North) and William Murdock (PC - Essex South) the Progressive Conservative Government whip, spoke in the debate.

A. Belanger (L - Prescott) adjourned the debate and will speak first today after a number of new bills are introduced and others dealt with in various stages. He will be followed by William Dennison (CCF - Toronto - St. David), Stan Hall (PC - Halton), R. A. McEwing (L - Wellington North) and possibly L. Hancock (CCF - Wellington South).

Post-war Panning

The Legislators yesterday heard a plea by Hon. Capt. the Rev. A. W. Downer (PC - Dufferin-Simcoe) that they work in harmony in post-war planning to give Canadian fighting men "Something to live for and to come home to."

Capt. Downer was re-elected last August while with the Canadian troops in Sicily and has returned on leave to attend the Session.

He said the spirits of the Canadians in Italy were high despite the grimness of the enemy, and despite the mud and the fleas. But the boys overseas would appreciate more letters from home.

It was wishful thinking to believe the war would soon be won and Canadians should prepare for even greater war sacrifices.

Looking into the post-war period he believed Canada should encourage Britons to come here.

13 Bills Get 1st Reading

Yesterday's 13 bills marked the biggest flood of new legislation yet handled by the House in a single day at this session. Included was a C.C.F. bill to amend the municipal act to enable school board and board of education employees to qualify to sit on municipal councils. All were given first reading.

Second reading was given a bill to amend the Power District Service Charges Act to reduce or remove service charges and provide the covering of any deficits to the Ontario Hydro Commission by the consolidated revenue fund of the province.

The Ontario Hydro Commission will try to bring modern electrical facilities within the reach of all in Ontario's rural areas after the war, Hon. G. H. Challies, hydro commissioner, told the legislature.

He said the commission now has experiments under way in an attempt to perfect a quick-freezing unit which might be handled by some company. The units would be designed to enable Ontario farmers to enjoy summer produce in the winter.

The commission also planned after the war to send "mechanized electrical units" to all areas in Ontario, displaying equipment which farmers might purchase.

Premier Drew introduced a Bill to set up a Board of Governors to direct the work of the Ontario Research Foundation and extend post-war research work.

Attorney-General Blackwell introduced an amendment to the Commissions for Taking Affidavits Act. He explained the Department of National Defence requires that all officers in the services be made eligible to take affidavits, not just those above the rank of Major, as the Act provides.

E. E. Brown (C.C.F.-Welland) introduced an amendment to the Municipal Act to enable employees of School Boards and Board of Education to qualify and sit on municipal councils.

Mr. Mitchell in a 45-minute address called for lower interest rates on farm loans, better social service allowances, definite plans for rehabilitation of servicemen and revision in most cases of special privileges enjoyed by corporations under special private Acts.

Mr. Murdoch, the Government Whip, criticized C.C.F. proposals for Farmer-Co-operatives, especially with regard to farm machinery. He said the Ontario farmer still wants to farm the land the way he thinks best and with his own machinery.

If the "armchair farmers" put their system into effect "the experts will run the farm, the farmer will do the work, and he will still be broke."

Bracken Campaign Said 'Subversive'

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP)—Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L., British Columbia), speaking in the Senate, last night, said action of John Bracken, national Progressive Conservative Leader, in "conducting an active political campaign divorced from any Parliamentary duties" was "subversive of Parliamentary Government."

Senator Farris gave notice of his intention next Thursday to "call the attention of the Senate to the conventions of the Constitution under our Parliamentary system, with particular reference to the established custom of the Leader of the Opposition having a seat in either House of Parliament."

He said he would also "call attention to the fact that the Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, now the official Opposition, has made no effort since his selection as Leader to secure a seat in Parliament."

"But on the contrary is conducting an active political campaign divorced from any Parliamentary duties or responsibilities," he added.

Senator Farris said he would submit that this procedure was "a departure from the best constitutional precedure, is subversive of Parliamentary Government, and is not in the public interests."

Given Special Leave

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—AC. Robert J. Fleming, 22, of Saskatoon, has been given special leave from No. 1 Wireless School, Montreal, to attend an orchestra performance here March 14. Fleming is the composer of "The Nursery Suite," which is to be played for the first time by Sir Ernest MacMillan and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Fleming describes the eight-part suite as a "series of pictures in music of homes and houses of my childhood."

WINS FIRST PRIZE—Here is a reproduction of the Canadian war poster that won first prize in the Vancouver Art Gallery poster competition. Designed by Harry Mayerovitch, poster art director of the National Film Board graphics division, who signs himself "Mayo," the original poster was even more striking with its color arrangement, ranging from a sky blue through lightening green to black at the bottom, the eyes and cloud-like streaks being of a sepulchural yellow.

THINK!

• Because of the Canadian Red Cross, thousands who might have died have lived. Think!

Thousands of wounded, who might have been crippled for life, have been made strong again because, at the crucial moment, the Red Cross was there. Think, also, of that.

Thousands of fighting men — women, too, and little children — have been spared untold physical and mental suffering through the ministrations of the Red Cross. Think of that, too.

Surely, the Red Cross appeal for help in lessening human suffering will meet with nation-wide and immediate response.

Let us all give to the Red Cross, gratefully and liberally.

The ravaged world needs the RED CROSS

AGAIN, War and his fellow horsemen—Famine, Pestilence and Death—are trampling underfoot millions of innocent victims.

From battle-scarred areas across the world, the piteous cry goes up: Help us, or we perish!

Parents bereft and destitute . . . children orphaned and starving . . . millions of the helpless, scourged by hunger and disease.

The need for food, clothing, medical supplies . . . for the merciful ministrations of the Red Cross . . . is appalling in its starkness and extent.

For these, too, YOUR Red Cross bespeaks YOUR dollars. As war intensifies, its victims multiply. The work of mercy widens. Give Generously.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love it.

And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

"May I Remind You Madam...?"

Having to make a little coffee go a long way has taught many a housewife this lesson . . . to be sure of full satisfaction in every cup you must use really good coffee!

And that accounts for the fact that new thousands who have tried Maxwell House are so satisfied with this delicious, full-bodied blend that they intend to use it always.

You can make Maxwell House your regular coffee, with every confidence because it's:

1. Blended from rare, extra-flavor coffees, each with its own special quality of flavor, body or fragrance.
2. Roasted by a remarkable process that roasts every coffee bean evenly all through.
3. Packed in a Wartime Bag in an All Purpose Grind and at less cost to you.

Auxiliary Gives Gift To Past President

During the social which followed the regular meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary, held at the home of Miss Mary Morton, 486 Albertus Ave., Miss Moron presented Mrs Howard Clegg, past president of the Auxiliary, with a gift on behalf of the members. The gift was given in recognition of Mrs. Clegg's splendid leadership during the past 12 years. The address was read by Mrs. R. Williamson.

The theme of the meeting "Grace for Living Together," was taken from the chapter of the study book. Mrs. Irwin Oesch presented it, and showed the need for such grace in the home, the church, the community, and in the world. Papers were read by Mrs. Arthur Pitchford, Mrs. E. G. Myles, and Mrs. E. Mesley, showing the work of missionaries in India, Africa and Trinidad.

In conducting the worship service, Mrs. H. Clegg stressed the value of daily Bible study, not as a means of escape, but as a source of strength and inspiration for life's problems.

During the business period reports were given by the treasurer and the Community Friendship secretary. The Supply secretary reported on the requirements for the bale to be sent to Oxford House, and plans were made to get the articles of clothing needed. Plans for the Easter thankoffering meeting, to be held at the home of Mr Andrew McKenzie, Bolivar Street, were also made.

Refreshments were served by Miss Morton and her assistants.

No Squabbles Among Wrens In Navy Show

By ENID NEMY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, March 6 —(CP)— The 40 attractive Wrens now touring Canada in the Navy Show are determined to prove "just for our own satisfaction" that women can get along together.

Their complete success thus far pleasantly surprised them for they admit ruefully, "we didn't think it was possible," but to the male members of the show it's the eight wonder of the world.

"Forty women and no squabbling—now I've seen everything," murmured one hardy sailor, shaking his head in amazement.

We've really become experts in the art of give and take," smiled petite, blonde Sue Macdonald of Toronto, while Barbara Chauvin, of Montreal, added: "We're quite proud of our perfect record and we intend to keep it that way."

The show travels in special 15-car train and is a veritable "home on wheels," complete to the last detail. Sub-Lieut. Rosemary Youle of Ottawa is in charge of the Wrens. Trim and efficient in her navy uniform and tricorne hat she acts as house mother, friend and confidant.

"I see that the girls dress warmly enough, don't stay out too late and a variety of other things," she said. It really hasn't been difficult because they are co-operative. So far there has been very little disciplining. It's amazing but true. We're usually so busy there isn't much time left to break rules."

Girls Have Mascots

The girls, from all parts of the Dominion, carry a bit of home with them. Sue Macdonald's mascot, a teddy bear named "Junior," is one of the troupe favorites. Betty Shaw of Edmonton is devoted to a toy rabbit she uses in her stage act, and two goldfish "that just appeared" are guarded zealously by all the girls.

"Once they plopped out onto a bunk," recalled Laura Cookman, who calls both Saskatoon and Vancouver home. "They were floundering around helplessly when someone appeared and rescued them. That cured us of carelessness."

Gwen Haight Tasse, of Toronto, has special attraction in the show—her husband Jack, a survivor of H. M. C. S. Weyburn, now travelling with the company. Theirs was the first show romance.

The group has its cosmopolites, too, Anna Leigh, who sings in five languages, is from Finland. Joyce Lamberg of New York has lived through South American revolutions. Louise Burns, of Toronto, the Wrens dancing instructor, was a member of the famed "Rockettes."

The girls agree that touring the country with "Meet the Navy" is an experience they will never forget. "It's marvellous," said Frankie Conly of St. John, N.B., "although I don't see how I'll ever be able to settle down in one place."

Mrs. F. W. Harris Addresses Mission Circle

Mrs. Kenneth Meredith, Lansdowne Street was the hostess Tuesday night to a record attendance of the Jean Wagar Mission Circle of St. James United Church, with the president, Mrs. J. Huggins in the chair, the meeting opened with a short service of worship and the Scripture lesson, chosen from Acts 2:36-40; read by Miss Glady's Langton. Business was led by Mrs. Huggins who reminded the members to use the monthly envelopes provided for their offerings to be taken during the worship service.

The group leader Glady's Meredith, and her group had charge of the program. Miss Jessie Martin read "The Great Victoria" and there were short Bible readings by Misses Helen Moncrief, Eleanor Fife and Alma Hunter.

An interesting report of the Presbyterial from the Mission Circle viewpoint was presented by the delegate Miss Lottie Leggett. The second chapter of the the study book, was given from memory by Miss Dorothy Martin. This chapter covered the story of "Malareddy Calls" which deals with the rural work in India.

The guest speaker was Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial who was introduced by Mrs. W. Rose, "Unfinished Tasks" was the theme of Mrs. Harris' address, in which she traced the origin and growth of the woman's Missionary Society. She emphasized the scope of its work since 1881 and pointed out that the task was far from being finished.

Temperance was presented by the secretary, Miss Leggettt on the subject "Will History Repeat Itself?" Mrs. Hazel McLaren sang a solo, "He smiled at me" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Moore.

Refreshments were served by the group including Misses Glady's Meredith, Dorothy Martin and Alma Hunter. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson, 243 Wescott Street.

There is a change in the day of meeting from the second Monday to the fourth Monday each month.

4 City Rinks Go To Toronto

Four rinks from the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club have gone to Toronto, to enter the competition for the Shannon Trophy, being held at the Granite Club. Mrs. G. Wood is the skip for one rink, and the other members are Mrs. V. Selkirk, Mrs. G. Green and Mrs. M. Holt. These ladies will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jasper Humphries during their stay in Toronto.

Mrs. W. Fanning Talks To W.A.

Mrs. W. E. Fanning, who gave an instructive address on "The Citizens' Co-ordinating Committees," was guest speaker at the March meeting of the Women's Association of George Street United church. Another highlight of the meeting was the presentation or a gift to Mrs. W. P. Hetherington, in recognition of her years of faithful service in the various offices she has held in the W.A.

Mrs. W. G. McLaren presided, and read a poem, "Let Us Keep Lent." The devotional period was in charge of Miss Lillian Morrow, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Kelly, who read the Scripture, and Mrs. E. Brown, who led in prayer. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell sang, "Life's Lovely Things," and "Down Here," accompanied by Miss Roberta Kiefer.

The sum of $50 was voted to the India and China Relief Fund during the business session. Refreshments were served at the close.

QUICK CHANGE LINGERIE—This squared model of neckwear is made of eyelet embroidered muslin, its face framing, dress concealing freshness outlined with a soft self-ruffing. Matching cuffs. There is always a transition between true Winter and Spring when it's dull to wear heavy, warm clothes . . and dangerous not to do so. Your nauseatingly familiar Winter wool can get into the pin-up class (literally) and get you by, if you give it a lingerie treatment. Collar, jabot, perhaps cuffs as well . . there are loads of neckwear fashions in bandbox fresh condition. Some are simply laid on a frock, as one would clasp a necklace; others require a basting stitch to anchor them between launderings, but all are delightfully fresh looking.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Dinner is served. Whether this announcement is made by the hostess herself, the maid or the butler, the call is always a welcome one. Family dinners are probably our most important consideration. We find that, while other meals may be enjoyed by the whole family, it is dinner that usually brings us all together, especially if dinner is served at night. The table should be laid very attractively, nice linen, glassware and silver, for this is the meal that the whole family have time to eat and to enjoy. The day's work, with its many worries, is over and we look forward to this hour all day, an hour spent with our families. I am going to give you a few dinner menus and hope you will be able to get some new ideas from them.

Menu One (Sunday Dinner)

Half grapefruit
Roast chicken and dressing
Mashed potatoes, buttered carrots and green peas
Fresh vegetable salad
Custard pie Tea

Recipe for Custard Pie

I have been asked by readers of this paper to give this recipe.

3 eggs (fresh), 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt, 2 cups of milk.

Beat the eggs until very light, add sugar, vanilla and salt, and lastly the milk. Stir until the sugar is well mixed with the liquid. Have a nice rich crust, made in a deep pie plate, pour in the custard and grate nutmeg over the top. Have the oven pre-heated at 425 degrees, and put in pie and bake for 15 minutes; then reduce the heat to 325 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer. This recipe, if followed carefully, never fails.

Menu Two

Tomato juice
Broiled steak Baked potatoes
Boiled creamed onions
Pumpkin pie Coffee

The recipe for Pumpkin Pie, I am going to give you, is very inexpensive and very good. It is eggless Pumpkin Pie.

1 can pumpkin, ½ cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon ginger, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons of flour.

Put pumpkin in mixing bowl, add sugar and spices. Take ½ cup of milk and add flour, stir until smooth and add other ½ cup of milk and add to the first mixture, then slowly add the remaining cup of milk, and stir until smooth. Put in a deep pie plate lined with a rich crust, and bake at 425 degrees for about one hour.

Try this, readers, and see if it is not just as good as the pie made with eggs.

Menu Three

Roast bee with Yorkshire pudding
Buttered carrots Riced potatoes
Lettuce salad
Lemon souffle Coffee

Lemon Soufle

3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup scalded milk, ½ cup lemon juice, 3 eggs.

Melt butter, add flour and hot milk gradually. When thick pour over yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Add salt, sugar, lemon juice. Cool. Fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff and dry. Turn into buttered pudding dish and bake from 30 to 35 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) Serve at once. Dust with confectioner's sugar before serving. Serve with whipped cream.

Fashions

This easy-fitting, button-front jumper frock. Pattern 9211, is a honey for street or for office wear . . . or if you're a home body, just the think for making the rounds twixt Red Cross, Canteen, and committee meetings. Sleeves may be long or short.

Pattern 9211 comes in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40. Size 16, jumper, 1¾ yards 54-inch; blouse, 2 yards, 39-inch.

Salvage Drive Proceeds $44

Mrs. R. Whalon reported on the success of the recent salvage drive, and said that the Victory Workers' share of the proceeds was $44, in her report to the regular business meeting of the Victory Workers, held Tuesday afternoon. She also said that a new drive would begin April 10, and that it was hoped that a good response would be received from Peterborough citizens.

Mrs. B. Fowler presided, and the members voted to make a quilt for the Red Cross, and to send $10 to the British War Victims' Fund. The group will also continue to send cigarettes to sons of members who are overseas.

A new member, Mrs. K. Beatty, and a visitor, Miss Ruth Gardiner, were welcomed, and refreshments were served.

Rev. J. McMullen Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, March 8 — For 42 years active in the pastorate of the Methodist church, Rev. James S. McMullen, 86, retired United church minister of 145 Danforth avenue, died her Sunday. He had been a resident of Toronto since 1935.

Mr. McMullen had served many rural pastorates in the Bay of Quinte Conference, entering the ministry in 1881. He was born at Bethany, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David McMullen, pioneer settlers. He was ordained as a minister of the Methodist church at Picton, in 1886. His charges included Rosseau, Ussington, Canton, Lakefield, Oakwood, Arden, Minden, Morven, Atherley, Enterprise, Tyrone, Trenton, Frankford, Yanker, Lindsay, Canniston. It was while he was minister at Albert Street church, Oshawa, in 1924, that he retired. During the following 10 years he engaged in mission work in Belleville. He was a member of Danforth Avenue United church.

Mr. McMullen was twice married, his first wife, Emma Lillian Sailes, having died in 1897. Surviving are his widow, Lilly May McMullen, a daughter, Mrs. D. F. Byers of Toronto, and two sons, Flt. Lt. Cecil E. McMullen, R.C.A.F., and Harvard J. McMullen of Whitby.

DECORATED—Sub-Lieut. Jessie Muir, a Royal Canadian Navy nurse photographed at Buckingham Palace when she received the A.R.R.C.

Friendship Circle Votes $145 For War

HASTINGS, Mar. 8 (ENS)—Mrs. George Pickens was hostess to the Friendship Circle of the Fleming's district for their March meeting. There were eight ladies present. The president, Mrs. H. Johnston, presided, and members decided to give $80 to the Red Cross, $50 to the Salvation Army and $15 to the Chinese Relief Fund.

It was decided to hold a quilting in the School, Easter week when Red Cross quilts and a fancy quilt will be quilted. The election of officers then took place with the same officers being re-elected for the year 1944. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Bibby.

Free Beer Offered Pound In Pennies

LONDON, March 7 (CP)—Pennies are the latest thing to hit the rationed list.

This isn't exactly official, but bank managers here have been doling them out only under duress, explaining that the number of coppers in circulation has hit "an all-time low."

They explain this by saying that none have been made by the royal mint since 1940, when 2,000,000,000 were in circulation, and that wartime increases in population have made that number insufficient.

And the shortage has brought a new kind of profiteer. Some pub keepers are offering free beer to anyone who can give them one pound in pennies, while messenger boys are getting commissions for all the pennies they can bring in.

Cheese Roulades

In France they are called "ROULADES" . . . Here they are known as "cheese and meat balls". But anywhere, when made according to this new wartime recipe, they're delicious.

Blend 1 small package of plain cream cheese with 1 teaspoon of H.P. Sauce, 1 teaspoon of minced onion, ¼ teaspoon of salt and a sprinkle of pepper. Spread this mixture on 12 thin slices of bologna. Roll each slice tightly by itself and secure with a toothpick.

Buy a bottle of H.P. today and try this new economy dinner. There is never "flat taste" when H.P. Sauce is used. Serve H.P., that grand old British thick sauce—also with soup, stew, salad, sandwiches, fish and fowl.

Capt. C. Feaver Heard At Theatre

The audience which filled the Regent Theatre at the 'after church' service on Sunday evening heard Capt. C. J. Feaver of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Kingston, speak. He introduced himself as not a chaplain but just a plain officer of the King's army who believes in the Lord Jesus Christ.

With Capt. Feaver came Mr. George Anderson of the R.C.O.C. Band, a cornet soloist of outstanding ability, a gold medalist of the C.N.E.

Capt. Feaver spoke on the theme, "Darkness and Light," from the words, "For God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God." At creation God said let there be light and there was light. The speaker referred to the knowledge we have of God given by science, literature and nature, but it is the knowledge of the glory of God as revealed in Christ that dispels the darkness of ignorance, superstition and sin. Just as the dawn breaking in the sky drives away the darkness of night so does the revelation of God's love in Jesus Christ drive out sin and uncleanness from our lives, he declared.

In introducing the speaker the chairman referred to the fact that the committee sponsoring these meetings is now affiliated with the Christian Business Men's Committee International, with headquarters in Chicago, and branches in many Canadian cities. He also gave advance notice that the chairman of the C.B.M.C. International, Mr. R. G. Le Tourneau, would be in Peterborough as a guest speaker on Sunday, July 16. Mr. Le Tourneau is a prominent industrialist of Toccoa, Georgia, U.S.A. During the past year he has spoken 500 times in churches, over the radio and at public gatherings. The Le Tourneau Foundation which assists young persons to prepare for missionary work is worth about $13,000,000, and does a wonderful work in the spread of the Gospel.

The C.B.M.C. has arranged for a weekly gospel service to be broadcast from 8.03 to 8.30, commencing this Thursday.

HUSBAND TOO OLD FOR WIFE. 18 Years Difference Creates A Social Gulf Difficult to Overcome.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young girl engaged to a man 18 years older than myself. He wishes me to marry him immediately, but I am afraid that the difference in our ages is too great. I have a friend who married a wealthy man with about the same difference in their ages. He never takes her anywhere. He never wants any friends to come to the house. He had all his money before she married him, so he always refers to everything as his and although he is rich he gives her only a small allowance. Are all old men like that?

H. T. R.

Age Difference Too Great.

Answer: I think 18 years difference in age between a man and woman is entirely too much unless the man happens to be of a very youthful temperament, and the girl is very old and sedate in her ways. Then the two might come together on the platform of mutual tastes and habits, but the average man and woman would find that 18 years made a gulf between them that even with their best endeavors they could not bridge.

That is why people should always marry in their own age class. They should have the same tastes, the same ideas and ideals, the same point of view. They should enjoy doing the same things, and they cannot do this if one is much older than the other.

Don.t be misled by the lying old adage that it is better to be an old man's darling than a young man's slave. There are no tyrants so merciless as the old and no slavery more complete than that of the young woman who is married to an old man.

Far better to marry a poor young man and work up with him than an old man who will make you squander your youth waiting on him and putting up with his whims. A young husband, will at least, have sympathy with you and understand why you want to step out and go places, but an old man will think you foolish and unreasonable if you want the pleasures of youth because they do not appeal to him.

Dear Miss Dix: Why do girls get more enjoyment out of the company of boys than of girls? I have lots of girl friends who will break a date with me any time if a boy happens to breeze along. Now I get twice as much enjoyment out of my girl friends as I do out of my boy friends.

I am president of my sorority and I would give up the best date of the season with a boy rather than miss a sorority meeting. The girls admit we have lots of fun when we are all together and they will call a boy a "bore," a "dope", etc., but they call off a good terris match or anything they are going to do with a girl to be with one of 'em. Why is this?

JANICE.

Biological Law Motivates Girls.

Answer: It is biological, Janice. It is because girls are built that way It is because the instinctive thing in every girl is to find her mate, and she sees a prospective husband in every boy.

Of course, there are a few women who men do not attract, and who prefer the society of their own sex but these are almots as scarce as hens' teeth. The average woman gets more kick out of being with the dullest man than she does out of being with the most brilliant and entertaining woman. Every day you see girls gazing upward in rapt adoration at dull, ignorant, loutish, ill-mannered boys, but they would not tolerate a girl for an instant

The Right to Get Ahead

IN THIS NEW WORLD a man has had the right to speak and write and worship in his own way.

He has enjoyed the right, too, to work at what suited him and to get ahead according to his talents.

A real man strives to make his own way in the world.

He takes the rough with the smooth.

He safeguards his own future by his own frugality and thrift.

ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE built Canada's prosperity.

Without these rugged qualities we should never have gained the prestige we enjoy in the world today.

Now we are defending the common man's right to make the most of this heritage of freedom.

The man who is free to prosper is also free to protect himself and provide independence for himself and his family.

FOR GENERATIONS, in good times and bad, the common man has relied on life insurance for protection.

Life insurance has grown into a great co-operative partnership of the whole people.

Only through this partnership can a man create an immediate estate for himself out of what he earns.

Mass enterprise and mass unselfishness of over four million policyholders have provided every man and woman with the means of securing at low cost the certainty of a cushioned future.

W.MS. Suggests Joint Meeting

The matter of a union meeting of the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society of Knox United church at Eastertime, was discussed at the regular meeting of the W.M.S. Mrs. R. Laing was instructed to ask the W.A. if such an idea would be acceptable, and, if they agreed, an executive meeting of both societies would be called to arrange the special program.

Mrs. A. Sanderson and Mrs. H. Baptie reported five visits in January and three in February. Mrs. M. Ego said that clothing for two men, two women, and one child was needed for the annual bale which will be packed in May at Trinity church.

Mrs. H. Lewis conducted the study book period, assisted by Mrs. H. J. Mahoney, Mrs. E. Somers, Mrs. A. Spicer, Mrs. V. Grainger, Mrs. R. Hanscom and Mrs. A. L. Campbell. Mrs. H. Baptie, Mrs. A. Sanderson and Mrs. R. Laing summed up the spiritual advantages to be gained from worship studies, concluding an illustrated lesson on the chapter, "Christ for all of life, through worship."

Mrs. C. Weldon had charge of the devotional period, her topic being, "The Bible for Daily Living." Mrs. C. Gertley assisted in prayer. Mrs. Roy Laing, vice-president, was in the chair in the absence through illness of the president, Mrs. James Gerard.

Home and School

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

The five rules which pupils are expected to observe were listed by Mr. W. Bannon, chairman of the school board, addressing the regular meeting of Confederation Home and School Association. They are as follows: To be on time regularly; to be neat and clean; to be diligent; to be kind and courteous to fellow pupils; and to be obedient to teachers.

Miss V. Squire also gave an address on "The Reflection of the Child's Home Life on his School Work." She is a teacher who has studied children and is interested in them, and those who heard her benefitted from her expert knowledge.

Mrs. W. White presided and Mr. W. Potter was at the piano for the community singing. Mr. J. Branson sang "Friend O'Mine." Refreshments were served by the social convener and her committee.

WITH CARE and circumspect conduct along all lines of endeavor and contact this day may culminate in some personal joys or benefits. But a tendency to lax, shiftless or impetuous acts and words may becloud all favorable issues. All writings, correspondence, speech and agreements, spoken or written, are under adverse rule and might cause trouble unless cautiously and painstakingly managed. Read documents carefully and have an eye to truth and honesty. In romantic relations there may be thrills and benefit if discretion is exercised.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset with a year of treachery, misrepresentation and confusion from all directions unless they place a rigid curb on word, speech and conduct generally, as a proclivity to accomplish cherished desires by tricky, easy or unprincipled actions may prove decidedly regrettable and beget definite penalties. Read all writings, documents or correspondence with exceptional caution. In personal conduct be circumspect.

Don't give way to rash impulses or high nervous tension. Be calm and prudent and there may be alluring events and experiences.

A child born on this day will have need of early training and discipline, being highstrung, impulsive and disposed to gain its ends in the easiest way. It should have the example of sound principle and integrity.

Avoid Speculation

REGINA, March 8 — (CP) — Hon. J. G. Taggart, Minister of Agriculture, said in the Saskatchewan legislature yesterday that farmers should avoid wild speculative plunges into any one branch of the Agricultural industry in the coming year. He urged retaining of summerfallow acreage.

Credit Union Aim Outlined To C.W. League

The structure and aim of Credit Unions, and the advantages derived from cooperative enterprises of this kind, were explained by Mr. A. B. Burrows, when he addressed the March meeting of St. Peter's subdivision of the Catholic Women's League, held in the Knights of Columbus rooms.

Mr. Burrows outlined the history of Credit Unions, their expansion throughout European and Asiatic countries, and their subsequent establishment and remarkable success on the North American continent. At the close of his address, the speaker held an informal discussion, and answered the inquiries of various members.

His Excellency, Bishop J. W. MacDonald, spoke to the members about the charitable values and spiritual uplifting which were gained from making accessible to many a share in the goods of this world. He cited instances of the splendid achievements brought about by the application of the principles upon which the Credit Union is based.

The chaplain of the League, Rev. J. T. Finn, also expressed his interest in the address, and recommended the studying of this work.

Miss Lillian Hurley presided, and heard conveners' reports. Mrs. Frank Lynch reported for Social Service; Miss T. McNamara for the Red Cross and Membership; Mrs. George Lynch for the Navy League; Mrs. P. J. Burke for the Soldiers and Canteen Work; and Mrs. Jack McCarney for the Salvage Depot.

Included in the program was a piano solo by Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M., and two vocal selections, "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," by Mrs. Leo Picard, accompanied by Miss Scollard.

Gore's Landing News

A sleighriding party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harris on Sunday. Included in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harris of Glen Lynden Farm; Mr. and Mrs. Doug Harris and Lucille; Mrs. and Mrs. George Harris and Gary; Mr. and Mrs. Clare Harris, Joan, Nancy and Pamella; Miss Mary-Alice Harris, Cobourg; Miss Dorothy Harris enroute to Lindsay; Misses Ruby and Shirley Harris.

Mrs. Jack Mackenzie who has been ill the past two weeks is making good progress toward recovery.

Mrs. Lyle Ball, with Lois, Judy and Lyle Jr. are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Ball in Baltimore.

Mrs. William Harris has returned from a week's visit in Toronto.

Pte. Phillip Pomeroy who has been in Kingston has been sent to another station. Gnr. Victor Harris has arrived in Shiloh, Man.

Mrs. Lloyd Delaney, the Rectory returned from two weeks visit in Toronto.

VILLAGE OF KNITTERS

Fraserville Airman Presented With Watch

FRASERVILLE, March 8—(ENS)—A host of friends gathered in the Fraserville L.O.L. last week to honor another of its boys serving in the forces, Clarke Darling, the youngest son of Mr. Russell Darling. He has two brothers in the Canadian army overseas.

Dancing was enjoyed until the supper hour when Clarke was asked to take the seat of honor, when an address was read by Willis Cunningham, after which a lovely wrist watch was presented him.

Ex-members Conduct Keene YPS Meeting

KEENE, March 8 — (ENS) — The Y.P.S. was held on Sunday evening, with Alan Eason presiding. It was a special service, with ex-members in charge, and Alfred Fletcher, a former hymn leader, led the singing of favorite hymns, with Dora Drummond at the piano. Mrs. Alan Eason read the Scripture lesson, followed with prayer by Mrs. Rennie. Mrs. Ross McIntyre gave an interesting address on Paul's teaching on the Gospel of Christ, and what it meant to the individual who believes in it. The Christian Missions group will be in charge next Sunday.

MAJOR TRIQUET AND FAMILY—There is no prouder family in Canada right now than that of Major Paul Triquet, of Cabano, Que., who has been awarded the Victoria Cross, highest award for valor in the British Empire. His wife and two children are shown above, with Yolande, 8, on the Left, and Claude, 10, on the Right. Mrs. Triquet, Centre, is the former Alberte Chenier of Ottawa. The picture of Major Triquet was taken when he was a regimental sergeant-major with the Royal 22nd Regiment.

O. mat star who made such a favorable impression on his first appearance here won more friends by taking battering Jan Gotch for a ride in the semi-final bout. Gotch was no set-up for the power-house at that. He went out fighting after doing a lot of attacking during the 19 lively minutes the bout lasted. The Pole wrestled more than usual, as a matter of fact, although he lost no chance of getting away with his punching, gouging and hair-pulling tactics.

Early in the bout he used a series of headlocks that had Sexton in distress but the Columbus athlete was too powerful and too smart to be thrown, despite the fact that Gotch made it very close. At one stage Sexton had the Pole running wildly around the ring as the Ohio grappler kept bouncing off the ropes so fast that Gotch was bewildered. The crowd cheered the exhibition of speed.

Finally Sexton ended the bout with a combination of his own pet hold and the killer used by Champion Wild Bill Longson in most of his victories. He caught Gotch coming off the ropes and bowled him over with a body check. Then he quickly picked the Pole up by the heels and whirled him around three or four times in the giant swing. It looked to be curtains but Gotch went under the ropes when he dropped and Sexton could not take the fall. However he took it a moment later as he grabbed the dazed Pole, applied the Longson pile-driver and nearly drove Gotch's head through the mat. It was all over then.

One Bad Man Wins

The night was not altogether a loss for the bad men on the card for the rough-house Tom Zaharias scored a win over sturdy Jack Wentworth of Hamilton in the preliminary bout. The Pueblo Greek had everybody in the arena howling for his scalp before the battle got nicely under way and they were still booing him when it was over. Zaharias argued with Referee Maxwell, growled at his opponent and yelled a few things at the crowd and in between handed out a lot of abuse with Wentworth on the receiving end. The Hamilton boy had his moments too and on one occasion chased Zaharias out of the ring, but in the long run the Greek proved that he carried too much power for Wentworth. He softened up the latter with a few punches to the jaw and then used a head-lock to toss him around two or three times and finally rolled him over for the fall after 16 minutes.

Referee Bert Maxwell saw as much action as the grapplers in handling the three bouts. The wrestlers were introduced by Fred Scates, who as usual also doubled on the stop-watch.

Also, girls still have the idea that it reflects credit on them to have dates with boys, no matter what sort of dummies the boys may be, and that it is a kind of a disgrace to have to run around with other girls, even if the girls are charming and agreeable, hence they put up with anything that wears trousers. And there you are. And that's the way the good Lord made 'em.

Post-War Aviation

WASHINGTON, March 8 — (AP) —A high government official disclosed last night that conservations with Britain, Canada, Russia and China have been going on since December and may result in a general United Nations' conference on post-war aviation. The talks are still in the preliminary stages.

BobcaygeonRink Defeated For Shannon Cup

TORONTO, March 8—Three out of six visiting rinks engaged in the first round of the Frank Shannon Trophy on Toronto Granite Club ice Tuesday passed out in the early play.

The defeat of Mrs. J. R. McIntosh's Bobcaygeon entry, winners this year of the Ladies' Tankard and the Tolton Trophy was unexpected. Mrs. T. J. Agar, Toronto Granites, was out of the hunt until she scored a six in the fifth and took the lead. Skip McIntosh counted a two to force an extra end and with her last rock had to face one or other of two Granite shots to win. But her rock went between both and lost the game 11-9.

Mrs. H. R. Reive's High Park four proved too strong for Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Granites and won 9-5. Several times Skip Woolley built up a seemingly good end but none lasted.

Mrs. H. J. Humphrey, Granites, chalked up a five end to lead Mrs. D. F. C. Robinson, Toronto Club, 12-11 going into the last end which produced a three count for Skip Robinson who won 14-12.

Safety Committee Gets 27 Suggestions

MARMORA, March 8—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety committee was held on Monday afternoon, presided over by C. H. Buskard, vice-chairman.

The meeting observed two minutes' silence in memory of the late R. A. Elliott. George Brooks brought in the report of the Suggestions committee revealing the receipt of twenty-seven suggestions during the past month. The Competitive committee announced that ten of these had been allotted an award and that the star was awarded the Stellite department.

W. M. Regan brought in the report of the Inspection committee and Smith Fraser was appointed floating member. J. A. Rice gave the report of the Health and Investigation committee and I. H. Hemphill reported routine work of the Publicity committee.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SILENCE IS PROTECTIVE

JUST AS a soldier in the jungle must sometimes lay low and keep silent, so a bridge player must do likewise in order to protect his cards. Possession of secondary honors, especially queens, against which it may be possible to finesse in either direction, imposes a duty of concealment on the holder. A double for business, if based on such cards, is very likely to tell the declarer just how to make a contract which he otherwise probably is going to fumble.

Knowing from the Blackwood that South held the three missing aces, and having all four kings himself, you couldn't very well blame North for bidding the grand slam in No Trumps. He would never have made the contract, however, without co-operation from West.

East led the club J, which North took with the A, and then went to South with his spade 6 to the A. Back came the heart J, and it now made no difference what West did. If he covered, the K would win and the A-10 would clear the suit, making 14 set-up tricks in sight with only 13 possible to take. West properly ducked, so the heart 8 was put on from North's hand and the J won. The heart K, Diamond A and heart A eliminated West's heart Q, and the rest of the tricks were simply there to be run.

North admitted after the hand that, if West had not doubled, he would have played the heart suit differently, scoring the first trick with his K and then finessing the J. The Q therefore would have won the only trick needed by the defense.

Ask Utilities To Consider Amalgamation

COBOURG, March 8.—(ENS). —Cobourg Public Utilities Commission in a letter from the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, has been asked to consider a proposed amalgamation of the Niagara, Eastern and Georgian Bay districts into the South Ontario division. The matter was discussed Monday night at the Utilities Commission.

There was also the proposal for a uniform maximum rate of $39 per horse power, which would be financed by a levy not exceeding 10 cents per horse power.

In Cobourg the present rate is $31 and as the levy is tentatively set at 4½ cents per horse power, the cost would not be large for the town of Cobourg.

From a purely selfish standpoint, commented Jack Burnet, Cobourg stood nothing to gain from the proposal. The mayor pointed out, however, that the increase to Cobourg would be very small.

On motion it was decided to send the manager to attend the meeting in connection with the matter on March 15 at Toronto.

Pay Accounts.

Accounts passed were as follows: Electric Dept., Confederation Life, $85.84; Municipal Electric Association, $10; Grand and Toy, $9.25; Eastern Ontario Municipal Electric Association, $10; Cobourg Tire and Battery Service, $17.28 H. S. Fowler & Son, $7.16; Stan Pratt, $73.25. Total, $212.77.

Water Dept.— Nicholls Chemical Co., $15.39; Bolton Machine Works, $10.50 and P.U.C. of Cobourg, Elec. Dept., $158.76 Total, $184.65.

Women Decide To Buy New Flags For Church

BRIDGENORTH, March 8 — (ENS—The W.M.S. and the W.A. of the Bridgenorth United Church held their meetings together at the Manse recently.

There were 18 ladies present and Mrs. R. J. Pettersonne opened the meeting with prayer. Psalm 91 was read by Mrs. Johnson, and the Lesson Thought was given by Mrs. K. Blewett. Mrs. Downs gave a talk on the Inspiration of Worship taken from the Study Book. Mrs. Robinson gave a reading. The minutes of the last meeting were given by Mrs. J. Hardill. A committee was appointed for the purchasing of flags for the church and to purchase two dozen hymn books and $10. was donated to the Victor Home in Toronto. A letter of thanks for the Christmas parcel sent to Ray Nicholls serving in Italy was read.

The W. M. S. are trying to meet their allocation quarterly instead of waiting until the end of the year.

The bale is to be ready to ship by May 26 anyone wishing to donate articles can leave them with Mrs. Ella Nicholls. Mrs. Downs and Mrs. F. Moore served a lunch and a social hour was spent.

AVERTS CRASH—The coolness and skill of Air Vice-Marshal A. T. N. Cowley averted a plane crash at Trenton. He was flying from Toronto to St. Catharines, when he discovered that a wheel of the plane could not be locked in position. Since they were going to have to belly-land anyway, he decided to fly to Trenton, and land near a repair depot. This he did and finally landed on his starboard wheel alone.

Capt. A. Downer Returns To House

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—Capt. A. W. Downer, Canadian Army chaplain and Progressive Conservative member for Dufferin-Simcoe in the Legislature arrived at Queen's Park to-day, having left the Canadian troops in Italy about 10 days ago, completing a 7,000-mile journey. He was given leave under military regulations to attend the session, and he said two members of the House of Commons had accompanied him on his journey.

He said he had travelled from Italy across Africa by airplane, thence to England where he boarded a boat.

"The spirit of the Canadian troops in Italy is high," he said. "The boys are in great condition. I've never seen a more healthy group, but they know the enemy they are fighting and are doing a wonderful job of it."

Song Recital Held To Aid Red Cross

LAKEFIELD, March 8 (ENS) — Mr. Charles Renaud of Peterborough held a recital in Memorial Hall recently the proceeds of which were given to aid the Red Cross work in the United Church.

Assisting artists were Miss Lenore Skitch, Miss Joy Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Searles.

The program opened with two piano duets by Lenore Skitch and Joy Walker.

Mr. Renaud, accompanied by Mrs. Searles then sang a group of four songs, "Orientale", a violin solo was played by Cecil Searles Miss Joy Walker, contralto, sang "Down" by Curran, and "The Sweetest Flower" by Hawley. "Au Matin" and "Gavotte" both by Godand, were played by Miss Skitch. "The Vagabond", "A Spirit Flower," "Tally Ho! and Invictus" were then sung by Mr. Renaud. "Andante Contaballi", and "Camebrake" were played by Mr. Searles. Miss Walker sang "Soul of Mine" and "Rest thee Sad Heart." Miss Skitch played "Waltz No. 14" and "Danse Negue".

The program closed with four songs by Mr. Renaud, "Nita Gitana", "He Met Her on the Stairs" "The Rosary" and "Tommy Lad".

Mrs. Searles was the accompanist for the evening.

L.O.L. Holds Euchre

79 Canadians Awarded V.C.

By The Canadian Press.

Award of the Victoria Cross to Maj. Paul Triquet of Cabane, Que., announced in Ottawa yesterday, brings to 79 the number of Victoria Cross awards to Canadians. Two of them were presented during the present conflict, one to Major Triquet and the other to Lt.-Col. Charles Cecil Ingersoll Merritt of the South Sackatchewn Regiment, 1st Battalion, for valor in the Dieppe Raid, August, 1942.

Of the earlier awards, 43 are held by living Canadians. Eight of the 77 were serving with British units, the remainder with Canadian forces. Four wars are represented on the list, dating from the citation of Col. Alexander Robert Dunn for bravery in the Crimean campaign October 25, 1854. Col. Dunn was born in Toronto in 1833.

The majority of Canadian V.C.'s were earned during the First Great War; four are held by veterans of the South African War; one was given a member of the King's Royal Irish Hussars for service in quelling the Indian Mutiny of 1858; and another was awarded Pte. Timothy O'Hea, 1st Battalion, the Rifle Brigade, for gallant conduct in extinguishing a fire in a railway car between Quebec and Montreal June 6, 1866.

In Time of War...Prepare for Peace

Just how soon or how suddenly this war will end is anyone's guess. Just how long or how short the road to Victory will be no one can foretell. But one thing is as sure as sunrise—we cannot begin too early to plan for the post-war world! Long before the ink is dry on the treaties of peace, we must be ready to deal with problems of peace . . . for peace depends upon more than paper. Peace depends upon human contentment. Peace depends upon every man and woman being free to live fully and to live usefully.

Let us face up to it, now. There must be no fruitless searching for employment in this country in the years that follow Victory. There must be no wanton wastage of human material and initiative. There must be a place in our national scheme of things for every willing man and woman. There must be work, worthy work and gainful work, for every person who seeks it. There must be. And there can be.

For look at the mighty possibilities of this great country of ours. Look at the things that need doing—and the means that lie at our hands to do them. Look at the need for better homes—for healthier homes, for lovelier homes . . . Look at the need for worthier towns—for planned, convenient towns, without ugliness, without slums. Look at the need for railroad development—for modernized rolling stock, for widespread electrification. Look at the great bridges that should be built—the cloverleafs that could make road travel swifter and freer from danger. Look how the benefits of electricity might be spread to remote farms and hamlets . . .

And that isn't half the story. In every home, in every factory and store and warehouse and theatre there will be modernization and improvement to be made. New extension and refurnishing . . . new furniture . . . new equipment . . . new machines . . . new elevators. In every field of transportation there will be work to do . . . new automobiles to be built . . . new trucks and tractors . . . new street cars, new buses, new planes. In every civic centre there will be the need for new recreational and entertainment facilities . . . new parks and arenas, new theatres, new swimming pools. In every town and city finer and worthier cultural centres and health centres will be required . . . enlarged universities, schools, libraries, hospitals, laboratories and clinics.

There is no need to ask where post-war work shall be found. But every one of us now should be studying how this work shall be done. We should be studying the changes and improvements we mean to make in our homes . . . the re-planning and expansion of our factories . . . the re-fitting and remodelling of our stores and offices, of our restaurants and theatres . . . the needs of our communities—planning better housing, better streets, better lighting, better civic centres and cultural centres, better parks, better transportation, better hospitalization. While there must not be the slightest relaxation of our all-out efforts to win the war—we must plan and we must start planning now.

Many governmental, municipal and industrial groups already are planning. Many individuals are planning. But more planning is needed; more is possible. Don't think this doesn't concern you. It does. Whether you're a home-maker, a plant operator, a farmer or a storekeeper or a civic leader—start figuring for the future, and start now! For by planning today, we prepare ready-made markets for tomorrow—markets which will absorb our fullest productive effort and thus create full and gainful employment for everyone.

Finland Sends New Reply On Peace Offer

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, March 9—(AP).—Finland has sent a revised reply to Russian armistice demands which may be a satisfactory basis for furthering the negotiations, it was strongly indicated here today.

Aftonbladet said the reply should be acceptable from the Russian viewpoint and declared it had the backing of Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf von Mannerheim and other high Finnish military officers.

The reply originally was prepared for delivery last Friday, but apparently because of its sharp tone it was held back for revision and modification and the final draft was not transmitted to the Russians until Tuesday.

Aftonbradet said the modification was the result of objections raised in certain Swedish circles which persuaded the Finns to adopt a milder tone.

The new note was said to seek further explanation and a more precise statement of terms, whereas the first draft rejected Soviet demands for the internment of German troops in Finland, withdrawal of Finnish troops to the 1940 frontier and partly rejected the demand for repatriation of some prisoners, particularly those residents of the Baltic States who went to Finland when the Russians occupied those countries in 1939.

The Morgon Tidningen reported that the Finns had rejected the principal Russian demands "in their present form" but this apparently was a reference to the earlier draft, which was understood to have proposed negotiation for a "free retreat" for the German troops in Finland.

To Encourage Basic English

LONDON, March 9 (CP)—Basic English—a vocabulary stripped to 850 essential words—will be encouraged by the British government as an auxiliary international and administrative language, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today.

A committee which has investigated the language field had distinguished between this use of the system and its use as a method of teaching ordinary English, he said. Several advanced methods have been perfected lately for teaching purposes and there is "no reason why the government should support one rather than another."

"So far, however, as concerns the use of basic English as an auxiliary international language His Majesty's government are impressed with the great advantage which would ensure from its development not as a substitute for established literary languages but as a supplement thereto."

William Gallagher, Communist member from West Fife in the heart of Scotland suggested that it would be better to teach good Scot pronunciation 'and thereby avoid the fluctuating and irritating noises generally made by the English."

Create Sleep Nook

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—A "sleep nook"—replete with 75 steamer chairs and blankets—will be opened by the Travellers' Aid Society in Grand Central Terminal tonight for sleepy service men wishing to catch a snooze between trains or unable to find hotel accommodations.

2,309 Japanese Perish In Burma

NEW DELHI, March 9—(CP)—United States troops have killed 650 Japanese soldiers since entering the Burma campaign against a loss of seven killed and 37 wounded, it was announced today.

Total Japanese casualties in the Hukawng valley fighting have reached a total of 2,309 killed, a communique said. More than 300 were killed during the night of March 6 alone, when a Japanese force facing entrapment north and east of Walawbum attempted to break through American lines.

American positions in this sector of the North Burma front have been further extended, the communique said, while the Chinese 22nd Division captured the town of Minghku Ga, southeast of Maingkwan, March 7.

A southeast Asia command communique announced that British troops have improved their positions on the high ground south of the Maungdaw-Buthedaung road on the Arakan front near the Burmese west coast and have thrown back all Japanese counter-attacks.

West African troops operating in the Kaladan valley continued to meet increasingly heavy enemy opposition, the bulletin added.

American heavy bombers blasted Japanese shipping in the Gulf of Siam south of Bangkok Tuesday night, sinking a 200-foot freighter, scoring a direct dit on a 300-foot cargo ship which probably sank, and damaging another with four near misses, the communique added.

16 More Japs Ships Sunk By Submarines

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—United States submarines have sunk 16 more Japanese ships in enemy-controlled waters.

The big bag, announced today by the navy, included one large tanker.

The toll brought to 627 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by submarine action.

A recapitulation of the damage done Japanese shipping by U.S. submarines shows: definitely sunk, 477 craft of all types; probably sunk, 36; and damaged, 114.

The totals for all types of action, including submarines, planes and surface ships are 1,065 sunk, 107 probably sunk and 817 damaged.

WASHINGTON—Navy Secretary Frank Knox said today that the Allies are "on the threshold of critical offensives."

Income Revenue Soars To New Record

OTTAWA, March 9.—(CP).— Increase of $39,306,119 was reported today by Revenue Minister Gibson in February revenue from customs, excise and income tax totalling $194,262,545, compared with $154,976,426 in the corresponding month last year.

Income tax revenue amounted to $114,820,083, a gain of $15,810,332 while customs-excise collections totalled $79,462,462, up $23,495,787. Customs-excise collections were made up as follows: Customs duties $13,925,907, increase $5,635,255; excise taxes $54,265,035, increase $16,146,300; excise duties $11,216,579, increase $1,705,738; sundry collections $55,941, increase $8,495.

All three divisions registered substantial gains during the 11 months ended Feb. 29, with collections totalling $2,316,055,390, an increase of $411,526,573 over the corresponding period of 1942-43 when $1,904,528,817 was collected.

Income Tax Up.

Income tax collections climbed to $1,475,615,380, up $232,576,643 while customs-excise rev:enue rose to $840,440,009, up $178,949,930. Customs-excise collections in detail were: Customs duties $151217,533, increase $46,591,037; excise taxes $559,443,810, increase $130,740,338; excise duties $129,123,739; increase $1,531,317; sundry collections $654,936, increase $87,238.

Increase for the 11-month period were reported in all income tax districts across Canada. Montreal was in first place with $410,275,751, an increase of $37,738,480, while Toronto, in second place, collected $362,693,681, increase $28,102,824.

Collections from other districts, with increase in brackets follow:

Hamilton $129,539,030 ($15,601,172); London, Ont. $103,558,486 $18,392,235); Ottawa $94,124,645 $25,679,941; Fort William $11,218,917 ($898,504); Belleville, $9,568,487 ($2,312,232); Kingston $5,145,281 $1,954,502).

Canada Plans Navy Of Big Ships

Need 1,000 Men Every Month While War Lasts

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP).—Presenting his $410,000,000 estimate to the Commons today, Navy Minister Macdonald reviewed a wide range of Navy activity on the seven seas, told of a successful fight against the U-boat and spoke of a "big ship" navy in prospect.

Touching all phases of naval effort, Mr. Macdonald spoke of acquisition of two cruisers, eight modern-type destroyers and the manning of two aircraft carriers and added: "This will add to the strength and effectiveness of the Canadian Navy."

His comment that these additions would give Canadians experience in handling larger ships after having served in a small ship navy was taken to mean a new offensive program for a navy that has been waging an increasingly successful defensive operation in protecting convoys carrying supplies to the battle fronts.

Other than adding that Canada would operate the carriers with her own officers and ratings with Britain suppiying planes and air personnel, Mr. MacDonald did not elaborate. However, a recent dispatch from Vancouver reported at least one of the carriers, in command of Capt. Horatio Nelson Lay, nephew of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, already had left for a battle zone.

410 Millions

His comprehensive review included this information:

1. The estimated expenditure for this year of $410,000,000 is about the same as was spent last year, when $489,000,000 was budgetted.

2. Personnel will be enlisted at the rate of 1,000 a month—the same as last year.

3. The navy now has 250 fighting ships, 450 auxiliary craft, a personnel total of about 80,000, 4,500 Wrens and a Sea Cadet enrolment of 13,700.

4. Training has been stepped up and more than 16,000 officers and ratings have been given courses at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis—the new mammoth training establishment at Deep Brook, N.S.—in less than a year.

5. Casualties in dead, wounded, missing and prisoners since the start of the war now number 1,300.

St. Lawrence Clear.

6. Not a single German submarine made an attack in the St. Lawrence or gulf last year but U-boats crept close enough to east coasts to lay mines on convoy routes leading to Halifax, resulting in the destruction of one ship.

Loses 4 Ships.

7. Last year the navy had a hand in the 'definite and certain' destruction of eight submarines and in the probable sinking or damaging of seven others. The "definite kills" include three to the credit of Canadian Corvettes in the Mediterranean.

8. Canada's main task last year continued to be escort work on the

Italian Fleet Operated By Own Officers

LONDON, March 9—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today that dispostion of "enemy or ex-enemy" fleets had best be left until the end of the war, but confirmed President Roosevelt's announcement that consideration was being given to reinforcement of the Soviet navy by Italian or other warships.

Answering a flood of questions, some of which asked if such announcements should not be made in concert by London and Washington in the future, Mr. Churchill indicated to the House of Commons that the Italian warships still were being operated by the Italian under the old arrangement.

"It may well be found that the general question of enemy and of ex-enemy fleet disposal should best be left over to the end of the war against both German and Japan when the entire situation can be surveyed by the victorious Allies and they and decide what is right and just to be done," he continued.

No Additional News

He added no details, however, to President Roosevelt's statement of March 3 that negotiations were about half completed for transfer of roughly one-third the Italian fleet to Russia except to say that no change was contemplated at present in the arrangements with Italian Naval authorities under which Italian ships and crews take part in the common struggle against the enemy in the theatres where they now operate.

The Prime Minister was plied with several questions concerning the Roosevelt announcement.

Referring to the initial Roosevelt announcement, Earl Winterton, Conservative, asked Mr. Churchill "does he think it highly desirable when statements of the greatest

U.S. Bombers Out Twice In Two Days

Fighter Escort Riddles Opposing Fleet

LONDON, March 9 (CP)—Berlin was bombed today for the second day in a row by heavy American bombers. The German capital was first attacked by American forces last Saturday and again set afire Monday. Strong forces fighters from the 8th and 9th Airforces escorted the bombers.

The first announcement gave no hint as to how today's bomber formations compared in strength with yesterday's raid on the German capital by at least 850 four-engined bombers.

First Berlin announcements did not mention "great aerial battles" as during the previous American raids and today's formations may have reached the city with comparatively minor resistance from German fighters. It was certain that the German air arm was experiencing one of the most exhausting weeks of the war.

Yesterday's operation, involving from 850 to 1,000 bombers meanwhile was disclosed to have taken a toll of 125 planes of the enemy's fighter forces.

Forty-two of these were shot down by the bombers and 83 by the swarm of American and Allied fighters.

This tally brought to 301 the number of enemy planes accounted for in two great sallies against the German capital, Monday and Wednesday.

Thirty-eight American bombers were lost, compared with 68 on Monday, while fighter losses totalled 15 instead of the 16 as first reported yesterday. Eleven fighters were lost Monday.

30,000 Tons.

Berlin has been shaken by more than 30,000 tons of bombs since the first big R.A.F. raid November 18.

In smashing furiously at the capital, the American forces have followed the pattern proved successful in earlier operations against Germany. Instead of spacing the raids over long periods and giving Hitler's air force a chance to rest and recuperate, they have pressed a furious assault on the capital within less than a week.

Experience has shown that German resistance grows weaker the longer raiding continues while the bombing operations themselves consequently grow easier.

In a concentrated operation like the series against German aircraft plants last month, Britons and Americans had the additional advantage of the ability to disperse the enemy's forces. Against Berlin, however, there has been a smashing drive over the same route day after day with the Americans depending on shattering blows to get through more easily each time.

"Our very strong fighter escort defeated them again," said a communique The score was 83 German planes shot down against 16 American fighters listed as missing.

Reds Move Again

LONDON, March 9.—(AP). — Premier Joseph Stalin in a special order of the day broadcast from Moscow announced to-day that the Russians have opened still another offensive on the Ukrainian front under Gen. Malinovsky.

40,000 Germans Casualties Since Jan. 31

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 9—(AP).—Fifth Army forces have inflicted 9,000 casualties on the Germans in and around Cassino since the end of January, bringing total enemy losses in Italy for that period to approximately 40,000, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Cassino casualties, including 1,500 captured and the remainder killed or wounded, were disclosed as a communique told of the repulse of two new minor German thrusts against Allied beachhead positions southeast of Carroceto.

German losses on the beachhead have been announced as about 24,000. In addition, the enemy has suffered other casualties at the hands of British troops along the Garigliano, at the hands of the French in the mountains north of Cassino, and on the 8th Army front.

Except for the two minor stabs on the beachhead, all fronts remained relatively quiet yesterday aside from routine patrolling, artillery duels, and a German night air raid on the beachhead in which anti-personnel bombs were dropped.

The weather was fair to cloudy yesterday and Allied aircraft got off on approximately 900 flights, including attacks on the harbor of Santo Stefona 80 miles northwest of Rome and blows against the rail yards at Orte north of the capital.

Dive-bombers hit rail and road targets at Montalto di Castro on the west coast about six miles above Rome while Spitfires and Kittyhawks attacked road traffic in the Rome area, destroying 21 enemy vehicles and damaging 10.

Despite the rain-soaked terrain, opposing forces on beachhead and 60 miles to the south-east in the Cassino area have engaged in many fierce machine-gun and mortar duels. It was disclosed, meanwhile, that New Zealand artillery had gone into action south of Cassino.

However, the difficulties produced by the bad weather were stress-

Welsh Mines Close; Crisis Looms

90,000 Coal Miners Now On Strike Situation Alarming

LONDON, March 9 (CP) — The coal strike in the rich Welsh fields spread to more alarming proportions today when a fresh wave of walkouts boosted the number of idle miners to 90,000 out of a total of 100,000.

One hundred sixty-five mines are now idle, depriving Britain's war industries or sorely needed coal and threatening to cripple the transport system.

The strike spread to the Swansea anthracite district his morning when 14 pits closed there.

The new walkouts dealt a severe blow to optimism engendered last night when it appeared that one of the chief obstacles to settlement of the dispute was removed at a conference of miners and operators presided over by Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George.

The Fuel Minister accepted an agreement between the miners and operators permitting extra pay for those working in excessive dust and water.

At the same time, the son of David Lloyd George—the "Little Welshman" who was Britain's leader in the First Great War—agreed that "certain other matters concerning allowances peculiar to South Wales would be considered" after the men have gone back to work.

Ignore Plea

Except in isolated instances, however, the miners ignored the Fuel Minister's appeal to return to the pits pending a full review of the wage problem. Two collieries resumed operations and two or three others were working with skeleton crews, but there was no general back-to-work move.

Editorial comment in the press reflected grave concern over the consequences of a strike at a time when the world is talking about a coming Allied offensive against Western Europe.

Not a pound of coal was being mined in the Aberdare Valley, where 6,500 men were idle.

The miners are protesting against the recent wage decision known as the Porter award which was an of-

Bulgars Forming Guerilla Bands

ISTANBUL, March 9 (AP) — An extensive guerilla army is growing in Bulgaria, where by springtime it is expected to be large enough to give considerable help to any Soviet or Anglo-American thrust into the Balkans.

Recruits have been drawn largely from Communists in urban areas and from army deserters. The Bulgarian guerillas, who call themselves Slef Shumatsi (Outlanders), are numerically weak and lack leadership, but in them lies the Allied hope that at the decisive moment the Bulgar Army may be persuaded to turn against the Germans.

The Shumatsi are expanding at the rate of 3,000 to 5,000 recruits a month They have an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 members, mostly in outlying villages or mountain-hideouts. Organized action awaits the development of suitable leadership.

Berlin Hub of Nazi Transport System

Industry-Studded Capital Bottleneck That Makes Hitler Vulnerable

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When word came through that American airmen had dumped 350,000 incendiaries and 10,000 high-explosive bombs into an already-shattered Berlin I was pondering the implicataions of the protest by some groups in Britain and America against so-called "obliteration" bombing of German cities.

What's the justfication for the assault on Berlin?

Well, there are two prime reasons, either of which is of vast military importance. One is that the capital is among Europe's greatest industrial cities and therefore one of Hitler's chief centres for war production. The other and even more important reason is that Berlin is the hub of Germany's huge network of railways, and prior to the war the Reich was operating a greater mileage than any other country in the world, in proportion to area.

Berlin is more than a railway "hub." It's a bottle-neck for most of the main lines running across not only Germany but Europe. Obviously this bottle-neck renders Hitler highly vulnerable. He must keep it open, for without transportation for his supplies and troops he is sunk

Guessed Wrong.

An important point about Berlin—and that is true of some other cities—is that the entire city is filled from circumference to centres with military objectives. If you wipe out these objectives you must just about destroy the town.

Transportation is one of German's weakest points. That's Hitler's fault. When he was preparing for war he allowed his infallible intuition to persuade him to neglect the railroads in favor of the mighty military highways which he built. It never occurred to him that the time would arrive when he would lack gas and rubber tires to keep his motor transport speeding over his beautiful autobahns.

He finally was compelled to place his main dependence once more on the despied railways and canals. By that time the roads had run down and their rolling-stock was in bad shape. So the Allied bombers went after the railways, and the locks and other vulnerable parts of the canals. Those canals are important, for Germany has been one of the world's greatest uses of this form of transport.

So with its railways and widespread industries Berlin is one vast military target. When bombers attack the Nazi capital they aren't trying to bomb objectives which aren't of military importance.

If civilians and historic monuments are in the way in Berlin—that's the war which the Nazi dictator forced upon the world. Berlin is the key position from which he has caused the slaughter of millions, military and civilian —from which he literally has enslaved many millions more.

Berlin is the chief citadel which stands between the Allies and victory.

Libel Act Amendment Dies

Harold Winch Says Papers Are Fair

VICTORIA, March 9 — (CP) — The British Columbia Legislature yesterday defeated on second reading a bill which would have compelled newspapers which publish statements about an individual to publish on request replies of reasonable length without delation or alternation.

The measure, in the form of an amendment to the Libel and Slander Act, was sponsored by former premier T. D. Pattullo (Ind-L-Prince Rupert). The only other supporter was Tom Uphill (Lab-Fernie) and the bill was defeated on a voice vote.

Harold Winch, C. C. F. opposition leader, said he had found that in the majority of cases the press "plays fair" and "if it has been unfair it will carry a statement of correction and retraction."

Mrs. Nancy Hodges (LC-Victoria) a working newspaperwoman, said it was fortunate that newspapers do not always print everything that is said in the Legislature. If they did, she said, members often would be shocked at publication of their own words.

Bombing Can't Beat Hitler

Russian General Calls For Land Battle

MOSCOW, March 9 — (AP). — Hitler will not fall from bombing alone, but by the "active operations of a land army of many millions in co-operation with air and sea forces," Lt.-Gen. Boris Sterligov declared in Red Star today in commenting on the Anglo-American air offensive against the Reich.

Sterligov said that in the beginning the attacks on Hitler's homeland might have been interpreted as revenge raids for the attacks on London, but it now was clear they have other purposes.

"Foreign military specialists say these operations are strategic bombing—designed to weaken the war effort, disrupt transport and break down morale," he said. "The role of the bomber is extremely great but it doesn't mean it can solve any strategic problems."

Some foreign observers seek to prove that by air raids it is possible completely to demoralize Hitlerite Germany, deprive it of the capacity to resist and eventually force it to capitulate. There is no necessity to disprove this theory because the battles of the Second World War have sufficiently proved the infallibility of the principle that the issues of the war can be decided only by the active operations of a land army of many millions in co-operation with air and sea forces."

He added that this did not reduce the significance of strategic aerial preparation for a land invasion.

Reds Reach Suburbs Of Ukraine Base

Cherni-Ostrov Falls To Strengthen Hold On Railway

LONDON, March 9—(CP)—Russian troops of the 1st Ukrainian front army battled the Germans today in the "vital enemy base" of Staro-Konstantinov after surging into the suburbs of that Southern Ukraine bastion yesterday and taking the district centre of Cherni-Ostrov 30 miles to the southeast.

Moscow announced last night that more than 3,000 Germans were killed in yesterday's fighting, and 100 communities captured by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's forces.

"Retreating under blows of the Soviet troops the Germans are abandoning tanks, guns and truck stuck in the mud," the communique said. "Particularly fierce engagements are going on in the town of Staro-Konstantinov, which is a vital enemy base."

The Russian forces which took Cherni-Ostrov battered down German counter-attacks. In the north also, the communique said, counter-attacking Germans were repelled when they lunged out near Narva in Estonia.

But the main fighting appeared to be in the Southern Ukraine where the Russians started a new offensive Saturday. The biggest prize has been cutting the Odessa-Lwow railway. The hold on the railway was strengthened by yesterday's capture of Cherni-Ostrov, 26 miles east of Volochisk.

The drive was being contested stubbornly by the Germans and apparently was losing speed.

Reduce Corridor

Capture of Cherni-Ostrov was followed by the storming of Gruzhevista, four miles farther east and only 7 miles from Proskurov. This narrowed the escape corridor for the Germans fighting in the Staro-Konstaninov area to a 26-mile-long gap between Gruzhevista and Volosovtsy.

Field Marshal Fritz von Mannstein threw great reserves of tank forces and infantry against the surging Red Army advance, Moscow said, but was hurled back on all sectors.

Staro-Konstaninov is the midway station on the railway running from Shepetovka and Proskuov and a main prop of the entire Nazi defence system in the area. It has been outflanked by the capture of Volosovtsy, 16 miles to the southeast, but the rail line to Proskurov is still in German hands and is a possible escape route if that town holds.

The Russian communique failed to mention the progress of Red Army troops converging on the junction city of Tarnopol, 60 miles west of Proskurov on the Odessa-Warsaw line. They were last reported within nine miles of that city.

SPLIT COMING?—With Uruguay and Paraguay reported ready to join Bolivia and Chile in recognising the Argentine Government of General Edelmiro Farrell, some observers fear that a split in Pan-American solidarity may result.

Council To Pay $10 Wolf Bounty

EMILY, March 9 (ENS)—Emily municipal council meeting this week in the Farmers' Club Rooms, Omemee, passed a motion to pay a bounty of $10 for each wolf killed in the township after Tuesday of this week. Any person killing a wolf is to produce and deposit with the Clerk a certificate from the County Treasurer that he has actually killed a wolf in the area of the township.

It was also moved at the meeting, presided over by Reeve Paul J. McGuire and with Councillors Vincent Fee, George Magee, Thomas Morrissey and J. Milton Thurston in attendance, "that the Township of Emily in conjunction with the Township of Verulam ask that the Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges be urged to take into consideration the advisability of requesting the Department of Public Highways of Ontario to assume the responsibility of taking over that portion of the County Road from Provincial Highway No. 36 at Dunsford southerly to Provincial Highway No. 7 at Omemee, as a provincial highway." A copy of the motion was to be forwarded to the Council of Verulam township for their approval and support.

Communications from W. R. Grosskurth, warning the council of a possible shortage of snow fence material and urging placing of orders early in the season, and from Alex S. Leith and Co. accepting the appointment as Auditor, were read and tabled for further discussion. Also, transfer of the south half of Lot 3, Concession 10, from S.S. No. 4 to S.S. No. 12 was requested by Joseph and Mrs. Simon O'Connell.

School orders from School Sections 7, 12 and 15, amounting to $100, $100 and $200 respectively, were received; and miscellaneous expenses totalling $33.41 were presented. Road accounts as presented by Walter Herlihey were approved and ordered paid by the treasurer in the amount of $57.36.

The council adjourned until Tuesday, April 4, at one o'clock.

Feels Like Different Person Since Syntona Built Him Up

Was Fatigued And Rundown After Suffering Years With Poor Indigestion; Had Pains In Back, Joints and Muscles. Tells of Improved Health.

"After the way Syntona has helped me, I can plainly see why so many people are talking about this medicine," said Mr. Robert J. Watson, Dorchester, Ontario, in a recent report.

"My stomach had been in such a disordered condition for many years and I felt that my entire system had become rundown and weakened. Food just seemed to ferment in my stomach and cause gas, cramps and sour acid risings. This gas gave me a full, heavy, bloated feeling and I often got dizzy spells with dark spots dancing before my eyes. Then rheumatic pains set in my back, joints and muscles, until I felt sore and lame all over. Many nights I couldn't get my proper sleep, because of the pain, so I felt tired and fatigued from the time I got up in the morning.

"After trying many different medicines without any real results, I was advised to try Syntona and I am glad to say I felt definitely better from the first bottle. Now, after a few more weeks on this medicine, I have come back to tell you that I feel like a different person. For the first time in years I am enjoying my meals without fear of gas and indigestion afterwards. I got relief from the dizzy feelings and the aches and pains have gone away. Then, too, my nerves are more relaxed, so I get a good night's sleep and my entire system feels built up and improved."

MR. ROBERT J. WATSON

Syntona is made from the pure liquid extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbal Plants. It acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels . . . aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.

Victory Gardens Arousing More Interest

Membership of the Horticultural Society has been stimulated by the quickened interest in its works and especially in the promotion of victory gardens by the recent address of George Rush of Toronto.

The attendance that night was one of the largest in a long time, and the Society is grateful to the firm of Belleghem and Son for supplying fifty extra chairs.

Winners of the door prizes were Mrs. Eric Edmondson, Ray Steele and Harry L. Beal. W. C. Wilks reports that new members have been signing up since that meeting last week, and there is more interest than ever in the planning for victory gardens.

To enliven the interest of new members, the Society intends to draft new classes for them in the competitions which have been arranged for this summer. Prizes will be in War Savings Stamps. Announcement of these competitions which are designed to keep interest at a top level will be made in the near future, Mr. Wilks said.

Asked For Increase.

"Canada has been asked for to increase her vegetable production by 19 per cent; root vegetables by 15 per cent and potatoes by 5 per cent. With the shortage of labor and the lack of farm machinery, Victory Gardeners can do a great deal to overcome this handicap, and the time of decision is now," Mr. Wilks said.

"One of the premiums the Society is offering its members this year is a collection of garden seeds, a whole range that is given to members who make that premium selection.

Members can also obtain a discount of 20 per cent off all flowers and vegetable seed by having their orders signed by the secretary of the Society.

The public is invited to an illustrated talk March 15 by J. Bickerstaff, James Stevenson and F. S. Taylor of the Toronto Aquarium Society. There will be door prizes of an aquarium planted and stocked with fish. This meeting will be held in the office of F. C Paterson of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Dan M. Johnston To Address Farmers

On the invitation of Peterborough District Co-operative Services, Dan M. Johnson of the Department of Colonization and Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways will address a meeting of farmers on the subject of the possibility of markets for agricultural products in Europe at Co-Op Hall Monday March 13 at 2.15 p.m. Mr. Johnson is coming to Peterborough to address Rotary Club. Farmers would have been invited to the dinner, but his subject was considered of such importance to farmers that the desired attendance was too large for hotel dining room accommodation. It was hoped that the Co-Op Hall would be crowded with farmers who wish to hear Mr. Johnson's discussion of post-war agricultural trade based on fifteen years' experience in Europe.

importance affecting the whole course of the world are made that they should so far as possible be made simultaneously by the head of State in this country and of the United States?"

The Prime Minister replied, it is not for me to lay down the rules of this matter which affects many countries all over the world and which are governed by circumstances and conditions prevailing in them."

Leslie Hore-Belisha asked if Mr. Churchill would "arrange when announcements of this importance are made that they be made in a concerted manner . . . . Would it be possible to make them as a concerted statement in Washington and London simultaneously?"

Give No Undertaking

"No," Mr. Churchill answered, "I certainly couldn't give any undertaking of that character. I think the complete and close agreement which prevails not only in principle but on methods between Great Britain and the United States is of the greatest importance to all our affairs at the present time."

Aneurin Bevan, Labor, asked, "Is it not a fact that the method chosen on this occasion to make this announcement has been to the great disadvantage of the British public because following the statement made in America all the newspapers in Great Britain were asked to make no comment if possible on the matter although the newspapers in every other country in the world have been discussing it for six or seven days?"

"I think it was very good of the press to help in that way," said Mr Churchill.

"Yes," Bevan commented, "but it leads to abuse."

MANY DIFFICULTIES, delays and tenacious obstacles may be the means of impeding and postponing desired objectives, unless a most decisive, strenuous and aggressive mode of procedure be brought to bear upon depressing and frustrating circumstances. However, unreasonable force or over-zealous tactics are not likely to gain objectives, and there is little encouragement to be expected from employers, superiors, elders or others, who may insist on progressive and constructive policies before rendering assistance. Safeguard the health and personal safety, of self and family.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of delays, impediments and obstacles, difficult to overcome, especially there is meagre hope of assistance from elders, employers or superiors. Strangers may lend a more friendly ear. But persistent effort, patience, restraints but decisive and practical efforts to marshal constructive skills and talents may create a sound base for future success. Meantime shun accident, reckless acts and take care of the personal safety and that of the family. Possibly such impediments may vanish.

A child born on this day should be given early training to meet reversals and obstacles, by careful education, and development of potential skills with particular consideration for its health and safety.

W. W. Dawson Urges Joining Federation

LONDON, Ont., March 9—(CP).—Joining the Federation of Agriculture as "the only method we have at the present time of helping ourselves" was advocated by W. W. Dawson, Peterborough, before the Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen (Western Branch) at the second day of their 30th annual convention here today. Mr. Dawson is president of the Eastern Branch of the Brotherhood.

Delbert Downs, Hornby, was re-elected president and all other officers but one were returned to office. David Bennett, Dutton, remains 1st vice-president; Harvey Lyon, Oakville, 2nd vice-president; and F. E. Deshaw, Muirkirk, secretary-treasurer.

Rural people must unite and cooperate to gain their ends, said Mr. Dawson, and through the Federation of Agriculture "any farmer can have his burdens put on the floor of the House at Ottawa."

Lindsay Curlers Win Junior Tankard

TORONTO, March 9—(CP). — A rink of young curlers from Lindsay, skipped by D. Williams, yesterday won the Ontario Junior Tankard, defeating R. G. Green's Agincourt rink. The Williams rink held a 19-1 lead at the 10th end when Green conceded the game. It was the fifth win for a Lindsay rink since the competition started in 1927.

Urges Teaching Christianity Not Religion

TORONTO, March 9 (CP)—Another night sitting of the Ontario Legislature tonight is expected to see the conclusion of the throne speech debate which started Feb. 23. Five more speakers, representing the three major parties, were heard in day and night sessions Wednesday.

Highlight of the night debate was the declaration by R. A. McEwing (L-Wellington North) that Premier Drew holds in his own hand the key to whether or not there will be an early election. He said he could see no reason why the Progressive Conservative government, despite its lack of an over-all majority, could not go on governing for some time. Then he added: "But if he (Premier Drew) should persist in introducing legislation which this legislature cannot support, he alone will cause an election, and I would warn him that the people are not in any temper at present for an election."

The Wellington member termed not in the interests of "true democracy" the practice whereby the House would be dissolved if a government bill were defeated. He believed that only defeat of a vote of confidence should mean dissolution and otherwise the government should go on for an allotted definite time—"say four or five years."

Drop Religious Education

Mr. McEwing urged the government to drop the term "religious education" in its proposed program in the schools and substitute "the teaching of Christianity."

There were many religions but only one Christianity.

He urged continuance and enlargement of youth training schools in peace time. He was critical of C.C.F. efforts to speak for the farmers when they had only about four farmer representatives in their group.

He said Dr. T. T. Shields, minister of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, "does not teach Christianity as I believe it."

He added: "If we had a Canada full of men like Dr. Shields, we would never have a united Canada. He teaches sectionalism. What I want taught is Christianity and to my mind he is not teaching it."

An eastern Ontario vetrean, Aurelien Belanger (L-Prescott) interjected a plea for national unity between the French and Engl[illegible] speaking Canadians. He de[illegible] the origin of the French-Ca[illegible] and spoke of their great att[illegible] to Canada.

60 Hun Planes Attack Convoy

ALGIERS, March 9 —(AP)—A strong force of German aircraft attacked an Allied convoy off the coast of North Africa, it was announced today, but Allied airmen knocked down five of the attackers and damaged two others.

French fighter pilots destroyed one Junkers-88 in the first wave and R.A.F. Beaufighters entering the fray thereafter accounted for four more.

Algiers was put on the alert and a heavy anti-aircraft barrage was cast up.

It was said authoritatively that about 60 German planes participated in the attack but failed to damage any ships. Two Allied aircraft were lost.

Japs Storming Los Negros Are Wiped Out

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 9 (AP)—United States forces fighting on three invasion fronts around the Bismarck Sea have crushed Japanese opposition in New Guinea and the Admiralty Islands and are holding against strong enemy counter-attacks in New Britain, the Allied communique said today.

Japanese troops aboard a small barge fleet failed to dent the 1st Cavalry division's positions north of Momote airdrome on Los Negros Island, in the Admiralty group, Tuesday night. Not one barge reached shore.

Marine invaders of Willaumez Peninsula on the North New Britain coast had consolidated their holdings and were slugging it out Monday night with counter-attacking Nipponese, who had recovered from the surprise of the almost unopposed landing on the morning of that day.

Thirty-second Division troops have seized complete control of the north-eastern New Guinea coast for 38 miles west of Saidor, in their drive for the enemy base at Madang, now 28 airline miles away.

The Japanese barge movement against Los Negros followed a weak night aerial attack on American positions around Momote airdrome, now used by Allied combat planes.

The Americans extended their

Urge Growers To Learn Facts

COBOURG, March 9.—(ENS).—Northumberland county grows a great variety of cash crops and the commodity organization has shown itself to be most useful for all concerned in the industry. The apple growers' association has functioned for 33 years and has done much to keep the orchardists up to the latest information in the production of fruit. The tomato growers have carried on for some time and have assisted materially in maintaining the industry at a fair production and price level.

The raspberry growers considered their situation at a meeting held this week in the Brighton office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It is felt that further organization is desirable for the pea, corn, bean and possibly cabbage growers and the executive of the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture is contemplating holding meetings in that connection in the near future. Too frequently in past years the farmer has had no information as to market demands and consequently could not shape his acreage and production.

Lack of information, it is said, had much to do with the glut on the market and the tendency to lower prices to ridiculous levels.

"It is true that no one can estimate what nature may produce but there is little doubt that, based on a long-time average, intelligent farmers with the facts before them can somewhat shape their business with more satisfaction to all concerned," stated R. C. Banbury, Northumberland County agricultural representative.

Plan Distribution Of New Ration Book

COBOURG, March 9 (ENS) — Distribution dates for the new ration books were set at a meeting here on Tuesday night with representatives of Cobourg and the four neighbouring townships present. Mayor Jack Burnet, Mrs. F. Spooner, Mrs. Edith Winter, Mrs. M. S. Peters and Mrs. J. W. Spragge were present from Cobourg and also present were Reeve W. Cole of Hamilton Township, Reeve Alex Stephens of Haldimand Township and Reeve H. Davidson of Alnwick. It was pointed out that if the books are not called for in the specified dates at the end of the month, no new books will be obtainable for two weeks.

Lakefield WMS Has $50 On Hand

LAKEFIELD, March 9—(ENS).—Mrs. W. W. Leonard was hostess to members of the W.M.S. of Lakefield United Church on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. H. Kemp presided for the meeting, the theme being "The Bible, a Guide for Daily Living." The treasurer, Mrs. Percy Spence, reported $50 on hand. Mrs. Jory, Mrs. D. H. Charlton, and Mrs. Roy Brown were appointed representatives of the W.M.S. to meet delegates from the other women's organizations to make arrangements for a joint meeting.

A committee was appointed to choose a program for the Easter thankoffering meeting, and was made up of Mrs. G. Kelly, Mrs. P. Darling, Mrs. J. McKerchar, and Mrs. L. Quakenbush.

Mrs. Yale took the study book. This chapter compared the life of the people in China and India to conditions in Canada. The Gospel in these countries has to be taken into the homes. If the women are not Christians the missionaries cannot convert the men.

The roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture on prayer. Mrs. C. Tanner closed the meeting with prayer.

Tea was served by Mrs. Leonard, assisted by Mrs. H. Sherin and Mrs. E. Millage.

at the home of Mrs. Melville Ball.

Mrs. George Hetherington has closed her home on Tupper street, and gone to Toronto to spend the remainder of the winter with nieces and nephews.

Competition In Oats Planned This Year

COBOURG, March 9.—(ENS). — Sufficient seed for grain sowing is expected this year in Northumberland county, states Ralph C. Banbury, county agricultural representative. The Wooler, Campbellford and Brighton agricultural societies are sponsoring field crop competitions with oats, and other societies in the county are considering this project.

The Quinte Seed District Show has usually given good leadership and found many sources of good seed, Mr. Banbury states. This year, however, the event is considerably changed. A car load of Ajax seed oats was brought in and has been distributed and the usual display will be replaced by a seed judging competition and program of production talks at Belleville on March 11. In the judging, Northumberland county will be represented by ten boys. Most of these are being chosen this year from a group of Hamilton township lads and some coaching is being given by Mr. Banbury.

Collectors Roll Open Till Date Of April 1

BONARLAW, March 9—(ENS)—The Rawdon Township Council met in the Town Hall at Harold this week, Reeve W. J. Tanner presiding and one councillor absent.

The following motions were adopted: That the collector's roll be left open until April 1 to give the taxpayers a chance to get their 1943 taxes paid; that delegates to the Good Roads Convention rereport be received and adopted and expenses paid; that delegates to the Rural Municipal Convention report be received and adopted and expenses paid; that road voucher No. 2 for $144.88 be paid; that the auditor's report be adopted and his salary of $90 be paid; that the tractor and air compressor be insured for $4,000 with Arthur Wilson.

During an adjournment the members of the Board of Health met. The Conucil adjourned to meet on Monday, April 3, at 1 p.m.

Garden Hill Soldier Killed On Anzio Front

TORONTO, March 9. — Transferring from the R.C.A. to the 1st Canadian Special Service Force (paratroops), Sgt. Arthur G. Palmer has been killed in action in Italy, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Elvira Palmer, 404 St. Clarens Avenue. In the Aleutians before going to Africa last fall, Sgt Palmer was 29 years of age. He enlisted in 1941 and transferred to the paratroops in 1942. A son Thomas, 7, survives. A brother Joseph lives in Barrie. Born and educated at Garden Hill, near Port Hope, Sgt. Palmer was in the employ of the Toronto Carpet Company when he enlisted.

Seymour Friends Honor Newlyweds

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9 — (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McCulloch, (nee Florence Bertrand) whose wedding took place in Toronto recently, were entertained at a post nuptial shower given in their honour on Monday evening. The affair was arranged by friends of the groom including Don Clark, Frank Dunham and Robert Kelly, and took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCullock, Seymour West. Upwards of eighty-five guests from Campbellford and Seymour attended and the bride and groom were the recipients of many lovely gifts. The evening was spent in dancing and cards and refreshments were served at the close.

Cobourg Campaign Is $8500 Below Objective

COBOURG, March 9 (ENS) — Returns have not come in from all the canvassers to date in the Red Cross campaign for funds here but the total for most of the town is $2,500. The drive ends this week-end and the objective for Cobourg and Hamilton Township is $10,000. Last year the canvass amounted to $8,500. Returns have been slow from rural canvassers due to bad roads.

Our Legacy Of Hatred

It has been suggested from several quarters that the means which the United Nations are using now to carry on the war will create a legacy of hatred in Germany which will haunt our children and our children's children. Lord Lang, the former Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Bishop of Chichester have protested against the technique of aerial bombing which is being used against Germany. Cardinal Villeneuve has made a strong plea that Rome be spared the devastation of war; he has said that the future would never pardon the power which struck at Rome, whatever the cause.

We feel that there is a middle ground between these views and out-and-out Vansittartism. And we are completely convinced that the commanders and the troops of the United Nations have no pleasure whatever in destruction. But they are in a most difficult position, for they are up against an enemy who does enjoy destruction and always has done so. During the past century the wars in which the Germans have been implicated have been remarkable for the amount of wanton destruction done by their troops. Nobody wants to harm Rome in any way. It will not be necessary to harm it if the Germans are prepared to surrender the city, or distract the fighting from it. But we cannot stand idle on the outskirts of Rome while the Germans sit inside it and laugh at us. Rome has always been a fighting city, and has known hard days before this. Is Rome, in the twentieth century, to be treated like an old lady who must be guarded against any struggle, particularly when the enemy hides behind her skirts?

In war, there are always moral issues which cannot be clarified, and which have to be decided by the rough-and-ready arbitrament of the battlefield. Bombing cities filled with civilians is wrong, certainly. It is also wrong to lay seige to great cities filled with irreplaceable antiquities. But is it not an even greater wrong to let these things impede a fight against a mighty evil? When this war ends we shall have a legacy of hate in Germany, make no mistake about it. Dare we jeopardize the outcome in order that the legacy may be a little less poisonous than otherwise?

"Dear Mr. Editor—"

In a tone of gentle wistfulness the Ottawa Journal writes about the Letters To The Editor which appear in English papers. Why, it asks, do not Canadian papers receive those interesting but peculiar communications from fishermen, cricketers, organizers of Married Women's Associations, objectors to the manufacture of babies' soothers, and the like? Why are our letter columns so frequently filled with acrimonious or wrong-headed tirades about politics or economics? We have wondered the same thing. We get quite a number of good letters at the Examiner, but they are too often written by someone who has an axe to grind and who wants to grind it as sharp as possible. Hobbyists and collectors of curious bits of information and scholarship never seen to write to us at all.

Reflecting on this matter we have turned over the pages of an English paper which lies at hand, The New Statesman and Nation; it appeals to a special public of what might be called intellectual grumblers—the sort of person who is called a 'sourpuss' here and a 'nark' in England. The letters are about the future of aviation, postwar housing, liberty and anti-Semitism, and war atrocities—much, in fact, what might be found in a literary paper on this continent. But a handy copy of the Sunday Times is richer in interesting letters. There are people who want to air their views about War and Soil, Trial for Atrocities, Hitler's Power, and the like, but there are also those who write about Music and Reconstruction, Modern Biography and the Discontented Farmer; in Canada we should not even dare to hint that a farmer was discontented, or anything but 100 per cent. right, for fear of the letters which we should receive.

A gentleman writes to the Times suggesting that the word "hullo" should be spelled that way, and not "hello"; he becomes quite scholarly on the subject. Three numismatists write about British coins, showing a good deal of learning and enthusiasm. Not long ago we read an interesting letter in the Times which explained all that was known about Tullia's lamp, which is said to have burned in a tomb for a thousand years. Last autumn an excellent series of letters appeared from domestic servants, discussing the pleasures and drawbacks of their work. It is all excellent reading.

Like the Journal we should be glad to get some letters of this kind. But we are not optimistic about it.

What Do Doctors Think?

In spite of all the discussion which is going on at present about state medicine, health insurance schemes for Dominion and province, and the like, we hear extraordinarily little from the doctors. Without a doubt the medical profession is as interested in the subject as it is possible to be; after all, it is one of the parties chiefly concerned. Without attempting anything in the nature of a survey we have tried to get opinions from a few doctors, and they tend to say, "Oh, there is no use discussing state medicine; it's a foregone conclusion; we have as good as got it already".

We disagree completely. We have not as good as got it already. The discussions of it are still tentative and the plans concerning it are still nebulous. But if we take the attitude that state medicine is inevitable we shall certainly get it. What the public wants to know is this: Would state medicine be a really good thing in the long run? That is a question upon which the medical profession is qualified to offer opinions of first-rate importance.

On this subject we should like to reprint the views of one of the most eminent of British physicians, Viscount Dawson of Penn, as they recently appeared in The Canadian Hospital:

"There are few callings in which there is so big a gap between routine and the best work as in medicine, and no profession needs to be so elastic in its government if it is to be dynamic, not static.

"Its front line of knowledge is always mobile and often advancing; the men working there need freedom for initiative and should be unfettered by the formulae of administration and may be, on the other hand, by the demands of practice.

"And the same considerations hold in the sphere of clinical practice, for though we need ordered planning we must strive to avoid any cast-iron uniformity. Rather do we seek unity amidst diversity; for man, whatever his political colour, is individual, and in illness even more so than in health, and his doctor must remain an individual and not become an official.

"It is here that medical planning is up against its crucial difficulty, in that it requires collectivism for its fabric and individualism for human relationships. And individualism will not flourish easily within the rigid boundaries of a state service, but needs the freer atmosphere which belongs to the voluntary hospitals' tradition; for in the difficult condition of a greatly changing world doctors will need not only knowledge but understanding if they are to guide bodies and minds along the straight road of health and content".

Those are the words of one eminent doctor, and they seem to us to hit the nail on the head. Is state medicine likely to turn the doctor into a civil servant? Is it likely to hold back the first-rate doctor, or the occasional doctor of genius, and bolster up and inflate the incompetent doctor and the faddist?

As Lord Dawson points out, we are all individualists when we are ill, and we want an individual whom we respect and like as our medical attendant, and not a state employee who ranks with the assessor and the tax-collector. We feel that it is time the doctors spoke up for themselves, and for us. Because, in the long run we, the public, will be the persons chiefly affected.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Dr. Goebbels says, "Life in Germany is not luxurious". This is to set right any Germans who imagined that it was.

A book has just appeared called "How To Prepare Your Income Tax", by Lancelot Smith. It is described by the publisher as "up-to-the-minute, practical, clear, accurate", and thus differs markedly from our personal reckoning, which is quite the opposite of all these.

General Farrell, the new president of Argentina, says that his supporters only seized power in the country in order to make sure that the people did not make a mistake when the elections were held. That sounds like the way Hitler used to run his elections, when he bothered with such trifles.

Writing of the proposed health insurance scheme a contemporary says: "Those who will benefit most will be those who now hesitate to call the doctor because of their modest means". Looking through his account book, many a doctor will wonder where these modest souls are to be found.

(The fourth in a series of letters to a son in the armed services)

Cedar Hill, March -th, 1944.

MY DEAR SON: This writing is being made, my son, in the silent watches of a weary night. Around our homestead a moaning, sighing wind is blowing a March gale and pounding gusts press hard against the windward walls of this our Cedar Hill. Storm-lashed, streaming rain beats at its windows. The fire in the grate burns fitfully and uncheerily. Your dog, Mike, aware in shrewd instinctiveness that all is not well with us, crouches before the fire and makes warning noises in his shaggy throat.

Since noon today—or rather yesterday—there has been about your home a hushed and sad anxiety. Your grandfather is feeling the weight of his burden of years and has become very tired. So tired that we fear the outcome. At his age the sombre odds are all against his being with us long. And all is done that can be done. The doctor has been and gone and we watch and wait. A nurse has installed herself in your Grandfather's room and I have prevailed upon your mother and your brother Peter and your sister Sara to retire for what remains of the night. Presently I too shall rest upon the couch here in this old room which is part of the original Cedar Hill planned and so sturdily built by the old gentleman who lies, so tired now, in the adjoining room.

WITH the certainty that your Grandfather would have it so I take up here where we left off in last week's letter. The old gentleman was keenly interested in this method of acquainting you with the current Canadian scene and your interest as displayed in your inquiring letters was immensely pleasing to him. And to me, my boy.

My last letter, you recall, included a brief summarization of the political situation. An analysis was attempted of the two opposing schools of political and economic thought. Our present system of democracy was described and compared with that entirely opposite scheme of things so favoured by the socialists. Let us in this letter make appraisal of what has been accomplished by each of these two forces.

A LONG and tedious paper might be written on the more or less successful application of the principles of socialism as applied in foreign countries. I find it hard to see conclusive proof that Russia would not have prospered more had she chosen our way and method. Perhaps because her people had for centuries suffered such misgovernment that individual thinking is impossible, a system of directed thought along one narrow channel is best for her. It is a certain fact that people of this nation have been whipped into effective and enormous effort in the prosecution of the war. The aftermath of war is yet to strike and try them.

What can be said for Hitler and his particularly murderous brand of socialism? And the dead thing that was socialism in war-torn Italy? And the starving kind that Franco has presented to his people? All born of human slaughter, pillage and destruction. Only an anguished God looking down on his creation can forgive the vast defilement and provide for better futures.

It has been said, mistakenly, by those wishing to introduce socialism to the Canadian people that theirs' is not the usual kind of socialism. It may be they are sincere in mind and thought. But Canadian people are in the main agreed, disguise it as they will, it still remains beneath the sugar coating a foreign, bitter and unnecessary pill.

LET us consider why this socialism is unwanted and unnecessary. Let us forget for the moment its evil aspects and confine our probing to its published scheme of economic planning. It becomes evident at a glance that there is nothing they would do of a nature beneficial to our people that cannot be accomplished in our ordered way of democratic living. It seems that they but hasten to describe some ill that needs attention that in the haste this ill shall not have vanished in the light of ordered progress.

The democracy native to the soil of our dominion has succeeded well in furthering its design that progress toward a fuller life as it concerns the individual should never be impeded. Within the memory of the middle-aged there have been effected enmorous changes for the better. Great power projects give us light in ever cheapening quantity; the finest railway systems in the world transport our goods; permanent highways by the thousand miles replace the dusty roads our fathers knew; industries, large and small, supply our needs and more; our natural resources of mine and forest and sea have been surveyed and tapped. All this in the way of ordered progress that the individual may benefit from the effort of other individuals.

AND that the Canadian of today and of today and tomorrow shall not suffer for lack of social service our government is today enacting the necessary legislation to achieve this worthy purpose. We Canadians, proud of being such, are determined that the right shall not be denied of every citizen to a good home; a sound education; adequate protection from the fears of old age, sickness and unemployment; adequate medical care and the opportunity to achieve and enjoy good health; the right to earn enough to provide adequate food and clothing and recreation. The returning soldier is not forgotten, I assure you. All authorities, federal, provincial and municipal, are planning for his future welfare. All this is progress from the day when the Biblical quotation "the poor always ye have with you" was overworked from being used as excuse for doing little to improve their lot. In this Canada of the present planning there shall be no poor. That is our future way of life.

And now, my boy, I rest a little. If your Grandfather should not rally from this tiredness of age I would ask that you not too deeply grieve. It is certain he would not desire that we mourn his passing at great length. He would rather we remember him not as a cherished object of the past but as still living in the heritage he passes to our trust and keeping. As a champion of the cause of individual man he is immensely proud of what he has accomplished. As the founder of this many-acred Cedar Hill, in the striving for the wherewithal to build it, he found content. We in our turn must assume responsibility for this our family share in Canada.

Goodnight, son John.

Canada's Drink Bill

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

A STATEMENT by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that Canada's annual liquor bill has climbed from a pre-war $133,000,000 to $250,000,000 — $23 for every man, woman and child in the country.

That, on its face, seems bad, but, in all fairness, it is not as bad as it seems. War liquor costs more, a great deal more, than pre-war liquor. It costs more because it is taxed more; so that when a man buys a bottle of liquor the money doesn't all go to our old friend John Barleycorn; the great bulk of it goes to Mr. Ilsley to help pay for the war. That's where a big part of that $250,000,000 drink bill did go. We were drinking more, but because we were paying a great deal more for the more that we did drink, with the reason taxes, the consequent increased bill makes it appear that we had all gone on a spree. Which we didn't.

Robert Low, a British Chancellor of the Exchequer, citing increased excise revenue, said that the British people had "drunk themselves out of debt". We wouldn't want to argue that the people of Canada, paying over $250,000,000 for liquor, were making a necessary war contribution, or that in doing so they were concerned chiefly with patriotism. They weren't. Nevertheless, they did pay in that particular way a great deal extra into the treasury; even though they made us all seem to be drunkards in the process.

Actually, there is a great deal of mental confusion over these statements which appear from time to time telling what this thing or that "costs the country". We read that sickness costs us so much, or some other thing costs us so much, and reading it we get the idea that the money is a total loss; lost as though it were thrown into the ocean. It isn't. All that such figures mean is that a certain sum of money was spent on a certain thing, but with the money merely changing hands, going for the most part into work or wages, or to pay for material or transportation or for other services, and being used in turn for some other purpose or activity. It is what the economists call "velocity" in money; a sort of turnover.

Rumours In Wartime

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

IT was the dark days of August, 1914, when the Germans seemed to be crumbling the thin lines that lay between them and the open coasts of England. But a heartening rumour came to bring relief. An army of 100,000 Russian troops had come to England by way of Archangel to reinforce the critical Allied position on the Western Front. There could be little doubt that this was true, for they had been seen at several points. From South Gloucestershire came the report that they were at Avonmouth. They were then seen at Oxford station as their troop trains pulled through on the way to Southampton. Then, from the Isle of Wight, the steamers crowded with these Russian reinforcements were seen emerging from Southampton water on their way to France.

But as the days passed, these 100,000 Russians vanished into the thinnest of air. Despite all these eyewitnessed details, they had been no more than a rumour.

The last war was crowded with such rumours, which, though they had no basis in fact, are themselves now historical facts. In the midst of this present war, they can be studied with interest and profit.

From December 16, 1917, to January 28, 1918, bomb-weary London was strangely spared from air raids. This was all the more remarkable as the January moon rounded to the full, casting a clear light over London's vast panorama. Where were the German planes? The question had its answer. A new protective invention had been produced by British scientists working in co-operation with the War Office. Many of its details had become known. The air raids that had brought such sorrow to Britain's capital had been conquered by superior British science.

But on January 28 came another aerial visitation in the usual style, and the wonderful invention faded in the face of a very sad reality.

Why is it that rumours, though certainly not unknown in peace, grow with such singular vigour in war? There is more than one answer.

For one thing, war immensely increases that vacuum or void which rumour attempts to fill. In peace time the uninhabited reporting of fact kills most rumours soon after birth. But in time of war censorship necessarily withholds or delays the release of news. The public is faced with great developments, in which it is profoundly involved, but concerning which it knows that it cannot be promptly or fully informed. When the facts cannot be known, their place is supplied by imagination.

More deeply, however, rumours are to be explained as an attempt to project into concrete shape the anxiety that presses upon the mind. Rumour is, in fact, only a collective expression of the tendency which the individual knows well in his own experience. When in anxiety, the mind quite spontaneously alternates between fear and hope. Nor does fear or hope remain long formless. Rather, it shapes in phantasy a possible situation. If fear dominates, there is a dark representation of the worst. If hope wins the ascendancy, there is a wish-fulfilling phantasy, in which the obstacles that are so intolerable in their reality are swiftly overpowered.

This, of course, does not in any way lessen the very true fact that rumours are also deliberately spread by the enemy. But apart from such enemy activities, there remains that vast range of rumour that originates simply in that projection of fear and hope which is part of the ordinary experience of every individual.

If this fact is realized, then rumours, being better understood, may be better controlled. We may recognize that the phantasies that fill the tense wartime void are no more than the same sort of phantasies that we experience within ourselves in the fact of our own private anxieties. Since rumours are such human phenomena, nothing will ever quite succeed in stopping them. But if they are recognized for what they are, and are not lend any objective reality, then most of their very real potential harm may be quite effectively removed.

Out of the Mouths of Babes

Joel Kupperman, the 7-year-old Euclid of the Quiz Kids, has just earned himself the distinction of being the first public figure to look upon the current federal income tax blanks with an unruffled brow. After a taxpayer has set down the necessary income and tax figures, said Joel in New York the other day, "Just do simple mathematics—why, it's nothing at all."

This remark ought to produce sharp anguish, not only for plain, or nonmathematical citizens, but for the several government experts who have come up with different answers to identical tax blanks. What makes it particularly pain-provoking is that one can't dismiss Joel, as one might 99.9 per cent of the nation's tots, by saying, "He should talk. He doesn't have to worry about income taxes." On the contrary, the little fellow was making $2,000 a week in Hollywood early last fall, the kind of money that appeals strongly to the collector of internal revenue.—Chicago Sun.

Mr. Hepburn Seeks an Office

There's an old saying about "shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves in three generations," but such a protracted process would never appeal to Mr. Mitchell F. Hepburn, one-time Premier of Ontario. Mr. Hepburn, reversing the direction of the rags to riches formula, is now reduced to asking for an office at Queen's Park, to enable him to dictate in privacy.

This is a pretty state of affairs for one who not very long ago had the head office, and was himself able to exercise some control over who should or should not be granted the boon of privacy for their labours. Even the two Labour-Progressive members now have a private office—and "Mitch" is reduced to using the lounge of the Liberal party.

We hope some provision is made for Mr. Hepburn. He deserves the courtesy and even a man of Mr. Hepburn's affability occasionally gets tired of the boisterous good fellowship evident at all times in the Liberal lounge.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

A Bible Message

Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart....

Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass....For evildoers shall be cut off; but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth....

Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell for evermore....

I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and, lo, he was not: yea, I sought him, but he could not be found.

Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace. (Ps. 37: 3, 4, 7, 9, 27, 35-37.)

Letters To The Editor

FAVOURS PROVINCIAL PARK

Apsley, March 4th, 1944.

Sir,—I would appreciate it if the Examiner would publish this letter regarding a park in this county.

I have lived in the Apsley district all my life and own some land in that district, including four hundred acres of timber in the proposed park. I am therefore interested in any development in that area.

I read in the Examiner Mr. Duffus' suggestion of a National Park which would be developed by the Dominion Government. I understand that this would mean that all settlers in the area would have to sell their land to the Government, all privately-owned property would be taken over and farm buildings and cottages torn down and all timber rights cancelled. I would not be in favour of this as I do not think such action necessary.

The only other park proposition I have heard of is the one Mr. Fred Marshall has. I hunted with Mr. Marshall for a week last fall, and the kind of park he explained to us was the same as the Algonquin Park, and that no land or timber rights would be taken away from anybody, but the settlers and timber owners would be in exactly the same position as those living or owning land in the present game preserve. They would not be allowed to hunt or trap in this park, and their timber rights would not be interfered with. I would be in favour of this kind of park, as I feel it would be a benefit to everyone in this district.

This district is well suited for this purpose. It has many nice lakes and would produce a lot of fur and game if protected. This fur and game would spread out in every direction and could be trapped and hunted when it was outside the park boundaries. I believe a lot of work would be created for settlers living in or near such a park. In a few years lots of tourists would come to it and would buy anything the settlers could produce in the way of food. Guides would be employed and no doubt roads and trails would be built, making a lot of work for the settlers.

Many young men from this district have gone to the war. Some of them will come back and I can see little future for them in this district unless something is done to provide work for them. I think this park would create considerable employment and I would expect our soldiers would have first chance at it.

Thanking you for the space to express my views,—I remain,

LLOYD YOUNG.

Unconsidered Trifles

She was waiting for him in the shadows of the hall. When he appeared she asked eagerly:

"What did father say when you asked him you could marry me, dearest?"

"He didn't absolutely refuse," replied the young man sadly, "but he imposed a very severe condition."

"What was it?"

"He said he would see me hanged first."

Judge Reserves Decision In Love Suit

TORONTO, March 9—(CP)—Ontario Court of Appeal today reserved judgment in the case of Elmer Mott, Lambton county apiarist, who appealed a Supreme Court jury award of $7,000 to 60-year-old Ethel Trott of Oil City in her breach of promise suit against him.

Arthur G. Slaght, counsel for the 62-year-old Mott, argued that there was a promise to marry in 1908 but that the contract came to an end in 1919 when Mott "put her off." He said suit should have been brought within six years of that date and maintained the present action was outlawed by the statute of limitations.

W. A. Donahue, counsel for Miss Trott, argued that there was no breach of the marriage contract in 1919, but that it had only been deferred and the actual breach did not come until 1941.

Miss Trott's evidence at the trial was quoted by her counsel: "In 1919, Elmer said he was going to get a brick house and we were going to get married. He kept harping on a house. Every spring he said he was going to build a new house but he never did."

Mr. Donahue said Mott had $26,000 and the award was not too high. "If he had $25,000, then it is not too much for him to give her $7,000," said Mr. Justice W. R. Riddell, who made it clear that he was commenting only on the amount of the award.

The $7,000 award was made last September in Sarnia by a Supreme Court jury. It was the second hearing. At the first Mr. Justice J. C. Makins took the case from the jury. However the Ontario Appeal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada both ruled in appeal hearings that the case should be heard by a jury.

Remove Sugar Tax Alberta Asks

EDMONTON, March 9—(CP)—The Dominion government will be asked by the Alberta Legislative Assembly to remove the one-cent-per-pound excise tax now levied on sugar beet production, and to bring about immediately "a substantial increase in the production of sugar in Alberta," said a resolution passed unanimously by the Legislature yesterday.

R. S. Lee (S.C.-Taber) said Canadian sugar producers could produce all the sugar that Canada would be able to use at any time.

Birth Control Condemned In Ontario Legislature

TORONTO, March 9 — Ontario should establish family allowances to remove from its young people the fear of marriage and childbearing and their economic consequences, Aurelien Belanger (L., Prescott), told the Legislature yesterday. This, he felt, would be a worthwhile addition to the "four freedoms" provided in the Atlantic Charter.

He coupled his suggestion with a scathing condemnation of artificial birth control and warned against disintegration of the family as a serious national threat.

In a scholarly contribution to the Throne Speech debate, the Dean of the French-Canadian members in the Legislature pleaded for national unity and understanding between French and English-Canadians. He urged the teaching of religion in the schools and the wider dissemination of the French language, "not as a dead language but as one of the two official languages of Canada."

Mr. Belanger described the great attachment of French-Canadians to Canada.

"Do you not think they consider this their land?" he asked. "We want this Canada to continue as an integral part of the British Commonwealth—we are attached to British institutions. We are attached—I will not use the word 'Empire,' it does not smell good to my nostrils—we are attached to the British Commonwealth.

"But we are not subservient to Great Britain but an equal partner." Of national unity, he said: "If there is a real effort to break national and religious prejudices, to work for unity, to say no word or contort no act to disrupt that unity for which our boys are fighting, when they come home from the front they would find this Province united in a common desire to make Canada one of the finest countries of the world."

Family life, he stressed, was the only bulwark against delinquency and in this regard he said he would commission litterateurs "to find out everything nice about babies and maternity and parenthood, as well as artists to choose wonderful pictures to instil love of babies in boys and girls."

Special readers, too, he said, should be provided for rural schools if young people were to be kept on the farm. They should be readers that praised rural life, containing "poetry that sings the glories of the farm."

His 90-minute address was highlighted by an illuminating presentation of the dignities and duties of Parliamentary procedure, high tribute to Speaker Stewart and a stirring recapitulation of French-Canada's contribution to the Dominion's history which should extend in all minds back beyond Wolfe and Montcalm, he declared.

Red Cross Group Needs Knitters

LAKEFIELD, March 9.—(ENS).—Nineteen members attended the Red Cross executive meeting this week. The president, Mrs. Hugh Kitchen, presided.

Mrs. George Graham, knitting convener, reported that a new quota had been issued and more wool ordered. There is a shortage of knitters and any new ones will be welcomed.

Mrs. S. A. Grylls, head of the blood donors, stressed the need for more donors. Ted Wickett was added to the blood donors committee on motion of Mrs. F. L. Erskine and Mrs. H. D. Wilford.

Mrs. S. Trude announced the impending visit of Mrs A. E. McKenzie, of Beaverton, provincial leader of the reserve nursing. She will visit the local nursing class on Tuesday evening, March 14.

Mrs. Harry Stabler of the High school staff, was present and on behalf of the Junior Red Cross, thanked the members of the Red Cross for their interest and co-operation for the carnival. Mrs. Stabler also told of their other activities.

Open House.

The members decided to have open house again on Friday and Saturday of this week, and are asking the outside units to assist with the display. The purpose is to get the public interested in the Red Cross and increase the membership. Explanatory letters as to why there will be no campaign will be sent out by Mrs. E. W. Bailey. Any person wishing to donate more to the Red Cross than the 1 mill tax may do so.

Mr. Arthur Morris of Young's Point, was present and stated that he would make an appeal for continued interest in the Red Cross when he issues the new ration books.

Council Votes $60 To Legion

NORWOOD, March 9 (ENS) — It was decided to vote $60 to the Legion to be used in their war work, at the Norwood Council meeting held this week. The motion was made by E. Munro and M. Kavanagh.

Moved by W. Bitten and W. Kavanagh that Bert Lochead and Mr. Munro be a committee to arrange for someone to act as fire chief and to have the same advertised for the benefit of householders.

Post-war plans pertaining to the extension of provincial highways was then discussed, and two resolutions were passed as follows: Moved by Lochead and Bitten, that the Council recomment the Department of Highways assume the 9th Concession of Dummer Township as an extension to Highway No. 45, thus completing a route from Lake Ontario to the Kawartha Lakes.

The resolution was carried and the clerk instructed to send copies to the Minister of Highways, H. R. Scott, M.P.P., and the Councils of Asphodel, Dummer, Belmont, and Methuen, and the Village of Havelock for their approval and endorsement.

It was moved by Munro and Kavanagh that this Council endorse the proposal submitted by the Councils of Havelock and Methuen with respect to the extension of No. 30 Highway from Havelock to the Apsley-Bancroft Highway via the Twin Lakes and the Nepheline mining area.

On a motion by Bitten and Kavanagh accounts were ordered paid: R. A. Dean, salary, $50; W. B. Parcels, salary, $50; R. McNeeley, 6 hours snow shovelling, $2.40; John Baskin, 30 hours snow ploughing, $18; East Peterborough Agricultural Society, 2 sheets steel (rink), $1.80; H.E.P.C., hall lights, $5.11; J. A. Findlay, 2 cords wood, relief, $22; J. M. Hope, insurance renewals 3, $175; County Treasurer, hospitalization, $67.87; 1943 rates, $2,782.11.

Sgt. J. Burtt Returns From Overseas Duty

NORWOOD, March 9 (ENS) — Sgt. J. Burtt of Norwood, who has arrived home from overseas, was greatly impressed with the morale of the English people and the efficient way in which their auxiliary services hae been organised.

ndlk%o'lk aqt-t,ea O tk.p-o cmwfy

"Debris has been cleaned up to an amazing degree," Sgt. Burtt declared. "The excellent distribution of food through efficient food control, enables everyone to get enough to eat, although it may lack variety. The first ration of oranges arrived shortly before I returned to Canada. One of the greatest difficulties in civilian life is making clothing coupons go far enough."

This soldier enlisted with the 1st Midland Regiment in June, 1940, and spent three years serving in Canada. He went overseas in May, 1943, and was doing staff work. While in England he met a number of soldiers from different Canadian units and found them well, but suffering from a lack of cigarettes.

Friends At Reception For Mrs. Russel Buck

HASTINGS, March 9 — (ENS) — Mrs. John Buck was hostess at a reception on Monday afternoon in honor of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Russel Buck, a recent bride-elect of last month at her home in Asphodel.

Mrs. J. Buck received the guests. The living room was decorated in pink and white, the long table had a lace cloth, centred with a silver basket of tulips and fern, with silver tapers on either side.

The bride invited the guests to the drawing room, where the wedding gifts were on display. Mrs. Bert Buck, of Hastings, poured tea. The waiters were Mrs. David Brown, of Peterborough, Mrs. George Richardson and R. Preston.

Police Inquiry Underway In York Township

TORONTO, March 9 — Every police officer in the municipality will be subpoenaed to give evidence under oath concerning the conduct of the department, Frank Moore, K. C., counsel appointed by Ontario Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, declared yesterday at the opening session of the special inquiry into the affairs of the York Township Police Force.

In addition, a blanket invitation was issued by Judge W. T. Robb, Orangeville, who is conducting the inquiry, to all citizens having pertinent information to come forward and testify. Judge Robb has been given the full powers of the Royal Commissioner for the purpose of the inquiry.

Mr. Moore seconded the commissioner's invitation. "We do not want echoes coming back after these hearings are over that any person was denied the chance to come down here and tell what he knew," Mr. Moore stated.

The inquiry was ordered by the Attorney-General after a request for the appointment of a new Police Commission. Township Council made the request on the ground that the two present appointed members, Judge E. Lovering and Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe, had ignored their recommendation for the rehearing of charges against Constables Joseph Hendrich and George Barker, who were dismissed for alleged neglect of duty. Mr. Blackwell ordered a complete investigation and named Inspector W. H. Lougheed of the Provincial Police to assist.

Chief Only Witness

Chief Constable Robert Alexander was the only witness yesterday. Most of his time was taken up identifying records and minutes of the force and of Police Commission hearings. Before the chief was called, however, Mr. Moore read a letter from P. C. Hendrick charging that he was dismissed from the force "because I had given evidence against the chief at a previous hearing before the Police Commission. I feel that after 17 years on the force this penalty was too severe."

Chief Alexander sketched the history of the department since he took over in September, 1938. At that time, the chief testified, a fullfledged constable was employed washing cars, there was a civilian office clerk who rated as a staff inspector and there was virtually no patrolling of the "beats" except in autos. He employed a caretaker to look after the police autos and saw to it that full-fledged policemen went on street duty.

The hearing adjourned until 2 o'clock today.

Labor Delegations Seeks Beer Changes

TORONTO, March 9 (CP)—Premier Drew told a delegation from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today that his government had urged the Dominion that any labor code it might establish should apply to all workers and not just war workers.

Addressing the delegation which presented a brief asking a 20 per cent increase in minimum wages, an industrial training program and changes in the Ontario Liquor Control Act, the Premier said his government now planned to extend the new Dominion Labor Code to all industry.

The Premier also told the delegation that there was no opposition from Ontario on the Dominion's Federal Health Plan "as we don't know what they propose to do." The Dominion plan so far was only a draft given a committee and "until we know if it is to be a government bill there is nothing we can do. So far we have neither objected nor approved."

The Council's brief, presented annually to the Cabinet, declared the situation that has resulted from the curtailment of beer was in the estimation of the Council "deplorable and; in our estimation, totally unnecessary; and in no wise contributes to the successful prosecution of the war, but the contrary."

The brief suggested that "it must be definitely stated and agreed that the Legislature of the Province of Ontario cannot be overpowered and over-ridden in its jurisdiction by the Federal Government."

"We are of the conviction that Liquor Control laws, to be effective, must be local and that any attempt at Dominion-wide control would be totally ineffective."

The brief called for a 20 per cent increase in minimum wages in Ontario and that domestic help employed in commercial establishments be included under the act. It also asked that labor be given direct representation on the board governing the act.

Industrial training now provided was inadequate in the opinion of the delegation. It asked that "adequate training be provided, giving more than a superficial knowledge of the particular industry" and urged that "a qualified representative in the industry concerned be included in the administration."

209 Suffer Fractures

TORONTO, March 9—(CP)—A total of 209 persons have broken bones in their arms or legs in falls on Toronto's ice-covered streets within the past five days.

Emergency wards and X-ray departments have been kept busy from morning to night attending the injured, while ambulances have been at a premium.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

Clerks Capture Town Title In Two Games

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9, (ENS)—Taking their 2nd straight game in the best of three play off series last night the Clerks won the town league championship by defeating the Outlaws 8 to 2 in a fast wide open exhibition that attracted a fair crowd to the local arena.

After a cautious opening both teams turned on the pressure in an effort to establish a lead. However the Clerks got the breaks and the period ended 3 to 0 largely through the combined efforts of Peloquin and Hendy who set the pace for the winners. This pair figured in all the scoring of the period with Hendy counting once and Peloquin getting the other two.

The Outlaws came out more determined than ever in the second period but only managed to notch one on a nice passing play from Ed Sutton to Bill Oliver. The Clerks added one more with a close in drive by Peloquin. Milne figured in several dangerous thrusts that were disorganized by the Clerks' smooth working defense line of Turner and Hendy and the period ended with the score at 4 to 1.

The final stanza was by all counts the liveliest and found the Outlaws fighting for an opening but they lacked the team work that was needed to score.

Oliver added one more on a pass from Dick Nicholas but the Outlaws were leaving their defense open as they swarmed down the ice and Clerks got the break-aways. Peloquin was twice successful in turning the attack into an easy goal as he slipped down the ice with only the goalie to beat and Hendy turned the trick for a third during the period while Dooher added his counter during a scramble.

The Teams—

Outlaws — Goal, G. Martin; defense, D. Green, P. Milne; centre, B. McKelvie; wings, B. Oliver, Dick Nicholas; alternates, Duffy Nicholas, Percy Free, K. Sutton, Ed. Sutton, Wes. Mechetuk.

Clerks — Goal, E. McComb; defense, O. Hendy, F. Turner; centre, L. Nesbitt; wings, C. Post, B. Peloquin; alternates, H. Dooher, C. Poulton.

Diva's Illness Welds Marriage To U.S. Doctor

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 9 — (CP) — Thomas King's marriage to Marjorie Lawrence breaks all the rules.

Other men courted the Metropolitan prima donna in imported cars and French. Dr. King walked her up to the Hudson in the starlight and threw snowballs at her.

Lawrence's dates with other men were marked by showers of compliments and orchids. She and Dr. King argued on their second date, quarreled on the third and repeated both performances half the times they met. (Two proud people faced with love in their thirties do not easily give in—so the Lawrence - King courtship was fraught with tears as well as joy.)

Dr. King, a dark-haired Southerner with a gentle manner and fighting-Irish eyes, developed a tendency to throw the opposition's flowers out of the window.

Tawnyhaired Lawrence filled with the fire of a dramatic artiste, sometimes forgot herself and played prima donna in the house.

One of their hottest spats ensued when Dr. King, a New York osteopath, declared: "I'll be darned if I'm going to hang around dressing rooms playing prima donna's husband. I'll stick to my work and be waiting for you when you come back from your tours."

Two months after the night when Dr. King first walked into the star's dressing room with a bedazzled look in his eyes, he and Marjorie Lawrence stood before the altar and even then they didn't run true to form. Dr. King's heart pounded so loudly even Lawrence heard it and the bridegroom was afraid that he would swoon.

Three months after the honeymoon in 1941, Lawrence was stricken with infantile paralysis and paralyzed from the shoulders down. They were told her career was finished and her life was in danger. "Now words can never reveal the grief and tragedy of those days," says Dr. King. But he and his wife refused to despair. He drew on his knowledge of body massage and exercise. She drew on years of self discipline and grit.

Two-Year Battle

Together they began a battle of massage and exercise. Together they turned to Christian Science and refused to admit the possibility of defeat. Less than two years after they began their battle against a paralyzed body and career Lawrence came back to opera and the concert stage. She sings now in magnificent voice, sitting on settees. She also walks some on crutches at home.

In the course of that battle to rebuild a body and a career the Lawrence-King menage broke all the rest of the rules in the book. The man who refused to hang around a star's dressing room dropped his own work and devoted his life to the role of helpmate.

Dr. King's help is woven into every part of the fabric of his wife's career, since her illness. While others bewailed the fact that she would probably never sing in public again, he insisted that she would, and made arrangements for her first appearance in a Florida church. He was with her on stage at her first concerts. He makes all arrangements for her concerts now, even to giving the final decisions on her gowns.

Before Christmas the Lawrence-King family finished a 7,000-mile tour, during which Lawrence appeared in about 30 concerts and sang at many hospitals and camps.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Two championships will be at stake when the Ladies' City Basketball League stages its double-header at the Y.W.C.A. gym Friday night and it isn't necessary to tell those who saw last Friday's two games that two of the most exciting cage struggles of the season should eventuate. Incidentally the order has been reversed for this week and the senior game between Transports and St. John's will be played first, starting at 8 o'clock with the Y Cadet-Normal tilt in the intermediate finals following at 9 o'clock. Transports can wind up the senior series by beating St. John's tomorrow night. The league leaders took the first game last week after a memorable struggle in which they were outscored and outplayed most of the way and only managed to win by the narrow margin of 13 to 12. The Saints will be playing with their backs to the wall tomorrow night and are likely to come up with another driving battle for the win they need to tie up the round. It should be a wow of a ball game. And the same goes for the intermediate final, a best-of-five affair in which Normal are now leading two games to one. The Benson avenue team can make basketball history by taking tomorrow's game and thus winning the intermediate cup and the first championship in school annals. However they have a battle on their hands. Cadets were nosed out 11 to 10 last week by a last-minute basket and they will be fighting desperately for a victory to tie up the series.

Westclox, running along like a well-oiled machine, are showing no signs of faltering as the Ladies' City Five Pin League reels off the third section of its schedule. The Big Bens came up with another clean sweep Monday night, taking three games from the Five V's and in doing so piled up one of the high team scores of the season, a smashing 3258, the string being 1082, 1078, 1098. Isobel Bullock sparked the drive with 714 which gave her high for the week, Aggie Anderson also hit the 700 class with 697 making her second in the list, and Marg Hawthorne almost made it one, two, three for the league leaders by racking up 679 to give her fourth place in the week's scoring. At that the Westclockers did not gain by their high-scoring performance for Outboard Marines, their nearest rivals also bobbed up with a three-game victory over the Corvettes and an artistic performance that saw them pile up the respectacle total of 3030. Marion Timm who bowls in a number of leagues and always well, topped the Outboards' performance with a 669 effort. Brintons who for a long while were close to the leading pair and in a threatening position have been faltering lately and slipped back two more points this week when they dropped two out of three games to the Beavers in spite of a neat 664 score by E. Basciano.

George Tells Them

Rumors that some of the Generals are sulking are hinted at by George "Soup" Campbell who reads them this lecture in his sport column: "There were some more changes in the line-up last night. Bob Dawes, the defenseman whom outsiders rate as the best in the group, was benched for this game. To our way of thinking he wasn't the only one who didn't work too well in St. Kitts—if that is the reason he was benched. Bob Porter was in action a few times and Johnny Chenier, not yet back in full stride after his illness, was also used sparingly. Jim Culham, who was brought here all the way from Moose Jaw to play defense, was dresed but for the second game in succession was never on the ice except for "The King." We hope he doesn't lose confidence. Jack Taggart did a lot of useful work on the blue-line for Oshawa last night. He (and a couple of others) gives us heart tremors when he brings that puck out in front of the Oshawa net but his clever stick-handling and clearing was a big help when the Falcons were putting on their hardest pressure. Shewchuck and Batten were both going great guns but seemed a little tired towards the finish. Batten's foot is apparently completely better and he was one of Oshawa's hardest workers. A lot of hockey fans have expressed the opinion after last night's game that it looked as if some of the boys were sulking and certainly not pulling together in an all-out effort. Team spirit is essential to win championships and if such trouble does exist, the club officers had better get that fixed immediately because as we warned once before, an "in-and-out" brand of hockey is not going to win this or any other series."

"Tommy Daley, Leo Seguin and all the other local gridmen who played with him must have learned with pleasure that Captain Arnold James Charbonneau has been honored for valor in the campaign in Italy," says Jack Koffman in the Ottawa Citizen. "Arnie wasn't an outstanding performer with the Rough Riders but largely because it was his misfortune to enter the Big Four picture at a time when the Ottawa club was loaded with power and a galaxy of stars. He would have been a regular backfielder on any number of Rough Rider teams of other years but never had any complaint to register. He attended each and every practice, took it all in stride. Now the man has established himself as a regular on a team engaged in a far more important fight. We knew him in those days when he kept donning his football equipment, getting into a game here and there, and hoping for a real opportunity to show his wares. This latest information indicates Arnie is still the same determined young man. More power to him."

Take It Seriously

They take their midget hockey seriously in the Kitchener-Georgetown district judging by the following from the Kitchener News-Record: "The city's midget standard-bearers were given rough treatment at Georgetown last night, and officials and car drivers, and their wives, were not overlooked in the abuse heaped on them by Georgetown spectators. It was a sorry bit of business and, but for alert police assistance serious trouble might have developed. The midgets were a credit to the city, held themselves in check except for a brief spell in the second period when they couldn't be blamed for some retaliation. Twice there were six players in the penalty box and matters weren't helped when spectators urged the Georgetown boys on to commit mayhem, if nothing worse, on the Greenshirts. Players were spat upon by rail spectators (or hoodlums as they should be called), water was thrown upon them and punches tossed about when a Kitchener boy would climb into the penalty box. An airman from Acton appeared to be a ringleader. When Kitchener players entered their dressing room at the close of the first period, a couple of hundred rowdies tried to break down the door and partially succeeded, smashing the upper part. A constable and Provincial Policeman soon restored order, but the abuse continued throughout the entire game."

The Hamilton Majors who blew alternately hot and cold during the regular schedule are obviously at fever heat for the playoffs and today are just a game away from the senior O.H.A. title. Although St. Catharines Saints as usual played their best hockey away from home last night and forced the Majors into overtime Hamilton eventually sank the winner to take the game 5 to 4 and lead in the best-of-seven series three games to one. The next game is billed for Saturday night in St. Catharines and the senior race may be over before Sunday. St. Catharines Falcons are also slipping behind the 8-ball in the junior race and are like the seniors within a game of elimination. The Oshawa Generals finally found the combination to grab off a game in St. Catharines last night, defeating the Falcons 4 to 2 and now lead the 4-of-7 series 3 games to 2. That round, too, many be all over Saturday night.

Junior Chamber To Rebuild Hockey Arena

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 9—The old Peace Bridge Arena, scene of many thrilling and dramatic hockey battles, will be rebuilt if plans now under way materialize. The project is being sponsored by the Fort Erie Junior Chamber of Commerce as an aftermath of the rising hockey spirit in that city occasioned by the splendid showing of the Fleet team in the Mercantile League.

The Junior Chamber called in directors of the old Buffalo Hockey Club, including George Vasey, present owner of the ice plant; Jack Lawson of Niagara Falls, and George Stratton of Fort Erie, who was managing director of the old Bisons and a committee was formed to further plans.

Present plans call for the erection of a building similar to the St. Catharines arena, seating approximately 3,000. As the ice plant already is on the site and in excellent working condition, the building could be erected for a sum between $40,000 and $50,000. Part of this would be raised by public subscriptions after which the arena would be turned over to the Town of Fort Erie to manage.

Senior O.H.A. hockey would be offered at the arena and it is hoped that a working agreement could be formed with the Buffalo Hockey Club whereby the Fort Erie seniors would become a farm for the Bisons. The pro team who could hold daily practice sessions at that site—a privilege that now is denied them at Memorial Auditorium because of the frequent absence of ice. Public skating also is planned and many local amateur teams would be able to get in practice sessions.

Westclox Girls Bowl 3258 For 3 Points

Westclox's 3258 total against Five V's featured the Ladies' City Five-Pin League games this week. The Big Bens with Isobel Bullock blazing the trail with 714 put on one of the best team performances of the year. Aggie Anderson had 697, Marg. Hawthorne 679 and A. Livingstone 602. In fact only Marg. Selkirk missed the 600 class.

The Loop showed a lot of high-class trundling Monday night. Isobel Bullock's 714 put her at the top of the heap, the only roller to hit the 700 mark but there were no fewer than eleven other bowlers who racked up 600 or better as follows: Aggie Anderson 697, H. Plews 688, Marg Hawthorne 679, M. Goldie 675, Marion Timm 669, E. Basciano 664, R. Pearse 650, D. Pearson 639, G. Milliken 624, G. Worton 617 and A. Livingstone 606.

E. Basciano had high single with 303, Marg Hawthorne 279, 240, Marion Timm 276, 235, G. Worton 274, A. Anderson 270, 240, D. Pearson 269, 228., M. Goldie 266, 220, Isobel Bullock 256, 265, G. Canadian soldier-boxers lost out in the British boxing finals which were staged last night at Blackpool, England, one of the entrants, Cpl. Tommy Morimoto, a Canadian-Japanese of Fort McMurray, Alta., getting a hand from the uniformed audience although he lost out in the flyweight final on a decision to L.Bdr. Billy Popham, an English artilleryman. Gnr. Doug Marsh, former Montreal newspaperman, also lost on a decision in the middleweight class to Sgt. R. Parker of England.

Spr. Art Buller, Kingsville, Ont., featherweight, could not continue in his bout because of an eye injury while Pte. Russ McCarthy of Hamilton, Ont., was unable to enter the ring for the lightweight final because of an injury. Sgt. Jack Ennis, Windsor lightweight, was disqualified for holding tactics in the second round of his final with L.Bdr. George Stock of England. Gnr. Jack Billings of St. Marys, Ont., was decisioned in the bantamweight class.

Five Hamilton rinks and five other Ontario centres remained undefeated last night in the 23rd annual Hamilton curling bonspiel.

W. R. Wheeler of Guelph, Dr. H. C. Brereton of Toronto High Park, F. C. Wilson of London, William Lochead of Forest and Dr. S. T. White of Orangeville have yet to be defeated while Hamilton victors were R. M. Cassels and R. W. Cross of Thistles and Hugh Snetsinger, Dr. A. E. Walkley and S F. S. Jones of the Victoria Club.

One of the surprises of the day was the defeat of Joe Tomlinson's Toronto Granite rinks who dropped a 12-10 decision to Mr. Cassels' Thistle four. Tomlinson held a two-point edge for nine ends but the Thistle squad packed in two on the final end to take the decision.

Final rounds in the four events, the Spectator trophy, Westinghouse trophy, Wilcox trophy and Harstone trophy will start to-night.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

On Wednesday night we reached the semi-finals of the Vice-Skips bonspiel and some of the boys who are still in the hunt had to go all out to hang on.

In the first draw Joe Detcher and D. Maciver had a real scrap and it was only by some real smart curling on the part of Joe that he managed to pull out by one shot.

And then a couple of ices over Dick Dawson and Cyril Crowe were staging another highlight game. All square going home and a nip and tuck battle. Both sides got out of some nasty holes but the boy with the "golden smile" hung on the longer and finished two up.

On the other side of the rink there were two extra end games. C. Cox and A. Nelson on ice No. 1 with Mr. Cox getting the verdict and then on ice No. 2 O. M. Steer and E. Williams also went into overtime with Mr. Steer finishing one up. In the second round this boy Steer again had a close call—leading all the way and seemed to be sitting pretty, he nearly lost out. Wally Davidson scored seven points on the last two ends and only finished one down.

Tonight we play the finals in the Vice-Skips and get ready for the leads and seconds bonspiel, starting Friday night at 6.45 o'clock.

The first round in the play for "The Harry F. Foote" memorial trophy is scheduled for this evening between C. Lawrence, winner of Group A and R. Williamson winner of Group B.

A couple of rinks skipped by Ray Best and Norm Hamley, motored down to Cobourg yesterday afternoon for a friendly game.

The draw for the Vice-Skips tonight is at 6.45 p.m.

J. Detcher vs. O. Steer.

H. Powers vs. R. Dawson.

Winners to play at 8.45 p.m.

The rinks for the "Leads and Seconds" bonspiel are now posted up in the club rooms and players are asked to come in and see who they are with and be ready when play is called tomorrow night.

Day Believes Hill Won't Make Play-offs

By VERN DeGEER

"I don't see," said Hap Day bitingly, "how the Leafs are going to be able to count on Hill for the playoffs. Not the way he's trying to get back into shape."

"Here he comes now," Day added, pointing down a promenade at Maple Leaf Gardens yesterday afternoon. "It's 5 o'clock and that's the time he's supposed to be out on the ice with the rest of the class."

The dipsy - doodling "Sudden Death" Hill was 12 minutes behind schedule by the time he hit the ice for the latest of his workouts. Out of hockey almost two months, the result of a broken leg, he's been taking exercise on skates for a week now. The leg is still stiff.

"I counted on having Hill around for at least two games before the playoffs," Day said, "but I don't see how that can happen the way he's tackling the job. And without a game or two under his belt he's not likely to be much help to us in the playoffs. I hope I'm wrong, though."

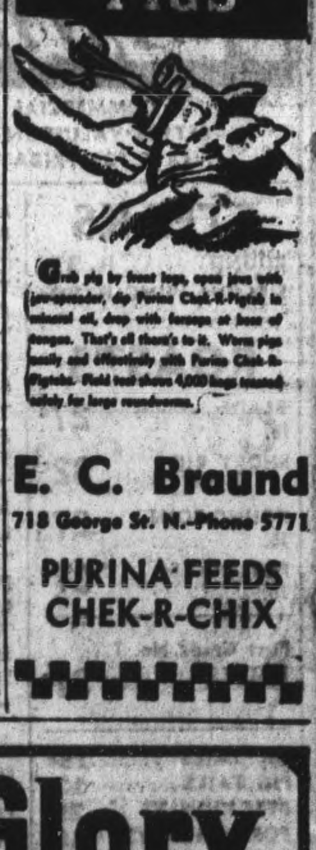
Hill played 17 games for Leafs before hitting the hospital list early in January. He collected nine goals, 10 assists during that stretch, appeared headed for a big season.

Professor Day's "school" session yesterday for Tommy O'Neill and Jackie McLean, had a surprise addition. Pte. Billy Taylor showed up just before the scheduled drill period, climbed into a uniform and acted as Day's assistant professor, and chief pass demonstrator.

"I'd feel a lot happier," said Day, "if Billy was warming up for the playoffs. That kid really loves to play hockey. Look at him handle that stick. If he isn't as good as Bill Cowley at feeding passes, he's next thing to it. And I'm not so sure he isn't as good."

But Pte. Taylor isn't tagged for a Stanley Cup playoff spot with the Leafs. He's still under contract to Johnny Canuck's Army. Rumors persist he's in line for his discharge because of an old shoulder separation, but it won't come until after the hockey playoffs are tucked away.

Benny Grant was the target for Hill, Taylor, O'Neill and McLean yesterday afternoon.



Oshawa Clips St. Kitts To Lead Series

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Majors went into a three-games-to-one lead in the Senior O.H.A. playoffs by trimming St. Catharines Saints 5-4 last night on Hamilton ice but, for the second time in the finals, overtime was necessary before a decision was reached. Johnny Conick was the hero of the game, not only for scoring the payoff goal in 1:06 minutes of extra play but for notching four of the winners' tallies. Doug Runions got the other.

Jud McAtee of the Saints tied up the fray at 4-all before regular closing time after Majors had led the parade with a 2-1 edge going into the third period. Other scorers for the losers were Red Goble, with two and Blink Bellinger, one. The fifth game of the best-in-seven series is scheduled for Saturday night at St. Catharines.

In the Junior "A" semi-finals, Oshawa Generals earned a 4-2 victory at St. Catharines to take command of their duel three games to two, with the sixth engagement to be played at Oshawa Saturday night. Bill Ezinicki slammed in two goals for the victors, Johnny Chenier and Bob Love getting one apiece. Henry Warecki and Frank Long scored one each for the losers, both in the second period.

Hamilton Whizzers advanced a second junior round by eliminating Toronto Navy with two straight wins, taking last night's tilt at Toronto 6-4 to wind up this bracket after previously tossing Brantford Lions into the discard. Comfort and Lindal each scored two for Hamilton and Thompson did likewise for the tars.

Sudbury Takes First Over Porcupine Team

TIMMINS, Ont., March 9—(CP)—Sudbury Open Pit last night took a 2-1 lead in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior play-off final quelling Porcupine All-Stars 4-2 in the first game of the best-of-seven series played here. The first two games were played at Sudbury.

Jim Dewey, star Sudbury centre, broke loose with one goal and fired assists on two others. Vaillancourt, Webster, and Clouthier scored the other counter for Open Pit. Petrucci and Wilson scored for Porcupine.

Wins Bonspiel

KINGSTON—(CP)—Sqdn. Ldr. F. Fraser's Kingston rink yesterday won the Eastern Ontario Bonspiel and the Whig-Standard tankard by defeating R. E. Dallyn's Brockville four 12-9. Semi-finals were reached in consolation events.

TOO OLD!—Because he is "too old to wrestle," Ed (Strangler) Lewis, several times world champion matman, has been barred from wrestling in Miami. The city boxing commission passed the edict which drew from Lewis the comment that he would post a $2,500 guarantee to back his boast that he could throw out of the ring any five boxers named by the Miami commission. Oh, yes, Lewis is 52 years old.

By SYD ROSSIN

Here's what is almost a movie scenario: Lloyd Christmas, Hamilton theatre man who joined the RCAF and was transferred to the RAF, was sent back to join a crew that was to bomb Germany. The navigator turned out to be Jack Armstrong, who used to be at the Royal, Guelph. The bomber was shot down and both boys were captured. The scene changes to the Italian front, where Pilot Officer Joe Loree, who was also at the Royal, Guelph, before enlisting, is forced down and captured. In prison Joe meets Jimmy Gould, also a Guelph boy. They plot an escape and jump from a speeding train. Jimmy is recaptured right away but Joe covers 150 miles and hides in a barn but is betrayed by a Nazi sympathizer. He is sent to a prison camp—where the first fellow to greet him is his former fellow-townsman, Jack Armstrong! Some reunion.

Despite building restrictions, the demand for movies was so great in 1942, according to a statement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that 31 new theatres and auditoriums were opened with the permission of the government . . . An important part of the Canadian movie scene are the fellows who pack their equipment and set up temporary shows in places where there are no theatres, usually far into the country. During 1942 there were 96 of these itinerant showmen and they played movies in that fashion for almost 800,000 persons . . . Canada had 1,251 theatres in operation during the year under survey . . . If every theatre seat utilized . . . In 1942, $46,461,967 was spent on movie admission and federal and provincial amusement taxes yielded $11,712,165 to the governments . . . Double features are twice as popular in Canada as single features.

In Hollywood hats are not just something to put on the head and out of the mind. Preston Sturges always wears a crazy hat when he is directing a picture, his favorite being a straw one with two crowns and one brim. Franchot Tone wears black hats to prevent eye-strain. He stares at his hat, with which he fiddles between shots. Adolphe Menjou never takes his hat off in an elevator, ladies or no, which is socially correct . . . Have you ever fallen asleep at the movies and, having been awakened in time to leave, wondered what would have happened if you hadn't? In Vancouver a policeman saw a sailor wandering around inside of a theatre during Sunday and found that he had slept right through from Saturday night. However, the ushers usually waken the snoozers . . . Did you know that the theatre owner pays royalties for every song played while a film is being run in his show? His rental contract doesn't provide for the right to have them played and he pays fees, based on the number of seats, to the Canadian Performing Rights Society, which represents the composers.

Mexican Wins N.B.A. Title From Angott

By FRANK FRAWLEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

HOLLYWOOD, March 9—(AP)—Discouraged by a split-decision loss to Luther (Slugger) White here last summer and inability to get a lightweight championship bout, Juan Zurita returned to his native Mexico City, determined not to box in the United States again.

Today he holds the National Boxing Association title. He whipped the clever, rugged Sammy Angott last night in Hollywood baseball park. It marked the first time in Sammy's long career that he had lost a fight at the lightweight limit and he lost by a wide margin.

It was not a lively fight but it was not Zurita's fault that there were not more exchanges. Angott clinched after nearly every lead, and in the infighting, where usually he excels, he came out second best. Angott looked nothing like the champion who came out here last fall and slammed Slugger White all over the ring in the same ball park to win every one of the 15 rounds. He was away off in his timing and he landed few solid punches.

That was partly due to Zurita's southpaw stance and his ability to keep Angott off balance, block his left hooks and uppercuts, and counter with rights to the head and body. The fight followed that pattern all the way from the second round to the finish and there was little doubt of the outcome as early as the 10th.

Angott was notified only a few hours before the fight that he must take his pre-induction physical examination here today. His draft board had just reclassified him 1-A. He is married and has two children.

Leafs Must Defeat Tail-end Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs seek tonight to erase the last lingering doubts about their chances of a Stanley Cup play-off berth.

Already five points ahead of the fifth-place Boston Bruins, Leafs can all but mathematically clinch fourth place and the last play-off berth by defeating the tailend New York Rangers at New York. Montreal Canadiens travel to Chicago for an engagement with Black Hawks in the only other National Hockey League game scheduled Thursday.

The Hawks are only two points ahead of Toronto, but have a game in hand. Main interest focusses on the slim possibility of Boston overtaking the Leafs in the four games each team has to play before the post-season series starts.

All Will Benefit

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP.. — The National Fitness Act will make itself felt by all Canadians, young and old, and will make it possible to give advantages, only enjoyed by the few before the war, to all Canadians in the post-war period, Major Ian Eisenhardt of Ottawa, said here last night in his first pronouncement on the Dominion Government's program of mass training. He recently was appointed national director of physical fitness in the Department of Pensions and National Health, and spoke last night to the 27th annual convention of the Canadian Bicycle and Sport Goods Dealers Association.

CATCHER BECOMES PITCHER—But it is coal that Bob (Rip) Collins is pitching here as a fireman on a railroad in Pittsburgh. Rip, who has been signed by the New York Yankees at 38, formerly played behind the plate for the Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles. He was with the Yankees' Kansas City farm team last year, but remained out of the game. He has had his railroad job for the past 10 years in his off-season.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP). — G. Crawford McClean, Brockville, Ont., one of the grand old gentlemen to whom Canada owes her sports development tells of one of the Dominion's early sports promotions more than 60 years ago.

Mr. McClean was the secretary-treasurer of the Forest City Bicycle Club in London, Ont., in 1879-1883 Headaches are common among those who promote sports attractions, but Mr. McClean recalls one of the first. It was connected with Canada's first bicycle track meet—at London July 1, 1882.

"I have no data in regard to this meet," he writes, "but have very vivid memories of the morning of that day as there was a perfect downpour of rain lasting until shortly after noon. And by a combination of circumstances I was responsible financially for the expenses incurred, amounting to upwards of $800.

"However, while at the dinner table, a member of our club came in with tidings that the sun was shining, and by 1:30 p.m. not a cloud was in sight. At this time a procession was formed at the Tecumseh House with more than 100 riders in line. The races were a great success. We took in upwards of $1,700, a great relief to my bank account."

A profit of $900 from a bicycle meet to-day would be a nine-day sensation. It was appreciated, too by the Forest City Club which made Mr. McClean a present of "an elegant set of carvers and a set of plate which are still in use and much cherished."

That bicycle meet was one of the first important international sport events staged in Canada. It drew representation from several large United States cities. One U.S. company sent four bicyclists in uniform with samples of the wheels it manufactured. "These had the small wheel in front and were geared in some way so that the tread was up and down."

Incidentally:

Jock Hutchison became the first Vancouver bowler to better 700 for three 10-pin games since 1937. Jockey rolled 707 in a major league match last week.....Jerry Barber rolled a perfect 450 in a St. Catharines, Ont., five-pin league game Saturday.....Johnny Yerhoff, who had bowled every Thursday night for seven years without a miss with an outstanding Regina 10-pin team, has broken his string to serve with the Army.....Dick Proulx, whose big-time hockey career ended with Cornwall Flyers in 1938 when he suffered a knee injury in the Allan Cup final, won the Cornwall City League scoring title this season.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 9—(AP).—It isn't the holdouts as much as the holdups that are worrying baseball club owners...The demands of players have risen so that some minor leaguers advocate lifting the salary limits so that they can load their squads up to the player limit....At Buffalo John Stigimeier recently figured that if he paid 19 players all they wanted, he'd have a monthly payroll of $10,000 in a league with a $8,500 limit...And for that matter, the International League has three umpire holdouts....The Houston, Tex., Gun Club, which ran trapshoots every Sunday for 28 years, has shut down. No ammunition.

Quote, unquote:

Bobo Newsom: "You spend the first six years in baseball learning how to pitch and the next six years wishing you'd known it from scratch."

One-minute sports page:

Ray Dodge, Lou Nova's new manager, was a member of the United States Olympic track team in 1942. ...Earl Hilligan, the American League publicior, says his circuit has ordered fewer baseballs this year than in other seasons...."You saw where Luke Appling is in the army, didn't you?" Earl explains. "All we did was subtract the number of foul balls he knocked into the stands last year."

Today's guest star:

Jere R. Hayes, Dallas, Tex., Times-Herald: "Tony (Two Ton) Galento has been accepted for 'limited service' by the army and is peeved because Uncle Sam doesn't think more of his physical qualifications. As a matter of fact, a lot of folks figure Tony a '4-F' in the boxing ring."

Changes Rule

NEW YORK—(AP)—Because of a dearth of signed contracts, the New York Yankees yesterday announced a change in policy through which all players would be allowed to report for Spring training whether they had come to terms or not. The club said only 16 ball-tossers had signed 1944 contracts. Training is scheduled to start at Atlantic City next Monday.

Don't Deserve It

PHILADELPHIA, March 9—(AP)—Bob Carpenter, president of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, came right back last night at the student council of John Hopkins university, Baltimore, which accused his team of "lifting" the nickname—Blue Jays—which the collegians have used as their tag for 68 years. "Why, they haven't won a ball game in 20 years, have they?" said Carpenter, "I saw their football team once, and boy, what a ragged outfit."

Hershey Wallops Cleveland 9-2

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears launched a scoring spree last night to wallop the American Hockey League's Cleveland Barons 9-2 in the loop's only scheduled encounter.

It was the final game of the season between Bears, leaders of the eastern division, and Barons, who lead the western division as well as the league.

Tom Forgie started the scoring for Bears early in the first period. Hec Pozzo added another 16 seconds later, and Cleveland's Earl Bartholome got his team's first goal at 11.38.

Pozzo scored again at the opening of the second and made his third in the final. Pat Patterson and Peg O'Neil tallied two more goals in the sqecond period.

In the third Johnny Harms, Bud Jarvis and Frank Daley chalked Bears' total to nine by each bagging a counter. Norm Locking took Cleveland's second goal after the Hershey snipers had their total added up to seven.

Trent River Holds Warsaw To 3-3 Score

NORWOOD, March 9—(ENS)—A fast exhibition game of hockey was played between Warsaw and Trent River teams Tuesday evening, resulting in a tie of 3-3 at the end of the game. Trent River scored the final goal after eight minutes of overtime.

The goal tender for Trent River, Jim Doherty, suffered a cut lip in the third period and was taken to the doctor. G. Chapman also received cuts about the face, but continued playing.

W. Nobes, Bud Webb and Jim Brown scored for Trent River, Bud Webb scoring the winning goal also. S. Lonsberry, G. Cooper and G. Payne scored for Warsaw.

Penalties were as follows: Jim Brown, slashing; T. Lonsberry, slashing; Cooper, high-sticking and M. Wight and G. Cooper for fighting. Referees were F. Ruttan and Don Andrews.

Lineups:

Trent River—Goal, Jim Doherty; defence, G. Colby, W. Nobes; centre, Bud Webb; wings, Jim Brown, W. Pollack; subs, G. Chapman, M. Wight, Jay Brown, Jack Brown.

Warsaw—Goal, E. Clements; defence, O. Watts, G. Cooper; centre, L. Lonsberry; wings, S. Lonsberry, J. Watts; subs. T. Watts, G. Payne.

Dairy Farmers To Protest Subsidy Change

TORONTO, March 9.—Incensed at not being previously consulted over milk subsidies announced by Federal Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner, and angry at receiving the first news of the decision in newspaper reports, a deputation of dairy farmers from Ontario will go to Ottawa next week to protest officially the Federal Government snub.

This was decided yesterday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association when P. D. McArthur, president, Dairy Farmers of Canada, pointed out that the association has a consulting committee, named at the request of the Food Board, whose members received their first intimation of developments from the press when closer Government co-operation was asked.

As chairman of this advisory committee to the Food Board, Mr. McArthur also intends to point out that the whole business of establishing floor prices for dairy products requires a lot of "further clear thinking," and this subject will be threshed out when the dairy deputation meets Government officials in Ottawa next week.

Offer Facilities.

Meanwhile, the delegates passed a resolution assuring the Dominion Government that they will produce the greatest possible quantity of milk for cheese in order to supply the Motherland in the wartime effort, and offered the facilities of the organization to the Federal Government to be used in any way that might help accomplish that end.

They backed, by resolution, the action of the Dairy Farmers of Canada and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in urging the Dominion Government to broaden the market for Canadian-made cheese, particularly in the United States. They also asked that agricultural associations be consulted by Federal authorities with regard to postwar contracts for agricultural products and any action directed toward agricultural floor prices.

Delegates asked that the present subsidy system, inaugurated under the War Measures Act, and proving generally satisfactory to both producer and consumer, be continued indefinitely if necessary to assure satisfactory floor prices to producers and reasonable prices to consumers.

Seek Adequate Help.

The association will also petition the Dominion Government to make adequate help available in order that Ontario farmers will be able to meet their commitments in the war effort.

Officers elected were: President, W. H. Montgomery, Carrying Place; vice-president, W. O. Coon, Elgin; secretary-treasurer, S. L. Joss, Belleville. Executive, J. I. Ballantyne, Atwood; J. D. McCaffrey, Stittsville; J. L. McDonald, Harrison's Corners. Directors, J. F. Bertrand, Hammond; Joseph St. Denis, Vankleek Hill; H. S. Marjerison, Apple Hill; C. E. Harkness, Iroquois; E. E. Elliott, Renfrew; Harold E. Halpenny, Easton's Corners; M. M. Knowles, Lanark; Urban J. B. Warren, Lansdowne; J. E. Miller, Odessa; E. J. Pyear, Stirling; Hector Arnold, Campbellford; George A. Urges Teaching

"We want this Canada to continue as an integral part of the British Commonwealth—we are attached to British institutions," Mr. Belanger declared. He pleaded for an end to what he called the "gradually increasing distintegration of the family—the cell of society." He described birth control as "a murderous, horrible octopus."

He urged better French be taught in English schools and said that in rural schools love of the land rather than the technics of agriculture should be stressed.

Two C.C.F. speakers were William Dennison (Toronto St. David) and Leslie Hancock (Wellington South). Mr. Dennison urged the need for adequate health insurance, declaring in connection with the government's proposed municipal health services bill that "a health scheme that does not provide for more doctors, more nurses and more hospitals is not going to be adequate."

Soil Conservation

Mr. Hancock suggested creation of a soil conservation service under the proposed department of planning and development. "The new department," he said, "must really plan, and not become a general dumping ground for a thousand unrelated schemes. I know of no more lasting benefit to the nation than that of reclaiming surface soil anywhere that is in danger of being carried away to the rivers and the sea."

The fifth speaker yesterday was S. L. Hall (PC—Halton) who said the proposal to create a planning and development department was a much-needed step. He expressed the hope that British authorities could be brought to this province after the war.

The Halton member urged that every member of the House and every citizen in the province should "so conduct themselves as to be worthy of the sacrifice that our men are making overseas for free speech and democracy. Everyone should strive for the lasting peace for which we all pray."

Before the debate resumed Attorney-General Blackwell gave the House a statement on Ontario's position in regard to beer rationing, declaring that Federal restrictions were "entirely responsible" for reduction in supplies.

Mr. Blackwell answered criticisms of a notic recently posted in hotel beverage rooms of the province, which says that the amount of beer available is restricted by reason of the Federal order-in-council of 1942. "Our decisions were brought about by a decision of the Federal government over which we had no control," he declared.

The Legislature gave second reading to amendments to the Power Commission Act and also passed through committee stage a measure which permits alterations in the Hydro service charge in Ontario.

Build Rural Lines.

Hon. G. H. Challies, chief commissioner of the Ontario Hydro Commission, told the Legislature that the Commission this year may construct 300 miles of new lines in rural areas all over Ontario.

Speaking during the committee stage of his bill to permit alteration in the service charge, he said that since some slight modification in regulations governing metal supply had been made some 4,000 rural and 2,000 urban applications for new installations had been accepted.

The Commission hoped to act on these as soon as possible but the program would depend on how soon labor and materials were available.

The commissioner also disclosed the Commission plans to have superintendents of rural power districts so placed that they will be readily available to farmers for advice and consultation.

The announcements said the enemy's attempts to disrupt the bomber formations were "without success."

Exclusive of the enemy fighters destroyed yesterday by bomber gunners, not yet tabulated, the American airmen claimed a total of 259 Nazi planes shot down in the two great punches at Berlin, Monday and yesterday.

Bombers on Monday knocked down 93 enemy planes for a full-day toll of 176.

While five more escorting fighters fell yesterday than on Monday, the bomber loss was almost halved—from 68 to 38 of a force of possibly 850 to 1,000.

ficial guarantee of at least £5 (about $22.25) weekly for underground workers. The government previously had insisted that extra pay for miners in difficult conditions be included in that minimum. The miners, however, contended this would nullify most of the increase since the current weekly wage amounts to about £4 9s—£3 19s minimum plus about 10 shillings extra pay.

The executive council of the Miners' Union recommended that the workers return to their pits pending discussions. Some locals, however, had voted to stay out until Saturday when the report on the London talks will be presented by union delegates.

In Wales' Rhondda Valley, one of the most famous coal-producing centres in the world, street scenes yesterday were reminiscent of the industrial depression following the First Great War.

Will Stick It Out

Groups of miners stood idly on street corners discussing the strike and vowing their determination to "stick it out" until the grievances were redressed.

"I know people are saying we are letting the soldiers down," said one miner. "But what we are doing is fighting a battle for improved conditions when they return.

"We have no dispute with the owners. They offered us an agreement to remove the anomalies but it was torpedoed because the government refused to find money, though allowing them an increase in prices."

Another miner said his minimum pay before the Porter award was £4 10s weekly, on top of which he got six shillings weekly for working in water.

He added:

"Under the government ruling, the extra allowance is included in the Porter minimum, so I only get a raise of three shillings and eight pence whereas another man on the same job who does not get the water allowance gets a raise of nine shillings and eight pence to £5 minimum. It amounts to this. The man who works in the worst conditions is being penalized.

"What we are demanding is that special allowances for exceptional work should be paid in addition to the minimum as in the past."

Farm Forum Has Production Talk

LIFFORD LINE, March 9 (ENS) —Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Staples entertained the Yelverton Farm Forum at their home this week when twenty-six people were present.

Victor Malcolm, president, divided the guests by numbers into three groups for separate discussion following the radio broadcast on the subject, "How Can Farmers Meet Production Objectives." Certain agricultural production objectives were set for 1943 by the Agricultural Supplies Board of Canada, and questions on these were answered by each group, with a lively discussion which included the experiences of individual farmers in this locality.

Each group secretary tabulated the decisions made regarding each question. When the alloted time had expired, the three groups joined together to hear the report of the various secretaries. A few additional opinions were offered before the conclusion of this part of the program. The group accepted the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, to meet at their home next Monday evening.

Miss Edna Robinson took charge of an interesting recreational period. A number of educational quizz questions were answered in writing, George Timms winning with the highest number of correct answers. A spool winding stunt was carried on by Mrs. Sheckleton and Mrs. Timms. Four men enjoyed a "Boarding House Reach" contest in which Mr. Offa Staples was the winner. Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

The Farm Forum secretary was prepared to immediately record the opinions of the group on the "Forum Findings" sheet provided by the Provincial secretary and to send the completed sheet to the Provincial office where it would receive due consideration.

Gadd was formerly employed in the Quaker Oats office.

Last Voyageur, Wm. Harris, Dies In Hospital

William Harris, last surviving Peterborough member of the expedition of Canadian lumberjacks and rivermen who were recruited in 1884 to take British Army reinforcements up the River Nile to the relief of Gen. Gordon at Khartoum, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday after an illness of two weeks. In failing health for some time, death came in his 89th year.

One of 400 men to volunteer at the call of Lord Wolseley when the relief expedition was being formed, Mr. Harris was at the time working east of Havelock helping to build the C.P.R. line. Fourteen lumberjacks from Peterborough and a large quota of Douro settlers were among the battalion which made up the Canadian Voyageurs, first Dominion unit to serve on the far-flung fronts of the British Empire.

Born on the 18th Line of Smith the son of Ammon Harris and Elizabeth Pearson, William Harris spent nine years logging in Cavendish before he worked on the railroad. He was 30 years old at the time the Canadian Voyageurs were formed.

Arrive Too Late

Arriving in Egypt in the fall of 1884, the Canadian unit was assigned the task of manning 36-foot flat-bottomed boats carrying troops and supplies in the long ascent up the Nile to Khartoum. After a three-month voyage, whose monotony was interspersed by encounters with rapids and cataracts, alligators and vengeful natives occasionally hurling down avalanches of rocks from the steep banks of the river, the Voyageurs came to within a mile of Khartoum in January, 1885, only to learn that the gallant Gordon and his whole garrison had been betrayed by native soldiers under his command and the entire force wiped out.

But Mr. Harris and his fellow Canadians had accomplished their allotted task, and the Voyageurs were disbanded and returned to Canada, viewing the pyramids and Sphinx on their way out and later receiving the congratulations of Queen Victoria, who presented each man with a silver medal. The Governor of Egypt, gave them all bronze medals. These mementoes Mr. Harris retained and cherished to the time of his death.

In later years he worked at his trade of carpenter, living in the city, for some time at 501 Aylmer street and more recently at 221 Brock street. Never married, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert Pollock of Lakefield.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, and service will be conducted by Rev. E. J. Whan of Park Street Baptist Church. Interment is in Lakefield Cemetery.

Co-Op Splurge Inspired By Roland Denne

With the first tests of time and experience to prove his proposals practical, it can now be told that the late Rollie Denne had an urging hand in the United Farmers' purchase of the old plant of the Maple Leaf Milling Company at George and Dalhousie streets for the manufacture of Co-Op mill feeds.

Results in rapidly expanding business during the last two years have demonstrated so far that "it can be done," and the friends of Mr. Denne who remember his faith in his ideas and his disposition of brushing aside obstacles will agree that it would have delighted him to remind them "I told you so."

Probably it was late in 1939 or after the turn of the year that the old U.F.O. Club found themselves in the necessity of obtaining new quarters. The long chain of events leading up to that position may be told in some other article. For present purposes it may be sufficient to recall that the Peterborough U.F.O. Club had purchased the interests of Ernest A. Scott in the distributing warehouse in part of the premises of the old Peterborough Cereal Company mill at the southeast corner of Simcoe and Queen streets. They had settled down in their tenancy with hopes and expectations when they learned that Dewart Brothers had purchased the plant from the Richardson milling concern, and after some time the U.F.O. was informed that the new owners would require the entire premises.

Not Thrust Out

The group of farmers were not being pushed unceremoniously out on to the street. There was not any harsh urgency about it. In fact tenants were offered the old grain warehouse on Sherbrooke street, between Bethune and Aylmer streets, whcih Dewart Brothers had outgrown and were vacating. That move did not suit the advice from source to which the U.F.O. was listening about that time, recommending them to get out on a main street, if possible. So, several of the members looked over a few available properties, the one on Sherbroke street, and the old C.P.R. freight sheds opposite the station on George street, and several others.

"Place In The Sun"

In the meantime, Mr. Denne was trying to persuade the U.F.O. to make a bold step and buy the Maple Leaf Milling Company buildings at George and Dalhousie street, and step out in the world with some confidence in themselves and their collective strength.

Rural associates of Mr. Denne, and there were many of them including the group of directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition who had been in close touch with him for years, can probably imagine now the Denne arguments

"I know you can buy that place for a song," was probably one line of his prodding. "You can't go wrong on it, and the Maple Leaf people want to get rid of it."

Milburn Impressed

One of those who came within the Denne hearing was V. S. Milburn, a fairly frequent visitor at the Denne office on Water street, opposite the market. Mr. Denne was president of the Industrial Exhibition, and Mr. Milburn had been its some time manager. Probably they had other friendly interests in common.

Mr. Denne was in the flour, feed and grain business with a warehouse at the southwest corner of Simcoe and Queen streets, but he was presumably approaching the stage of retirement. The U.F.O. Club was a competitor just across the street from him.

At that time Mr. Milburn was a director of the U.F.O. Co-Operative Company in Toronto, who were buying their requirements of mill feeds through the established channels of that branch of the cereal trade. He had absorbed the Denne persuasion to the point of proposing to other directors of the Co-Operative that they look into the idle mill at Peterborough, then occupied only by cobwebs and a long accumulation of dust.

Grabbed By Tweed

Howard Clemes and R. J. Scott came down from Toronto to look over the place which Mr. Denne said could be bought for a song, according to Mr. Denne's estimate, and the directors immediately engaged a real estate agent to make some enquiries. They secured an option on the property, according to one reminiscence of proceedings at that stage, but before they could exercise it they learned that a Tweed milling concern had stepped in and in some manner outbid the U.F.O.

That was a keen disappointment because by that time the farmers had kindled something like a possessive interest in the place. Apparently nothing was left to the precarious tenants, but to begin all over again in their quest for a suitable property for the moving day which they could not long defer in the face of the considerate convenience Dewart Brothers were extending.

Several of the Co-Operative directors felt that the Tweed deal might not go through in the circumstances of an active and advancing market, and to abbreviate the intermediate happenings the day came when they learned that the Maple Leaf mill was available.

The rest was a quick deal by which the property was bought for $8,000, according to The Examiner's information, by a complete cycle of events the mill returned to original rural ownership, and the U.F.O. took possession on January 1, 1940.

The U.F.O. Club members celebrated their new status of ownership with a moving "bee" on that 1940 Dominion Day, transferring their stock in trade, seed grain, binder twine, fertilizer, salt and a lot of other goods to their new estate at Dalhousie and George streets.

NOT "FLIGHTY" EITHER—History is made by the bucketful these days, but Sgt. Laura Baker of Port Arthur has her own claim to fame. She's the first C.W.A.C. to act as storewoman for Canada's Paratroops at Shilo Camp, Man., and also the first member of the fair sex to wear Sergeant's stripes at the Canadian Parachute Training Centre. Her parents live in Fernie, B.C. She joined the C.W.A.C. in March, 1943. (Canadian Army Photo)

Victoria Park Fountain Given To Peterboro By Two Citizens

The fact that the fountain in Victoria Park has been in the news lately prompted an investigation as to its origin. This is to be found in the record of the proceedings at the Town Council meeting of March 16, 1885.

Incidentally the opening of that meeting produced a humorous example of municipal repartee. The Council Chamber at that time was lit by gas and on that evening the gas lighting system failed to function and at first there was only available an oil lamp on the clerk's table. One member of the Council suggested that when Mr. X took his seat there would be plenty of gas. "Yes," retorted another, "there will be lots of gas but no light." However, another lamp was produced and the reporters did their work by the light of a candle.

The question of the condition of the Court House Park, as Victoria Park was then known, was brought before the meeting by a deputation from the Horticultural Society headed by J. H. Roper. He said the matter of improving and beautifying the Court House Park had been under consideration by the society. At the last session the County Council had made a grant of $75 for five years and were prepared to grant them a lease for 25 years. The grounds would be laid out at once, shrubs and flowers planted, and paths and walks constructed. Towards the initial capital expenditure the society were asking for a grant of $300 by the Council. The society would support the scheme financially to the limit of its ability. The only object in view was to foster a love of the beautiful and provide a pleasing place of resort for the townsmen. It was stated that there would be bi-weekly band concerts as in the previous summer.

Mayor James Stevenson said he had been active in trying to get something done as Peterborough was very much behind the times in the matter of parks. Further Mr. George A. Cox and himself would agree at their own expense to provide a fountain. The Water Company would provide, free of charge, water for the fountain and for watering the grounds, shrubs, flowers, etc.

Members of the Council at that time were: Mayor, James Stevenson; members, T. Cahill, W. S Davidson, T. Kelly, J. McNaughton, W. H. Moore, J. McClelland, William Yelland, T. Douglas, A. Rutherford, T. Menzies, James Kendry, J. J. Hartley, a list which contains many well-known Peterborough names.

Trocadero Club Renews Permit

Louis Yeotes, proprietor of the Trocadero Club, formerly the Piccadilly, informed The Examiner today that he had received Wednesday a renewal of his operating license.

"It cost me a year ago $95 for electrician's charges to have work done in putting up a rear exit light which I thought settled the matter," Mr. Yeotes stated. "The deputy fire marshal of Ontario was here at the time and went with Chief Gimblett to look at the place. I ask them to make out a plan of what they wanted, so that it could be turned over to the electrician who was the one doing the work for me, as I did not know anything about it.

"About a month ago I learned that Chief Gimblett wanted to see me. I was in Toronto that day, but I met him later on the street, and he told me there would have to be a second light, that the first one was not put in the right place. I told him that I would look into this matter, but you cannot get an electrician just when you want him these days. Probably I did seem to the Council as being somewhat slow in getting this work done, but I certainly intended to have it done in spite of the fact that the work that was ordered a year ago cost me $95, and at that time I felt that everything was fixed up satisfactory.

Pretty Drastic

"I did not change the plan for the lights. It seemed to me the Council was pretty drastic in ordering immediate closing of the Trocadero in view of everything, and when I heard about it Tuesday I immediately went to the city hall and learned what was required. It was a two-hour job to have the extra light put in and I got the license and I hope the arrangement is now what the authorities demand.

"I might add that the girls of Loblaw's had arranged for a party last night, and when they read of the Council's action they cancelled their engagement for the Trocadero, although I then had the license. But they felt alarmed that something was wrong, and there was nothing more that I could do about it. Mrs. Yeotes, my wife, was in charge of the club and it was a great disappointment to her because she was glad to have the Loblaw girls coming there. And it meant a loss to her of I suppose $50.

"But I would like the public to know that I did what I thought was wanted, and the work cost me enough, and I was not just going on not paying any attention to the requirements. What I was told not so long ago was that the one light which the electricians had put up over the exit was not put in the right place, and for that reason I would have to put up another near by."

Appeals For Soldiers

NEW YORK, March 9 — (AP).— Gen. Walther Von Unruh, head of the German Military Conscription Service, has appealed for 800,000 soldiers by May 1 to fill the "gaps caused by losses on the Eastern front as well as in Italy," the Stockholm newspaper Aftontidingen said in a dispatch reported last night by the Office of War Information.

Mexico Ready

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—(AP). —President Manuel Avila Camacho told the Mexican air force yesterday that it would carry the red-white-and-green flag of Mexico into battle before the war is over and said, "I am now ready to fix the date for going." He was speaking at a luncheon given pilots who participated in a big air show here this week.

More Confusion

OTTAWA, March 9 — (CP). — B. C. Diltz, Professor of English at Ontario College of Education, Toronto, last night expressed the opinion that vocational guidance by "so-called experts" is a waste of public funds and one cause of much of the confusion existing in education. He was addressing a meeting of Ottawa Catholic Teachers' Association.

Otonabee Gift Gives Aid To War Victims

Born of real necessity, one of the most outstanding things brought to light during the progress of the war, has been the huge amount of what was formerly considered as mere waste and of no account, which could when the need arose, be put to much useful account.

In the aggregate this must have amounted to a sum of really staggering proportions, a source of national wealth which from out of the lessons gained from this experience, might very well serve as a guide for the future which could hardly afford to be overlooked.

Recently the Township of Otonabee under the guidance of its Council, instituted a Salvage drive which was successful in not only raising a nice sum of money, but also assisted to quite some extent in the general war effort.

From the monetary proceeds of this effort, still further good for the country's cause is going to proceed, for all of it was divided among worthy war charities, among which the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund finds a place with a donation of $25 which is recorded to their credit to-day per Thomas Weir, clerk-treasurer.

Many different groups in this one township have given assistance to the fund on former occasions, among which their school children have played a prominent part, and this latest gift was really made possible through the splendid work the children did in collecting the salvage from which this money was raised.

Grafton's Staff Helps.

Among the latest groups to adopt the habit of passing the box around on pay days to help the fund, the staff at Grafton's Ltd. Store have by this means raised the sum of $5.10 credited in their name today.

This group has given help in various ways on former occasions, and this latest effort besides giving promise of a continuance, might also be an inspiration for similar ones to follow suit on behalf of the good work that the fund seeks to carry on.

Then the Coffee Club again creeps into the picture with the holding of a small draw on a letter rack made and donated by Hurrell Dodds, which is responsible for another $1.45 listed in to-day's receipts.

Auburn Social.

For quite some time, Auburn School No. 11, Douro has been active on behalf of the fund, and through the medium of social evenings held for that purpose, have raised well $100 for the cause. Another of these attractive events is to be held this Friday evening, March 10, and they will be glad to greet anyone who cares to share with them in their social activities and participate in the joy of doing something for others in need.

Visiting Rinks Are Eliminated

TORONTO, March 9. —(CP)— The last of 8 visiting rinks—Miss H. Spears, Hamilton Vics—was eliminated from play in the annual Frank night in the semi-finals.

The Vics, however, went down Shannon trophy competition last fighting and gave Mrs. C. Robertson's Granite quartette a keen tussle which was decided only in an extra end. The score was 9-8.

Mrs. E. M. Thompson of Granites, continued her victory march with an 11-4 win over Mrs. Medland in the semi-final.

Mrs. Robertson, last year's winner, will meet Mrs. Thompson in the final to-day.

12,000 Reds Die

LONDON, March 9 — (CP). — Twelve thousand Soviet citizens perished in a German concentration camp near the town of Slavyta in the Kamenets area which had been reconquered by the Red Army, the Soviet Information Bureau said last night in a statement broadcast by the Moscow radio.

NOW IN ENGLAND—Mr. and Mrs. John Waldron, 100 Stewart Street, have received word from their son, Pte. John Waldron of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, of his arrival overseas. Before enlisting, he worked in the structural steel, C.G.E. His father, pictured with him, is a veteran of both the Boer War and World War 1. He too, is an employee of the C.G.E.

Percy Holland Gets 6 Weeks

Convicted of receiving stolen property, Percy Holland was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to six weeks in the county jail.

Holland pleaded not guilty to the charge and was not represented by counsel, while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Officer Archie Menzies testified that on Monday afternoon he arrested Holland and Harold Brooks on Charlotte street on a charge of vagrancy.

"When we brought them to the police station and Holland was getting out of the police car this windbreaker dropped out from under his coat," the officer stated, producing a windbreaker that was put in as an exhibit.

Officer Menzies stated that the only explanation Holland had made was that he had obtained the windbreaker from a man on the street.

Harry Schwartz, manager of the Pattenick store, identified the windbreaker as the property of that store. He said that on Monday or Tuesday when he came back to the store after lunch he had noticed that half a dozen windbreakers were missing.

Marion Whitmore, clerk in the Pattenick store, also identified the windbreaker and swore that none had been sold during the time Schwartz was at lunch.

Holland's story was that he and another man had met two men from Marmora in the rest-room at the market square. The Marmora men, accused said, had produced two windbreakers and asked Holland and his companion to sell them, promising to buy a case of beer.

"I asked them if they were stolen and they said they were not," Holland stated.

The accused said that he had been trying to sell the windbreaker on Charlotte street when he was arrested. "I don't think we had them more than 15 minutes," he said.

Holland admitted to the crown attorney that he had been previously convicted on a number of charges under the Narcotic Dugs Act and that he had been convicted here in January on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

"He got a month then. I'll make it six months this time," said Magistrate Langley.

A vagrancy charge against Holland was dismissed on the announcement from the crown that no evidence would be offered.

Harold Brooks, also charged with receiving stolen goods and with vagrancy was at his own request remanded until tomorow. He intimated that he wanted some time to prepare his defence.

Co-Op Doubles Patrons Dividend

Peterborough District Co-Operative Service will announce at their annual meeting Friday night patronage dividends for 1943 amounting to $6,202.17 as compared with $3,300 for the previous year.

The financial statement will be part of the business affairs at the annual meeting Friday night in Co-Operative Hall. Herb. H. Hannan, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, has been invited to attend as special speaker for this occasion.

This is the fourth annual meeting of the District Co-Operative Services. The organization acquired their plant at George and Dalhousie Streets, July 1. 1940, and held their first annual meeting in the following winter.

Rural Peterborough should regard Herb Hannan as an old friend. At least he has come into the district from time to time addressing meetings for the advancement of farm organizations and educations, and to-day he is head of the comparatively new rural structure, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, with offices in Ottawa.

Mr. Hannan and those national offices personify the recent progress of farm sentiment and ambition to acquire a position of influence commensurate with the importance of agriculture in the life of Canada.

Co-Op business will include the election of directors for 1944.

A Definite Plan

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP).—Ald. K. B. McKellar last night asked representatives of air raid precautions organizations throughout Toronto to assist in the fight against juvenile delinquency. About 30,000 men would be able to assist in the plan. Ald. McKellar suggested that the wardens form neighborhood recreational groups that could encourage stamp collecting and music as hobbies and form teams for baseball, hockey, football and other sports along community lines.

Mrs. E. N. Welch, 233 Prince street, was hostess for the meeting, and Mrs. M. Stokes presided. An excellent report on the penny-a-day system of giving was read. "Truth" was the theme of the devotional period taken by Mrs. E. M. Davis. Mrs. Earle Wood and Mrs. V. Davies sang "No Night Without a Star," accompanied by Mrs. George Wallace.

Refreshments were served by the social committee at the close of the meeting.

Army Auxiliary Plans Special Care for Wounded

The Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary will send a letter and cigarettes, to be followed by a parcel, to every Peterborough boy who is wounded in action, it was decided at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary, held Wednesday afternoon in the Armouries. The decision followed a report given by Mrs. R. T. F. Brain on a meeting with members of the Citizens' Comfort Committee, concerning the obtaining of names of Peterborough casualties. The sum of $25 was set aside to send these comforts to boys on the list now in the hands of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. J. Turnbull, reporting for the Salvage committee, said that the Army, Navy and Air Force Auxiliaries, the Victory Workers, and the Catholic Women's League would divide equally the proceeds of the recent salvage drive, amounting to approximately $200. Sixty-two thousand, one hundred and ten pounds of salvage were collected, and 1,070 pounds of grease, collected by the Girl Guides, was also handed in. Mrs. Turnbull said that the groups concerned gratefully acknowledged the help in advertising given the campaign by various industries in Peterborough, and every member to co-operate in the new drive, which will begin April 10.

Knit 70 Pairs Socks

Mrs. H. G. Mason reported for the knitting committee, saying that 70 pairs of socks had been given out, and that 200 knitted articles, as well as a quantity of wool, were on hand.

Mrs. J. Turnbull, acting convener of the visiting committee, explained how the city had been divided into sections, to facilitate the contacting of all families of casualties. Mrs. B. D. Hall told of one visit to a member whose son was recently killed.

A letter from Mr. G. K. Fraser, M.P., and extracts from Hansard were read. The letter concerned a communication recently sent to Mr. Fraser, dealing with the delay in mail being forwarded to soldiers in hospital. Mr. Fraser presented the question to the House, but little satisfaction was received.

Mrs. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, who presided in the absence of Mrs. J. A. Dewart, explained that the Auxiliary had been divided into five groups, for the entertainment at evening meetings, one group to take charge each month. The treasurer reported a substantial balance on hand. The convener of the social committee, Mrs. James Morley, reporting on the tea to be held March 18, said that two draws, one for a pair of pillow slips, and the other for a cake, would be made at the tea. Tea-cup reading will be a feature of the afternoon, and there will be a sale of home cooking.

The members of the Auxiliary felt that they would like to do something for the English war brides now coming to Peterborough, and expressed a desire to welcome any who might wish to join them at any time. Refreshments were served.

Navy Auxiliary Makes $36.75 At Card Party

The proceeds of the recent card party sponsored by the Peterborough and District Women's Auxiliary to the Navy are $37.67 it was announced at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary, held Wednesday evening in the Y. W. C. A.

The proceeds of th recent salvage drive were also announced, and each group participating will receive practically $44. Another drive, to be held April 10, was announced, and the salvage will be collected in the same order as before. Volunteers for trucks will be needed, and a letter of thanks to Mrs. F. Edgar, 505 Sherbrooke street, for her assistance in the last drive, will be sent.

The wool committee reported 65 articles received, given out, and a new supply of black wool just purchased. Fourteen helpers put in 10 hours at Nicholls Hospital, helping with the mending. It was announced that if the members wished, they could take their magazines to the Post Office, instead of sending them through the Navy League. More letters of thanks for the ditty bags were received, and all the boys were unanimous in their praise of them.

Several announcement of coming events were made. A rummage sale will be held March 16, and volunteers to help make the goods, and to help with the sale, were called. A card party will be held March 21, and the draw for the quilt, on which members have been selling tickets, will be made. There are two teas being held March 18. The first is sponsored by the Army Auxiliary, and will be held in the Y.W.C.A. The other, sponsored by the Catholic Women's League, will be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The springtime tea of the Local Council of Women is planned for April 22.

Mention was made of several promotions received by Navy men, and the members expressed pride in the rapid advance in rank being made by sons of members. It was suggested that letters of congratulations be sent to the sailors and their families. A sailor has offered to make a scroll for an honor roll in his spare time, and the members voted to accept his offer and prepare an honor roll for the Auxiliary. Six new members were welcomed, Mrs. E. M. Austin, Mrs. J. A. White, Mrs. G. Close, Mrs. W. Jewell, Mrs. G. Fallen and Mrs. F. Smith.

The president, Mrs. F. Merritt, announced that the books were being audited by Mr. E. Humpage. The question of procuring membership cards was discussed, and members expressed a desire to have the navy crest on their cards. The date for the tag day was set for September 16. It was also decided that the names of members be drawn, and that one name be put in each ditty bag sent out.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

TIME AFFECTS MARITAL WOES

Differences Between Mates Usually Chronic Before Action to Correct Conditions.

THE trouble about solving the family problems that drench the world in woe is that by the time we get around to trying to do something about them it is too late. The condition has grown chronic. What was merely a slight unpleasantness to start with has developed into a fatal malady that no herb, nor simple advice, nor even the surgery of divorce can cure.

Take, for instance, the arguing habit that has wrecked more homes than all the major and minor sins. Apparently it is an innocent indoor sport in which husbands and wives can spend their evenings, but, in reality, it is a far more dangerous diversion than stalking lions or taming cobras. For once let a couple turn marriage into a debating society and the dove of peace gives a loud squawk and flees the premises.

Happy Marriages Ruined

Every work becomes a fighting word. Every subject is as good for a quarrel as a nickel is for a ginger cake. They can't discuss the weather without dragging in each other's families, and the result is either a decree absolute, or they sit up in frozen silence, afraid to speak lest they start something. It is sad to think how many dreary marriages would have been gay and happy ones if only the husbands and wives had yes-yessed each other instead of no-noed.

Then there is temper, which both husbands and wives feel that they have a perfect right to inflict upon each other, but that they would never dream of exhibiting outside of the home circle. In their rages they say insulting things to each other and accuse each other of crimes of which they know they are guiltless. And they expect to be loved in spite of the way they treat their mates. Only it doesn't happen that way. Nobody loves the unlovable. They throw away the most precious thing that any human being can have, and when they want it and need it, it is gone. Lost beyond all finding.

Then there is the mistaken belief that so many men and women have that all love-making ends at the altar, and that husbands and wives do not have to treat each other with even common politeness. Half the husbands in the world would probably drop dead with surprise if their wives should tell them how big and strong and handsome they thought they were, and how grateful they were to them for all the comforts and luxuries they gave them.

Kisses With Warmth and Joy

And goodness only knows what would happen to the wives whose husbands take them for granted and pay them no more mind than they do the vacuum cleaner and the electric ice box and the other household conveniences, if their husbands should some day tell them that they loved them better and better every day, and gave them a kiss that had some warmth to it instead of being as flabby as a cold buckwheat cake. Yet these men and women, who make marriage such a blighting disappointment to each other, could have made it a glorious adventure if only they hadn't waited to say what was in their hearts until they whispered their repentance and their heartbreak into the ears of a corpse.

We pass this way but once in marriage. If we want it to be beautiful and happy, we must make it so as we go along. There is no going back and correcting our mistakes.

OXYDOL WASHES WHITE WITHOUT BLEACHING

MINK ON THE UP AND UP—The flattering three-quarter length coat is here made with braid mink skins, pelts set upside down to age old fur style conception. No collar, turn back cuffs, are style points. The newest treatment for fine mink pelts is to reverse their natural course . . . placing the skins for a mink wrap so that the hairs point up, not down, a styling that is age old. This gives a blush aura to the fine skins, making them appear even more luxuriantly furred than they are, highlighting their color, literally. The coat above is constructed thus.—By Prunella Wood.

Some Rare Tidbits Available With Meat Off Ration List

BY MARY MOORE

Don't let the idea go to your head — or your hips — but oh, the roast beef, steak, pork chops, bacon — what a Roman feast we can have this week-end.

Savory Roast Bacon Roll

A stunt you can now do if you are one of the "two-timers": housekeeper and holder-of-a-job is to buy about a 4-lb. piece of smoked back bacon. Cut off about 1 lb. to keep raw for slicing and frying. Boil the other piece one hour. Let it cool in water in which it was boiled. Lift from water and after patting fat side with tea towel to dry it, put over the fat surface a mixture of 1-3 cup brown sugar, mixed with 2 teaspoons mustard. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until nicely browned and heated through — about ½ hour.

This is delicious the first time hot — but its very best feature is its cold flavour — it can be sliced off at a moment's notice and makes the world's best sandwich. Lunch packers please note.

You will note meat stretchers are conspicuous by their absence in this little offering—nothing's stuffed, nothing's extended — it's all good he-man's meat that you can sink your teeth in.

Steak with Tomato Sauce

Ask the butcher to cut you 1½ lb. piece steak 3-4-inch thick — and if he has that coupon look in his eye stare him down. Pound into it 1-4 cup flour to which you have added 1 teaspoon salt and 1-16 teaspoon pepper. Sear the steak in frying-pan with a small amount of fat. When well browned on both sides pour 1 cup tomato juice over cover and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until meat is tender — about 2 hours. More tomato juice may be needed as it bakes. Serve jacket baked potatoes with this, and a nice tossed salad.

Pork Chops Supreme

Six lean pork chops, 6 thin slices lemon, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup catsup. Place chops in a casserole or baking dish and on each place a thin slice lemon. Sprinkle generously with brown sugar. Add catsup. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 3-4 hr., uncovering during last 15 minutes.

City Chicken

(2 kinds meat) One lb. veal cutlet, 1 slice pork from top of fresh ham or shoulder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 egg, 1-2 to 3-4 cup fine crumbs (for crumbing, not stuffing), 2 tablespoons fat, 1 cup milk or cream sauce or canned cream soup. Scald and wipe wooden skewers. Cut meat in 1-inch squares, sprinkle with salt, pepper and onion juice. Insert skewers in centre of pieces of meat alternating the veal and pork and using 5 or 6 pieces on each skewer. Dip in beaten egg, then in crumbs. Brown in hot fat and place in casserole or baking dish. Pour over milk or cream sauce, cover and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour. Delicious with either grape or currant jelly served as a relish.

Just for the very heck of it buy a little extra veal to boil for a jellied veal salad or jellied veal loaf — you can serve these for lunch or supper — and wonder of wonders have meat twice that day.

At your grocer's in two convenient sizes . . . also in improved FILTER tea balls.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: I am asking you if you could tell me what is wrong with the following recipe? If it is the oven temperature that is at fault or what is wrong?

The name of the dessert is Lemon Sponge: 2 tablespoons butter, or other shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 egg yolks beaten with 1 cup sweet milk, juice and grated rind 1 lemon, 2 teaspoons flour, pinch of salt, 2 egg whites beaten stiff. Cream butter, add sugar (mix thoroughly) add flour (mix thoroughly), and grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, and mix well, add egg yolks beaten with milk, mix well, then fold in beaten egg whites, cook in dish set in pan of warm water. Cook at oven temperature of 325 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour or more until it comes out free when a knife if plunged into it. When cooked there are two parts —the sponge on top and custard below; mine is always thin like water. Could you tell me if a pie filling can be sweetened with the use of saccharin without adding sugar also? If not how much of each would be needed to take the place of 1 cup granulated sugar only. How many grains of saccharin are equivalent to 1 cup granulated sugar? One grain saccharin is equal to 4 teaspoons sugar. In cake making how much saccharin and sugar are equivalent to 1 cup granulated sugar? In making orange sponge dessert would one need as much sweetening as in lemon sponge pudding?

MARION COOTE.

ANSWER: There are a few minor changes to make in the Lemon Sponge recipe: reduce the milk to ¾ cup, increase flour to 1 tablespoon, increase temperature to 350 deg. Fahr. and time to 45 minutes. I am familiar with this pudding. It must be served cold and chilled either outside or in refrigerator.

Saccharin should not be used to completely substitute for sugar because your volume is so substantially reduced. However for apple filling you can replace ½ cup of the sugar called for with 8½-grain saccharin tablets if 1 cup sugar is the total requirement in the recipe.

It is not wise for me to tell you a substitute in saccharin for a total cup of sugar because the sweetening power differs in different foods. However in a cake not much change in texture can be noticed if you use 8½-grain or 4 whole-grain saccharin tablets in place of ½ cup sugar when 1 cup sugar is called for in the recipe.

If the rind and juice of 1 orange are used in place of the rind and juice of 1 lemon to make an Orange Sponge you may reduce the sugar to ¾ cup in place of 1 cup.

Hoping these suggestions help you in your sugar conservation, and that we can be of help again.

Question: I would like to have more information on reducing. My problem is my waistline and hips—they are expanding. I have been wearing a size 16 and could continue only my hips demand an 18 size. I hope you can send me a few real strenuous exercise.

L. V. MEREDITH.

ANSWER—I wish I could too, but I can speak with sympathy for it takes more than exercise. Could you make yourself do these few things and see if you get results: Drink a glass of skim milk before starting to eat any meal—this fills your stomach and you don't eat so much—and get away from the table before you are tempted to add a few more tidbits.

Walk at least 1 mile per day. If you are a housewife make it your business to walk and select your groceries and meats and other merchandize. Starting with five and working up to 20, lie on the floor and lift your legs, both of them at the same time, to a right-angled position. Do 20 of these night and morning. Starting holding in your abdominal muscles—until you can hold them in all day long.

Question: I would like to know if you have a recipe for making prepared mustard for table use. I have a certain amount of dry mustard on hand and would like to use it for the table. I have a number of lunches to make and I could use it for this also.

Thanking you,

MRS. YVONNE M.

Answer:

Prepared Mustard

No. 1: 3 tablespoons mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 egg slightly beaten, 1 cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon salad oil. Mix dry ingredients, add slowly egg, then vinegar, mixing smooth. Set over low fire, cook 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Let cool, beat in oil. This is mild.

No. 2: 2 teaspoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons salad oil ½ cup mustard. Mix salt and sugar, add oil, mix smooth. Mix vinegar and mustard smooth. Combine mixtures. This makes a rather sharp mustard. It may be thinned with hot water or made milder by more oil.

Jellied cabbage salad
Peach Betty pudding
Cream, Coffee

Note.—We will all tend to buy meats that were rationed, but I made these sweet and sour spareribs for a buffet supper last week and they were so popular I think you will thank me for reminding you of them: Cut spareribs so that the meat is left on both sides of one rib—this means half the ribs are dicarded or used for soup or the pup. Cut the prepared ribs (or chop them) in halves—so that each piece makes a large bite. Dip in unsweetened fritter batter and fry in deep fat until golden. Place in baking pan, and pour over them a sauce made from ½ cup corn syrup, the vinegar from a 4-oz. bottle sweet pickles, the chopped pickles from same bottle, and ¼ to ⅓ cup catsup. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about ½ hour, stirring and basting twice during baking.

SOUTH AFRICAN AMNESTY

PRETORIA, South Africa —(CP) — All prisoners undergoing sentences of three months or less, except servicemen in prison for military or naval offences, have been released from jail throughout the Union.

EVENING BEAUTY—Ascribe it to the men in the armed forces, ascribe it to the desire for most of us to climb into something graceful and lovely once in a while, or for some special occasion, but whatever the reason, the long-skirted dinner dress is a best seller all over the country! The best dresses of this type are likely to be basic frocks that make a pretty background for jewelry, a chiffon scarf or flowers. Celanese rayon jersey is used for this charming frock, designed with a new horizontal shirring in front, and a weskit outline at the waist, both for slimming effect.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore,—I find dessert the hardest thing to invent—my family aren't satisfied with plain fruit—they want a sweet, a cookie or a piece of cake or pudding or pie to finish off a meal with. I have tried giving them dried black figs and raisins but it's o good—they want cake!

Please come to my rescue! If you know any magic way of making sugar go further for goodness sake tell us. There is one bright side to this picture though. I have stopped taking sugar in my tea and coffee and eat eggs instead of cereal for breakfast, and for some reason I am losing weight—which pleases me no end —I now only tip the scales at 165!

I'm writing to you one of my discoveries:

Prune Tapioca (Lorna Carter)

One-half lb. dried prunes, 3 cups water, 2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, 3 tablespoons honey. Cook prunes in water until they are tender. Pour off juice, cool and add to it the honey and tapioca. Cook in top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water for about 15 minutes, until tapioca is clear. Mash prunes to pulp and combine with juice. Chill and serve with cream. I serve this with a little cinnamon toast and it is sweet enough to satisfy my brood.

Don't forget to let us have some desserts that will eke out our sugar before long.—Thanks from L. Carter.

Thanks from M. Moore! I'll work on it—but I can see you still believe in magic.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Are you ready for Easter? The styles are so smart that everyone should be able to get the very coat, suit, dress and hat about which they have been dreaming.

A lovely double-breasted, tight fitting coat, in grey. With this, wear a green blouse made high at the neck. A small grey hat, with two quills the same shade as the waist, also gloves to match the waist.

Another striking costume, a black tailored dress, high at the throat, with a simple bow tied to finish the collar. Over this wear a beige coat with black collar and fastened with jet buttons. A small tricorn hat in black with flat ostrich trim, and black gloves. This can be worn by either the middle-aged or the younger set.

Suits and more suits for morning, afternoon or evening, there is a suit for every time in the day.

Whatever time of spring day it is, whatever you may be doing, you may be quite correctly wearing a suit. For the forenoon, high noon, afternoon, there is none more crisp and satisfying than the cutaway suit or the cardigan suit. For the spring twilight there is nothing more glamorous than the suit. Almost every suit you can name, the box-suit, the cardigan suit, the bolero, the shirtwaist-jacket suit and the belted tunic, all look right this season.

In days like these, when practicability is one of the prime requisites for clothes, hardy fabrics such as men' swear suiting, hound's tooth checks, worsteds, and many others, look better than in times when they were worn simply to imitate the men. They are used this spring in dressmaker-type suits rather than the very man-tailored versions.

It is interesting to note that designers, who normally excel in the completely classic suits, are making jacket and skirts that contrast. While most suits are a federation of neutrals, greys, beiges, etc., color occurs in strange and wonderful ways. For instance, many a suit jacket has a brilliant lining and a blouse to match. A beige box-jacket may be lined in black and have a black jumper. Do not combine navy with black, or just black, or navy blue solid, put touches of bright color on these dark shades and see the new effect it has.

Against a grey-and-white striped suit, pose a black belt, a black neck bow, paper-crisp white blouse, a white beret and gloves, and the only way to describe it is to say it is stunning and very wearable. Now for a word about the new spring dresses. Some styles are plainly tailored, others of the more dressy type. A dress of simple, classic lines played up by saucer like buttons, fastening it at the side. The slim skirt has tailored seamings that do a clever job of giving the whole dress the unaffected smartness of the faultless casual.

Home and School

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

Mr. L. H. Bird spoke to the regular meeting of Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association on the subject, "Planting and Care of Home Grounds." He illustrated his talk with excellent pictures, and the large audience enjoyed his instructive address. Mrs. C. Doughty presided at the meeting, held Wednesday evening in the school, and Miss M. Munro read the Home and School prayer.

Miss L. Drope sang two solos, and Misses Lila and Elizabeth Milburn played two numbers on their guitars. The announcement was made that the school would present "An evening with Stephen Foster," March 16. A number of new members were welcomed, and the vote of thanks was given by Mr. T. Davies.

Labor's Leader Extols 2-Party System

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 9 — (CP). — The House of Commons listened quietly and patiently as Arthur Greenwood, Labor's House Leader, condemned the sins of present-day electoral procedure and extolled the virtues of reforms he was recommending.

He went along innocuously enough until, with the same effect as fireworks in a museum, he let fall:

"Complication of parties tends to confuse political issues.... We have, I think, arrived at the time when the people outside the two predominant parties should make up their minds under which umbrella they will come. It is in the interests of political controversy that issues should be as clearly defined as possible, and the two-party system, if it can be achieved, is obviously the best system."

There was no mistaking his meaning— in effect elimination of the minority Liberals and others—and there was no mistaking where the resultant eruption would originate. Sir Percy Harris, the Liberals' House Leader, led the attack.

He resented "profoundly" Greenwood's suggestion and "that we should force the electors to vote for either one party or the other and that minorities have no rights of representation.... is the doctrine of Hitler, of a totalitarian state."

Sir Percy reminded Greenwood that not long ago Labor was the third party and "in the gamble of politics" it, or the Conservative Party, might find itself in the minority position in five or six years.

James Maxton, Independent Labor Party member for Bridgeton, sketched for the House during a pensions debate this futuristic portrait of himself:

"I have made no adequate provision for my later years and sometimes I picture myself standing on a curbstone playing a musical instrument to earn myself a competence. What the musical instrument will be I will not tell. I am not going to unburden myself of the innermost secrets of my soul. My only fears are that someone will come along and say, 'Look at that fellow. He used to be the member for Bridgeton.' I wouldn't mind that, but I am quite sure the rest of you wouldn't like it."

Cmdr. Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative, wants long House service recognized. He tables a motion asking approval of payment to a member of 15 years or longer standing one-third of his annual indemnity on retirement. On his death, the member's widow would receive a quarter of the indemnity. Present annual pay of members is £600 (about $2,670).

5 Of Bomber Crew Perish In North Sea

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, March 9—(CP)—Ten bomber crew men had to bail out into the icy North sea—five of them to their death, when their last engine quite two minutes from the English coast as they were returning from Monday's Berlin raid.

"Two minutes more and we would have made it," said Pilot Lt. Elmer B. Crockett, Hampton, Va.

"Although my boys knew they might never be picked up in time, before they jumped they were betting on who would hit the water first," he said.

Crockett added that "I was only in the water 10 minutes, but I was so cold and numb I couldn't help myself when a British Navy launch saved me. An Englishman dived in the water to get me out. Another 30 seconds and I would not have got back here."

Lodge Holds Euchre

HAVELOCK, March 9 (ENS) — Ten tables of progressive euchre were played on Tuesday night at the regular card party of Dorcas Rebekah Lodge. Prizes were awarded for the three highest scores, with Mrs. James Wiley of Arden winning first prizes, Charles Taylor the second and Mrs. William Rice, the third prize.

The last card party of the season will be held on Monday, April 3, when the lucky draw for the War Savings Certificate will be made.

61 Rescued From Hull Of Sinking Ship

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 9 (CP)—Rescued after clinging 38 hours to the after-section of a torpedo-sundered ship in an Atlantic blizzard, 61 Allied seamen have been brought to this port aboard a rescue vessel.

Besides the sailors landed here, 11 survivors of the torpedoed merchant vessel have been taken to an American port by a cargo ship which picked them off liferafts and boats.

All crew members were saved and none was injured seriously.

The sailors recounted how their vessel broke cleanly in halves two minutes after the torpedo hit.

Hero of the experience, according to AB. O. G. Haggert of Harbor Beach, Mich., one of the survivors, was 21-year-old Charlie Cleveman of Boston, Mass., the vessel's "utility boy."

"Charlie was one of the first to get off," said Haggert. "He was a plucky kid, he jumped from the side of the ship on to a tossing raft. It was tougher for Charlie because he had a German and Italian revolver he had picked up in Naples stuffed in his pockets and was holding the ship's cat, Blackout, in a pillow slip.

"I told him to give up the cat before he jumped, but he wouldn't. The raft was tossing below him in a 25 or 30-foot sea, but he made it, cat and all."

King Of Arabia Gets Lend-Lease Aid

CAIRO, March 9—(AP)—A 3,000-pound plane-load of rifles, ammunition and helmets has been delivered directly to King Ibn Saud at an isolated Saudi Arabian oasis as a token of larger deliveries of lend-lease war materials, United States Army Headquarters announced to-day.

The arms delivery was preceded by a shipment to Ibn Saud of $1,250,000 in Saudi Arabian coins minted in the United States under lend-lease.

Discussions are under way on a contemplated, United States-sponsored oil pipeline from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean.

Says Quebec Favored In Liquor Act

EDMONTON, March 9 — (CP) — Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, asserted in the Alberta Legislature yesterday that "some of the eastern provinces were tipped off" to the war-time alcoholic beverage order of 1942.

He charged the Dominion government "fixed the base year to give the greatest advantage to Quebec."

Mr. Low, referring to liquor-rationing said, "I can only say that the Dominion government created gross inequalities as between the amounts allowed to the various provinces under their wartime order by the way in which they went about it."

Alberta's monthly ration is 13 ounces of liquor, 12 pints of beer, and one 26-ounce bottle of wine.

Orville Craig Is Driver Of Death Car

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP) — Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said to-day an inquest will be held into the death of Shirley Faulkner, 10, fatally injured in West Toronto last night when struck by a car police said was driven by Orville Craig, 30, formerly of Peterborough.

Craig told police the child ran into the path of his car. He was not held.

The death of the girl brought Toronto's 1944 traffic death this year to 11, compared with 10 in the same period in 1943.

KEEP YOUR WITS ABOUT

YOU MUST keep your wits about you when you are up against players who may bid short suits. Waiting to see what will develop is not always the best course when one of them has bid the suit you expected to call yourself. Frequently the best policy prescribes positive action of some kind, if your hand is pretty strong, so that your partner will have enough confidence to disclose his distribution.

West thought he was very smart in passing the diamond bid the first time. After North raised, and it came to him the second time, he couldn't figure out just what to do. He was afraid to double now, for fear his partner might consider it a takeout or informatory double, and would bid spades, in which he was blank. So he decided to pass. His pair happened to take all but four tricks, setting the contract four, for a paltry score of 200 points.

If West had doubled or bid clubs the first time, a game would have been a virtual certainty. No matter what North did then, East would have been willing to bid his spades opposite him, even though vulnerable. West could have kept it open then with 3-Clubs, whereupon East could have bid 3-Hearts, and West could have chanced 4-Hearts. There was a fine chance to make that contract, worth a lot more than a mere 200.

Vocational Schools Have Played Big Part In Canada's War Effort

BY JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP)—War has brought new emphasis to some phases of education in Canada, it is indicated in a survey of Provincial Education authorities by the Canadian Press.

As a whole there has been new attention paid to Cadet Training and citizenship has gained a more important place in the corriculum of many schools. Salvage drives, recently centred on the collection of waste paper, have given Canadian school children a direct part in Canada's war effort and large sums of money have been loaned through purchases of War Savings Stamps.

Vocational training schools have had an increasingly important place and regular day students have made a valuable contribution through their vocational school work in making model airplanes which have been used for training Air Students in recognition.

Of even more direct use has been the service of established vocational schools in providing training facities for potential war workers. In these schools both students of the senior grades about to leave school and take employment and men and women of more mature years have been trained for industrial war work.

Under the Dominion Government's War Emergency Training program—largely carried on in vocational schools—there has been a total enrolment of 294,723 of which the largest number, 189,564, have been trained for war industry. Others have been trained for specialized services with the armed forces and increasing use is being made of the program for the rehabilitation of veterans.

Typical of the general effect of the war on everyday school activities is the comment of Saskatchewan's Educational Minister Hubert Staines:

"Saskatchewan has emphasized cadet training in its schools since the outbreak of war. The schools have been carrying on an extensive program of patriotic activities and have sought to have pupils share fully in war activities as a principal of their citizenship training."

To Use Defence Army Soldiers On Farm If Necessary

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy told the Agricultural Committee of the Ontario Legislature today that the Federal Government has promised that members of Canada's home defence army will be made available where need this year to help sugar beet farmers.

After the meeting the Minister said in an interview that he also "felt sure" that Ottawa would make available home defence soldiers who had failed to sign up for active service, to fill the farm labor breach wherever it might arise anywhere in the Dominion.

The Minister told the first meeting of the committee that a delegation of Kent county sugar beet farmers under G. Harry Wilson, chairman of the Ontario Sugar Beet Growers' Association, had recently visited Ottawa. They had told him on their return that Federal authorities had given assurance that men called up in Canada would be provided to work in the sugar beet fields. They had been "happy" about the prospect of this extra help, the Minister said.

Mr. Kennedy did not say how many such soldiers would be made available in Ontario or other parts of Canada or how they would be paid.

The Agriculture Committee under the chairmanship of W. A. Goodfellow (PC—Northumberland) unanimously endorsed a Government bill to provide a $1.55 per ton subsidy for sugar beets as against 55 cents last year. The bill has passed second reading in the Legislature.

The Agriculture Minister said the increased subsidy would guarantee growers $11 a ton for 16 per cent. sugar content beets against $10 last year.

William Dennison (CCF—Toronto-St. David) asked the committee about the prospects of research for making beehives and frames of plastics after the war. Deputy Agriculture Minister W. R. Meek said that such experiments would be carried out at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph if the personnel could be obtained.

The Deputy Minister also told of his Department's plans to take the farmers "into partnership" in the matter of demonstration farms. He said if grass seed could be obtained it was planned this year to use legitimate farmer land instead of Government farms for demonstration of pasture. The Government would stand the cost and if the experiments were a success, would get the money back in advertising which the farmers themselves would do.

New Monetary Stabilization System Will Be Sought

OTTAWA, March 9 — (CP) — Dr. W. C. Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance, said today before the Commons reconstruction committee that a post-war return to the old gold standard system is not to be expected and that those who look for it are "day-dreaming".

Dr. Clark gave an outline of British, United States and Canadian proposals for international currency stabilization and said there had been some criticism from bankers and others that the plans for an international fund to give countries access to liquid foreign exchange reserves was too "bold".

But it could not be assumed that the gold standard would return and some method of avoiding the dangers of currency depreciation and agreements between limited numbers of trading countries should be avoided, he said. Unless there were some international arrangement the dangers of the '30's would return.

Answering Mrs. Dorise Nielson (Unity-North Battleford), Dr. Clark said he understood that the monetary stabilization plan either had been or would be discussed with representatives of Russia.

Dr. Clark said it was perhaps more necessary for Canada than for any other country to obtain a wise solution of international monetary stabilization.

Dr. Clark said Canada's foreign trade of $5,000,000,000 last year was "astounding" for a country of 12,000,000 people. This trade meant every Canadian had "a tremendous stake" in an international trade which was rising and in a trade system that worked smoothly and efficiently.

Canada exported more to the United Kingdom than she bought and therefore accumulated supplies of sterling. Canada bought more from the United States than she sold, and most of Canada's external debt today was in the United States.

Unless Canada could convert sterling into United States dollars to buy what was needed in the United States, Canada's lot "will be hard indeed."

Say No Contract For Jap Deal

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons that his impression was the Government had nothing to do with a contract between Granby Mining Corp. of Princeton, B.C., and a Japanese firm for copper in 1940.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, said that, in a return brought down for him yesterday he could find no document showing the approval of the Canadian Government for the contract.

The Prime Minister said Japan was not an enemy country for two years after the contract was made. He would draw the matter to the attention of the External Affairs Department, and have a clear statement made.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, said the Government should carefully consider matters involving the supply of materials to neutrals.

Mr. King said there had been careful consideration, and the provision of such supplies involved others as well as Canada and was a matter of general policy.

Mr. Graydon said there should be assurance that war materials were not supplied to those who might become enemies.

(Correspondence tabled yesterday included a letter dated October 22, 1940, from the Japanese Legation to the Canadian Government protesting an Order-in-Council restricting Canadian copper exports to British Empire countries and the United States. The order became effective shortly after the contract with the British Columbia firm had been renewed.)

R.C.A.F. Fliers Favor Proxy Voting

OTTAWA, March 9 — (CP) — Group Capt. D. E. Mackell of Ottawa said to-day at a meeting of the Commons Election Committee that proxy voting for members of the armed forces is favored by the R.C.A.F. to overcome administrative difficulties and provide the fullest possible coverage.

Representatives of the armed forces were called to give opinions on difficulties which would be experienced in conducting a vote in the next Federal election among the forces overseas.

Group Capt. Mackell, Director of Personnel for the R.C.A.F., said a system of direct voting, with each member of the forces actually marking a ballot, would present serious difficulties, particularly for members of the R.C.A.F. stationed at remote points.

"We should face the fact that a number of active service voters would not have an opportunity to vote," he said.

The first step in preparing for an election should be the preparation of a voters' list for the services by the Records Office, in co-operation with the Chief Electoral Officer, he said. Men could be informed on party platforms through the Wartime Information Board's publication "Canadian Affairs" which is circulated among the forces

The simplest form of proxy voting would be to have the next-of-kin in Canada automatically constituted as proxy, but with the right given each voter to change his proxy, Group Capt. Mackell said.

Methods used in voting in the First Great War were a topic of brief discussion.

Clarence Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton) said he had voted while he was in the front lines.

"You could vote as often as you liked and you hadn't the faintest idea what you were voting on," he said.

Kingston Woman Claims Statement Untrue

KINGSTON, Ont., March 9 — (CP).—Mrs. Annie May McCumber, on trial here for murder in connection with the death of the infant son of her daughter, Mrs. Rita Wagar, late yesterday swore her statement given police that she had killed the child by holding a cloth over its mouth was untrue.

"I never had my hands near its mouth," she told the jury.

Questioned by her counsel, H. L. Cartwright, regarding the statement obtained by Provincial Police Constable J. T. Truaisch last April 12, Mrs. McCumber said: "He kept at me until I came to say it."

She further testified that Walter Haley carried the baby into the kitchen after its birth. She said she followed him "but he picked up a stick and told me to go back into the bedroom. He was going to hit me." Later, Mrs. McCumber said, she saw the child lying dead on the kitchen floor.

Marshal Gregory Zhukon Returns To Lead The Victorious Red Army

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 9 — (AP) — Russia's leading professional soldier, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, is back today where he is happiest—in the field. As assistant commander-in-chief of the Red Army, second only to Marshal Stalin, the energetic Zhukov has been doing desk work co-ordinating the complicated manoeuvres of the vast Russian forces.

Now he is heading the West Ukrainian drive in his first active command since the 1941 battle of Moscow, replacing Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, who is ill.

Out there, Zhukov not only is doing the work he likes best. He is doing it in one of the regions he knows best.

Before the war Zhukov was in command of the Kiev district, the Red Army's most important military post in peacetime outside Moscow. This now is the scene of his thrust to the southwest.

Zhukov returned to Moscow in 1940 as chief of the general staff. As the Germans approached in September, 1941, he turned the general staff over to Marshal Shaposhnikov and went to command the western front, succeeding Marshal Timoshenko. There he led the Red Army in its first great victory of the war, driving the Germans from the gates of the capital.

From then on, he overshadowed Marshals Timoshenko, Budenny and Voroshilov — the original triumvirate of Russian defenders.

He co-ordinated the operations of three fronts or army groups to win the battle of Stalingrad in the autumn of 1942. From there he went to Leningrad to break the blockade in 1943.

Last summer he co-ordinated the campaign which broke the German summer offensive in the Kursk sector, which was followed by the great Russian advance to the western Ukraine. He returned to Kharkov soon after the capture of that city and has been concentrating the efforts of the southern half of the front.

The fact that he has taken over the 1st Ukrainian front indicated the importance attached to the new offensive and the possibility of new and major victories.

Hunger Strike Enters 11th Day

BELFAST, March 9 (CP Cable)—Hugh McAteer, 29-year-old self-styled chief of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, entered the 16th day of his hunger strike today. Reports said he was seriously weakened.

McAteer has vowed to "fast until death" unless he and other I.R.A. members are treated as political prisoners and not as convicts. McAteer and eight other prisoners started the fast together. Five of them are reported to have given it up last week and two others were taken to the prison hospital seriously ill.

But McAteer still has not eaten. Twenty-four more prisoners joined the strike yesterday. All have been taking large amounts of water but no food. There has been no attempt to feed them forcibly.

British, American Warships Will Be Assigned To Russia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP).—More than a dozen British and American surface warships plus a score of other naval craft has been assigned to Russia under the deal now pending the dispersal of the Italian fleet.

The present plan, it was learned here today, is to transfer British and American naval units to Russian operation for the duration of the war and leave the Italian fleet relatively intact in the Mediterranean, where it has performed well under British direction.

Once the Russians have been instructed in the handling of vessels they get, strategic factors indicate they will be put in service on the northern supply route to Murmansk. They cannot be moved into the Black Sea because of German control of the eastern Mediterranean. Eventually, if Russia goes to war with Japan they might be employed in the Pacific.

The full story of Italian fleet disposition indicates that most of the confusion and particularly the concern expressed by Premier Badoglio in Italy over what was to happen arose from the way in which the news was first made public.

At his press conference last Friday President Roosevelt told questioners that roughly about one-third of the fleet or its equivalent was due Russia and that problems of arranging a transfer according to that formula were only about half solved.

Russia Claims Share

At that time, it now can be reported, the problems had been under study by Military authorities for several months. They were created in the first place by terms of the Italian surrender last September and developed this way:—

The surrender was made to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, then Mediterranean commander, who acted on behalf of the United States, Russia and Britain and in the interest of the United Nations.

Some time after the surrender, the Russians made an inquiry which was in effect. "What about our share of the fleet?"

At that time it seemed likely that Turkey would come into the war. Turkish belligerency probably would have resulted in clearing the Eastern Mediterranean. That would have permitted the Russian-Italian ship to move into the Black Sea where the Russians could have used them to great advantage. But as Turkish negotiations dragged, the fleet dragged with them.

As a result of continued study the Military leaders concluded that best results would be had by keeping all the fleet in the Mediterranean and transferring to Russia an equivalent amount of Anglo-Am-

Polish Airmen Drops 7,500 Tons Of Bombs

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—Polish airmen graduating from No. 1 Air Observer school at nearby Malton yesterday were told by Group Capt. S. Sznuk that Polish bomber squadrons have flown more than 6,500 sorties and dropped upwards of 15,000,000 pounds of bombs and mines since the war started.

Group Capt. Sznuk, senior Polish Liaison Officer to the R. C. A. F. said the men have been true to the motto secretly embroidered by women in Poland on the banner of their Air Force — "Love Demands Sacrifice."

Speaking to the graduates in their native tongue, he said: "Yours has been the greatest tragedy that can befall a nation, the loss of your country."

Quoting Gen. Sosnkowski, Commander-in-Chief of Polish forces overseas, Group Capt. Sznuk referred indirectly to the Russian-Polish controversy.

"We are fighting with our Allies to the exhaustion of all our possibilities of service to our country, as always refusing to fight for foreign nations' interests in disagreement with the interests of Poland and its independence," he quoted.

Keen Bombing Amazes Germans

STOCKHOLM, March 10—(AP).—Germans are convinced that American bombers "must have some new weapon" making possible such pinpoint accuracy as the destruction of the ball-bearing works and tank plants in Erkener, southern suburb of Berlin, a Swede arriving today from the ravaged capital said.

The Erkener works were a target of day raiders Wednesday. German dispatches said the bombers had penetrated to the heart of the city

Allied Blows Bewilder Gen. Goering

Latest Aerial Jab Hits Factory Deep In France

LONDON, March 10. — (CP).—Britain's four-engined Lancasters, striking again at Germany's aircraft production, reached far into Southern France last night and bombed the large factory at Marignane near Marseille, the Air Ministry announced to-day.

The R.A.F. raid kept Allied aerial blows going around the clock following yesterday's bombing of Berlin through dense clouds by the American air force.

A shake-up of the top men of the German air force has been precipitated by the series of heavy assaults on Berlin in which at least 324 Nazi planes were destroyed, Swedish press dispatches reported.

The Air Ministry communique telling of the night operation said the large aircraft factory at Marignane was attacked in bright moonlight and first reports indicated the bombing as accurate and concentrated.

At the same time Mosquitoes, giving Western Germany no ease, struck objectives in that area.

The Air Ministry said none of its planes was missing.

A United States communique last night said yesterday's blows against Berlin and a co-ordinated raid on unspecified objectives in central Germany—identified by the Berlin radio as Hanover—cost seven heavy bombers and one fighter, figures that contrasted sharply with 68 bombers and 11 fighters lost Monday.

Minor Encounters

Although the bombers and their escorting fighters plunged through heavy anti-aircraft fire to reach yesterday's targets, most of the German air force apparently was grounded. Returning fliers reported only minor encounters with the enemy.

The Swedish dispatches, published in the London Daily Mail and quoting neutral sources, said that under a reorganization of Hitler's air command now in progress, Reichsmarshal Herman Goering would take a back seat and younger men with more specialized knowledge of fighter defence would come to power.

Goering was described as "utterly bewildered by the strength of the Allied aerial blows."

Despite a heavy overcast yesterday the American raiders bombed industrial targets "by means of scientific instruments," the communique said. A D.N.B. broadcast said casualties were heavy.

The Cairo radio, quoting a Swedish report, said Berlin had been without electricity, gas and water all this week.

Ramirez Resigns As Chief In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, March 10 (AP)—Pedro Pablo Ramirez formally resigned the presidency of Argentina today.

Ramirez, whose administration broke relations with the Axis only to be confronted with a palace coup in which Edelmiro J. Farrell became acting president under an announced delegation of powers from Ramirez, sent a notification of his resignation to the supreme court. The court, at a hastily convoked session, merely acknowledged receipt of the notification and a manifesto Ramirez addressed to the country.

Neither document was made public immediately.

Meanwhile, Farrell and his ministers were discussing the situation in a special cabinet meeting.

Dispatches from Montevideo, Uruguay, said it was repoted from Buenos Aires that Ramirez resignation had placed the Farrell regime in a difficult position.

The Farrell government has taken the position that Ramirez had merely relegated his authority to his successor on account of ill-health, and that consequently no new issue was raised concerning its recognition by other nations.

Britain, Canada and the United States, however, have withheld formal diplomatic relationships with the Farrell government, pending clarification of its purpose with respect to hemisphere defense and protection against Axis agents.

1,500 Shock Troops Will Aid Tito's Partisans

LONDON, March 10—(CP)—The Berlin radio said today that British and American commandos under the command of "A British general with the name of Churchill" had landed on Lissa Island off the Dalmatian coast of Yugoslavia.

There was no confirmation here of the landing, but it was widely believed in London that the German broadcast was talking about Capt. Randolph Churchill, son of Prime Minister Churchill, who is reported to have gone to Yugoslavia presumably dropping by parachute.

The Berlin report said Churchill took command of the Allied troops on the island but it remained to be seen whether they would include the 2,000 followers of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), Yugoslav Partisan leader.

Young Churchill recently conferred with Marshal Tito, presumably after he parachuted into Yugoslavia. The Berlin broadcast identified him as "a British general with the name of Churchill," but there was no doubt here that Berlin was talking about the Prime Minister's son. There was no immediate confirmation, however, of the landing report.

Churchill, 32, was the first member of Parliament to become a paratrooper. The Allies have been giving aid to Tito's Partisans, but there has been no official announcement of the presence of the British Commando or American Ranger troops in Yugoslavia.

Berlin Story.

The German radio announcement said:

"Events taking place at Lissa are of major interest. A British general with the name of Churchill arrived there a few days ago and has taken over command of Allied island troops.

"Whether these troops also include the Tito followers of whom there are about 2,000 on the island remains to be seen. At any rate, there are several American and British Commandos under the com-

Marines Whittle 3-Mile Gain

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 10—(CP) — United States marines have cut their way three miles through the Japanese and jungle on Willaumez Peninsula, New Britain, and are within two miles of the enemy base at Talasea, the Allied communique said to-day.

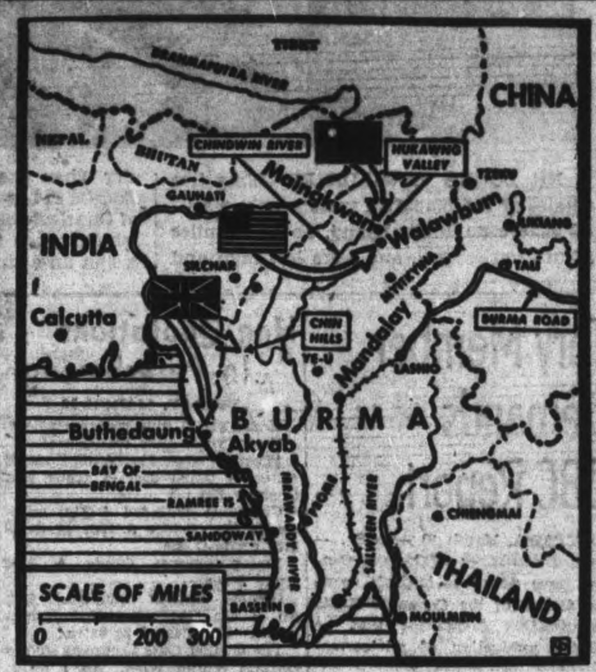
The cleanup of enemy strength on Los Negros Island in the Admiralty group continues, and Allied warships and supply vessels have entered Seadler Harbor, formerly fringed by Japanese coastal guns, without interference.

Rabaul, the Japanese base in New Britain, is virtually useless after weeks of hammering by Allied aircraft and warships.

A headquarters spokesman said photographs showed that not one undamaged ship remained in Rabaul's harbor, and less than 50 planes on its six airfields.

The Marines in their drive across Willoumez Peninsula from the west shore have cut off groups of enemy troops on the north tip of the Peninsula.

American troops advancing west of Saidor on the northeastern New Guinea coast have reached Cape Rigny at the lower lip of Astrolabe Bay. Madang, enemy base on the bay and objective of the drive, is 20 airlines miles away.



ALLIES TRAP JAPS IN BURMA—British, American and Chinese troops have improved their positions on the Burma front. Latest reports show the British making headway on the high ground south of the Maungdaw-Buthedaung road on the Arakan front. American and Chinese jungle fighters have completed a block on the main Burma road, linking Walawbum and Maingkwan, thus hastening the extinction of 2,000 trapped Jap troops.

Stilwell's American Force Drives 100 Miles Into Burma

By PRESTON GROVER—Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, March 10—(AP).—So fast is Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell forcing the fighting pace in North Burma that a crisis which will make or break this year's Burma campaign is rapidly approaching. Critics who once scoffed at the possibility of a major Burma action this year have begun to show real interest in the fact that, with limited resources, "Vinegar Joe" has forced his way approximately 100 miles into North Burma.

Stilwell is confronting the Japanese with a major decision—they must draw forces from other Burma fronts to halt his Chinese and American columns, or permit him to accomplish his objective unhindered. His aim is to clear the Japanese from North Burma so he can build a new link to the Burma Road which can carry supplies to fighting forces in China.

Stilwell's action in diverting his American infantry column into operations in direct co-operation with his Chinese troops is a drastic revision of the first plan to have the column led by Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill merely make a long-range harassing penetration of Burma.

Instead Merrill's forces made a big left loop around the Japanese and came in 10 miles behind their ranks to spread confusion. Such liberty of action is perhaps not enjoyed by any other commander in the Southeast Asia command. It is perhaps conceded to Stilwell because he is in command of all United States forces in the China-Burma-India theatre.

As Chief-of-Staff under Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, Stilwell holds a position somewhat independent of the Southeast Asia command, since China was never incorporated in the command.

His operations, however, are based on India and supplied from there, and come under Lord Louis' command. For that reason, it must be assumed that Admiral Mountbatten not only approves Stilwell's present operations but will be ready to exploit them if he can prove his point—that he can take North Burma from the Japanese.

So determined is Stilwell to make his operation a success that he has taken personal command of the operation.

Violated Pledge In Oil Deal

WASHINGTON, March 10 — (CP)—Senator E. H. Moore (Rep., Okla) today accused Interior Secretary Harold Ickes of having "flagrantly violated a pledge" to the Truman Committee in proceeding with plans to construct a pipeline from the Persian Gulf area to the Mediterranean.

"It has been said," Moore declared, "that his conduct constitutes an impeachable offence."

The Oklahoman said Ickes earlier had advised the Truman committee he would not act on a program until he had presented it to Congress, and that Ickes "has been directed by the Whitehouse" in "plunging ahead" with a program to "socialise the American oil industry."

Meanwhile Senate leaders undertook to speed action on Moore's resolution to create a nine-member senate committee to draw up a petroleum policy "before additional secret international commitments are made."

Eight member — two each from the foreign relations, commerce, interstate commerce and public lands committee — as called for in the resolution as it was reported to the Senate by the commerce committee.

City Of Uman Falls To Red Army

Kherson, Nikolaev On Black Sea Menaced By Push

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 10. — (AP).—Uman, strong German base in the Western Ukraine, fell to the Red army to-day.

Premier Marshal Stalin announced capture of the base in a broadcast order of the day, shortly after the German High Command had announced its abandonment.

Stalin's announcement said the new Ukrainian break-through, at the hinge between one Russian offensive toward the naval base of Nikolaeve and another into pre-war Poland to the west, had swept up 300 occupied places.

Nearing Rumania.

The Red Army took to horses in the deepening mud of the Ukraine to-day as the offensives of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky and Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov rolled the Germans back on a 340-mile-long front from the streets of Tarnopol to the outer defences guarding the Black Sea ports of Nikolaev and Kherson.

It is fully apparent that the last Nazis are being chased from the south-western corner of the Soviet Union, but only under tremendous difficulties, front-line dispatches to the Moscow newspapers Red Star and Izvestia said. They reported the whole area was one great inland sea of mud and water.

The German garrison in Odessa was said to be feeling the pressure of the growing offensives as remnants of battered German divisions commenced falling back on Nikolaev, Kherson and the outposts of Odessa, where only speedy evacuation can save thousands of Nazis from entrapment.

From the third Ukrainian front commanded by Malinovsky came reports emphasizing the use of cavalry and small groups of infantry with light mortars. In many places Red Army horsemen, charging through the mud and the flooded streams, have isolated large German units from their headquarters staffs, these advices said

Red Star dispatches said bluntly that the German retreat had become "disorganized."

But strategically the Germans have lost the Dnieper Bend and their purpose now is to see what they can save in men and equip-

Finland Fears Civil War Now

STOCKHOLM, March 10.—(AP).—Acceptance of Russia's original armistice demands might precipitate civil war in Finland, Eric Lindquist, foreign editor of the Swedish newspaper Morgon Tidningen, reported to-day after a trip to Helsinki.

While Finland was reported awaiting Moscow's reaction to a revised Finnish answer to the Russian terms, Lindquist reported Finnish public opinion was so unprepared for peace that only one person was capable of uniting the people in their current dilemma. This person, he said, was Field Marshal Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, the Finnish

Reds Prepare to Bomb Eastern Germany

Retreat Of German Armies Bring Reich Cities Within Easy Range

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Karl Zeppelin, Hitlerian air expert, has exposed to his public the undraped fact that the Nazi retreats on the Russian front make it possible for the Red air fleet to attack cities within the Reich—and the German man-in-the-street, his belly full of bombs from Britain, is said to be worried

Fresh disaster would indeed be heaped on the Fuehrer if the Muscovite bombers should start heavy raiding on Eastern Germany in conjunction with the Allied assault from the west and south. Thus far this part of the Reich has been comparatively free of intensive bombing, because of its distance from the British air bases. Consequently Hitler depends greatly on that area for his war production.

The fact that the Russians haven't embarked on a wholesale bombing offensive against Nazidom doesn't mean the lack of air power. They possess great aerial strength, but ever since the beginning of the war they've been using their aircraft for the titanic land battles on the long fighting front.

Have Great Force.

Several of these engagements are under way now, Marshal Stalin having announced a fresh offensive in the Ukraine last night. The Red armies are making a furious onslaught to cut German Marshal Von Mannstein off and either annihilate his forces or batter him down into the crater of the Balkan volcano.

So long as this intensive fighting continues, the Reds likely will want to concentrate their air power on the battle-front. However, an early spring has turned the steppes into lakes of mud which greatly impedes operations. By April it's possible that there will be a slackening off of fighting for several weeks, though it's unsafe to assume this in view of the way military traditions are being shattered.

However, if there's a lull it presumably will permit the Russians to participate in the reduction of Hitler's strength by bombing. The Muscovites keep the figures of their aerial strength to themselves, but we know they are capable of hurling a great force at the Nazis as witness their recent attacks on the Finns. Certainly the Red air fleet may be expected to do intensive bombing of German bases and communications in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Would Close Axis Legations

Eire's Aid Sought To Curb Spying

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 10 —(AP) — The United States has asked neutral Eire to close the German Legation and the Japanese Consulate as an anti-espionage measure to protect Allied troop movements in Northern Ireland.

Although a note presented late in February by David Gray, U. S. Minister to Dublin, contained no ultimatum and no demand for Southern Ireland bases, rumors arose that such demands had been made. A "stand too" by Eire's army was ordered along the Ulster border from February 25 to February 28.

The British Government approved the American note, but the United States is handling the job of trying to plug this information outlet to the Axis which has been a source of worry to London and Washington for years.

News of the development reached Belfast early this week, but transmission was banned by censorship until to-day.

One account said that following a conference with Gray at which the note was presented, Prime Minister Eamon De Valera had the Irish Minister to Washington, Robert Brennan, approach President Roosevelt.

The President was reported to have assured Brennan there was no question of force and that the note simply was a request as a matter of urgency that something be done against the activities of Axis establishments in Eire.

Hun Troops Poorly Dressed

Prisoners Happy To Be Out Of War

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, March 10.—(CP).—German infantrymen facing the Canadians along the Arielli river line are poor substitutes for the fanatic paratroopers who fought so stubbornly and so well in defence of the Moro Valley and Ortona.

The paratroopers, shock troops of the German army, were withdrawn to help strengthen the defence of the Anzio bridgehead. Their replacements were an odd assortment of Germans, Czechs, Poles, and conscripts from Alsace-Lorraine.

"If that's the best they can put against us, I won't worry any more about going out on patrol," said Lieut. Russell Gagnon, St. Stephen, N.B., who led the Maritime patrol which brought in the first two prisoners captured from this new formation.

The prisoners were little men, poorly dressed, unshaven and obviously content to be out of the war. They were found in a slit trench, from which, had they been on their toes, they could have beaten off the Canadian patrol of 12 men.

Their uniforms were muddy and of poor quality. Their shoes were worn down and their puttees were ragged strips of white cloth. For gloves they were wearing socks with a hole cut for the thumb. Instead of cigarettes they carried machines for rolling them.

Alexander Sure Beachhead Troops Will Win

NAPLES, March 10 — (AP) — Activity on all battle fronts in Italy dwindled to minor patrol operations yesterday in the face of severe weather, Allied headquarters announced today.

Allied aircraft managed to get into the air, however, for 900 sorties. Medium bombers again attacked shipping and other targets at Santo Stefano and Montalto di Castro northwest of Rome. Light bombers hit enemy gun positions at Campoleone back of the Anzio beachhead and the railway at Capranica.

Approximately 30 enemy aircraft were sighted over the battle area during the day, the announcement said. Two Allied planes are missing.

Renewed confidence that British and American soldiers will hold the 100-square-mile stretch of flat land south of Rome has been voiced by Gen. Sir Harold Alexander after a tour of the beachhead where activity has bogged down in mud.

"Things are very much better on the beachhead than when I was here last three weeks ago," the Allied commander in the Mediterranean told correspondents.

Alexander said somebody implied he was an "unwise man" to say on his previous trip that the new landing behind the enemy main front would be pulled off. He was, however, "absolutely confident."

Have essentials

"I was confident, firstly, because we have got magnificent men, British and American; secondly, because we have got magnificent equipment; and, thirdly, good leaders.

"What is going to win is toughness, determination, guts and confidence.

"I am quite confident that it will be all wright now. It has not, of course, gone as we originally had hoped. When we shall be able to break out, it is difficult to say, but other things are happening."

Alexander exonerated war correspondents who landed with the beachhead forces from all blame of the charge of causing uneasiness to public opinion in the United Kingdom and the United States for which he censured them three weeks ago.

Fighting on the beachhead Wednesday was limited to two minor German stabs and patrol classes. In Eastern Italy, Douglas Amaron Canadian Press War Correspondent, reported that a patrol from a central Canadian Battalion wiped out a German outpost during a sortie Wednesday night at the southern end of the Canadian Corps front.

New Jury Panel Called In Lonergan Case

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP) —A new special jury panel of 300 names was drawn Thursday for the March 20 first degree murder trial of Wayne Lonergan, Toronto-born R. C. A. F. aircraftsman accused of slaying his wife, Patricia, last Oct. 24.

Only three women were included on the panel, made up largely of executives, bankers, merchants, brokers and other business men. Twelve jurors and two alternates will be chosen.

The drawing was attended by Defense Counsel Edward V. Broderick and Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, whose hot exchanges enlivened the first attempt to try Lonergan. They did not speak to one another during the 45-minute session.

The first trial ended last Friday when, with no jurors sworn after four trial days, Judge John J. Freschi dismissed the talesman and ordered Broderick to show cause tomorrow why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

A motion made by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and granted last week by Freschi was carried out today when minutes of the first trial were sent to the Appellate Division "for such action as might be warranted" in discipling Broderick.

The minutes covered 486 pages and totalled approximately 100,000 words.

During the panel drawing, under the supervision of Justice Morris Eder, court officials reminisced on previous panels and trials. Eder remarked conversationally to Broderick at one point:

"Mr. Lonergan is getting a lot of publicity, isn't he?"

"Innocence should always be proclaimed before the public," Broderick replied.

C.C.F. Member Lashes At Packing Plants

TORONTO, March 10 —(CP) — The Ontario Legislature today deals with miscellaneous legislation, interrupting the throne speech debate which is in its third week and now seems likely to run past the week-end.

However, if time permits at today's short sitting the debate will be resumed, with C. H. Millard (CCF — York East) completing a speech he began last night.

Mr. Millard, ninth speaker at Thursday's sitting, called upon the various political groups represented in the Legislature to forget their differences and work together for the common good. The people would insist that election promises be implemented, he said.

"It will be dangerously disappointing and disgusting to the people of Ontario if the government fails to implement its pre-election promises to bear 50 per cent of the cost of education," Mr. Millard National director of the United Steel Workers of America (C. I. O.), said.

Four other C.C.F. speakers took part in yesterday's debate — George Bennett, Windsor-Sandwich; R. E. Leavens, Toronto Woodbine; Garfield Anderson, Fort William; and George Lockhart, Rainy River.

The others who made addresses were T. P. Murray (L — Renfrew South), Roy Downie (L — Lambton East), S. J. Hunt (P.C. — Renfrew North), and William Goodfellow (PC — Northumberland).

Mr. Bennett criticised the Progressive Conservative Government for presenting only "half measures" in the throne speech. He said that "if we can unbalance the budget for the emergencies of

Bricker's Idea

CHICAGO, March 10 — (AP).—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio stated last night "the basic issue of our time is whether one man or one party shall permanently regiment 130,000,000 Americans, or whether they shall continue to govern themselves through time-tested institutions of self-government." Bricker, a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, in a prepared speech contended the new deal sought to dominate the political, social and economic life of all the people.

Tory Member Demands CBC Report

OTTAWA, March 10 — (CP). — John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) gave notice at to-day's opening session of the Commons Radio Broadcasting Committee that he wanted production of all correspondence exchanged between Elmore Philpott, Vancouver radio commentator, and Ira Illworth, CBC regional representative on Philpott's recent commentary on Lt.-Gen A. G. L. McNaughton, former Commander of the Canadian Army Overseas.

Dr. J. J. McCann (L.-Renfrew South), re-elected chairman, told Mr. Diefenbaker, this information would be available together with any other information required by committee members when CBC officials were called as witnesses or when documents were requested.

R. G. Boucher (P.C.-Carleton) asked whether it would be possible to call an official of The Canadian Press as a witness to give advice on the preparation of news for broadcast and other kindred matters.

Dr. McCann said this could be done, but he added the CBC obtained its news from both The Canadian Press and the British United Press and this was prepared for news broadcast by the CBC's own staff.

He suggested it would be a better idea if the CBC news editor was called to appear before the committee. He said this matter would be taken up by the Agenda Sub-Committee.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, suggested that steps be taken to obtain a final report from two United States public relations experts—identified as Drs. Estorick and Seipmann—on their survey of Canadian broadcasting made two years ago. He said preliminary reports had been tabled but a final report had never been received.

Finally about two weeks ago Russian Ambassador Andrei Gromyko called on the President and asked again about the Russian share of the fleet. It was in comment on this diplomatic inquiry that the President last Friday broke the news that under the surrender terms Russia had a right to her share of Italian naval tonnage.

Publicly released figures on the exact number of Italian warships surrendered are vague, but they show approximately five battleships, some of them old and damaged, eight cruisers, 27 destroyers, and one aircraft carrier. In addition the Italians probably surrendreed about 60 submarines and a number of torpedo boats and other small craft.

On the basis of the main fleet types surrendered the Russians might get nine destroyers, two to four cruisers, and one or two battleships. In addition they might get a share of submarines or an equivalent of destroyers, as well as various small craft such as torpedo boats.

Cattle Prices Up 15 Cents In Light Run

TORONTO, March 10—(CP). — Cattle prices were 15 cents cwt. higher in spots in a light run on the Livestock Market here this week. Other classes of livestock were steady.

There will be two interesting games of interscholastic girls' basketball in the Collegiate gymnasium here Saturday afternoon. At 4.15 o'clock the P.C.V.S. junior squad will meet the Lindsay Collegiate juniors, and at 5 o'clock the senior team of P.C.V.S. will clash with the Lindsay Collegiate seniors. The Peterborough teams both won in Lindsay in the first games of the two rounds last week, but expect harder opposition in the return battles here tomorrow.

NOTABLE RECORD

LONDON — (CP) — More than 2,000,000 children have passed through the doors of the Hospital for Sick Children at Great Ormond Street. Just 92 years old, the hospital had Queen Victoria as its first patron.

● A gift from the heart means life to the gallant wounded who fought the good fight for you on the battlefield. As war intensifies, the call comes to your Red Cross for more and more precious blood serum to save lives . . . for increased shipments of bandages, comforts and supplies . . . more food and medicine for Canadian prisoners of war . . . ambulance and hospital services . . . relief for war-ravished civilians. Cabinet Warns Coal Miners Action Coming

LONDON, March 10—(CP)— The War Cabinet let it be known today that firm action will be taken to halt the coal strike which has virtually paralyzed the rich South Wales minefields unless the 90,000 or more miners now idle return at once to the pits.

There was no official indication what the action would be, but Labor leaders said the government is prepared to takeover the mines as it did during the general strike of 1926.

Arthur Horner, president of the powerful Welsh Miners Union, returned to Cardiff last night after a day-long meeting with Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George and appealed to the miners to resumé work pending future negotiations to settle their wage complaints.

Miners' delegates, meanwhile, went forward with plans for a conference Saturday, at which they will discuss concessions already won, and issued a call for a series of workers' mass meetings Sunday.

Union leaders said the miners do not fully understand the concessions granted Wednesday when the Fuel Minister approved an agreement between the operators and men advancing the piece rate scale and providing extra allowances for those forced to work in water or heavy dust.

Thirteen members of Parliament from Labor districts will go through the mining districts during the week-end to explain the concessions, which, it was said, will net the miners between £7,000,000 and £8,000,000 ($32,500,000 to $36,000,000) annually.

It is estimated that the strike now is costing Britain about 80,000 tons of badly needed coal daily. A total of 165 pits in the Welsh fields have been closed and the strike spread yesterday to nine Scottish pits, where 7,000 workers walked out.

Fighter Overseas Imitates Dad

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 10 (ENS) —John F. Bygott is still following closely the military pattern laid down by his father in World War I. Now in his ninth month overseas, he has been promoted to the rank of Acting Major in the C.I.R.U. Two years ago he was second in command of the same company his father, Major J. M. Bygott, commanded 27 years previously. It was known as C. Company of the Northumberland Regiment at that time, but is now the Midland Regiment.

Major John Bygott showed his first inclination to a military life when as a boy of 12 he attended camp with the Northumberland Regiment as Adjutant's runner. In the sixteen years that followed he worked his way up through the ranks of the N.P.A.M. and earned both his Lieutenant's and Captain's certificates by attending officer's courses at Stanley Barracks. He was with the Midland Regiment (Reserve) until that unit went active in August, 1940, and following this served with the Regiment in various parts of Canada. He went overseas in June 1943, and is at present attached to the S. D. and G. Highlanders.

Zion W.A. Members Work On Two Quilts

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 10 (ENS) —Members of Zion W.A. held their regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Lorne Barnum's, when sixteen members attended to assist in quilting a quilt. The president, Mrs. A. Petherick, opened the meeting and conducted the brief business period during which several letters of thanks were read from soldiers to whom the branch had sent parcels at Christmas. Most of the afternoon was spent in quilting and sufficient patches for two more were cut out during the afternoon. Members expressed thanks to Mrs. Carolyn Wright who donated a quilt top. It was announced their April meeting would be held at the Orange Hall, Petherick, and that it would take the form of a quilting. The president revealed that a contribution of $15 had been made to the China Relief Fund during the current month.

Magic Of War

TORONTO, March 10 — (CP). — Residents in North Toronto yesterday were somewhat puzzled yesterday at the appearance of a thin, elongated cloud that stretched for miles across a near-cloudless sky. The explanation was found in the exhaust vapor of a high-altitude plane, similar to that so well-known by residents of Europe and Britain who have watched planes engaged in dog-fights at great heights.

Pupils Purchase $3,668 Stamps

Both the Public and Collegiate and Vocational schools have a fine report for the sale of War Savings stamps during the month of February, it was revealed at the Board of Education meeting Thursday night. The Collegiate students sold $1,780 and the Public schools $1,888.

Along with other schools in the city, and county, they are taking part in a campaign to sell enough War Savings stamps before the end of June to pay for a fighter plane. The monthly quota for the Public schools is $1,500, and they exceeded this by a good margin.

The medical officer, Dr. R. Nott, reported 92 complete physical examinations; 21 special examinations, and 14 children under observation. The nurses made 539 classroom inspections, 1,056 vision tests, 261 home visits and did 115 minor accidents and dressings. There were 114 exclusions for various causes.

There were 341 fillings completed, Dr. S. J. Graham, school dentist, reported, and 81 extractions.

The attendance officer disclosed that there were 36 students absent through illness in February, and 32 for home help. There were 6 truant and 6 absent due to parental neglect. About 250 calls were made during the month. The Collegiate had an average attendance of 93.89 and the Vocational school of 93.12, making a total average of 93.63. The average of the six Public schools was 89.73.

Orangemen Petition Ontario Legislature

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—A petition from the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West protesting a government bill which would prohibit publication of matter discriminating against race or creed was distributed yesterday to Ontario Legislature members.

The petition termed the bill, introduced in the Legislature last week, an "insult to the intelligence of Ontario citizens." The petition was signed by L. H. Saunders, chairman of the Orange Lodge's Legislative committee.

Under terms of the bill, said the petition, "no Protestant paper could lawfully discuss or propound its own faith or belief."

Doctor Warns Measles Serious

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10.—(ENS).— Diseases such as measles, which have been rampant in this town for the past month, cutting attendance in the Public School by as much as 30 per cent, are not being taken seriously enough in the opinion of Dr. W. W. Baker, who spoke before members of the Home and School Association at their meeting here on Wednesday.

He told of nearly one hundred parents that they should not consider the disease less dangerous merely because the homes were not placarded. Actually measles alone were not serious, but they could be, and sometimes are followed by serious complications. Consequently, both children already affected and other children of the same household who had not yet had the disease, were regarded by the doctor as being under quarantine. Dr. Baker listed seven childhood diseases to be guarded against; German and red measles, smallpox, whooping cough, scarlet fever, chickenpox, mumps, and diphtheria, adding that if these diseases were not contracted in childhood they would in all probability attack the adult in later life.

Spread Through Contact.

Measles, mumps, and chickenpox are known as virus diseases, and the chief means of spreading these is by direct contact; however, they may also be spread by what are known as carriers or persons who do not come down with the disease themselves but carry the germs and infect others. Whooping cough, scarlet fever, and diphtheria are caused by bacteria of a type that has been isolated. One interesting characteristic of measles, which develop from 7to 14 days after contact, was the fact that danger of spreading the disease appears to be lessened with the actual appearance of the rash. The speaker described the symptoms accompanying other childhood diseases and then referred to the complications, such as pneumonia, deafness, mastoids, abscesses on the throat and brain.

There are two kinds of immunization—transient and permanent. What are known as convalescent serums are used in treating diphtheria, scarlet fever, and whooping cough, but no practical serum of this type has been developed for measles.

The president, Mrs. Jack Clark, presided for the meeting, and a motion designed to boost attendance was passed. To the teacher having the largest number of parents of pupils in her grade at the meetings, the association will give 50 cents to be used to provide something for the classroom. Other items on the program included community singing, led by Arnold Bates, a piano solo by Mrs. George Nichols, quiz contest conducted by Mrs. G. N. Maxwell, a pantomime "Too Many Beaux,' violin solo by Mrs. Harry Fowlds.

Healing Ministry

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 10 (ENS) —Tabernacle Young People (English Line) heard a talk on "The By-products of Our Healing Ministry" given by Gerald Mitchell as the principle feature of their meeting on Wednesday evening. The speaker cited some of the many phases of the work being done in Angol, in West Africa, Chissamba in West Central Africa as well as the calls made on the Mission in Toronto. President Alex. Stephens opened the meeting and Mrs. Stephens gave the meditation. Other items included a piano solo by Miss Gladys Stephens and mouth organ solo by Robert Darrah.

Would Settle Finns Through Alaska

BY C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 10 — (CP) — Establishment of a Finnish "Empire" in Alaska which would be "an outer rampart on the skyways of the world," is the vision of Republican Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

He made the suggestion in a Senate speech on American post-war security planning, urging that any Finns who may be displaced by the Peace Treaty with Russia be invited to settle in Alaska.

Wiley urged the necessity of the United States acquiring and fortifying island bases far from the American shore in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

He said there was nothing to fear from the British Empire but did not specify the countries against which the United States would have to be on guard.

Wiley commented with approval on the Smuts proposal that Britain strengthen her post-war position by gathering certain European States within a pact or union for security.

He said he too had urged, in 1939 that Norway and other Scandinavian countries get under the Wing of Britain but they had trusted Hitler to honor their neutrality — and they paid the penalty.

Finland had suffered and now faced the permanent loss of some territory. "Why not invite the Finnish people, all who are willing to go into Alaska," Wiley asked.

"They would make Alaska an empire worth while......Fully developed, magnified in wealth. That is the place for them. They know how to care of countries such as Alaska.

"If an agreement is made between Russia and Finland and Finland has to give up territory, let us offer to those fine people a home in Alaska, where they would build an empire which would be an outer rampart on the skyways of the world."

Council Strikes Road Work Rate

APSLEY, March 10.—(ENS). — The regular meeting of the Burleigh and Anstruther council was held recently with all members present. In addition to routine business the inclusion of S. S. No. 1, Burleigh, in the township school area was discussed with L. W. Copp, Inspector of Public Schools, who also spoke on the planting of trees on school grounds. The township auditor, H. D. Coons, presented his report which was accepted and 100 copies ordered printed on motion of Councillors Wilson and Booth.

The road superintendent's pay list for February ($111.70) was approved for payment on motion of Councillors Tucker and Booth. On motion of Mr. Booth and Mr. Wilson the rate of pay for road work was fixed at 40 cents an hour for men, 60 cents for team, $1.75 for four-yard truck and forty-five cents per hour for road superintendent.

On motion of Mr. Booth and Mr. Wilson, the Reeve and Mr. Tucker were authorized to act in protecting the township's interests when the proposed survey in the northern portion of Anstruther is made.

An account from the Department of Lands and Forests for fighting fires in 1935-1937 was received, and the clerk was instructed to write the department explaining the reason for non-payment, on motion of M. Wilson and Mr. Booth.

It was moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Tucker, "that the clerk lodge with the Departments of Lands and Forests and Game and Fisheries, a protest from this municipal council against the proposed formation of a national park in the County of Peterborough."

The motion carried unanimously after Mr. Tucker had called for a recorded vote.

The meeting adjourned until April 1st.

Central Ontario Credit Exchange Celebrates 8th Anniversary

8 Years of Steady Growth

On March the 1st 1936, Mr. J. Errol Wilson opened the business in the Toronto Savings and Loan Building, under the name of the Peterborough Credit Exchange. His experience prior to the opening, equipped him for this business, having had 6½ years in the Bank of Toronto and 9 months with the Kingston Credit Bureau. At the end of 3 months the rapid growth of the business made a move to larger premises necessary and the Green Bldg. became the home of the new offices.

BRANCH OFFICE OPENED IN 1940

In June of 1940 a branch office was opened in Oshawa under the name of the Central Ontario Credit Exchang. On aJnuary 2, 1941 the still further growth of the business necessitated a move to larger offices in the Bridgeway Bldg. where they are now located. At that time the name of the Head Office was changed to Central Ontario Credit Exchange.

Unwieldy Public Debt

It becomes increasingly obvious that Mr. Wendell Willkie would rather be right than be President; he is treating the people of the U.S.A. to great gusts of common sense, and they may give him the reward which the Athenians gave to Socrates. But certainly he is saying much that ought to be said.

Recently he made a very pointed speech about post-war planning. It was useless, he said, to plan for the future before dealing with the grave matter of the public debt. The U.S.A., he insisted, was getting bogged down in debt to a point which made planning for the future a waste of time. Unless some promise were given of reducing that debt the future of the country would be a most unpleasant one, involving inflation and widespread misery.

The U.S.A. at present is financing itself according to what is described as a new theory of public debt; the essence of this theory is that a debt contained within a country is not really a debt at all, because the people of the country owe the money to themselves. The government gains wealth by going further into debt, and the wealth thus produced pays the cost of the debt. Indeed, according to this theory, a nation must continually go deeper into debt in order to ensure its own prosperity.

Mr. Willkie is not impressed by this reasoning. He keeps to the old idea that public debt is only safe up to a certain point, after which point inflation, repudiation and shame are inevitable. The fact that the people of a country really owe their public debt to themselves does not, he insists, make the least difference to this basic rule of government economy. Of course, Mr. Willkie is not alone in his belief. Harold G. Moulton of the Brookings Institute has written a book exposing the new theory of debt, and he points out its chief fallacy in these words:

> "It is undoubtedly true that the interest on the domestic debt accrues to the people of any given country in the form of revenue. But the particular individuals who pay the taxes do not usually receive back in interest anything like the precise amount of funds that they have parted with in the form of taxes. Some receive a great deal more from the Government (in interest) than they pay to the Government; others receive a great deal less. The process thus involves a wholesale redistribution of wealth."

Very few people ever hold large numbers of government bonds, but all the people have to pay the interest on those bonds; thus the effect of heavy government borrowing on this new theory is to make most people poorer; an unwieldy debt cannot be distributed in such a way that those who benefit from the debt interest pay the taxes which supply that interest; that can only be done if every bondholder paid all his bond-interest back to the government in taxes.

We are fortunate indeed that Canada has not been beguiled by the new theory of public debt. Carried to its logical conclusion it can only result in a cruel awakening, with inflation and all the misery and recrimination which goes with it.

The Lancet Grows Dull?

It is astounding to hear that the most conservative of medical journals, The Lancet, has advanced the theory that babies born between May and October are more intelligent than babies born during the other six months of the year. Even though we celebrate our birthday in one of the supposedly intelligent months, we protest against the injustice of this division. In fact we doubt if The Lancet ever said any such thing, although it is reported to have done so.

To attempt to estimate intelligence on this basis is even more arbitrary than attempting to predict a man's future from the position of the stars in the heavens at the time of his birth. Astrology is at least a flatteringly complex art; the Lancet's theory is painfully flat-footed.

Surely the great paper has been misunderstood. It may have said that babies born between May and October show more intelligence during their first six months than other babies, because the warmer weather keeps them wakeful and alert, whereas the winter babies are too busy keeping warm to show much wit. The Lancet might have permitted itself some waggery of that kind. But it has not grown so dull as to make flat and utterly unproveable statements about anything so hard to measure as intelligence.

Getting Divorce Out Of Parliament

The Speaker's special committee to revise the rules and procedure of Parliament has recommended that the burden of legislating in divorce cases be removed from the Commons and the Senate. At present all divorce cases from the Province of Quebec have to be examined by Parliament; what this means in practice is that a committee of the Senate has to try the case and recommend that divorce be granted or not. Although many members of this committee are lawyers and are probably quite capable of making good decisions in divorce cases, it is undesirable that divorces should be granted by a body which is not a court, simply because Quebec will not establish divorce courts for its own use. It is also a fact that the cost of maintaining the necessary witnesses in Ottawa while a divorce suit is being examined makes divorce impossible for any but the wealthier people of Quebec.

In the discussion on divorce Mr. R. B. Hanson spoke with exemplary point and clarity. He declared that he believed in the principle of divorce, and in the existence of such a thing as unholy wedlock. It was necessary that arbitration in matters of divorce should be in the hands of judges thoroughly capable of weighing the evidence presented and making a truly judicious decision. The matter should not be foisted on Parliament for any reason whatever.

If Quebec insists on the hypocrisy of having her divorces tried somewhere outside the provincial boundaries, Mr. Hanson's suggestion that a division of the Exchequer Court be set up to hear them is probably the best solution to the problem. Certainly it is unsatisfactory to leave the matter with Parliament.

Writing And Thinking

A business executive recently complained, in the course of an address to his office staff, that Canadian schools are turning out poor writers. Commenting on this incident, the Chatham News puts forward this opinion:

> "The craft of writing can be taught. Through practice and criticism young people of ordinary intelligence can acquire the technique of clear and orderly statement just as certainly as they can be taught to read and multiply.
> "Training in writing will not make every boy and girl a literary artist or anything remotely resembling one, but it will produce competent craftsmen. Most college graduates, to judge from their letters, are not competent writers, not because they are deficient in intelligence, but because their training in the public and high schools was neglected. There they had too little criticism of their writing and the standard of accomplishment in the courses they have taken has been set far too low".

We are not so confident in this matter as our contemporary. Clear writing is the result of clear thinking, and to teach boys or girls to write acceptably you must first teach them to think. In particular you must clear out of their heads most of their preconceived ideas of what "good writing" is. They must gain accuracy and taste in the use of words. They must learn to avoid the self-deception and self-hypnosis from which so many writers suffer. They must learn the value of restraint; they must learn to distinguish between pathos and bathos; they must learn not to use the word "tragic" of any occurrence which is not conspicuously hilarious.

We are by no means convinced that anybody can learn to write. Writing is the direct result of thinking, and when thinking is bad the resultant writing will be bad. And we have never heard it seriously suggested that everybody can be taught to think.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are all having hard times nowadays. Why, they have even had heavy snow in California.

In the new Dictionary of American English the earliest known use of the word "whoopee" is this, printed in Harper's Magazine in 1862:

"Whoopee! Whiskey only 25 cents a gallon".

"Whoopee" seems to be the only word which fits the case.

Quoting an editorial of ours the Ottawa Citizen, through its columnist, T.D.F., makes us write of the "dark, backward abyss of time"; the quotation, from Shakespeare's Tempest, is of course "the dark backward and abysm of time". We wish that T.D.F. would be more particular in these matters; we don't want any nastiness with Shakespeare when we are transferred to the Elysian fields.

Never Marry A Tattooist

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(In the Winnipeg Free Press)

PROFESSOR George Burchett is one of England's great artists. That he works in tattoo on the human body does not detract from the quality of his genius and only brings him closer to real life than most artists. Now, at the ripe age of 71 years, he has explained his art and the philosophy behind it in a BBC broadcast.

There is a charming touch of intimacy in Professor Burchett's confession that:

"If you ask me what job I'd enjoyed most in nearly 70 years of tattooing I'd reply—the work I've done on Mrs. Burchett. Mrs. Burchett comes from Devon, and when we were walking out she took a fancy to have her arm tattooed. I did a very nice dragon for her. All the scales shaded and smoke coming out of its mouth. Well, that was a beginning and I gradually kept on tattooing her. Now there's hardly an inch without a design on it. Let me see, now, there's St. George and the Dragon on her back, and all kinds of other things. Roses round her neck, pink with green leaves—very nice; the flags of the Allies on her chest, butterflies in front, dragons and snakes on her legs, an angel on one knee, and something or other on the other—I can't really remember what. When our girls were babies they were always going over the designs on Mum. They used to say, 'So many butterflies, and so many this and that on Ma.' She was as good as a picture book, Ma was."

WHILE Mrs. Burchett was one of the most graphic and prolific jobs turned out, it was relatively simple for a skilled craftsman, so long as the space lasted. On her he did not attempt to make corrections and alterations, which are the true test of the born tattooist. It is when you have to change a whole design that your talent is strained to the limit. Sailors are the worst problem, Professor Burchett says. They are always having their girl friends' faces tatooed on their chests and then finding, on return to port, that the ladies have acquired another sweetheart. Then it is necessary for Professor Burchett to expunge the ladies' faces.

Many a time he has had to turn the girl friend into a Chinese dragon or a ship in full sail. To turn a pretty English girl into a Chinese dragon or a ship in full sail, Professor Burchett admits, is a mean job but he has mastered it and can guarantee results. There is no further need for any sailorman to go around with the wrong lady on his chest.

OFTEN, says the Professor, ladies come to his studio in tears and say: "Oh, can't you do anything, Mr. Burchett. My husband's got another lady's name on." Recently a lady appeared with a beautiful big red heart on her arm and said: "He's gone away with another girl. That heart — you make it all black, Mr. Burchett. That's all he's fit for." Mr. Burcett said: "Why not have it covered with a nice rose?" But the lady said: "No, (and she was crying fit to break her heart) make it all black, Mr. Burchett, that's all he's fit for." So, sacrificing his own artistic taste, which favoured a nice red rose, Mr. Burchett made it all black. But you can tell he feels pretty bad about it. He regrets the nice red rose.

Nowadays, Professor Burchett spends most of his time tattooing young soldiers, who want to look like old ones, and their favorite design is a dove with a scroll in its mouth and on the scroll the single word, "Mother." Never, says the Professor, never "Father" by any chance, and as a family man he resents it. There was only one exception that he remembers—a soldier who had a beer barrel tattooed on his arm and the word "Father" on the barrel. Probably a family reference, the Professor thinks.

BUT this is all routine work. The Professor likes to get his needle into a real artistic problem, like changing the designs he has done years before. For example, a soldier who had long worn a snake insisted on having Hitler's name placed on the reptile. Another man ordered a nice regulation devil on his back, but had bad luck ever afterward. The Professor fixed it by chaining the devil to a big blue rock and the owner was lucky from that day onward. Indeed, this man was so encouraged that he came back to the Professor again to have a crazy pavement put on his abdomen with his wife's name on every tile. However, he fainted before the last tile and signature were completed. He had carried his affection for his wife too far.

THE Professor himself gets tired sometimes when he has to work all day on the same customer. There was an old judge who used to sit by the hour while the Professor covered his whole body and he became a thing of beauty and a joy forever. He was completely covered at last but even then he wasn't satisfied. He had the Professor go over all the designs and fill the spac. between them with scarlet.

A great many men high in government office are tattooed, the Professor says, and he has a theory to explain it: "It's a bit of romance, I suppose. There's a kind of an atmosphere about you when you're tattooed." There must be plenty of atmosphere in the Professor's own home when Mum is in full bloom.

There is another side to the work which is purely utilitarian. The Professor turns red whisky noses white. He puts red lips and pink cheeks on ladies, or eyelashes, or stocking seams down the backs of their legs. "You'd be surprised," says the Professor, "what a lot of ladies like a bit of tattooing somewhere about them—a rosebud or a butterfly or something like that." It is the atmosphere, one supposes.

In All Directions At Once

Our foreign policy flounders around, stepping on its own feet, contradicting itself and getting in the way of our Allies. No wonder Badoglio has the effrontery to ask the full recognition of the Little King regime in Italy as an ally entitled to diplomatic representation in Washington—to ask, in short, that we officially and permanently underwrite a government which is anathema to every democrat in Italy. No wonder that the mouthpiece of the Polish Government-in-Exile declares that it will not consider accepting Curzon line as an eastern boundary with Russia, although that constitutes another defiance of Russia and a brusque brushing aside of Winston Churchill's suggestion that the line is a reasonable one. We still continue to lend aid and comfort to his papier mache government which is shot through with elements violently anti-Russian and disruptive to all Allied unity. We still continue to recognize a Finnish Government with which both Britain and Russia are at war. Thus do we delay peace between them and encourage the Finns in haggling with Russia over the terms by which Russia shall get at the Nazi divisions in Finland.—New York Post.

Without Glamour

An American private in an English village pub remarked to one of this newspaper's reporters, Drew Middleton, that he didn't like to hear war "called fancy names." Other soldiers profanely agreed. They just didn't care to be called the "spearhead of democracy" or to be lectured on "honour" and 'glory." They intended to do what they had to do, which was to "beat these Germans because it's gotta be done." They did not regard the prospect as romantic.

The very fact that the subject could come up reveals the chasm between the soldier and the civilian. The civilian, and for reasons that seem good to him, is prone to use the words the soldier doesn't like. The civilian has a sense of inferiority. Because of youth, age, bad eyesight, a weak heart or an essential occupation he is not asked to fight. The Army and Navy won't have him. So he has an easier time of it than the soldier. He is not to blame, but his conscience hurts him. Glorifying the soldier and the soldier's job makes him feel better. But to the soldier he seems to be saying: "Never mind the rain, mud, snow, dust, thirst, hunger, malaria, tedium and general discomfort; never mind the danger the wounds the pain; never mind the stink and horror—jut fix your mind, you lucky devil, on the beautiful glittering generalities."

The soldier is not thinking of generalities. He is thinking of how to get through the next day, hour, minute, how to keep on going, how to do what he has to do without getting killed. His is dirty, unhappy, dangerous work and, being human, he doesn't like it. More honour to him—but there we go; he doesn't care for honour as a word but only as an act. In the long years to come he may acquire perspective and realise that he and his dead comrades really were the spearhead of democracy and that their conduct was really honourable and glorious. But not now. He is too close to the fact.—New York Times.

Bombing By Priority

In the great Allied aerial offensive against Germany the bombers get their green light from the Board of Priority, which decides on targets. In effect this board is a "court of appeals" before which the Allied land, sea and air commanders and political advisers plead their cases. The weight of the offensive may shift from month to month or year to year, from U-boat factories to aircraft plants, from rail centres to locomotive manufacturing works, from synthetic oil plants to tank and truck factories, but its general objective remains the same—the elimination of the enemy's industrial potential, on which his war effort is based.

The task calls for diplomats as well as for strategists. Admiral Blank may want that U-boat base being built in Norway smashed to oblivion, but he must be content for the moment with the destruction of certain submarine shops in the Baltic. Air Marshal Soandso may want to make a heavy attack on tank factories in Southwestern Germany, but he must be convinced that in view of the tactical situation in Italy it is more important to bomb the railroad yards at Bologna, through which hundreds of tanks are moving to the Italian front. — New York Times.

A Bible Message

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. For by it the elders obtained a good report....

By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God. But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.... By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days....

And what shall I say more? for the time would fail me to tell of Gedeon, and of Barak, and of Samson, and of Jepthae; of David also, and Samuel, and of the prophets: who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens. (Heb. 11: 1, 2, 5, 6, 30, 32-34.)

Unconsidered Trifles

An old lady living in the country had a son in the navy. On one of her rare visits to a neighboring town she saw a sailor. Trembling with excitement she asked him if he knew her boy. She told him his name.

"Well, what ship is he on?" asked the sailor.

"What ship?" exclaimed the old lady. "Are there two?"

When Gen. Leonard Wood of World War I fame was a lad, his mother one day invited the local schoolmistress to her home. The teacher, anxious to show how well Leonard had learned his lessons said:

"Now, Leonard, give me a sentence and then change it to the imperative mood."

"The horse pulls the wagon," replied the boy.

"Excellent. Now change the sentence to the imperative."

"Giddap!" cried Leonard, slapping his knee.

A Debt To The Greeks

To the Greeks we owe the greater part of our poetic vocabularly, as well as four fundamental notions regarding verse in respect to movement, form, and classification. The very words "poet" and poetry" are of Greek origin, signifying a "maker" and a "making."

The time-honored division of poetry into lyric, epic, and dramatic is of Hellenic origin. The lyric, or poetry sung to the accompaniment of the lyre, may be choral (from choros), or nonchoral. The terms ode, hymn, psalm, anthem, doxology, idyl, elegy, threnody, epithalamium, panegyric, paean, and even epigram and epitaph, are all Greek words. So are music, melody, rhythm, strophe, tune with its alternate form tone, choir—a derivative of chorus — barytone, symphony, philharmonic, orchestra....

The Greeks, too, have imposed upon Western civilization their notions of poetic form, and this, in spite of the fact that the verse of the Northern nations depends upon stress and not upon the classical quality. In our schools and colleges, however, English and American poems are scanned for their meter and classified in movement as dactylic, trochaic, anapaestic, iambic. We speak of pentameters and hexameters, of caesuras and catalectics of Sapphics and Alcaics. In no other field is Greek influence more dominant than in that of poetics.

As in the age of Queen Elizabeth, Wyatt and Surrey, and Swinburne in Queen Victoria's time, so a few Americans have attempted to reproduce the Greek measures, not, however, with outstanding success. Poets like Sara Teasdale, Hilda Doolittle, and even Edgar Lee Masters have absorbed and reproduced, often wonderfully well, the Greek spirit, but seldom satisfactorily their poetic qualities. Robinson Jeffers is credited with having achieved the best results. Lawrence Clark Powell in his study of Jeffers quotes Herbert Klein as follows: "No other poet except Swinburne, has to my knowledge succeeded with the use of the quantity in English. Jeffers is well aware of both kinds of quantity. His classical training, rare among American poets, I believe, has made his ear conscious of quantity, his intelligence has enabled him to see how it is best to be used in the English language."—From "Ancient Greece in Modern America," by John Robertson MacArthur.

Britain Extends Pay-As-You-Earn Income Tax Plan

BY ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 10 — (CP) — Britain is broadening her acceptance of the pay-as-you-go principle in the income-tax field. Under a new bill before parliament between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 persons with salaries more than £600 ($2,700) a year will start paying income tax on the pay-as-you-earn system from April 5, the beginning of the next income-tax year.

Previous legislation put most wage earners making up to £600 a year in this category but now the limit has been relaxed. Of some [illegible],000,000 income tax payers in Britain, about 13,000,000 will thus start this spring to pay tax on current incomes rather than on income of the previous year.

This new scheme follows Canada's lead in the field of income tax. It is not likely that the method of payment will be extended here to cover the remainder of the taxpayers. Temporary residents in Britain, who include a number of Canadian civilians here such as newspapermen, are not included in the pay-as-you-earn scheme and will continue to pay on income of the previous year.

Members of the British armed forces do not come under the provisions of the pay-as-you-earn system either.

But it is provided that if the income of these service personnel fall they can be taxed on the reduced income of the current year rather on the higher income of the previous year. All members of the British forces pay income tax whether they are serving at home or abroad.

Bill a Landmark

The London Times said that the new bill "ranks as a landmark in British fiscal history" and added that "pay-as-you-earn on this scale will impart an elasticity to the income-tax and therefore to fiscal and economic policy that will be invaluable, not to say indispensable, in the years that lie ahead."

The change over in April will mean that the great majority of the taxpayers included in the new scheme will not be assessed on their earnings from April, 1943 to April, 1944. Although the bill provides for a supplementary tax for additional remuneration after Sept. 20, 1943, it is explained that this provision is to prevent avoidance of tax.

Ordinary increases of pay due to promotion, increment or overtime are excluded. No employee who had an increase in pay in the ordinary course of his employment will be affected by the supplementary assessment.

The complexities of the new system are certain to be a puzzle to thousands and the Inland Revenue Department has 700 local income-tax inspectors ready to call on mystified taxpayers and explain the workings of the new scheme.

Many factories have set up their own income-tax information bureaux for war workers.

Air Command Leaders Switched

LONDON, March 10 — (CP) — Air Vice Marshall John Henry D'Albiac, commander of the British based second tactical Air Force of the R. A. F. for the last year has been named Deputy Commander of the Mediterranean Allied tactical Air Force.

His appointment, announced last night, was one of five involving shifts of British officers to new posts, another being the transfer of Lt.-Gen. John George des Reaux Swayne from the southeast England Command to become Chief of Staff for India.

In other changes, Lt.-Gen. Edmond Charles Action Schreiber was moved from the western England Command to the southeastern, Lt.-Gen. Sir Edwin Logie Morris was called home from India to take over the northern command, and Maj.-Gen. Daril Watson assume the Western Command.

Eleven $20 Gold Coins Once Found Excavating Bridgenorth Cellar

The people of Bridgenorth and neighborhood were all agog with excitement in September, 1899, when it was reported that men engaged in excavation work were digging up gold and there were wild visions of another Klondyke. The fact was that a gang of men digging a cellar for Mr. Udy had unearthed, some three feet below the surface, a number of $20 gold pieces many of them bright and untarnished. A man named Grey dug up the first and nine of them were then uncovered. The gang decided to divide the spoil among them, but Udy claimed them as they were found on his property, and there was no known legal owner. Later one Trotter, a Peterborough man, found another, and he changed it with Grey for bills. Trotter later found another, but he did not disclose the fact probably thinking that silence was golden.

But the news spread rapidly and reached Chief of Police Rossel, who ordered Trotter to report at the Police Station and bring the coin with him. This he did. The Chief laid no charge, but directed Trotter to leave the coin with him until the question of legal ownership was settled.

The origin of those gold coins is uncertain, but it was stated that a Mrs. McCormack had kept a tavern on the site where the coins were found and that she had lots of money. She had a daughter who had gone to California and had brought back gold with her.

Meanwhile Crown Attorney R. E. Wood got busy and on September 29 issued the following order: "To George Cochrane, High Constable, County of Peterborough—I, Robert Edwin Wood, County Crown Attorney for the County of Peterborough, hereby authorize, empower and require you to seize and take possession of eleven gold pieces of $20 each found in and upon the property of one Udy in the Township of Smith, and to hold the same for Her Majesty the Queen as represented by the Government of Ontario, and for so doing this shall be your authority.

"(Signed) R. E. Wood,
"County Crown Attorney.
"Dated Sept. 29, 1899."

Armed with this authority Cochrane went to Bridgenorth and recovered ten of the coins. The one handed by Trotter to Chief Rossel the latter refused to give up until Magistrate Dumble had given a decision as to ownership.

In the Magistrate's Court Udy claimed the coins and was represented by R. M. Dennistoun, and the Crown Attorney R. E. Wood appeared on behalf of the Crown. There was a lengthy legal argument, Mr. Dennistoun claiming that the old English law of "treasure trove" did not apply to Canada, and that, in any event, the Crown Attorney had no authority to interfere. If anyone had, it was the Attorney-General of the Province or the Dominion. Mr. Wood said he would communicate with the Attorney-General for instructions, and the case adjourned, the magistrate remarking somewhat unkindly that whether anyone got much depended on the number of lawyers who handled the case.

Unfortunately for the continuity of this story, the fall of 1899 saw fighting break out in the Boer War and papers were full of war news and the formation of the Canadian contingent and the enlistment of local volunteers, put the coin case out of the news.

Under the above circumstances, the eventual disposal of those coins is uncertain. E. A. Peck, K.C., remembers the case well, but cannot go further than stating that some compromise was made. Fred Jopling, with his local knowledge, also remembers the case well. He both saw and handled the coins, and was present when Constable Cochrane took possession of them. He, too, can give no definite information, but says that the Crown took possession of the coins, and made some compensatory payments to the parties interested. Perhaps some old readers remember what actually happened.

Travelling Apron Earns $20 For W.I.

BAILIEBORO, March 10—(ENS)—The March meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Reg. Armstrong. Fourteen members were present, and the president, Mrs. Harold Howson, presided. Mrs. George Fletcher and Mrs. James Johnston were named a committee to buy and prepare Easter boxes for boys overseas. Cash donations were requested. Mrs. A. Montgomery and Mrs. H. Howson were appointed to select a book on gardening for the use of the society. A highlight of the meeting was the opening of a travelling apron, which netted $20. The apron was given to Mrs. H. Gaynor, whose name and donation were under the first patch removed. The program was conducted by Mrs. Reg. Armstrong with an Irish theme throughout. The roll call was responded to with Irish jokes, while Mrs. Armstrong gave an interesting history of St. Patrick. Irish readings were given by Mrs. Douglas Fisher, Mrs. Ada Montgomery, Mrs. Jeffrey Jewison, Mrs. Myles Hutchison, and Miss Clara Seens. In conclusion a St Patrick contest was followed with lunch served by the hostess.

Personals.

Wilbert Jewison spent a few days in Toronto at the home of his sisters, Miss Bertha Jewison and Mrs. Tyler.

Mrs. Norman Brackenridge spent the week-end in Hamilton with her daughter, Miss Agnes Brackenridge.

Joe Barnard and Meredith Perrin spent a few days with the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sinclair in Fort William.

Mrs. W. C. Jewison spent a few days with her daughter, Miss Elva Jewison, in Peterborough.

Canada Holds Trump Cards In Air Travel

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 10 (CP)—Preliminary planning for international control of commercial aviation today seemed to be developing into a United Nations poker game—a game in which the cards held by Canada will have an important bearing.

Officials here were considering the value of Canada's cards as American plans for a preliminary conference to be held late this month ran into difficulties.

The extent to which global air routes may be flown without using Canadian ground facilities, or without flying over Canadian territory, will govern the value to be placed upon Canada's position.

But there is no tendency to discount the importance of Canada's stake in the game or her right to top level place in all planning.

The Dominion is known to have prepared a most comprehensive and complete draft of procedure that might be adopted to set up an international authority to licence and regulate international air transportation.

But that report, believed to be the most complete of those prepared by any country, has not been made public and, so far as can be learned here, has not been submitted to the United States Government.

Britain Is Cagey.

An unconfirmed report circulated today was that if the United States Government find it impossible immediately to arrange the conference it proposed some days ago to Canada, the United Kingdom and Russia, it would invite representatives of those countries to come to Washington singly—starting with Canada.

Plans for the proposed preliminary conference ran into a snag, according to a report in an aviation trade journal (American Aviation), when Britain, learning that Canada had been invited, said it would be embarrassing unless other British Dominions were invited.

That raised the question, this report said, of similar representation for other Western Hemisphere countries.

Reports that Canada would insist upon rigid international control of international air traffic, as against the American idea of a certain amount of private initiative and competition, brought comment as to the power of Canada to impose her ideas.

In most discussions of post-war international aviation Canada has been assumed to hold the highest cards because of her geographical position which makes the Dominion the cross-road of global aviation.

But the point has been raised unofficially here that it might be possible to fly from the United States to European and Asiatic points without flying across Canada, or at least without using Canadian land facilities.

If that proved to be correct in any substantial degree it would weaken the stand of the Dominion to some extent but would not remove the certainty that, from a strategical point of view at least, Canada will play an important hand in the complex game of apportioning and regulating the world air routes of the future.

However, the understanding here is that Canada, in this as in other international problems, does not want to join in any combination with other countries, the Empire or otherwise, that would present an unbreakable front when all the countries involved sit down together to work out this problem.

BARON TAKES TITLE

LONDON — (CP) — Col. John Gretton, who resigned from the House of Commons last year for health reasons after 48 years' service and was created a Baron in the New Year's Honors list, has taken the style and title of Baron Gretton of Stapleford in the county of Leicester.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY — Lionel Chevrier, M.P., from Cornwall, who is Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Munitions and Supply.

Cleaver Rules Meetings Secret

OTTAWA, March 10 — (CP) — Hughes Cleaver (L.-Halton), chairman of the Commons War Expenditures Committee, ruled yesterday that the committee had full authority to hold its meetings in secret.

The chairman said that an objection by Karl Homuth (P.C.-Waterloo South), the spokesman for Progressive Conservative members, was not well taken. Mr. Homuth said at a meeting last week that under House rules the committee could not hold secret meetings unless it had been appointed by the House as a secret committee.

A statement issued by the clerk of the committee, R. Arsenault, following a closed session yesterday, said that Mr. Homuth gave notice he would appeal Mr. Cleaver's ruling to the speaker of the House, Hon. J. A. Glen.

The meeting authorized the clerk to issue minutes of meetings of the main committee to the press. The statement said that this suggestion was accepted unanimously.

The committee also agreed that standing sub-committees should examine charges in respect to army boots made by James Clark, a former United Kingdom-Canada joint inspection board inspector, and statements by R. H. McGregor (P.C.-York East) that he had heard of evidence of payroll padding and misuse of materials in construction of No. 2 shell filling plant at Pickering.

150 Guests At Party For Mr. and Mrs. Rigby

HAVELOCK, March 10—(ENS)—A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rigby, Jr., this week, in honor of their recent marriage. About 150 guests attended and the evening was spent in card playing and dancing.

The Hastings orchestra, supplemented by local volunteer musicians, supplied the music for round and square dancing. The large assortment of gifts included silver, linen, pyrex and cooking utensils. A bountiful lunch, including wedding cake, was served at midnight.

Guests from a distance included Misses Jean and Hazel and Mr. Philip Armstrong of Lakefield, Miss Olive Armstrong of Peterborough, Mrs. F. Buck of Detroit, Mrs. A. Matheson of Smith Falls, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sparks of Pickering, Miss Velma Bell, Mrs. J. Lush and Herb Lush of Peterborough.

Advertising Sets Record In 1943

TORONTO, March 10 (CP)—Volume of national advertising lineage in Canadian daily newspapers was greater in 1943 than in any year since 1937, it is reported in the March issue of Canadian Daily Newspaper Markets. National advertising in 1943 totalled 80,661,180 lines in the 57 daily newspapers reporting, compared with 68,232,811 lines in 1942 and 67,584,060 lines in 1936. The report said that total advertising in the 57 papers, representing 85 per cent of the total daily newspaper circulation, increased 5.5 per cent in 1943 from 1942.

Britain Turns To Making Invasion Arms

LONDON, March 10 (CP)—Declaring that 1944 is "a year of challenge," Production Minister Oliver Lyttelton told the House of Commons today that Britain's production is being modified to meet the new needs of attack by increasing the output of "specialized invasion equipment."

"There are many new specialized requirements—new weapons, special invasion equipment and secret devices and equipment — that are of the highest urgency," he said.

Explaining that the production of certain basic items of equipment will be reduced, he said "there must be increased production of certain types of bombers and fighters of proved superiority while those which now are less suited to the conditions to be met must be reduced.

"There will be virtually no cuts in the naval construction program," he added. "Naval construction is still of the highest urgency."

Capt. Lyttelton said that recent successes in the battle of Berlin were due, not only to growing strength of the great bomber fleets, but in a great measure to "amazing secret devices" which enabled the R.A.F. to go out in all types of weather and hit their targets with precision.

British designers and scientists remain second to none, he declared, and last year's production in the whole field of munitions reached the highest level yet, despite many changeovers to meet the strategic needs of the armed forces.

The outstanding problem this year is to maintain that high production level and in some cases increase it.

"Laugh for the pain...."
Then the song was stilled.
For Aroldo Lindi was dying.

The noted European opera tenor collapsed last night on the stage in the crowded San Francisco opera house.

He died backstage as the audience, unaware of his death, applauded his singing of the uncompleted title role in the title role.

Only a few moments before Lindo collapsed face downward on the stage, a friend asked him about his health.

"I'll tell you in five minutes," Lindi replied.

In five minutes he was dead.

Physicians ascribed death to a heart attack.

The 55 year old operatic tenor was born in Sweden.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP).—Some Denver, Colo., boys in a naval unit in the South Pacific have decided they want to sponsor teams in the "Old Timers" Baseball Association this year and will have a league all their own, with teams named after the various ships.

The "Old Timers" are some 500 men who once played on uniformed baseball teams and who are willing to put up a buck apiece to foster baseball competition among boys from 11 to 17 years old..... This year they'll have about 1,300 boys competing in 120 leagues in Denver and suburban Englewood.. ..That's more than double last year's total and it's a good example of how many potential players and fans there are if somebody will take the trouble to turn his attention to the game.....Skipping most of the details, the Old Timers setup merely gives boys a chance to play baseball, with adequate fields, equipment and coaching.

Couldn't pin him down:

One of the few good yarns we've heard about bowling is related by Rex Hess, of the Mansfield, Ohio, News-Journal.....It seems Hess went to interview a kegler who had just bowled a perfect game and found he had started celebrating before he started bowling....In fact, the interviewer explained, he had stopped at that place across the street for a few quick ones and when he got into action he could see three balls rolling down the alley toward 30 pins...."All I did was keep on rolling them," the bowler explained. "I figured that any guy who couldnt knock down 10 pins out of 30 with three balls must be drunk."

Grove School Victors Over All Stars

The Grove First hockey team chalked up their third consecutive win in a victory over Lakefield All-Stars in an exciting speedy game played at Lakefield on Wednesday. The proceeds of the game went to the Canadian Red Cross.

The All-Stars iced a very fast team, and the game was wide open and cleanly played all the way through. Harris tallied first for the School team, and Giroux followed with another goal soon after. Blewett opened the scoring for the All-Stars on a beautiful solo dash down the ice; two minutes later Langmuir scored on a pass from Strathy, and Eayrr made it 4-1 after scoring on a pass from Strathy. The Grove team added one goal in the second period, this by Harris, and the All-Stars netted two, Loist and Millage scoring. In the final frame Mackenzie opened the scoring for the Grove on a hard shot from the corner, only to have Twist of the All-Stars even things up. The final goal of the game came seconds after this one, Loist banging it in from a scramble in front of the Grove net.

The Grove's front line of Harris, Giroux, and Mackenzie played good hockey offensively, and Moore was a standout on the Grove defence. Both goalies, Hyde and Edgar, played remarkably well. The brighter stars among the All-Stars were Blewett, who turned in a sparkling performance on defence, and Loist, who netted two goals and assisted in another.

The line-ups:

All-Stars—Goal, Edgar; defence, Blewett, Lennox; centre, Loist; wings, Henry, —; subs., Millage, Carveth, Hopkins, Twist, Dunfort, Trude, Wasson, Morris Whetting.

Grove — Goal, Hyde; defence, Moore, Shanley; centre, Harris; wings, Giroux, Mackenzie; subs., Strathy, Eayrs, Langmuir, Roy Patton, Smart, Campbell.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

It's hats off to the Powers-McArthur combination. Not only did they win Group D in the schedule, and were runners up in the main event of the Neill Trophy, but they stepped right out last night and won the vice-skips' bonspiel. Off hand we will say that in the last twenty-four games this same rink has only lost three.

Taking the lead on the very first end never letting up Herb Powers and his rink breezed home a handy winner in th vice-skips final, playing against O. M. Steer. It was a case of a well-oiled machine running as smoothly as possible. They played a wonderful game and well deserved the win. With Mr. Steer's rink it looked to us as if, maybe, the boys were trying just a little too hard.

However it is not a small feat to work your way down to the finals in a bonspiel that had 42 entries and we congratulate both winner and loser. It was a great series and best of all it was played right through on good keen ice.

In the preliminary round of the Harry F. Foote Memorial Trophy, C. M. Lawrence, winner of Group A, met and defeated R. Williamson, winner Group B by a 14-6 score. For the first part of the game it was all Lawrence and at one time he was leading 11-1. However the Williamson boys started to find themselves and began to pull up a little but the early handicap proveed too much and Lawrence won going away.

The Lawrence rink now plays the winner of the McArthur-Welsh game.

Tonight we keep right on going by playing the leads and seconds bonspiel. Double headers are also in order.

Tomorrow's program is just the same as last week's. Men's bonspiel at 2 p.m. and mixed spiel at 7 .m.

Forfeit Game

PORT ARTHUR— (CP).— Port Arthur Flyers forfeited the third game last night of the Thunder Bay junior hockey finals when they left the ice in a dispute over a claimed goal. The game was awarded to the Port Arthur West Ends. The Thunder Bay A.H.A. has called a meeting to decide if the Flyers are to be thrown out for the whole series and the West Ends to continue into the Memorial Cup playdowns.

K. of C. Bowlers Score 3653 In Three Games

The K. of C. bowlers bobbed up as strong contenders for this year's City League title when they reeled off a 3653 team score to win three straight games from Freeman's team last night. They are now only one point behind the second place Cleanrites who are scheduled to meet the leading Jay's outfit next week in what promises to be the most crucial match of the whole season.

It's a case of do or die for the Cleanrites now as Jay's are ahead of them a full 5 points. However in their only previous meeting this year Shocky Mein's outfit were supreme and walked over Jay's decisively with a score of 3787.

Hard-hitting was the by-word last night. The Cleanrites, Old Timers, Ramblers and Fractional Motors went to work on the pins in real he-man fashion.

Walter Firth chalked up the high three individual score, 865. Doug. Abraham hit 802 to virtually tie Bud Weese again for high average as both trundlers now stand at 247 each. K. of C. team shot a 1300 even single games and individual singles include Walter Firth 331, Frank Maloney 331, "Tick" Caccavella 329, Jim Cullen 307, Doug Abraham 304 and Gene Reynolds 302.

Quebec Horse Enters Race

TORONTO, March 10—The first nomination for this year's renewal of the King's Plate was from the Province of Quebec, and is Khaki Countess. This is the first year 3-year-olds foaled beyond the Province of Ontario have been eligible for the guineas race, to be run Saturday, May 27, at Woodbine Park.

Khaki Countess is a filly by Passing By out of Khaki Fuller, owned by D. Orr Dunham, Quebec. The filly has yet to start.

Palmer Wright, secretary of the O.J.C., announced yesterday Woodbine track would be open Wednesday, March 15, for horses allotted stalls for the training and racing period. Many applications have already been received and owners will be notified of the location on the track where they will quarter their thoroughbreds.

Take Junior Title

WINNIPEG—(CP).— By defeating Winnipeg Esquires 5-1 last night, St. Boniface Athletics captured the Manitoba junior north division hockey title, taking the play-off series three games to two. The winners now meet St. James Canadiens in a best-of-five series for the provincial honors, the finals to start March 11.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The championship of both divisions of the Ladies' Basketball League may be decided at the Y.W.C.A. tonight. And then again the race in both sections may be tied up. St. John's in the senior group and Y Cadets in the intermediate finals are staging last-ditch stands. If either loses the race is over and the title in that particular division will be settled. The senior playoffs are a best-of-three series between Transports and St. John's and the former, who have not been beaten this season took the first game last week after a thrilling contest by 13 to 12. If they repeat tonight the leaders will of course be champions. They have defeated the Saints three times this season but each time the score has been closer and last week the second-placers came within an ace of causing a major upset when they led the Transports most of the route and were only just beaten out by one point, after holding the leaders to their smallest score of the season. Tonight's game should be another thriller with both teams at full strength. Transports will have Beryl Dobbin, Isobel Crary, Helen Miller, Detty Flynn, Jessie Morrow, Ruth Hewitt, Dot Bestard, Fran Bestard, Irene Stewart, Jean Castle and F. Fleming while the Saints' lineup will include Marg Hawthorne M. Dyer, Terese Heslip, Eileen Hewitt, Eva Clarke, Doreen Groombridge, Peggy Lawless, Edith Harte-Maxwell and M. Vosberg. The senior game will get under way at 8 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

The intermediate battle should be every bit as exciting. Normal School lead by two games to one and can take the best-of-five round tonight by another win. On the other hand the Y Cadets can make it all even with a victory and the youthful Y team will go all out to bring home the decision and square the series. Cadets took the first game of the playoffs by coming from behind to win out 18 to 15 but the Normals evened things up by grabbing off a 22 to 14 triumph in the second game. The third battle, played a week ago was a tense, exciting struggle from whistle to whistle, before Normals finally managed to eke out a 11 to 10 win. It was anybody's ball game. In fact Cadets with a basket late in the fourth quarter took the lead 10 to 9 and looked to have the battle tucked away but Evelyn Fritz tossed in a field basket in the final stages to give Normal their win. Tonight's game would be just as close and exciting. It is billed to start at 9 o'clock. The two crucial games, in view of the excitement last week's contests engendered should draw the biggest crowds of the season tonight.

Wagner Wins Argument

There have been plenty of repercussions from Tuesday night's brawl at the Brock Street Arena and leading the chorus has been Strangler Bob Wagner who has been camping on Promoter Frank Tunney's doorstep ever since, shouting that he had been robbed and demanding another match with Holbrook to settle the argument. The Strangler claimed that his second had been driven into the ring because of the attack made on him by Peterborough fans and that he should never have been disqualified for something over which neither he nor Zaharias had any control. Impressario Tunney was inclined to agree with the Portland battler. "Maxwell was technicaly right in disqualifying Wagner," says the promoter, "but at the same time it was a tough break for the Strangler." While he was wavering Holbrook cleared the situation by backing Wagner's demand for a return bout. "I have never won a match that way before," said the Coast Flash, "and I don't like it." So Tunney finally yielded and will send Wagner in against Holbrook here next Tuesday night. And the battler from Portland won another point, too. One of the conditions of the bout is that he is to have Zaharias acting as his second. The rules, of course, allow the grapplers to have a man in their corner if they want one, so long as he keeps out of the ring and does not interfere with the contestants. "I want Zaharias to handle me," insisted Wagner and with Holbrook making no objection, Tunney finally agreed. So the two bad men will be a board of strategy against Holbrook in the Tuesday night show. It should be interesting to watch the developments.

Twenty years ago tonight the Peterborough intermediate hockey team was within five minutes of an Ontario championship and then tossed away because of a mistake in tactics. Before 5,000 fans at the Arena Gardens in Toronto, including hundreds from Peterborough, along with the Caledonian pipe band, the Petes battled Niagara Falls in the second game of the final round, after losing the first game in the Falls 3 to 1. Early in the battle Bawtenheimer scored for the Cataracts to put them three up on the round but Ray Rose got that one back in 8 minutes and it was 1-1 at the end of the period. Early in the second period Biffer Ranger scored for the Petes with Halpin getting the assist but before the session ended Rice had scored twice for the Falls putting them in front 3 to 2 on the game and 6 to 3 on the round. The Petes looked to be out of it at that stage with three goals to make up in 20 minutes to even up the series but they came back with a fighting display that had the crowd in an uproar. First Ranger went in and beat Mayo to make it 3-3. Snap Parker fired a sizzler from outside the defence to ring the bell again and finally with the Petes playing every man up and only five minutes to go Parker took a corner pass from Collins and snapped a goal past Mayo to tie up the round. Sound practice would have been to drop back the defence then and play orthodox hockey but the Petes gambled on getting the winning goal, kept everybody up on the attack and finally were trapped up the ice when Bawtenheimer shook Steve Rice loose on a breakaway and the Falls' forward star had a clear run to the nets for the goal that meant the championship. The Petes won the game 5 to 4 but lost the round 7 to 6.

Win One Title, Anyway

Commenting on the achievement of the Peterborough Canadians including Honey Tompkins, Art Heal, Johnny Godfrey and Les Burton in winning the Felt Cup in the Lindsay tourney by defeating an Oshawa team in the finals Ford Moynes says in his Sport Sage column in the Watchman-Warder: "Lindsay fans are yearning to see fast hockey—evidenced by the large crowd in attendance at the final game for possession of the Felt Cup, when Peterborough defeated Oshawa 9 to 6. Two outside teams battled for supremacy, two local teams having been eliminated earlier in the tournament. Fans thrilled and cheered to the calibre of hockey dished up—the fastest game of the season, much similar to the games played by Peterborough Intermediates in Lindsay in the season of 1942-43. There was a dash and zip to the tournament that kept the fans on their toes, especially in the final game. "Honey" Tompkins, the little fellow wearing the long red trousers, who cavorted around centre ice for the Petes, put on a real show. His stickhandling and equilibrium were a treat for sore eyes, and he was brilliantly assisted by Art Heal, the little winger, both of last year's Peterborough team. Peterborough has no rink, but their representative team from the C.G.E. turned in stellar hockey. Oshawa also fought hard and showed particularly good sportsmanship in making three trips to Lindsay. This Oshawa team of Intermediate O.H.A. calibre turned in a magnificent game, but were not quite as finished as the Petes."

Toronto Leafs, paced by Lorne Carr who came out of a prolonged scoring slump to fire three goals, knocked Boston practically out of the N.H.L. playoff picture last night by whitewashing the New York Rangers at Madison Square Gardens 5 to 0. Babe Pratt helped Carr in the scoring end with two goals and an assist and Paul Bibeault turned in one of his best goal-minding demonstrations of the campaign with the result that the Rangers never had a chance. The win, coupled with the fact that Black Hawks lost to Canadiens in Chicago, pulled the Leafs up to a third-place tie with the Hawks, although the advantage is still with the latter who have two more games than the Leafs to play. Canadiens showed why they are at the top of the loop and have only been beaten four times all season. They checked the Hawks into the

C.G.E. Outfit Wins Title From Genelco

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10, (ENS) — By a 9 to 6 win over Genelcos last night on Campbellford ice the C. G. E. shop team won the title. Playing a good sized crowd on a fast sheet of ice the two teams demonstrated the best game of hockey seen locally during the season. The game was fast clean and featured plenty of wide open action.

In the first period the Genelcos started the scoring shortly after the opening bell when Brockley scored on pass from Anderson. Carvaggie was called on to make several sensational saves following a pressing attack by the C. G. E.'s but by the middle of the period Genelco tallied this time Brockley teaming up with Anderson again. The play continued at a fast clip with the C. G. E. pressing the attack until they finally hit the jack pot as Compton scored from Conroy towards the close of the period.

Both teams went on a scoring rampage in the second as the winners went into the lead for the first time in the game on goals by Kennedy and Burton. Genelco got the equaliser as Brockley once again found the mark and the scoring continued at a fast pace with goals by Brazer for Genelco; Carpenter and Bertrand for C.G.E. and Montgomery for Genelco making the score at the end of the period 5 to 5.

Honey Tompkins who was the best man on the ice proved this by scoring three times during the final stanza. Williams added the other C. G. E. counter and in the dying minutes of the game Brazer for the losers slipped one past Romanhanyi from close range. Referees Heffernan and Holmes handed out four penalties and these were divided between the two teams.

Line Up:—

C.G.E.—Goal, Romanyi; defence, Burton and Thompson; centre, E. Williams; wings, Conroy, Carpenter; subs. Allison, Kennedy, J. Williams.

Genelcos— Goal, J. Carvaggie; defense, Brockley, McQuade; centre, Brazer; wings, Montgomery, Platt; subs, Dyer, Holmes, Anderson, Dugan, Rogers.

Oshawa Rink Wins At Cobourg

COBOURG, March 10 — Oshawa rink, skipped by A. Gafford, won top honors at the bonspiel held here last night. Eight rinks took part, coming from Cobourg, Oshawa, Peterborough and Colborne.

On the winning rink were L. Beaton, R. Gay, B. White and A. Gafford, which had three wins and a score of 41.

Second place, with three wins and 37, was won by R. L. Jackson of Cobourg. The other members of the rink were Ward Parsons, John Ewart and C. P. Jones.

Eddie Arcaro . . . one of the best

Arcaro Licks Jinx, Rides Winner

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian

They don't come back? But they do, especially if they are of championship calibre.

Eddie Arcaro, the little Italian riding man considered by many turf observers to be one of the greatest jockeys in racing history, was the talk of the winter circuit in Florida a month ago.

Arcaro, pilot of Whirlaway in the 1941 Kentucky Derby and previously aboard Lawrin in the 1938 event, was in a slump. He couldn't ride a winner. He generally finished out of the money. The word was whispered that the riding fool of previous years had lost his nerve.

And then, all of a sudden, it happened. Arcaro began to boot 'em in. One day he rode four winners, every mount he had. He accelerated up the ladder of riding fame again when he booted Stir Up, an 6 to 1 shot, to victory over the 3 to 5 favorite, Director J. E., in the Flamingo Stakes, first big 1944 test for three-year-olds. Arcaro, the brilliant rider, gave Stir Up a magnificent ride.

Three Daily Doubles

On Feb. 28, Arcaro turned in the daily double, riding the winners of the first and second races.

On March 1, Arcaro repeated, also riding both ends of the daily double.

On March 2, the stout little Italian came back again, riding the daily double winners for the third time in four days.

Thus, Arcaro, back on the winning track, again is the talk of the turf—but this time with language colored with praise and high-sounding, favorable adjectives.

From the bottom of the list of winter riding leaders, Arcaro now is beginning to challenge Teddy Atkinson for the lead.

Arcaro is a great money rider. When the chips are down he's in there, winning.

He has proven it time and again, and, being a hard rider, he gets into turf jams like the one last year which caused his suspension.

When he returned to the saddle recently and he failed to win, some observers diagnosed the case as one of jitters. Arcaro, they said, was playing plenty safe on stretch drives for fear he would be set down again.

But, apparently, it was only a temporary stroke of bad luck that kept him away from the winner's circle.

Arcaro blamed his bad luck on his mounts, claiming you can't win without a good horse.

His piloting of Stir Up to victory in the Flamingo sets the stage for a possible repetition of his 1938 performance when he rode Lawrin to victory in the Flamingo and then came back in the Kentucky Derby to pilot the brown colt trained by Ben Jones to a $19.20 for $2 victory in the classic at Churchill Downs.

Seeking Triple

Arcaro is seeking a third victory in the derby, hoping to join Earl Sande and Isaac Murphy as the only jockeys to win the derby three times. Murphy, a Negro, won in 1884, 1890 and 1891. Sande took the big event in 1923, 1925 and 1930.

Arcaro had his triple in 1942 but wasn't aboard him. That may sound a bit off, but the fact is Arcaro was given his choice of riding either Devil Diver or Shut Out in the 1942 event by the Greentree stable, for whom he rides.

Devil Diver, given the best chance of winning the event, was picked by Arcaro. You know the story. Shut Out, with Wayne Wright up, won the race. Devil Diver finished fourth.

Perhaps this is Arcaro's year for a third strike—and it won't put him out.

At any rate on Saturday, March 4, he rode "Four Freedoms" to victory in the "Hialeah Special," completing the double for 1944 winter racing. In 1942 Arcaro accomplished this same feat, winning both the Flamingo and the Hialeah specials of that year. The races were not run in 1943, the meet being called off on account of the war.

Bobcaygeon Rink Wins In Consolation

TORONTO, March 10—Mrs. M. E. Thompson's Granite Club rink won the Frank Shannon Trophy yesterday afternoon at the Granite Club, defeating Mrs. C. S. Robertson's foursome, 13-6. Mrs. Robertson's rink was also from the Granite Club.

The Consolation final was contested by two out of town rinks, with Mrs. J. R. McIntosh of Bobcaygeon defeating Mrs. M. E. Baseman of Hamilton Victorias, 18-4.

The results:

Frank Shannon Trophy

Granite Club	Granite Club
Mrs. Johnston	Mrs. McCleary
Mrs. R. Ramell	Mrs. C. Spooner
Mrs. F. Graham	Mrs. J. S. Fairty
Mrs. Thomp'n 13	Mrs. Rob'tson.. 6

Sudbury Wins

TIMMINS, Marc 10. — (CP).—Sudbury Open Pit last night took a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven N.O.H.A. final series with Porcupine All Stars, winning a thrill-packed fourth game 4-3. Regis (Pep) Kelly, one-time professional, fired the winning goal for his club with only 40 seconds remaining in the final period.

To Defend Title

BOSTON, March 10.— (CP). —Featherweight champion Phil Terranova will defend his title in a 15-round bout here to-night against Boston's Sal Bartelo, who won his last eight fights.

Bruin Chances Dwindle; Rangers Lose

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins apparently will be bereft of a National Hockey League play-off berth and a 14-year record as well when the N.H.L. schedule ends March 19.

Although Bruins did not play last night, their prospects of overhauling Toronto Maple Leafs or Chicago Black Hawks for the last qualifying spot in the standings were dealt another severe blow when Leafs trampled Rangers 8-0 at New York. Boston must now take all its four remaining games while Leafs and Hawks stand still to gain the fourth play-off berth.

Chicago, which has five games left, lost an opportunity to clinch one of the berths when they dropped a 3-2 decision to Montreal Canadiens in a hard-fought contest at Chicago. A 13,926 home crowd saw 16 penalties called, 10 on Montreal, including one major, one 10-minute misconduct and a match misconduct. The latter was imposed on Murph Chamberlain, Canadiens' left winger, after he charged the referee.

Doug Bentley, speedy Chicago left wing, received a broken nose and three facial cuts requiring six stitches following a duel with Glen Harmon and Mike McMahon of Montreal in the first period.

Canadiens sealed their 34th victory of the season in the second period on goals by Toe Blake and Ray Getliffe to boost their point total to 75, two fewer than Boston scored in 1929-30 for a league record which Canadiens seem likely to surpass in their remaining five games.

Maurice Richard tallied Montreal's other counter while Joe Cooper and Art Wiebe were the successful Chicago snipers.

Lorne Carr shook off a protracted scoring slump in New York, scoring three Leaf goals as the Rangers gave one of their most inept exhibitions to suffer their 36th defeat in 46 starts. Other Toronto scorers were Babe Pratt (2), Bob Davidson, Ted Kennedy and Gus Bodnar. Paul Bibeault, shutout leader among the league's goalies this season, recorded his fourth scoreless game of the season in blanking Rangers.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Billy Herman, veteran second baseman, advised the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday he had been accepted for service in the U.S. Navy, while pitcher Ed Head sent word he had been accepted for the Army at Shreveport, La. With these rips in the regular roster of the team, President Branch Rickey said the available material had been reduced to 31 players and, of these only 18 are definite for the coming season.

At the same time, Manager Leo Durocher announced at Brooklyn headquarters he would have no less than 75 aspirants at the Bear Mountain, N.Y., training camp which is scheduled to open next Wednesday, the lot including 33 boys of tender age and uncertain diamond ability. The Brooklyn size-up is said to be typical of the pre-season situation with most of the major-league clubs.

Deadlines have been set for completing inter-unit competitions as well as Western and Eastern finals in the Canadian Army boxing championships, which have started eliminations across the Dominion.

All inter-unit and zone competitions must be completed by the week ending April 22, while Eastern and Western champs must be named by the week ending April 29.

The finalists battle it out here for the Dominion crowns in the first week in May.

Other news from the baseball front included:

National League

Philadelphia — with signing of Outfielder Buster Adams, the Blue Jays report 16 in the fold. Herb Pennock announced signing of George Gasdaskas, 18-year-old Bethlehem, Pa. high school boy, to be sent to the Bradford, Pa. farm in the Pony League.

American League

St. Louis—Outfielder Frank Demaree, recently released by the Cardinals. Signed by the Browns.

Chicago — Outfielder Thurman Tucker announced he had passed his army physical examination and Pitcher Al Epperly, acquired in the baseball draft, said he would either stay on his farm or be in the armed service.

Philadelphia — Athletics reported 26 signed and only two holdouts, Outfielder Bill Burgo and Pitcher Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin. Connie Mack said Bobo Newsom not considered holdout as he was just seeing if he could get in shape to pitch.

Two-thirds of the Kraut line opposed the remaining fraction and with this superiority of professional hockey figures, the Rossmen won the championship of the Canadian Bomber Group overseas.

Featuring Milt Schmidt and Bobby Bauer, the victors downed the rival Lancasters, sparked by PO. Porky Dumart, 5-0 and 4-3 in a two-game, total series.

The Rossmen, so named after the station commanding officer, Group Capt. A. D. Ross of Sydney, N.S., took the first game in stride but only a great last-period spurt enabled them to win the second.

Trailing 2-0 as the last period opened, the Rossmen hit their pace after Cpl. Ken Smith, who played for Preston when they won the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate crown in 1937, counted on a long shot. Bauer, a leading aircraftman, tied the game, and PO. Schmidt added two more just 10 seconds apart.

Although on the same team, Schmidt and Bauer didn't perform on the same line. Schmidt, at centre, had Preston's Smith and LAC. Pete Place of Prescott, Ont., as wings. Bauer was wingman on the second line.

LAC. George Wray of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., performed in the Rossmen's nets, and among others on the winning team were LAC. Rockey Thompson of Montreal, Sgt. F. E. Scott of Midland, Ont., and LAC. R. S. Fairservice, Blyth, Ont.

Among the best of the losers was LAC. Johnny Desilets of Sudbury, Ont.

Belleville Students Capture Title

BELLEVILLE, March 10.—Belleville Collegiate won the Junior Interscholastic hockey championship of the Bay of Quinte Conference, defeating St. Michael's Academy, 3-2, here last night. With only two teams in the junior section, the Belleville "Collegians" took the best-in-three series in straight games.

The local "Irish" opened the scoring in the first period, with Don Semark registering. The Collegians bounced back to even the count later when Maurice Vollick sank the equalizer. In the second period St. Mike's again moved to the fore with Bill Lorimer scoring. Johnny McCreary's solo effort again knotted the score and Vollick picked up a loose puck to rap home what proved the winning counter as there was no scoring in the last period.

Belleville Collegiate — Goal, Dodson; defence, McCreary and Liddle; centre, Vollick; wings, Strachan and Locke; subs, Hubble, Thrasher, Peppin, Legate, Milligan and Wanamaker.

St. Michael's Academy — Goal, Scanlan; defence, Moher and Duffy; centre, Semark; wings, Lorimer and McNully; subs, Meager, Barrett, Upper, Cooper, and Bone.

Referee—St. Louis, Belleville.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—One of the hottest of Canada's sport hotbeds, New Westminster, B.C., (pop. 21,967) sets out in search of previously-unacquired honors tomorrow night at Calgary when New Westminster Lodestars meet Edmonton Vics in the first round of Allan Cup play-offs. New Westminster has won many national championships in soccer, lacrosse and basketball but has never before made an important bid for a hockey crown. . . . Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell predicts that if Lodestars get by Edmonton's team of old pros, they will reach the Allan Cup final. He doesn't figure they have much chance of beating the eastern champions.

Shovel Needed?

Despite the general deterioration of N.H.L. play due to the war, Dick Irvin told Bill Gaynon of the Niagara Falls Review he is not sure his Montreal Canadiens are far behind the great Canadiens teams of Morenz-Joliet days in class. "I'll go farther," he added, "and declare that we would not finish lower than second in any race of the last 12 winters."

Sweeney the Schriner:

Apparently Dave Schriner is definitely through with professional hockey. He told Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott he had refused overtures from Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks to join them for the play-offs and mentioned the Chicago offer was "exceedingly tempting." . . . Schriner said Doug Cairns, Calgary Tecumseh-Mustangs centre, would have no difficulty making the grade in the N.H.L. "He's a fine playmaker and like myself favors a nice passing attack instead of the ganging hockey that features the Maple Leaf style of play" . . . that quotation is the tip-off on Sweeney's withdrawal from the majors. He didn't like the new-style hockey.

Here and There:

Neil Colville has been playing open-air hockey in the Edmonton Inter-service League. That's almost like hanging the Mona Lisa in a street car . . . Al Lust, whose Canadian welterweight title bouts with Dave Castilloux a year ago were a feature of the Dominion's boxing news, is in military hospital in North Africa with a fractured knee and sprained hip . . . Truro Bearcats, one of the Maritimes' most famous hockey clubs, threatens to withdraw from the A.P.C. league after this season because of a dispute with league officials.

Bombers Defeat Lindsay 6-5

OMEMEE, March 10 — (ENS) — Omemee Bombers defeated Lindsay Silverwoods 6-5, in an exhibition game which ran to overtime in Omemee arena Wednesday evening. The game was fast and cleanly played, with no penalties handed to either team. Jack Williamson scored the only goal of the first period when he skated through the whole Lindsay team and outguessed Seguire.

In the second period Bradley scored from Deyell, and Deyell from Bradley. Lindsay came back with two quick goals, one by Grouden, the other by Gassien. The period ended Omemee 3, Lindsay 2.

Early in the third period Workman scored for Lindsay, tying up the score. Deyell put Omemee one ahead on a pass from Bradley. Green tied things up again when he netted one for Lindsay. Each team scored again, Coombs for Lindsay and Williamson for Omemee, tying the score with six minutes left to play. In the ten minutes overtime period Bradley gained the winning goal on a pass from Deyell. Final score: Omemee 6, Lindsay 5.

Line up:

Lindsay—Goal, Seguire; defence, Shell and Kelly; centre, Gassien; wings, Coombs and Workman; subs, Grills, Karrys, Green, Deyell and Grouden.

Omemee—Goal, Brooks; defence, Williamson and Evans; centre, Deyell; wings, Bradley and Thurston; subs, Nurse, Parker and Weir.

Referees—W. Thurston and Hancock.

Capitals Hold Second Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitals have finished their American Hockey League schedule and today stand in second place in the eastern division. They wound up the season last night by defeating Buffalo Bisons 4-2.

The victory gave Caps a four-to-one edge over Bisons for the season. Five games were tied.

Carl Smith opened the scoring in the first period, but Fred Hunt tied it up for Buffalo in the second.

Alex Ritson and Johnny Sorrell added tallies for Indianapolis in the final frame before Buffalo's Larry Thibeault came through with a goal for Bisons.

At 19:01 a penalty-shot goal by Centre Dick Kowcinak clinched the game for Indianapolis.

Members Give Tribute To Canadian Navy

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 10. — (CP).— The Commons yesterday bent its straight democratic back in a respectful bow to the Navy.

What might have been a prosaic discussion of Navy Department estimates—$410,000,000 for the fiscal year 1944-45—developed into a united tribute to the men who go down to the sea in ships.

Members thumped their desks as Flt. Lt. James Sinclair (L.-Vancouver North), wearing R.C.A.F. uniform and recently home from service in North Africa, said the navy had a tough job and had done it superbly well.

Flt. Lt. Sinclair said he thought he could speak for every soldier, sailor and airman overseas when he told of the admiration they had for the Royal Canadian Navy. When airmen and soldiers crossed the North Atlantic they felt it a "shaky experience" and then suddenly realized that the navy had to make crossing again and again.

Have Toughest Job.

When the story of the war in Africa and the Mediterranean was written the greatest share of credit would go to the Royal Navy, not the 8th Army or the desert Air Force.

Flt. Lt. Sinclair said that men of the R.C.N., fighting in their little ships, faced conditions more exacting than the "pretty desperate conditions" faced by airmen and soldiers in Libya.

The Navy was the House's main concern for the day. But, at the opening of the sitting, there was other business.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that Canadian diplomatic representatives in Buenos Aires have been instructed to refrain for the present from any official contacts with the administration of Gen. Farrell, "pending a clarification of what remains a most confused and obscure situation."

Recent government changes in the Argentine had caused "considerable anxiety" to the United Nations. The Canadian position in respect to the Farrell administration was in line with a position taken by the United States and British governments.

The Prime Minister announced that the government proposed an Easter adjournment from March 31 to April 17.

In the Senate, Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L.-British Columbia) said that failure of John Bracken Progressive Conservative national leader, to seek a seat in Parliament was contrary to "the best constitutional procedure."

If the leader of the opposition was absent from the House for any length of time his absence was a breach of procedure second only to the absence of the Prime Minister.

Senator C. C. Ballantyne, Progressive Conservative senate leader, said he had been in the Upper House for 12 years and the address by Senator Farris was the first time he had heard a "Simon pure political speech." He said the discussion was out of order and should never have been introduced.

Senator Farris spoke for more than an hour, treating particularly with the fact Mr. Bracken had made no attempt to gain a seat in parliament.

Senate Leader Dr. J. H. King was the only other member to speak. He said opposition members appeared over sensitive and there should be freedom of discussion on public matters in the Senate.

Senator Farris said he had been accused of "Petty Politics" for introducing the subject, but he considered it a matter of public importance.

The British parliamentary system gave an important position and provided a salary for the opposition leader.

"That salary was not voted for a substitute leader or an understudy," he said. "It was voted for the Prima Donna."

The contribution to be made by the opposition leader to the well-working of the constitution was second only to that of the Prime Minister himelf, he continued. Rt. Hon. Sir Arthur Meighen had recognized the importance of the party leader being in parliament when he resigned his seat in the senate and sought a seat in the Commons on assuming leadership of the Conservative party.

Senator Ballantyne took exception to a comment by Senator Farris that there were some who thought the style of Mr. Bracken's prepared speeches was not his own.

Jury Urges Control Of Alcoholic Lotions

TORONTO, Mar. 10 (CP)—A Jury investigating the death of John A. MacDonald on January 15, last night found he died of acute alcoholism and urged that immediate control be taken of the sale of alcoholic lotions.

Witnesses testified that MacDonald had been drinking lilac lotion and bay rum the day previous to his death. He died while under arrest on a charge of drunkenness.

A police officer told the jury under Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson that "the consumption of bay rum and lilac lotion is presenting a problem that is growing more serious daily."

war, we can unbalance it for the emergencies of peace."

Mr. Leavens, replying to a point of order raised by Premier Drew, denied that he had said the C.C.F. would take farms away from the farmers. The party would not take the farmer's land and would make sure no one else took it. Security of Tenure would automatically pass from one generation to another on the family farm.

Depleting Timber

Mr. Anderson, mayor of Fort William, urged changes in the government's forest policy to protect timber stands in the Thunder Bay area, which he said were being depleted at an alarming rate.

Mr. Lockhart criticized packing plants as an enemy of the farmer. He suggested that agriculturists "take over the packing plants themselves and operate them in a co-operative manner."

Mr. Murray said the C.C.F. wanted to "put everything into politics. He expressed belief the Drew government intended to give good government and commended features of the throne speech—particularly the proposal for increased religious education in the schools.

Mr. Downie said farmers would better aid the war effort by running their farms than than by operating the stockyards. He said farm labor camps for high school pupils had proved helpful to farmers in south-western Ontario and urged that they be continued in 1944.

Mr. Hunt said that, as a farmer, he "resented the leaders of labor coming into this House and telling us what we should do." Post-war planning was perhaps the most important item before the legislature. The government had accepted a challenge to "make this province fit for heroes to live in."

Mr. Goodfellow urged an end to "petty political quibbling." He said agriculture had reached a "depressing state" and predicted Ontario farm production would drop off this year because of a labor shortage. He urged the agriculture department to do all it could to provide help for farmers in 1944.

SYMPHONY PLAYS YOUNG AIRMAN'S SUITE—Public recognition of the musical attainments of this young RCAF wireless trainee will be given Tuesday evening, March 14, when Sir Ernest MacMillan conducts the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in R. J. B. Fleming's "The Nursery Suite." The 22-year-old aircraftman is to receive special leave from No. 1 Wireless School in Montreal to attend the performance, while his parents are making the journey from Saskatoon to be present. Fleming has studied in London and at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, where he won the 1942 and 1943 scholarships of the Performing Rights Society. He has had four songs and a piano number published, in England and Canada. His new composition is described by the composer as "a series of pictures in music of homes and houses of my childhood." New U.S. Mortar Outshoots Nazi 88-MM Guns

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—The United States Army disclosed some details to-day about its 4.2-inch mortar which has been used with success both in the Pacific and in Italy, and which troops using it have dubbed "the Goon Gun."

It was originally developed some 20 years ago, but now, with improvements, it can lob a score of 24-pound projectiles as far as 2½ miles in 60 seconds, and some gun crews have got six shells in the air before the first one landed.

It is being used for high explosive and white phosphorus shells, and veterans back from Sicily have reported the Germans fear these latter more than any weapon employed by the Allies.

Writing in the Infantry Journal, Brig.-Gen. Alden H. Waitt reported that a single phosphorus shell fired by this mortar spreads its burst over an area 40 yards in diameter, setting fires as well as causing casualties.

One "goon gun" company in Italy was reported to have engaged a battery of German 88-mm. guns—which have four times the range and outweigh the 4.2 some 30 times —and to have destroyed the battery with 12 rounds.

Gen. Waitt says the "goon" can —if need arises—place nearly two tons of chemical agent "such as prosgene" on a target within two minutes—"enough gas to put completely out of action every unprotected man in an area of 250,000 square yards."

Face New Trap.

Zhukov, dispatches said, appeared intent on consolidating his forces along the Odessa-Warsaw railway. His newest thrusts, following the capture yesterday of Staro-Konstantinov and the Kazatin region, apparently are aimed at filling out the sector which lies south-east of the junction town of Proskurov.

Besides menacing the Black Sea ports of Nikolaev and Kherson, Malinovsky's advance was a direct threat to the several hundred thousand Nazi troops still in the lower Ukraine and along the coast of the Black Sea toward Odessa, front dispatches pointed out.

Capture of Staro-Konstantinov by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army left the Germans in this sector only a 20-mile corridor along the railway south to Proskurov as a retreat route toward Rumania. Proskurov itself was threatened with capture by the Red Army troops last reported only seven miles away.

Zhukov also gained control of a 83-mile stretch of the trunk line from Dichkov west to Gruzhevitsa, while capture of Maly Khodachkuv, also east of Tarnopol, placed Soviet spearheads within 56 miles of the Dniester River and the Rumanian frontier.

Other Russion forces in the Berdichev sector, north-west of Proskurov, captured the town of Ulanov, 56 miles north-east of Proskurov. This drive linked with the eastern end of Zhukov's offensive, giving the latter a continuous front of about 140 miles facing the Rumanian border.

Capt. Roy Brown Air Ace Dies At Age 50

TORONTO, March 10.—(CP). — Capt. A Roy Brown, who came back from the First Great War a national hero after shooting down the greatest German ace of that conflict, died last night at his farm in nearby Stouffville after a short illness. He was 50.

Capt. Brown's name was linked with Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop and Col. Hill Barker for his feat of shooting down Baron Mannfred Von Richtofen in April, 1918, after the "Red Knight of Germany" had compiled 80 air victories.

Of the famed Bishop-Barker-Brown trio who were the toast of Canada for their sky triumphs, only Air Marshal Bishop survives. He is director of recruiting for the R.C.A.F.

Rejected by the Royal Flying Corps which was recruiting and training in Canada, Capt. Brown subsequently joined the Royal Naval Air Service and trained at Dayton, O., where the Wright Brothers established their school. After reaching England he was injured in an air accident and spent five months in hospital, finally getting to France late in 1915.

A sidelight on the Von Richtofen incident was contributed by Wop May, famed northern bush flier, in a recent reunion with Capt. Brown, who was flight commander in May's squadron. May told how the German ace attacked as he was heading homeward and how Capt. Brown intervened to knock down the enemy plane and save May from possible destruction.

Capt. Brown was born in Carleton Place, Ont., and attended schools there and at Edmonton, where he starred as a basketball and hockey player. He was taking a business course at Willis College in Ottawa when war intervened.

After returning from overseas, the Canadian ace became an executive in a firm specialising in aircraft finishes. In 1934 he left to organise General Airways, operating air services out of Noranda, Que., and Haileybury, Ont.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Edith Monypenny; two daughters, Margaret and Barbara, both assistant section officers with the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) and one son, Donald.

Minister Entertains Plainville Y.P.U.

GORE'S LANDING March 10. — (ENS).—The Young People's Society of Plainville United church were guests of Rev. M. C. and Mrs. Fisher this week with 25 members present.

The program convener, Miss Olive Taylor, who is also Christian Fellowship convener, arranged a Scripture picture of the life of Christ and the meaning of Christianity. Ten members took part, reading passages of Scripture and other articles relating to the theme. Jack Buttars gave a reading; a piano solo by Miss Valeda Minifie and a Kipling poem read by Will Benson completed the program. Next Tuesday evening, the society will meet at Plainville United church.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed with the hostess serving pumpkin pie.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Board of Education Adopts Schedule Of Allowances

Rules and regulations governing the new plan for retiring allowances passed by the Board of Education at a recent meeting were adopted by the Board when the Supervision Committee submitted its report on Thursday night.

This plan applies to the Inspector of Public schools, the principal of the Collegiate and Vocational School, the principals of the public schools, and all full-time teachers on the staffs of the Collegiate and Vocational School and the Public Schools.

Employees retiring under this plan, who have given 20 or more years' service in the schools of the city of Peterborough, will be paid a retiring allowance for life, the annual amount of which is calculated as follows: Public school women: $8 times the number of years service in Peterborough; Public School men other than principals: $10 times the number of years service; Public School Principals: $12 times the number of years service; Collegiate women: $10 times the number of years service; Collegiate men: $12 times the number of years service; Public School Inspector: $15 times the number of years service and the Principal of the Collegiate: $15 times the number of years service. All allowances will be paid in 12 monthly instalments and such payments shall commence one month after retirement.

Retiring Age Is Set

All male employees who reach the age of 65 before September 1, in any year, will be retired at the end of the preceding June. All women employees who reach the age of 62 before September 1 in any year, will be retired at the end of the preceding June also.

An employee liable for retirement may be granted an extension of one year provided the Board has received satisfactory evidence of physical fitness and unimpaired teaching efficiency. Such annual extensions may be repeated from year to year until a maximum of three years beyond the retiring age has been reached. Those desiring an extension, must make application to the Board in writing not later than March 1 of the year in which they are due for retirement. The Inspector of Public Schools and the Principal of the Collegiate are to submit a list of teachers due for retirement in the following June, to the Board of Education at the January meeting.

Cognizance of illness forcing teachers to retire earlier has also been made by the members. Any employee who has served 20 or more years, and is forced to give up before the retiring age, due to ill health, will be granted a retiring allowance, based on the tables, with the approval of the Board.

Leave of Absence

Any period of leave of absence granted by the Board for sickness, military service or teacher exchange, shall be included as part of the teacher's service here in calculating the allowance. The interruption of service from these causes will not interfere with participation in the scheme. Periods of leave of absence granted by the Board for any other reasons, shall not be included as service to the Board, but years of service prior to such interruptions will be credited to the teacher when calculating the retiring allowance.

This plan which became effective, January 1, 1944, affects three teachers this year. L. J. Pettit of the Collegiate has been teaching 42 years, 36 of them in Peterborough, and on a motion by T. J. Carley and D. V. Canning, he was granted a retiring allowance, according to schedule. George Mattice of the Prince of Wales School has taught 26 years in Peterborough and it was moved by Dr. C. M. Scott and Fred Reed that he be granted a retiring allowance and Miss B. Thompson who has taught 42 years was given the allowance on motion of Mr. Canning and Mr. Reed. Two extensions will be granted, one to A. S. Zavitz, who has instructed at the Collegiate for 39 years and to A. Hope, who has taught for 23 years. Both are for one year.

Pointing out the importance of teaching youngsters to swim, Inspector K. Wightman told the Board that the Y.M.C.A. was again offering a plan for teaching non swimmers in the public schools how to master the water sport. The classes have always been held after school, he said, and attendance has not been too good, when other interests clash. The Y.M.C.A. suggested that the boys from different schools be sent down during the school hours, and make this part of their physical training program. The Inspector declared that the schedule would be arranged so that it would not cut too sharply into the curriculum, and predicted that schools near the centre would be sending pupils during the day, and the more distant ones, after school.

The members were enthusiastic about the idea and after a caution by H. G. Walker on not letting students go too soon after meals, a motion by Alex Sollitt and Dr. Scott carried, setting the plan in motion. Mr. Carley said that it was too bad, the girls were not included in the plan.

Prepare Accounts

As soon as they have been certified by the auditor, the following accounts will be submitted to the treasurers of surrounding counties, on a motion by Mr. Carley and Mr. Sollitt. Payments for academic are as follows: Peterborough County — $16,925.94; Northumberland and Durham Counties—$1,626.04; Victoria County—$455.32; Hastings — $80.90; and Haliburton—$46.80.

The Vocational costs are: Peterborough County—18,071.16, but they will actually pay $15,278.33; Northumberland and Durham — $782.99, but all they will actually pay is $661.98; Victoria—$190.93, but will pay $161.42 and Hastings—$152.36, but will pay $128.81.

A request was received from the secretary School Board of Section No. 2 North Monaghan, asking to meet a representative body from the Board of Education to discuss May's and Confederation schools. It was decided to have the chairman of the Board, the chairmen of standing committees and Inspector Wightman, meet at the call of the chair, with the other group.

Name School

In a lighter vein, Inspector Wightman requested the members for their suggested names for the new Wartime Housing school. Mrs. F. W. K. Harris suggested "Princess Margaret Rose"; but the rest felt it was too elaborate for a two-room building.

"What would the Princess think if she paid it a visit, 10 years from now?" Mr. Carley asked?

"I think Tiny Tim, would be good," joked Mr. Sollitt.

Mr. Reed said that he liked "Park Hill School," saying that while he knew it wasn't on that street, still everyone would know to what it referred. On a motion by Mr. Reed and Mr. Walker, this name was adopted.

Mr. Carley praised the Public School Inspector for the splendid report which he submitted at last meeting on the public schools. This report, which is presented annually, is in book form and represents a lot of research and labor.

The secretary was authorized to advise the Separate School Board that a cheque for $1,808.50 had been received from Wartime Housing for school services credited to the account of Monaghan township, and asking their concurrence in accepting it. Then if they are agreeable, this will be divided according to the number of public and separate school supporters there which are in the ratio of 103 to 22. On written agreement from the Separate School Board, a cheque will be sent them for the amount they are entitled.

DIES IN ALBERTA

Word has been received from Breton, Alta., of the death of Joseph Whibbs, a native of Douro, and son of the late Thomas E. Whibbs and Margaret E. Leahy. The body will be brought home for burial and further details will be announced later.

Expensive Mama

MINNEAPOLIS, March 10 —(AP).— George Christian, 36, in a cross bill of divorce filed against his wife, Dorothy, 43, charged: She wore stockings with runs in them from ankle to knee while she had 140 pairs of new ones at home, plus 200 hats, 814 handkerchiefs, 400 dresses, 52 beauty kits, 79 blouses, and "several hundred jars of face cream." Christian said he rented a store to sell the apparel and got $1,000.

Obituaries

ARTHUR LOMAX

A veteran of the Great War, Arthur Lomax, died early this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital after an illness of two weeks. He was forty-eight year old, born at Blackburn, Lancashire, England, and had lived here twenty-eight years, coming to Peterborough from Toronto.

Mr. Lomax is survived by two sons, Arthur William, and Douglas Clarence, both in the Canadian Army. He was a member of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and had been employed for years with the Quaker Oats Company.

During the last war Mr. Lomax enlisted with the Toronto Bantam Battalion, May 1, 1916, and served until 1919. The funeral will take place Monday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett funeral home, Charlotte street to Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS SHIRLEY RICHARDSON

An impressive service was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Belleghem Funeral Home for the late Shirley Irene Richardson, who passed away at the Freeport Sanitorium, Kitchener, Sunday morning after an illness of several months.

The late Miss Richardson had been a nurse-in-training at Toronto Western Hospital for nearly two years. She was a member of George Street United Church and was active in young people's work. She was educated in the Queen Alexandra Public School and the Collegiate and Vocational School. During her Collegiate course she was president of the Girls' Athletic Association and president of the Y.W. C.A. Senior Girls' Supper Club.

A representation of classmates and a member of the staff of Toronto Western Hospital attended the service, Mr. C. S. Browne, principal, and Mr. F. E. Johnston of the Vocational department represented the school; also in attendance were representatives of the Intermediate Hi-Y Club.

Relatives and friends were present from Guelph, Toronto, Weston, Barrie and other outside points.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. The service was in charge of Rev. H. L. Roberts of George Street United Church, assisted by Rev. M. C. Parr of Wesley United Church, Galt, and the lesson was read by Mr. Jewett Parr, divinity student at Emmanuel College, Toronto.

Pallbearers were Messrs. E. Baughan, H. H. Graham, F. Greatrix, W. G. McLaren, F. C. Paterson and B. Sargent. Interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN WALDON LOWERY

The death of Mrs. John Waldon Lowery, 51 St. Mary street, occurred in hospital Thursday evening at the age of 47. She had been in ill health for several months.

Born Ida Frances Burns in Marmora, she had lived in the city over three years, coming from her birthplace. She was a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, John W. Lowery, and two daughters, Mrs. John J. Kelly of Peterborough and Mrs. Carmen Steenburgh of Oshawa. There are three grandchildren, Jackie, Bob and Viola Kelly. Mrs. Walter Young, Peterborough, Mrs. Leone Mirreault, Montreal, and Mrs. George Pressick of Marmora are sisters.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, with services conducted by Rev. A. W. Filer of All Saints Anglican Church. Interment in Marmora Cemetery.

Old Fashioned Tea Meeting Held In Apsley 41 Years Ago Described

An account of a trip to attend the opening tea in the year that Apsley United Church was dedicated has been presented the Examiner by Mrs. Elijah Pratt, R. R. No. 3, Castleton, who was one of those to make the journey from Bethel 41 years ago, in the middle of winter by sleigh across Stoney Lake. Starting out in the early afternoon, the party arrived in time for supper and the church program; and after the close made the long journey back home arriving at daylight.

It was last year that the 40th anniversary of Apsley United Church was celebrated, and this event it was that brought to Mrs. Pratt the recollection of the episode. "I was not present at the Sabbath dedication, but I did attend the opening tea," she said.

"It was a clear, cold day. When we were part way across Stoney Lake the strong wind began to fill the tracks with snow, but though the travelling was heavy in places we reached the village by sundown."

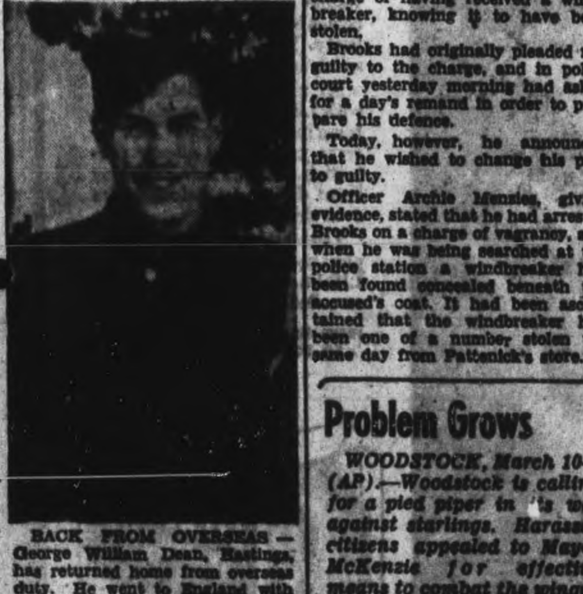
She recalled that those going from Zion included Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Darling, Miss Violet Carveth and Mr. and Mrs. William Batten, who used their cutters; while from Bethel were Jacob White, Paul Payne, William F. Payne and his three sisters, Emma Clara and Lena Payne, and his brother, Herman. Also on the trip was Fred Payne, Sr., with Miss Carrie Payne Miss Luella Spencer and Arthur Grant.

"We were given an excellent supper and went over to the church for the program, where the Reverends Leggott of Lakefield, Bunner of Wesley Circuit and McQuade of Warsaw were guest speakers," Mrs. Pratt continued. "The latter minister was asked to make the appeal for funds to clear the amount of debt on the church, and being told that he need not expect the whole amount, he nevertheless answered, 'I do.' " This brought forth generous contributions and the necessary funds were raised.

Recalling a number of the persons who were present that evening years ago, Mrs. Pratt said quite a few moved West, but she mentioned Mrs. Richard Hales and J. W. Hales as ones now living in Peterborough. Other guests at the tea had included Walter and Will Hales, Mrs. Lane, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Will Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Misses Hattie Eastland, Ella [illegible]ales and Jessie Reid, and T. Eastland, M. Kennedy and H. McIlmoyle.

Rev. Charles Reddick was then the minister at Apsley, Mrs. Pratt declared, and he had asked Jacob White and Alex. Darling, leaders of Bethel and Zion choirs of North Dummer, along with Miss Clara Payne and Mrs. Alex. Darling, organists of the two churches, to arrange the musical part of the program.

"We stopped on the way back at Mr. L. Reid's near Eden Church, to get warm and rest our horses," Mrs. Pratt concluded, "and reached home about daylight none the worse for our trip."



BACK FROM OVERSEAS — George William Dean, Hastings, has returned home from overseas duty. He went to England with No. 2 Road Construction Company, R.C.E., but returned as a conducting medical orderly in charge of mental patients, who were left in a hospital in Montreal. Dean enlisted in Toronto and has been overseas since June, 1940. His wife, the former Marjorie Blackbourn, and three children, live in Hastings, and his mother, Mrs. George Dean, is in Toronto.

Six Weeks In Jail For Theft Of Coat

Six weeks in the county jail was the sentence inflicted in police court this morning by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Harold Brooks after the latter had pleaded guilty to a charge of having received a windbreaker, knowing it to have been stolen.

Brooks had originally pleaded not guilty to the charge, and in police court yesterday morning had asked for a day's remand in order to prepare his defence.

Today, however, he announced that he wished to change his plea to guilty.

Officer Archie Menzies, giving evidence, stated that he had arrested Brooks on a charge of vagrancy, and when he was being searched at the police station a windbreaker had been found concealed beneath the accused's coat. It had been ascertained that the windbreaker had been one of a number stolen the same day from Pattenick's store.

Problem Grows

WOODSTOCK, March 10—(AP).—Woodstock is calling for a pied piper in its war against starlings. Harassed citizens appealed to Mayor McKenzie for effective means to combat the winged nuisance, and the Mayor in turn wrote the Provincial Game and Fisheries Department for suggestions. Hope waned when the game authorities replied regretfully that they had "no knowledge of coping with the situation."

Irvin S. Cobb Humorist Dies At Age 67

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP).— Irvin S. Cobb, 67, humorist, whose sparkling wit and homely humor illuminated thousands of written pages, the motion pictures and stage, died at his Hotel Sheraton apartment today of complications after a three-months' illness.

The man who contributed handsomely to the fame of his native Paducah, Ky., died unable to fill a promise made last December to Kent Cooper, executive director and general manager of The Associated Press, that "if, as and when I get ready to depart elsewhere I promise to keep friendly newspapers fully advised."

Cobb, whose heavy, rugged features belied his nimble, lightning humor, was the author of many books, and magazine articles ranging in subjects from comedy sketches to the tender "Judge Priest" tales. As an extemporaneous speaker he was unsurpassed and was in constant demand for after-dinner engagements.

Starting in the newspaper business in Paducah as a boy of 16, Cobb soon graduated to New York. Within a year the Cobb legend had started. As a highly paid reporter on the Evening World Cobb was credited with being the author of the famous remark made when his tough but able city editor, the late Charles Chapin, was reported to be ill.

"Let's hope," the young reporter said, "that its nothing trivial."

After serving on the editorial and production side of several motion pictures, he was tempted to try his hand as an actor. In his new career he appeared with such stars as the late Will Rogers.

Reported seriously ill in December, Cobb answered in person telephone calls made to the hospital by the press concerning reports he was dangerously ill. His letter to Cooper followed.

After crediting himself for omitting to remark that "reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated," Cobb concluded his note by saying that "doctors are still tapping me for impulsive little freshets of dropsy but the results of these aquatic sports and pastimes will, they believe, diminish as time passes."

Cobb was born on June 23, 1876, the son of Joshua Clark and Manie Marshall Cobb. On June 20, 1900, he married Laura Spencer Baker of Savannah, Ga.

His wife and a daughter, Mrs. Elisabeth Cobb Brody of New York, survive.

Pte. F. L. Webb Badly Wounded

Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, 326 Water street, were notified on Sunday that their son, Private Fergus Leo Webb, is officially reported severely wounded in action on February 27 in the Italian campaign.

Private Webb, 26, enlisted in an anti-tank unit but was discharged with a heart condition. Later, he went to Toronto and was accepted with an Ontario tank corps and went overseas. He is one of four brothers who enlisted in the Canadian Army for service overseas. One of them, Patrick Webb, 25, joined the Midland Battalion at Lindsay and was transferred overseas to the Toronto Scottish last fall. In the latest letter to his mother he wrote he was in hospital in Italy.

PTE. FERGUS WEBB

Stanley Webb enlisted with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders but was honorably discharged in England and is now employed in Toronto. The fourth son of the family, John Webb, joined a combat unit, but developed asthma and was unable to go overseas with his battalion. Since then he has been transferred to the Dental Corps at Kingston.

Fraser Suggestion

OTTAWA, March 10 — (CP). — Gordon K. Fraser (P.C.-Peterborough West) suggested last night in Commons that aircraft carriers should be built in Canadian shipyards. He said he thought carriers would be needed to carry Canadian planes before the war is over or "at least before another war comes along."

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY — Pte. K. R. Crough, R.C.A.S.C., is celebrating his 22nd birthday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Crough, 509 Gilchrist Street, and is serving in Italy with the Mediterranean Forces. Pte. Crough was born in Ennismore and was educated there.

Otonabee Plans To Keep Hall

Otonabee township council decided Monday not to trade it's town hall at Keene for the junior room school; but they may transfer their meetings to the Court House, although that shift has not yet been decided.

The members visited the school Monday, and then decided not to consider the proposed exchange. They offered to rent the school trustees a large room upstairs in the town hall. The school board then retired, and returned with a suggestion that the council rent the entire upstairs of the hall.

On second thought the council took the course of postponing action until the next meeting.

It was intimated that the town hall might be sold outright, but that step should first be referred to a vote of the people. Some of the members of the council suggested that it might be better to hold their meetings at the Court House. Most ratepayers own automobiles, and the city, it was said, was more convenient for the majority of the people in the township. If the upstairs of the town hall was rented to the School Board, the clerk's office would have to be moved. In that event, there was some question as to whether it would be preferable for the clerk to reside in the city.

These were some phases of the proposed change at the town hall which were left in suspension for the present.

The council passed a special bylaw directing the levy of one-fifth of a mill for the purposes of the Federation of Agriculture. Its restricted extent and general terms have been explained.

In a motion by Councillor Spears seconded by Councillor Dawson, William Doherty was engaged by the road superintendent to operate the power maintainer at 50 cents an hour, Mr. Doherty to use his own car. It was also decided that snow fence is not to be used for any purpose, according to instructions from the Department of Highways. Applications will be received for the position of assessor, duties to begin April 1.

The following accounts were passed:

Provincial Treas. $1.14, D. Belleghem and Sons $10.00, Beaver Lumber Co. $43.32, Pet. Examiner $5.60, County Treas. $87.28, N. Gainer $128.40, Wm. Wood $3.00, Municipal World $1.07.

Road Accounts: Fred Nelson $704.00, G. Thompson $91.80, G. S. Taylor $1.70, Gus Whibbs $51.15, W. D. Beath $23.69, Dom. Road Machinery $43.56, Mac Short $126.20, Bob. Wood $3.60, Wm. Patterson $28.20, H. Thompson $36.00, D. Bidgood $51.60, E. Wilson $3.50, Joe Manley $2.20, Postmaster $3.50.

Red Patch Club Elects Officers

Melville Morrow has been elected president of the Red Patch Club for the third year and Stanley White is vice-president in the 1944 slate of Red Patch officers. Other officials elected by the club include Robert Hendry, secretary; Alex. Butcher, treasurer; and an executive consisting of Carl Heintzman, George Butcher, Art Moscrop, Allan Wade, James Hughes and Harry Kelsey, past president of the club.

Ten thousand cigarettes are being sent to Peterborough City and County boys, and of the proceeds from the bingo $25 was contributed to the Red Cross for prisoners of war.

President Morrow extended his thanks to all who patronized their recent bingo and helped contribute to its success, and to Robert Hetrum, Andy Rutter, Fred Gant and Robert Mitchell for their efforts and co-operation.

"Shelter Legs"

LONDON, March 10—(CP). —Women who spend their night sleeping in deck chairs in air raid shelters are in danger of being afflicted with "shelter legs"—an unsightly swelling of the lower limbs—says the Lancet, a medical journal. The malady, the journal said, is "caused by pressure during relaxation of the muscles, giving rose to chronic lymphatic obstruction."

Douro School Makes $31 For War Victims

For the fourth day in succession, the credit for the larger share in the day's receipts for the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, goes to a district outside of the city limits, to-day being no exception with a nice contribution coming from School No. 9U of Douro Township, presided over by Miss Camilla Cavanagh.

Recently this school under the teacher's leadership, held a dance and social evening, the net proceeds amounting to $31.65 which is credited in their name to-day.

When the final tale of this fund's operations come to be told, special mention will have to be given to the part that the schools of the city and district through their teachers and students have played, in giving assistance to the sufferers from air raids over Britain in this manner.

Peterborough Canoe Helps.

Another nice contribution listed to-day in an amount of $10 comes from the Peterborough Canoe Co. Ltd., Canteen Fund, and it recalled a thrill of pride that the writer felt on a visit to Wembley Exhibition in London in 1925, and there saw on exhibition in the Canadian section prominently displayed, some pictures demonstrating the quality of the goods this firm produced, it being the only exhibit from this city that was noticed at that time.

Sometime in what is hoped will be the not too distant future, when peace once more reigns on this earth, this city and its products will again be represented at the very heart of Empire, and then it may be recalled that during their time of distress, the people of this city and district rallied to their assistance in a manner which spoke of a genuine sympathy, which was exhibited in a practical and no uncertain manner.

On Last Lap to $75,000.

With to-day's receipts, the amount donated to this date now stands at $74,021.51 which puts the fund on its last lap toward the $75,000 mark.

When the fund was first commenced, no one and least of all those who were responsible for its inception, ever dreamed that the fund would reach to such magnificent proportions, and that it has done so will ever stand as a monument to the generosity of the people of this city and district, who in this respect as well as in many others having to do with the successful prosecution of the war, have displayed a loyalty to the Empire and the cause, which should be an inspiration for the generations that may follow after.

Previously acknowledged	$73,979.86

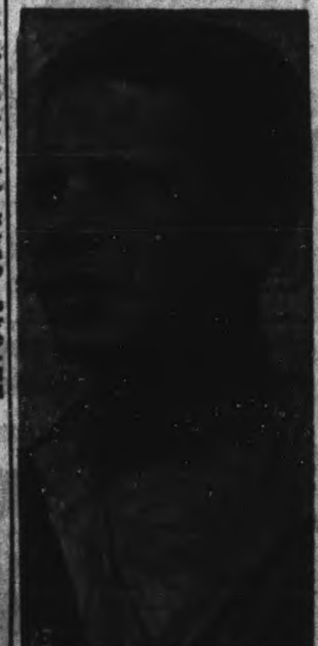
G. K. Fraser Queries Soldier Transfers

OTTAWA, March 10—(CP)—The Defence Department said yesterday in a Commons return tabled for G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) that some of the members of forestry units returned to Canada from the United Kingdom in October, 1943, will probably be sent back overseas as reinforcements.

Nine officers of the Forestry Corps who were returned to Canada have since gone back to reserve status or civilian life. One "in the interests of the service" and the others voluntarily, the return said.

Act Approved

QUEBEC, March 10.—(CP).— Sir Eugene Fiset, Quebec Lieutenant-Governor, yesterday gave royal assent to a government's bill ratifying Montreal's financial re-organization. The Montreal Act, which gives back to Canada's metropolis its autonomy, was approved by the Legislature Council earlier in the day and received third reading, by a vote of 44-13, in the Assembly yesterday. Montreal will regain its independence when the re-financing plan, contained in the measure, is adopted officially and announced in the official Gazette.



MEETS AN ELEPHANT—Bailing out of his crippled air transport plane over an Indo-Burmese jungle, Lieut. Stanley W. Akers, 21, above, of Phoenix, Ariz., encountered a wild elephant which gouged him with its tusks. Akers escaped and made his way to a hospital.

BIRD-BRIGHT SPRING—The box line jacket is shocking pink, gay as a fiesta, trimmed with black braid at borders and pockets. Skirt is black wool, bowtie blouse black crepe. No color too mad and gay to meet the brighter iris of Spring . . . nature outdoes us anyway, but we can catch up with her as best we can, get in step with the vernal bloom. Not solid bright color in a suit, but two colors . . . a bright over a sober suit shade . . . is one good 1944 fashion formula. Team accessories to the sober shade, gaining accent value, avoiding tedious tint matching to the high color portion of the ensemble.—By Prunella Wood.

FREE LOVE COSTLY DIVERSION

Often Those Who Pay Piper Ones Who Never Danced; Poor Family Suffers Most

Dear Miss Dix—There is just this much about it. Philandering is a rich husband's game. The rich man can philander without robbing his children of the ordinary decent things of life to which they are entitled, but the average man can't. My little girl needed a tonsil operation and my husband, her father, shopped around so long trying to find out where he could get the surgery done the cheapest that the infection caused a leakage of the heart from she will suffer the balance of her life.

The money he spent taking young girls to road houses for chicken dinners over the period of ten weeks would have paid for the operation and saved her. One thing I have observed: Free love is never free. Someone always pays for it and, oh, so often it is a little child.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

No Love Is Free

Answer—You are right. Free love is never free. It is the costliest diversion on earth, and the tragedy of it is that those who have to pay the piper are so often those who have not danced. It is hard enough on the wife who has a rich philanderer for a husband, for money does not pay her for her hurt heart and bruised vanity, but at least she has the consolation of having physical comforts and being able to give her children security.

But when the poor man philanders it is his family who has to pay for his wrong doing and sometimes, as in this case, a little child is invalided forlife because his father was spending the money on illicit pleasures that would have saved him.

But in the end we all reap as we have sown and the time comes when the rake must harvest his crop of wild oats. The unfaithful husband grows old and loses his charm for women. Often he has spent his money in riotous living and has nothing laid up with which to buy kisses that always have a price tag on them. He has lost the love of his wife. His children look upon him with contempt and resentment. He is the poorest of all poor men. And with bitter regrets and the knowledge that he has been a fool he pays or what, in mockery, is called free love.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl 20 years old and have been receiving quite a lot of criticism because I am not going steady with any boy, or engaged, or married. People ask me what is the matter with me and seem to think I am a freak.

There is no blighted romance in my life to make me this way. I just think there is plenty of time after the war to think about getting married. Do you think that I should go on the way I have been going, or should I take the advice of my friends and go man-hunting.

A. R. O.

Wise Girl Waits For Right Man

Answer—I think you are doing exactly right and that you are acting very wisely to wait until after the war to get married. Many of the girls who are rushing into war marriages are going to wish that they had followed your example and stayed single when they find out that they have fallen out of love with the men they married on the impulse of the moment because they looked good in brass buttons, or because all the other girls were getting married.

Evidently Mr. Right has not come down your street yet. When he does, you will find out that his company is more exciting than that of the crowd of girls you go about with. But don't let anybody panic you into taking a man who bores you for a lifetime. There is no more horrible way of committing suicide than by yawning yourself to death. The first thing a girl should consider in picking out a husband is what sort of a fireside companion he will make for the next forty or fifty years.

You say your friends criticize you for not being engaged or even having a steady boy friend. Why do you bother about what they say? If you try to run your life by other people's advice, you will make a mess of it. You can't please everybody, so please yourself.

Dear Miss Dix—My mother-in-law, who is 43 years old, has no other grandchild except my baby. She insists that this child shall not call her Grandmother, but Mama. She and I have quite a bit of trouble over this as I want the child to call her Grandmother. This means a lot to me. What shall I do?

Answer—What your baby calls her grandmother is not worth a family squabble, so give in to your silly mother-in-law whose idea evidently is that for the baby to say Grandma will date her. She probably doesn't realize that it is better for everyone to exclaim: "What a young Grandmother!" than for them to remark: "Doesn't she look old to be a mother?"

Some Good Dishes For Curry Lovers

By MARY MOORE

East Indian Curry.

One onion chopped, ¼ cup butter or salad oil or choice dripping, 3 lbs. lean meat cubed, 1½ tablespoons fresh curry powder, 1½ cups water or stock, salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Saute onion in butter until lightly browned. Add meat and saute 5 minutes longer. Add curry and continue cooking until meat is well browned. Add stock and a dash of salt. Cover and simmer until meat is tender, 1½ to 2 hours. Stir in lemon juice. The meats that could be used in this are veal, lean pork, chicken and lamb. Curries may also be made with fish or shell fish, in which case substitute milk or cream for water or stock.

Lamb Curry and Rice.

Two and one-half lbs. lamb shoulder, 3 sliced onions, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 1 teaspoon each chopped tyme and parsley, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon curry powder, ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 cups boiled rice, boiling water. Wipe meat with cold, damp cloth; cut into 1-inch pieces, removing fat; heat fat in frying pan, add lamb, and brown. Cover meat with boiling water. Add onion, peppercorns, tyme and parsley. Simmer until meat is tender, about 2½ hours. Remove meat. Strain liquor. Melt butter and blend with flour, previously mixed with curry powder, salt and pepper. Add this mixture to strained meat liquor; bring to boiling point. Make mound of rice on hot platter and place meat and liquor around it. These amounts will serve from 6 to 8.

Curry Sauce.

There are many variations of this sauce, but this is genuine and anyone who is familiar with curried dishes will tell you it is indispensable if you are going to do any serious curry cooking.

One-quarter cup butter, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1½ tablespoons curry powder, 2 teaspoons curry essence, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon rice flour (or arrowroot or corn starch), 2 cups milk or veal or chicken stock, 1 cup cocoanut or almond milk, 1 teaspoon scraped green ginger or 1 teaspoon currant jelly.

Heat saucepan, melt butter, cook onion in it 2 or 3 minutes—but do not let it brown. Mix to a paste with a little of the milk the curry powder and essence salt and rice flour add to onion cook gently 10 minutes. Add milk or stock slowly, stirring contantly until it boils. Then add cocoanut or almond milk and simmer about 25 minutes. Add ginger or currant jelly.

Sacred Heart Names Representatives

Mrs. E. Freeman and Mrs. B. Jones were named to represent the Mothers' Auxiliary, 4th Peterborough Sacred Heart Group, at a convention, being held in Toronto March 23. This was decided at the regular business meeting of the Auxiliary, held at the home of Mrs. E. O'Rourke, 216 Perry street. The Group Committee was represented by Mr. E. O'Rourke and Scout Leader E. Johnston. Mr. R. Collette and Miss E. Grady were also present.

Mrs. E. Freeman, vice-president, was in the chair, and it was reported that seven housewives for the corvette Peterborough had been given to the Red Cross by the Auxiliary. There was a large attendance at this joint meeting of the Auxiliary, committeemen and leaders, and plans were started for a mammoth euchre party to be held shortly.

Mrs. R. J. Kearns was guest speaker, and was thanked for her address and for her assistance to the group. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. O. Kenneally. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Lucano, 513 Albert street, on March 21, and will take the form of a social evening.

Bible Class Holds Party

Mrs. O. Brown, 242 Lansdowne street, was hostess for the March meeting of the Excelsior Bible class of St. James' United church. Miss Lottie Leggett was in charge of the worship period, and read a paper on the Lord's Prayer. Miss Olive Morley presided.

A report was read by Miss Jessie Martin on the recent supper given in the church by the class. Games and bingo were enjoyed, with Mrs. E. Ephgrave, Mrs. E. Montgomery, Miss Lottie Leggett, Mrs. S. Leggitt and Mrs. P. Dyer winning prizes.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, and Miss Gladys Langton moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Brown and to her mother, Mrs. A. E. Prest, for the use of their home.

Millbrook Couple Wed At Rectory

Rev. A. E. Chevis officiated at the ceremony in the Anglican rectory recently, when Irene Elizabeth May Heaps became bride of Charles Dew. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. Alfred Heaps, of Millbrook, and the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dew, Millbrook.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two piece ensemble of powder blue crepe, with matching accessories. Mr. Clifford Keeler was best man.

At the reception, held at the home of the groom's parents, the groom's mother received in a gown of navy blue crepe, with matching accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Dew will live at the groom's home in Carmel.

Mrs. J. Ridyard Honored By WMS

A pleasant evening was spent recently at the home of Mrs. R. Jones, 321 Simcoe street, when members of the M. J. Kerr group (W.M.S.) of St. Andrew's United church gathered to bid farewell to a member, Mrs. J. W. Ridyard, who is moving to Midland.

The evening was spent in games and contests, and Mrs. F. W. K. Harris presented Mrs. Ridyard with a framed picture on behalf of the group. Best wishes for happiness in her new home were expressed to Mrs. Ridyard. Refreshments were served by several of the members.

Rev. Whan Speaks To Mission Group

Rev. E. J. Whan of Park Street Baptist Church was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Murray Street Mission Circle, held in the church parlors. Since it was the annual home mission thankoffering meeting, Rev. Mr. Whan discussed home missions, stressing particularly the work that lay ahead among new Canadians coming into the country after the war.

Group 1 was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. G. R. Scott presided during the opening exercises. Mrs. A. Wray read the Scripture, and Mrs. F. M. Somerville led in prayer. A happy and amusing incident occurred when Miss M. Matthews and Miss F. Cochrane presented each other with foreign life membership certificates.

W. McPherson Weds In Kitchener

A wedding of local interest took place in Kitchener recently, when Yvonne Florence Wilson became the bride of William Hamilton McPherson, Washington, D.C. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. S. F. Muter, George Street, Waterloo, and the late Harry L. Wilson, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Mabel McPherson, Peterborough, and the late Dr. A. W. McPherson.

Rev. E. O. Seymour performed the ceremony in Trinity United Church, Kitchener. Mr. C. Lorimer Rason was at the organ, and Mrs. Clarence Miller was soloist.

Given in marriage by Mr. S. F. Muter, the bride wore a floor-length white satin gown, with matching leaves appliqued on the neckline and hipline. Her long veil fell from a satin heart-shaped halo, trimmed with pearls, and she carried an arm sheath of calla lilies.

Miss Nancy Oliver, Kitchener, was maid-of-honor, gowned in a street-length red crepe frock, with a red straw Mary Queen of Scots hat, and carrying a nosegay of red and white carnations and bouvardia. Mrs. Leslie Fraser, of Kitchener, and Miss Geraldine Muter, of Waterloo, were bridesmaids, and were dressed in frocks similar to Miss Oliver's. Mr. Charles Glover, Toronto, was best man, and Lieut. Robert L. Wilson, Camp Shilo, Man., and Mr. Gordon Tallman, Toronto, were ushers.

At the reception held at the Walper House, the bride's mother received, in a black and turquoise dress, matching turquoise hat and gloves, and corsage of an orchid and yellow roses. Also receiving was the bridegroom's mother, in a lettuce green dress, matching accessories, and a corsage of an orchid and violets.

For a wedding trip to Limberlost for skiing, and then to New York, the bride chose a red cloth suit with a matching straw Mary Queen of Scots hat, matching gloves, black accessories and a beige coat. They will live in Washington, D.C.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON (Society Editor of The Examiner)

Stains generally cause a great deal of trouble, since one small spot can spoil the appearance of a dress, which otherwise has a great deal more wear in it. Spots of tea on good dinner dresses and a little smear of paint on a new housedress can become the bane of the housewife's existence. However, most stains are quite easy to remove if the right method is used.

Iron or rust stains can be bleached out by sprinkling salt over the stain, moistening it with lemon juice, and then exposing it to strong sunlight. Tea stains can be removed by sponging them immediately in hot water. If the stain is bad, moisten the material with water, sprinkle enough borax over the stain to make a thick paste, and let stand for eight to ten minutes. Then rinse with hot water.

Scorched spots are about the most common stains encountered in the ordinary household, and plain soap and water are recommended as one of the best ways of removing them. For white materials, however, onion juice is also highly recommended. Sponge the spot gently with the juice, and then wash it again, and the spot will disappear.

Sponging with turpentine, benzine, or gasoline, taking care to keep clear of stoves, is the best way to remove varnishing paint stains. Coffee stains will disappear if the material is stretched over a bowl, and boiling water poured though it.

TASTE TEMPERS

Bright salad suggestions are just the thing to tempt jaded winter appetites, and bring a breath of spring into the kitchen. Shredding raw beets or raw carrots into a cabbage salad gives it new life, and also supplies needed vitamins, as well as giving a tangy flavor. Sliced radishes or chopped parsley will give added flavor to a potato salad, while a delicious Russian dressing, made from equal parts of mayonnaise and chili sauce, adds new zest to cabbage or lettuce salad.

NEW UMBRELLAS

The newest thing in umbrellas in the over-the-shoulder type, for wartime shoppers who have to juggle parcels, as well as manage purse and umbrella. Is is something like the shoulder-strap handbag, and will certainly be just as useful and smart. Although the umbrella is only twenty-one inches long, it still provides enough shelter, since the length has been taken away from the ferrule and handle.

KEEP COFFEE-MAKERS CLEAN

A coffee-maker should be frequently washed in hot soapsuds. Use a tiny brush to get inside the spout. An electric percolator should never be immersed in water. Fill it with hot suds, and then wash and scald the outside. Boiling water to which baking soda has been added will also clean out the percolator.

STORE IN A COOL SPOT

Always launder linens and cottons before storing them away. This frees them of sizing and finishing, which tend to cause them to deteriorate. The materials should also be stored in the dark, and at as low a temperature as is convenient.

With spring on the way, fur coats will soon be going into summer storage to protect them from the heat. However, even during the winter, care should be taken that a coat is never hung in too hot a room or in strong sunlight, since the heat dries the natural oils which give flexibility, softness, and life to fur.

RENEW PAINT BRUSHES

Don't throw out old, stiff, paint brushes, which seem to have outlived their usefulness. Place them in a can, with enough vinegar to cover, and boil for about fifteen minutes. They'll come out soft and pliable and ready for use.

HAVE NATURAL NAILS

Every woman has been bothered one time or another by nails which chip and break, and lose their gloss and life. Here are some simple ideas to preserve their naturalness and beauty.

Never file nails down at the side. Let them grow naturally—shaping the tips into gently tapering ovals. This will give them added support and strength, and they won't break as easily. A massage at the base of the nail with warm olive oil, or with prepared cuticle oil will counteract the drying effects of hard water, and give new glow to the nail.

It is also wise to give the nails a rest every once in a while, by removing the polish, and not using it for a few days. Frequent buffing also helps, and natural nails, with no polish, but buffed to a soft, lovely sheen, are surprisingly smart and neat.

LIGHT, BRIGHT ROOMS

Rooms which are bright and cheery-looking always give a certain lift to anyone entering, and, especially in winter, every little spot of brightness should be utilized. A few easily remembered decorating tricks will make a great difference in any room.

Walls should be painted or papered in a light pastel shade, to make use of every bit of light which enters the room, since light shades reflect the sun. Also, if the furniture is in dark wood, try bleaching or painting one or two easily finished pieces in a color to match the walls.

Light curtains make a great difference in brightness and sheer yellow or cream-colored materials, which can be easily washed and put up again, will help create an illusion of sunlight. Light window shades will add to this effect. Draperies should be used sparingly, and be hung at the outside of the window frames and pushed well back, to allow the light a free passage into the room.

Of Interest to Women

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP)—Light housekeeping by young moderns working in city offices and factories has its hazards.—cooking on a one or two burner grill and not having adequate storage facilities are two of them. This makes up-to-the-minute cooking techniques doubly important as an aid to saving both time and food values.

Take vegetables: the quickest and best method of cooking them is to drop them into a small amount of boiling water, put the lid on and cook until they can be cut with a knife—no longer. This is the extra vitamin and mineral method of cooking too, Nutrition Services says, and the cook gets them, not the drain.

Carmel Custard Pie: Milk is a food and it can be eaten instead of taken as a beverage. Here is a recipe from the Agriculture Department's Consumer Section, which includes a lot of milk transformed into delicious solid food:

Heat a third of a cup of sugar into a heavy pan until melted and golden brown. Stir in one-third of a cup of boiling water and cook until the sugar is dissolved and the syrup slightly thickened, about five minutes. Beat three eggs slightly, add a quarter teaspoon of salt and a teaspoon of vanilla and gradually stir in two and a quarter cups of hot milk. Add caramel syrup, strain and pour into a nine-inch pie plate lined with uncooked pastry. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees Fahrenheit, for 15 minutes. Then reduce the heat to 325 degrees and bake until the custard is set, about 25 minutes.

When to Eat: The right daily foods to store up health are listed by the Nutrition Bureau:

Milk or cheese; fruits and vegetables; eggs, meat or fish, dried beans or peas; whole grain and enriched cereals and bread; butter or other fat.

For maintaining good health habits the Bureau suggests these every day:

Four to six glasses of water to drink; eight hours of sleep; some time in the fresh air, sunshine if possible; periods of relaxation—avoid fatigue in work or play.

Gingerbread: Larger shipments of molasses supplies now are arriving in this country at fairly regular intervals, the Prices Board says, and with the return of molasses gingerbread can also return.

A delicious gingerbread can be made from the following recipe:

½ cup shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup dark molasses, 1¾ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk.

Cream together the shortening and sugar. Add the egg and beat well. Add the molasses. Sift together the flour, baking soda, cinnamon, cloves, ginger and salt; add alternately with the milk to the creamed mixture. Pour into a greased pan 8 inches by 8 inches by 2 inches. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees fahrenheit) for 45 minutes.

Fashions

This cleverly cut jumper frock is as action-free and comfortable as it is smart. Pattern 9207 can be made up also as a blouse and skirt. For the jumper use a bright gingham or rayon, or fabric salvaged from an old dress. Make the blouse of contrasting fabric.

Pattern 9207 comes in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, jumper, 1½ yards 35-inch fabric, and blouse, ¾ yard contrast.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

There are still many families where supper is served every day. In some families we have breakfast, luncheon, and dinner, with the heavy meal at the end of the day. In others, particularly when all members of the family come home at noon, and also, when there are small children to be considered, the heavy meal is served at noon and a simple supper at night. When such is the case, the supper is much the same as luncheon. The table is laid with a linen cloth, it may be all white or white with a bright colored border, with napkins to match. Gaily colored dishes add to the attraciveness of the table and all these little touches help to make a simple meal very enjoyable. The service for supper is informal. The head of the house may serve the guests; the food may be passed family style from guest to guest or it may be served to each one by the maid. Following are some menus for supper:

Menu 1—

Creamed minced ham with mushrooms on toast
Lettuce salad sandwiches
Relish and jelly
Brandy snaps Coffee

Menu 2—

Jellied chicken Potato chips
Nut bread Butter
Canned peaches Chocolate cake
Coffee

Menu 3—

Tea cakes
Club sandwich with chicken
Lettuce and apple salad
Tea cakes
Soft gingerbread Coffee

Menu 4—

Cold ham Potato salad
Tomato and cucumber slices
Hot muffins Peach jam Butter
Orange Cake Tea

Menu 5—

Toasted bacon and tomato sandwich
Fruit salad
Peanut cookies Coffee

Recipe for the Peanut Cookies in Menu 5:

1 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup butter, cream together, 1 egg, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, pinch of salt, 1 cup of peanuts. Bake in moderate oven

Nut Bread.

1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup of brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup walnuts. Let rise in a warm place 15 minutes. Bake in moderate oven.

Soft Gingerbread.

½ cup white sugar, ½ cup butter (slightly melted), 1 egg, ¾ cup molasses, 2½ cups flour, 1½ teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and ginger, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg, molasses and flour, sifted with all dry ingredients. Add boiling water last, and beat until smooth. This makes a thin batter. Bake ½ hour in moderate oven.

Beaver Club Is Real Home To Canadians

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 10 (CP) — The big, tough, Canadian soldier who may have given his mother a good many headaches and heartaches in his time, does a lot of thinking about that same patient little woman when he is over here thousands of miles away from home. The Beaver Club in London, just off Piccadilly, can prove that.

Last year before Mother's Day, Canadian servicemen sent more than $11,000 worth of cables home, and that's a lot of love and good wishes at reduced cable rates. This Christmas they spent more than $13,000 for cables home, most of them addressed to mothers.

There's probably something about the Beaver Club that gets men thinking about home. The lounges are big and friendly and the men usually meet someone from their own home town. In the reading room there are newspapers from more than 80 Canadian towns and cities, and no one who hasn't been overseas can know what a hometown paper means.

The other day when the club celebrated the fourth anniversary of its founding, the King and Queen came to call and to say that they knew what the big, cheerful centre had meant to men away from home, since it opened its door February 19, 1940.

The institution, partly financed by the Canadian Y. M. C. A., is supported and engineered by a board of Canadian directors in London. W. H. Speaman of Montreal is manager and senior supervisors are Mrs. C. A. Cambie, formerly of Toronto and Mrs. H. P. Swan formerly of Duncan, B. C.

There's always something doing at the Beaver Club. Usually the notice-board in the entrance hall reads: "Sightseeing tours: 10.30 a.m., Houses of Parliament; 2.30 p. m. Tower of London; 7.30 p. m. Dance."

Eight Hundred Workers

The club has a voluntary staff of more than 800 who conduct the sightseeing tours, serve meals in the downstairs cafeteria, or the big circular canteen that was wrecked by a bomb more than two years ago. They work in the post office, the information bureaux and at night, the hostesses are dancing partners for the parties, which Canadian servicewomen may also attend.

Before Canadian servicemen went to the Mediterranean more than 10,000 passed through the club every day. Attendance has now dropped to about 8,000 although there are more than 26,000 during an average weekend. The Beaver Club is a home away from home.

Up in the first aid room, Mrs. Angus Cameron, formerly of Victoria, now a British Red Cross worker, was changing a dressing for a soldier on sick leave. She treats many men on leave and soldiers stationed in London.

Next door there's a chiropodist who treats parade-sore arches free of charge and a barber shop where the men can get a haircut for the equivalent of 16 cents. Most London barbers charge 25 or 35 cents.

The boys can get coffee and doughnuts in the snack bar at all hours of the day. Downstairs in the comfortable dining room they can get a full course meal for about 30 cents, a great deal cheaper than the cheapest London cafe. The boys like salads, so the club is one place in England they can get it.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 11

THIS DAY may be memorable for a sudden and unexpected descent upon routine affairs of an event at once adventurous, romantic, progressive, as well as dramatic and thrilling. It may come with whirlwind force and land one on his feet in some far distant place or in strange surroundings, with new associates, fresh ideas, and plans and programs quite out of the ordinary. This exceptional state of affairs call for much sound judgment and discretion and not impetuosity, emotional excitement or other unrestrained activities. Keep calm and circumspect.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the exceptional, extraordinary and not anticipated may materialize with sudden and breath taking activity. High adventure, romance, new contacts and associations, as well as fresh fields of operation, brilliant ideas and unusual programs. All this enlivening the personal as well as business and intellectual life, with dramatic situations and emotional thrills. But be prudent, self contained for best returns.

A child born on this day should have many exceptional talents, with creative ability, scientific, inventive, assuring a romantic and adventurous career.

Mrs. A. W. Turner Named Delegate

Mrs. A. W. Turner, regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E., was elected at the chapter's representative for the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, being held in Hamilton in April. The decision was made at the regular meeting of the chapter, held in the armouries Thursday afternoon.

Ninety-eight visits to Nicholls Hospital were reported by Mrs. John Black. Mrs. P. D. Brown reported the visits to the Camp Hospital, and also a total of 83 knitted articles for men in the services, as well as 16 articles of clothing for Polish relief. Mrs. T. J. Carley spoke on current events, dealing mainly with India and Newfoundland. Mrs. Carley stressed the fact that when peace is attained, all countries must show more interest in one another to maintain it.

Mrs. H. G. Carleton, a life member of the Northumberland Chapter, of Norwood, was welcomed as a member of the 57th Regiment Chapter. Letters from boys who received ditty bags and Christmas boxes were still being received. Plans were formed for a Thrift Sale, to be held some time in April, and it was announced that the date would be given in the near future. A minutes' silence was observed at the beginning of the meeting in memory of a former member, the late Mrs. J. Crowe.

BLACK BEAUTY—The slim, long-skirted frock that manages to achieve great formality despite a covered-up look is always a desirable fashion with many smart women. Lovely Nancy Coleman likes this type of frock and always has one in her wardrobe. This version is made of pure silk crepe in black and is softened by a cascade of beautiful black lace ruffles down the front of the skirt.

ORPHANS since the bombs struck

Britain's Bomb Victims still need our RED CROSS HELP!

TIME will see the bomb scars erased from Britain's skyline—but never sight or limb restored to many a British "child of the Blitz". Thousands still require hospital care. Thousands will be helpless cripples for life. Thousands are homeless orphans, alone in the world.

Those who bore the battle's brunt when Britain's cities became the war's front line, still look wistfully to you for sympathy and aid. The 857,000 members of the Junior Red Cross help them immeasurably. They maintain 14 War Nurseries in Britain where little bomb victims enjoy Red Cross hospitality, right down to honest-to-goodness Canadian clothing and jam!

But the need is still great—and will grow greater as the sick and starving children of newly liberated lands come within the reach of the Red Cross. Can we deny our help in this merciful work? Your mercy dollars could not possibly be spent more worthily. Give generously!

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Wagner-Zaharias combination didn't do too well in Toronto last night. The Strangler lost the bout to Bobby Managoff by getting himself disqualified. He had better be careful or the habit will grow on him. His partner Zaharias was given a trimming by Vic Holbrook in the other feature bout....Kingston rinks monopolized all the prizes at the Kingston bonspiel this week....Hub Macey who was with the Petes for a while last season until he was taken out of the play by the O.H.A. is still in the hockey picture....After a long spell in the army the former New York Ranger is now in the Air Force and is playing with Centralia R.C.A.F.....The Brampton Army team who were beaten by the Petes last season have ousted Newmarket from the intermediate O.H.A. race, winning 15 to 2....Lister, Innarelli and other stars who played against Peterborough a year ago are still playing for Brampton....They must be taking an intensive course in something or other, probably in how to beat a packed defence....C. G.E. and Orphans will meet Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. gym at 7.15 o'clock in the first game of a best-of-three series for the City League title.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By J. R. Scott

BABY FOUND IN SWAMP BY DOG—Eighteen-months-old Veronica de Vore, the object of a five-hour search by townspeople and 50 schoolboys, was found waist-deep in the mud of a swamp a mile and a quarter from her Wyckff Avenue home, New York. Sitting at the side of the mired child and whimpering was her black cocker spaniel Tippy, who is shown here with her, safe and happy at home. When they were found by two schoolboys, the child was cold and wet but apparently none the worse for her adventure.

WMS Discusses Easter Service

MILLBROOK, March 10—(ENS)—Mrs. George E. Burnham was hostess for the March meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's church, held on Wednesday afternoon at her home, King street, with 21 present. Mrs. J. McKnight had charge of the program, in the absence of Mrs. H. W. Johnston, group convener for the current month.

The secretary, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, presided, reporting $13 raised from work on quilts, and following this up with plans for the Easter service to be held at her home in April, Group B, Mrs. M. McDowell will be in charge, and the annual thankoffering is to be received. The committee to secure a speaker was appointed: Mrs. A. L. Sisco, Mrs. Edmund Ball, and Mrs. H. W. Johnston.

The theme for the worship service, conducted by Mrs. McKnight, was: "The Bible a Guide for daily living", and as an item of missionary information, the leader stated: "We would need to count every letter in 113 Bibles, and then more, to find out how many people there are in China, and most of them still in heathen darkness." The prayer was offered by Miss E. L. Hetherington, and the message on temperance was given by Mrs. J. Rowland, Mrs. F. J. Smith following with the Christian stewardship message, "The Stewardship of Thankfulness." This emphasized the annual Easter thankoffering to which the auxiliaries of the Dominion are now looking forward.

The study book was taken up by the president, Mrs. A. L. Sisco, and dealt with worship ideas and forms in China, India and Africa. "Having been used to great festivals and elaborate rituals, they like to express their religion still in these ways, as far as possible", she said. "They also make much of sacrifice and holy days, as well as in periods of meditation and silent prayer. In Africa, music is the favorite medium of worship, but in mass singing, rather than in solo work."

Concluding the study, Miss Luella Kennedy took up a report of the Madras Conference under the theme "Worship".

Old Soldier Describes Famous English Spots

MARMORA, March 10 (ENS) — A duo lecture "Glimpses of Oxford" and "Sussex by the Sea," was given in St. Paul's Parish Hall on Thursday evening by W. J. Cottrell, who spent several months in both districts in the course of the last war. The lecture was illustrated with slides which included the famous High street of Oxford and exteriors of some of the colleges, including Christ Church and Magdalen.

The Sussex scenes were of historic Lewes and vicinity and the fashionable sea side resort of Eastbourne. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell manipulated the lantern and also made some remarks relative to the lecture. The lecture was given under the auspices of Group 1 St. Paul's Ladies' Guild.

Ottawa Sanatorium Will Be Enlarged

TORONTO, March 10.—(CP).—Health Minister R. P. Vivian announced in a statement last night that the Ontario government will contribute $125,000 towards erection of an addition to the Royal Ottawa tuberculosis sanatorium at Ottawa which will contain 160 beds and cost $360,000.

The statement said the Provincial government's contribution was "contingent upon the subscribing of the balance by the area to be served. This area includes the counties of Precott, Russell, Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew, the town of Smiths Falls and the City of Ottawa.

Major Problem

HAMILTON, March 10 —(CP)— Maj. John A. Leroux, director of venereal disease control for Ontario, said here last night that venereal disease has become "the largest single major health problem in Canada and in Ontario." He was addressing a dinner meeting of the Hamilton Local Council of Women marking the organization's 50th anniversary.

W.A. Quilting Bee

GORE'S LANDING, March 10 —(ENS).—The W.A. of St. George's-on-the-Hill met at the home of Mrs John Dear this week, with eight members present. During the business arrangements were made to hold a quilting bee at the rectory next Tuesday afternoon. The program was in charge of Mrs. R. J. Meggs, who gave a talk on South America. Mrs. Delaney read an article on Japan and Mrs. Meggs led a short discussion on Japan and China.

W.I. Sponsors Evening Lecture

MARMORA, March 10.—(ENS).—The monthly meeting of Marmora Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. A. Lummiss, with the president, Mrs. L. Green, in the chair.

The roll call was "Sing, play, say or pay something Irish" and met with a good response from the members. Plans were made for the showing of slides on March 22, which will illustrate a talk on 'Homes Across Canada.' It was decided also to hold a euchre party and dance in the town hall on April 28.

It is hoped to hold a quilting shortly for which blocks were handed in as well as sewing for war work.

Mrs. E. C. Prentitce gave a paper on 'Social Welfare'; Mrs. W. D. Lavender read an interesting letter from a sailor on the western coast who received one of the ditty bags sent out on October 3. Community singing was enjoyed, after which the program committee took over, with Mrs. Lewis Phillips in charge. A pantry contest was staged in which honors went to Mrs. Wallace Lawrence. A treat was then served by the members of the committee.

Red Cross Workers Send Out Shipments

MILLBROOK, March 10—(ENS) — Articles shipped from the Red Cross rooms this week included: From Mrs. Wilson, wool convener: for the Navy: 4 turtle neck sweaters; 14 pairs socks and 4 pairs mitts; 1 pair gloves and one pair seamen's long stockings; for the Air Force: 5 pairs gloves, 4 pairs socks, and 7 sweaters; British Civilian: 2 boys' green suits, 2 years; 2 boys' grey sweaters, 6 years; 1 girls' yellow sweater, 8 years.

Articles received and later shipped: 1 quilt from the Carmel group; 3 jumpers, 3 blouses, and 5 coats, all 6 years' size. A gift of $15 from Whitfield's school, was sent in. Miss Josie Sutton is shipping clerk, and quilters, under Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, convener, were busy at quilt tops donated or pieced locally.

C. H. Buskard Named New Reeve At Deloro

MARMORA, March 10 (ENS) — C. H. Buskard was elected Reeve of Deloro at the nomination meeting held in Deloro Hall on Thursday noon. The new reeve is popular in the district, having been prominent in public affairs as well as in Masonic circles. He succeeds the late R. A. Elliott who passed away on February 9.

DON'T ALWAYS treat a good card player as if he has been playing perfectly. There are times when the best of them let their minds do a bit of wool gathering and make errors which you would not expect an ordinary one to perpetrate. When that occurs, give such a player a chance to suffer the punishment which his mistake deserves, instead of refusing to believe he has pulled a boner.

West decided that a heart lead was the choice among evils, so the 8 was won by South's 10 after East played low to hold his Q over the J. South now planned his play pretty thoroughly. He decided that the best way to run the diamonds was to score the A and K, then ruff one with the dummy's J. That seemed fairly sound, but East over-ruffed the J with the Q.

If East had now returned a club, South would have wound up with one trick lost through the heart over-ruff, one in diamonds and two in clubs. East, however, decided somehow that a spade return was better. His 10 enabled South to use the A and K to discard a diamond and a club, so that South lost only one trick in each minor plus the one to the heart Q, and made his contract.

East could not believe that South was blank in spades. As he said later, he was sure South would have used the spades for discards as soon as he got into the dummy if he had been blank. Hence, he probably had two spades, and the return of them was innocuous.

Canadian Makes 13 Round Trips Sees No Action

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

A PORT IN NORTHERN IRELAND, March 10—(CP)—Corvette closeups:

Maybe the German submarines are just leery of meeting up with Lieut. Ken Grant, an officer of the All-Canadian convoy escort group of corvettes, frigates and destroyers.

But anyway the fact is that Grant, who was a reporter on the Vancouver Sun in peacetime, has made more than 13 round trips back and forth across the North Atlantic on escort ships and hasn't yet been in action.

He thinks he holds the record in this respect, and says woefully: "I've never seen a single attack, never seen a ship sunk, the nearest I've come is spotting two submarines a good distance from a convoy."

But it shows how the escort ships and submarine hunters are tying up the U-boats in the Atlantic.

Senior Canadian naval officer ashore here is Cmdr. Charles Copeland of Liverpool, N.S., who is staff officer administration and is the top liaison between the Canadian Navy and the Royal Navy in this escort port. The work he has done here is outstanding.

The United States Navy helps in the repairing of the Canadian ships which come in here and a number of Canadians work with the American experts in the electrical shop, run by an American naval lieutenant.

They fix everything from compasses to electric wiring on the guns and one of the Canadians is Petty Officer H. G. Hazard. He used to run a plumbing, heating and electrical business in Cooksville, Ont., joined the Canadian Army at the start of the war and then went into the navy and served for a long time on the Atlantic escort before being assigned to this shore base job.

Other Canadians in this shop are Petty Officers J. L. Charlton of Regina, S. G. Wollen of Saskatoon, and Art Baxter of Victoria.

Cmdr. Hugh Pullen of Oakville, Ont., in the Canadian destroyer Ottawa, commands the all-Canadian group of escort ships on the North Atlantic. This group has been operating since May and has not been in action, but has escorted hundreds of merchant ships and tankers across the ocean without a single loss from enemy action.

Ewart Penney of Toronto is a sailor on the new Canadian corvette Forest Hill, and for three and a half years he had not seen his brother, Norman Penney, an R.C.N. lieutenant also on an escort ship.

Ewart had been serving on the west coast and Norman on the east and then they both were sent overseas. Ewart missed his brother in an east coast Canadian port by a few days on the way and then in Glasgow, by mere chance bumped into him the other day.

"I saw this officer coming and was preparing to hand out the usual salute, when I realized it was my brother," he grinned.

Remains Master Of Crossfire

LONDON, March 10—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill proved himself still a master of House of Commons office Thursday.

To one questioner asking who would speak for the Government in the event of conflicting statements of various ministers, Mr. Churchill commented drily, "if the worst came to worst I might have a shot at it myself."

Another question as to the implications of a recent speech by Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary, Mr. Churchill brushed aside with the comment, "I gather he was embarking on a philosophical disquisition on a hypothetical and conjectural situation which might arise after the war."

To a protest against one of his own replies using the phrase "the matter is under constant review," Mr. Churchill chuckled and commented that "a certain amount of latitude in the use of stock phrases always has been accorded to every Government as long as I can remember."

Pupils Present Special Program

HAVELOCK, March 10 (ENS)—An educational program was staged by the teachers and pupils of the Norwood schools at the local Home and School Association meeting on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Reta Packenham, Norwood acted as Chairman, and the program opened with a piano duet, "The Wiches' Flight" by Misses Rena Munro and Francis Packenham. A comic reading "How to play a harp" was recited by Mrs. J. Edgeley. An illustrated talk on the Coat of Arms, showing the crests of the nine Provinces of the Dominion, was given by S. S. Breckon; fourteen girls from Miss Borland's class room, under the direction of Albert Hazell, music teacher, sang 3-part songs "Gentle evening bendeth", and "Blue bells of Scotland". Mrs. J. S. Caskey played a piano solo "The Spring Song"; an Irish solo by Mrs. J. Edgeley "A Little bit of Heaven". The last item was a talk by J. S. Caskey on "Democracy", stating the term simply meant that form of government, in which the sovereignty of the state is vested in the people, and exercised by them, directly or indirectly, by means of representative institutions.

Easter Program

Mrs. R. W. Goheen, the President presided over the business. In the absence of the treasurer, the financial report was given by Mrs. H. Pollock, showing a balance of $29.99, after the Capitation Tax of $4.80 had been forwarded.

Mrs. W. Woodbeck reported the next meeting would be an Easter program, with Rev. J. W. Wilkinson as guest speaker and Miss Locklin's pupils assisting. A request from Campbellford Home and School Club, requesting Havelock Club to put on a program there on April 19, was agreed to.

Mrs. C. Price was appointed delegate to attend the Home and School Convention in Toronto on April 11 and 12. Two more names were added to the Executive committee, Miss Verna Buchanan, representing the school staff and Mrs. Robt. Sayers, the parents. The attendance shield was won by Principal Jones" room.

Fire Protection Sought In Smith

The Council of the Township of Smith met at the Court House on Monday. All the members were present, with Reeve McIlmoyl presiding. Tax Collector Middleton reported some outstanding taxes on the 1942 roll. Council instructed him to collect the balance by distress if necessary, and close the roll not later than March 20.

C. E. Moore, representing the Federation of Agriculture, reported 157 ratepayers had signed cards authorizing the Council to add 1-5 of a mill to their taxes for Federation purposes. The necessary by-law was passed providing for the lewying and collection of these fees.

Allan Brown was present in regard to setting up a fire protection area in the suburban district north of the city. After some discussion Council decided to call a meeting of the residents in the areas bordering the city, the meeting to be held in Queen Elizabeth School on the evening of Tuesday, March 21, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of entering into an agreement with the city to provide fire protection to the residents in an area to be agreed upon. At present the consent of the Reeve and the Mayor has to be obtained before the Fire Department will come into the township. In most cases by the time the Reeve and Mayor are contacted, the fire is out of control.

The following accounts were approved for payment:

Road accounts, $128.49; Registrar of Deeds, list of transfers, $2.68; Whillier & Co., supplies, $18.10; Provincial Treasurer, insulin account, $2.81; Township of Westminster, relief account, $5.28; N. Douglas, printing auditor's reports, $16.75; Hydro Commission, street lights, $14.54; A. Edmison, old-age pension fees, $2.00; Cephas Bullock, convention expenses, $12.00; Ross Harrison, convention expenses $12.00; Fred Steinkrauss, sheep killed by dog, $15.00; J. G. Jopling, sheep killed by dogs, $63.00.

Council Plans To Sell Holdings

HAVELOCK, March 10—(ENS)—Property which has been bought by the town will be sold, according to a decision reached Monday night at the regular meeting of Council.

The property of F. G. McTavish on George street, and also a vacant lot on Donald street will be advertised for sale by tenders, which must be received before noon, April 3, at the Clerk's office. This was on a motion by Councillors Ketchen and Martin. It was also decided to remove the insurance on the McTavish building plate glass window. A communication was received from Samuel Ellis, Peterborough, regarding the opening of a restaurant on Ottawa street, if necessary supplies and equipment could be obtained. It was decided on motion by Councillors Martin and Ketchen, that the Council would be willing to cooperate in every way possible. The report of the relief officer for February was received and account ordered paid.

In the absence of Reeve Seeney, a patient in Toronto General Hospital, Councillor Richard Sanderson presided, with Councillors Leeson, Martin and Ketchen present.

Accounts Paid

General accounts were ordered paid:—W. J. Akins, February salary and phone $87.50; to County Council, account regarding indigent patients, $86.52; account for supplies with Municipal World, $1.68; James Hoard, snow-ploughing, $9.40; Dept. of Health, insulin indigent, $1.50; Tom Forsythe, snow-ploughing, $12; Mr. B. Y.P.U. Holds Program

LAKEFIELD, March 10 (ENS)—etty Lake presided for the Y.P.U. meeting held in the United church this week.

Games were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kelly and the Scripture reading was read by Ruth Murphy. "Should Women Propose?" was read by Hazel Northey; Mrs. Dora MacMillan sang a solo entitled, "Dream of Paradise," accompanied by Miss E. Waterman. Robert Hunter read a piece on "Missions," and Miss E. Waterman took the topic, "The Church."

Rheumatic Aches—Pains—Backache

In 24 to 48 Hours Pains Are Relieved—You Get Rest and Comfort Again

Now as never before men and women must keep themselves fit and ready for work. So when you've tried everything you can think of and nothing seems to even relieve the pain and soreness, don't give up hope—just go to Lynch's Drug Store or any good druggist and get a bottle of Allenru. Take as directed and in about 24 hours you should see a real improvement. You needn't be afraid of Allenru containing dope of any kind—it doesn't; such things are only makeshifts and can at best give only partial relief.

Allenru acts 3 ways: (1) to relieve the pain; (2) to correct the bowels; (3) as a gentle diuretic to the kidneys flushing out excess acids.

The very first bottle is guaranteed to show results and justify your confidence. If for any reason you are dissatisfied, take back the empty bottle and get your money back.—(Advt.)

Resume Raids On Europe Over Sunday

Fighter Opposition Declines; Losses Very Light

LONDON, March 13 (CP) — A small formation of American four-engined bombers attacked military targets in Northern France today and although no opposition from enemy aircraft was encountered, two of the bombers were lost.

They were escorted by fighters, the announcement said.

British Mosquito bombers attacked unspecified targets in western Germany without loss.

A formation of unescorted United States heavy bombers hit enemy Military installations in the Pas-de-Calais region of France Sunday.

All the big aircraft returned home from the foray, their second in as many days, without loss against objectives along the invasion coast. The accomplishment underscored the Allies' growing air superiority.

Throughout yesterday's round trip flight of approximately 400 miles, the Germans offered no fighter opposition.

The mission followed the eighth night blow of the month by R.A.F. Mosquitoes. The wooden bombers hit the bomb-wrecked port of Hamburg Saturday night for the first time since Jan. 1. One plane failed to return from this and a co-ordinated attack on unspecified objectives in western Germany.

German raiders over England last night set off London's warning system for the first time since last Wednesday, but there was no immediate report of any damage or loss of life. A weak enemy raid Saturday night destroyed two houses and killed several persons in a southeastern coast town.

An Air Ministry announcement last night said Augsburg's 150-acre M.A.N. U-boat engine works — Germany's largest — were extensively damaged by Allied attacks late in February. Hardly a factory escaped damage, the report said.

In a broadcast last night to the United States, Brig.-Gen. George McDonald, Director of Intelligence for the United State strategic Air Forces in Europe, indicated that possibly 3,000 Allied planes attacked Nazi targets in one day last month.

"The greatest number of aircraft ever put into the air against Germany" took part in operations Feb. 25, he said.

Dog On Trial

KITCHENER, March 13 — (CP).—A dog facing destruction escaped on the strength of previous good behavior when tried before Magistrate Polson in police court here last week. Charged under the Vicious Dog Act by a bitten Kitchener woman, the dog was found to have committed his first offence and was further exonerated when a physician testified the "accused" was free of rabies.

United Nations Have Set Up Peace Approach

TORONTO, March 13 —(CP) — The United Nations have chosen "a practical approach" to the problem of constructing a peace organization, L. B. Pearson, Minister-Counsellor of the Canadian embassy in Washington, today told the Canadian Club of Toronto.

A "logical and possibly a spectacular approach" would have been to call a great United Nations Assembly to deal with postwar problems. Instead special conferences were called to "deal with subjects and to set up permanent post-war bodies covering these subjects, leaving the vital political organization to be constructed later."

"This procedure means working from the ground up, going from the specific to the general, from the easier .... to the more difficult" and was demonstrated by the Hot Springs conference of last May which dealt only with the problem of food and agriculture.

Welfare Problem

A second "eminently practical" step was the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation conference at Atlantic City last November. Dealing with an immediate welfare problem — the Relief and Rehabilitation of the millions "soon to be freed from the clutches of the enemy," it sets up an organization "which is functioning now and is

Big Ukraine Armies Near Nikolev

Russians Driving Down Banks Of Ingul River

MOSCOW, March 13 — (AP) — The Red Army pushed down both sides of the swollen Ingul River today to within 30 miles of the Black Sea port of Nikolev, one of the major objectives in Southern Russia.

Pravda reported that the troops of Gen. Malinovsky's third Ukrinian front reached the Ingul after a swift thrust southwest of Novy Bug, crossed to the western bank of the stream and captured settlements including the town of Privolnoye.

Previously, the dispath said, the Russians repulsed a counter-attack by a regiment of German Infantry and tanks on the east bank of the Ingul outhwest of Bastanka.

The newspaper said the number of prisoners was increasing hourly and that Germans in some cases were surrendering in groups. One captive was quoted as saying morale was extremely low, ammunition short and rank becoming more disorganized.

Pravda carried a similar report from the second Ukrinian front where the Russians were pushing from Uman into Odessa Province. The Germans were reported retreating in panic.

The Russians got within 22 miles of Kherson when one force advanced 18 miles beyond Berislav, taken Saturday, to seize Tyaginka, up the west bank of the Dnieper from Kherson.

In the battles of the Russians' massive southern offensive, the Soviet communique said, 5,000 Germans were killed Sunday, bringing to more than 60,000 the number killed in eight days on that front.

The bulletin said other Soviet

Priest Prevented From Speaking

QUEBEC, March 13 — (CP). — Pierre Oscar Tremblay, president of the Association of Young Laurentians, said to-day that Rev. Simon Arsenault, Superior of St. Vincent de Paul Seminary here, had "been prevented" from addressing the first public meeting of the association last night.

Irenee Simard, Quebec lawyer who addressed last night's meeting said Father Arsenault had been prevented from speaking "by his superiors." Abbe Paul Nicole, secretary to Cardinal Villeneuve, the Archbishop of Quebec, would not confirm or deny that the orders had come from the Archbishop's palace.

Father Arsenault refused comment except to say he had been prevented from speaking. A letter read at last night's meeting, and said to have been signed by him, said that "I had hoped until the last hour that things would be settled, but circumstances oblige me to be silent....That's a real tragedy, showing how much some people laugh at you when they speak to you about liberty, and also how much the country needs you to re-establish a truly Christian order."

In his previous addresses, Mr. Arsenault had described himself as a Nationalist.

Father Arsenault said to-day that the Association of Young Laurentians was "a patriotic and nationalist movement of French-Canadian youths."

Letter To Eire Inspired By Eisenhower

Rigid Travel Ban Between Britain-Ireland

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 13 —(CP)—The outright closing of Northern Ireland's border with Eire to give full effect to the suspension of travel between the islands of Britain and Ireland was a near prospect today.

All reports from Belfast, Northern Ireland, said this step—which the British government could order — was regarded as inevitable as the Allies moved with hard realism to end the alleged use of neutral Eire as an Axis spy base.

Certain other steps, of a nature not now to be disclosed, may also be taken.

All travel except in cases of greatest urgency was suspended between Britain and Ireland, whether Northern Ireland or Eire, by a British home office order last night two days after Eire's Prime Minister, Eamon de Valera, announced his refusal to accede to a United States request that German and Japanese diplomatic offices in the country be closed.

The order resulted from an urgent request by Gen. Dwight B. Eisenhower, Allied invasion commander, who was said to have information that Axis representatives in Erie constituted a serious menace to military security.

The Irish mail train to Holyhead—where it connects with the boat to Kingstown near Dublin—left London this morning two-thirds empty.

Instead of the usual Monday morning rush there was only a handful of passengers, many of whom were doubtful that they would be allowed on the boat although they were using tickets issued before the travel ban was announced.

Irishmen on the train—mainly laborers—spoke against De Valera.

"What does he want to keep the Germans in Dublin for?" asked Michael Lenaham of Carrock-On-Suir. "Germany never gave anything

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP).—Wing Cmdr. Ralph Christie of North Bay, Ont., will report to No. 8 Air Observers' School at Ancienne Lorette, Que., March 17, to become chief supervisory officer of the school, it was learned today.

Provinces Are Given Full Responsibility

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today in the Commons that the Federal Government has decided to lift the restrictions upon the supply of beer which may be released for sale to the Provinces.

Mr. King said that the lifting of the restrictions would become effective immediately and that hereafter the distribution and sale of beer will be the exclusive control of the Provinces themselves.

War Cuts Medical Services To Danger Point In Canada

By JAMES MvCOOK—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP).—Control of the movement of doctors from one locality to another and provision for replacement of doctors in rural areas no longer able to carry on was recommended in a 350,000-word national health survey report tabled in the Commons today by Defence Minister Ralston.

The report, resulting from a survey by the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board, reviewed health services and requirements in detail and made numerous recommendations.

It said some authority should be empowered to take measures to ensure the maintenance of present minimum health services. No further enlistments of public health personnel should be allowed without consent of the province concerned and post-graduate courses in public health should be accelerated.

Regional wage levels for hospital employees should be established and hospitals paying approved wages should be able to look to the National Selective Service for necessary staff.

Recommendation was made for a national health board to be set up to formulate a national policy for Canadian health personnel. Membership would be drawn from the various health agencies which cooperated in the survey.

Hospitals should be subsidized when necessary to meet standardized requirements. Hospital strikes should be declared illegal and employees should be frozen to the employment for which they have been trained.

The report said the procurement should be authorized to provide physicians and nurses as required by industry.

There should be better distribution of nurses, and nursing bureaus, as an essential public service, should have government aid. A committee of the Canadian Nurses' Association should be set up to function in connection with the procurement and assignment of nurses to meet the needs of the armed forces and civilian requirements.

Central Movement

A procurement and assignment board for dentists and dental technical aids was recommended, with provision for dentists now practising being fixed in the present locations and allowed to move only with the approval of thier provincial dental advisory committee. British Destroy 2 Enemy Ships

NAPLES, March 13 —(AP)— British beaufighters on sweeps against German shipping in the western Mediterranean attacked and hit two enemy supply ships off the Spanish Coast, driving one to the beach and leaving the other sinking, it was announced today.

A Berlin broadcast by the propaganda agency International Bureau claimed the attack was "a violation of International Law." It claimed nine British Blenheims sank the 3,700-ton German refrigerator ship Kirissl in Spanish waters Sunday off the mouth of the Ebro, killing 10 of the crew and wounding 15.

At the same time an Allied communique said Naval forces in the Adriatic had sunk two other enemy vessels — one in Neretva Channel on the Yugoslav coast Friday night and the other below Ancona the next night. A number of Germans were captured when the first went down.

On the Anzio beachhead, Allied artillery fire was increased considerably in strength yesterday, the communique said.

On the three land fronts, patrols clashed with small enemy groups at several points, but bad weather prevented any large-scale action.

Heavy aerial action featured week-end fighting with powerful Allied attacks on the northern cities of Genoa, Padua and Florence, and the French naval base of Toulon. Bombers also hit the railroad yards at Orvieto, north of Rome, and fighters and fighter-bombers strafed targets near the Anzio beachhead south of the capital.

Raps Radio News

WASHINGTON, March 13 — (AP). — Charging that "fully 60 per cent. of the statements" of some radio commentators in the United States can be "proved to be utterly false," Chairman Martin Dies said today the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities may soon "investigate this matter on the ground that it is distinctly un-American."

Health Plan Requires New Hospitals

Present Patient Accommodation Totally Inadequate

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP)—General hospital accommodation in Canada will have to be increased considerably if national health insurance is introduced within the next few years, it was revealed today in the report of a national health survey made by the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board. The report, tabled in the Commons by Defence Minister Ralston, said the General Hospital accommodation is lacking and that there is need for more hospitals for the incurable and chronically ill, for convalescent patients, for mental patients, for patients suffering from communicable diseases and for senile patients.

The board recommended that each province should set up a commission on hospitalization. The commission would be composed of representatives of the public, of the various groups of hospitals concerned and of the Government. The commission would draft a plan for hospital expansion covering the entire province and would work out the hospitalization requirements for each inter relating them in a coordinated pattern.

Another recommendation suggested that when health insurance is enacted the present-day outpatient departments be converted to diagnostic clinics, staffed by medical experts who would be paid from the health insurance fund.

The board felt that a shortage exists in hospital accommodation in rural areas, but said that the future program should not be the indiscriminate building of a "poorly" equipped hospital in every settlement, but a new conception of bringing the patient and the hospital facilities together.

Such a program might mean the setting up of many outpost hospitals designed merely for emergency and less complicated work, the more serious cases being despatched to larger hospitals. Coupled with these outpost hospitals could be a system of rural nursing care.

The board also reviewed present-day accommodation and said that unless "new and more effective regulations are put into force with respect to personal employment, civilian hospitals will not be able to continue their service to the public unless they either

"1. Raise rates considerably to the patients.

"2. Reduce to the minimum their public ward services.

"3. Receive a subsidy, as is now paid to many industries to keep down the selling prices."

Bombs Riddle Wewak, Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 13.—(AP). —United States Army Air Force squadrons dealt the Japanese base at Wewak, New Guinea, the heaviest blow in several weeks with a 120-ton bombing Saturday, leaving gun positions wrecked, fuel dumps afire and shooting down at least 26 planes, Allied headquarters said today.

Heavy and medium bombers, supported by fighters and attack planes, struck Boram airdrome and supply areas at the enemy coastal base. They downed 26 planes for certain and six more probably out of about 40 Japanese intercepting fighters. Other aircraft were destroyed on the ground. Two attacking planes failed to return.

Would Change Army Plan Of Examining New Recruits

By DARCY O'DONNELL—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP).— Canada's civilian medical services may have to be further restricted if the war does not end this year, and if many of the medical officers with the forces overseas have to be replaced, it was revealed today in a national health survey report of the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board.

The report, tabled in the Commons by Defence Minister Ralston, was drawn up after a survey made between January and June of last year of all Canada's health services.

At the time the report was written, a committee of the board set up to study "war medical manpower" said that "if the results revealed by the civilian survey are as anticipated the general situation regarding medical services in Canada will be found quite unsatisfactory."

The committee found that there were 3,006 doctors in the armed forces and it sought ways of reducing the number. It was felt that a ratio of 3.5 to 3.7 doctors per 1,000 soldiers should provide ample room for all medical needs. It was found that the Royal Canadian Navy has 4.9 doctors per 1,000 personnel, the army 4.5 and the R.C.A.F. 3.66.

Use One Doctor

Members recommended the army discontinue its present system of chain medical examination and replace it by a system whereby each recruit would be given an examination in full and a general appraisal by a single medical officer.

"The volume of recruiting and boarding in the army is disproportionately high," the committee said.

"The percentage of breaking down during training, and the size of sick parades in the army show a sharp contrast to the situation which we find in the other services," where a single medical officer examines each recruit.

The report said army medical authorities had not acted on the recommendation because they felt there were "not sufficient medical officers available who are capable of giving a really complete physical examination."

A recommendation was made that navy and air force medical personnel assisting examination of call-up troops and revision cases. The two services reported they had no surplus medical officers available for the work.

Plan To Wipe Out Hun Airforce

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 13 —(AP)—The bombardment of all other strategic targets in Germany by the United States air force has been relegated to a back seat in favor of an all-out campaign to exterminate the German air force, it was learned today.

The U.S. strategic air force swung into a deliberate campaign last week to tangle with the German air force head-on and left off its tactics of trying to avoid the German fighters and splitting them up by diversionary attacks.

This new extermination campaign is two-edged. When the weather is good the impact is primarily on the Germans' ground resources such as their airplane factories. When the weather is bad the aim is to make attacks through the overcast so destructive that the German air force will be compelled to send up fighters to oppose the heavily-armed four-engined bombers—which can shoot them down.

Nazis Replacing Junker Generals

LONDON, March 13 (AP)— Two German commanders on the Russian front—Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluege, commander-in-chief of the centre and Field Marshal Georg Von Keuchler on the northern flank —have been permanently relieved and replaced by commanders who are strong Nazis and not far from the Junkers Generals' caste, a usually-reliable informant said today.

Von Kluege, who was temporarily replaced some six weeks ago, now apparently has been written off the active list, possibly because of wounds necessitating his retirement, said this source.

Information from Germany said he was wounded seriously, presumably by action of Partisans behind the lines or from Russian bombing. A week ago he was replaced permanently by Gen. Ernst Busch, who was promoted to Field Marshal for the new post.

"Von Keuchdeer was replaced by Gen. Walther Model — reportedly because of the stress of the campaign."

Both Busch and Model are re-

Canadian Ace Says Allies Have Edge

OTTAWA, March 13— (CP).— Growing Allied superiority coincidental with noticeable signs of weakness in German strength are significant trends in the skies over Europe to-day, Wing Cmdr. Lloyd Chadburn told a press conference here last night.

With a score of 14 enemy planes and a D.S.O. and Bar and D.F.C., Chadburn is home to help sell the Sixth Victory Loan. He will leave here to-morrow to visit his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Allen at Aurora, Ont., and then make a month's tour of the Dominion before returning to Britain and action.

He thought there was a uniformity in the class of fighter pilot being turned out under the air training plan and the lads making their first combat flight to-day were "about the same" as those he started out with three years ago.

"But with Jerry it's different," he said. "We don't meet the same experienced guys we used to meet a couple of years ago." He said the scoring ratio in the early days of the war was about even but nowadays "we have a definite edge."

Eire Showing Bitterness Against English

200,000 Irishmen Serving With British Armed Forces

By Hewitt MacKenzie
Associated Press War Analyst

London's prompt imposition of severe travel restrictions between Britain and Eire was a fully-anticipated corollary to to Eire's refusal to grant America's request that German and Japanese diplomatic and Consular representatives be expelled.

While it was Washington which made the overture to neutral Eire, Britain strongly backed it. The point is that enemy agents have been acting under cover of their legations and consulates to pass military information back home. Gen. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of Allied western invasion forces, says these Axis operations are a serious menace.

The travel restriction is a heavy blow to the economic life of Eire, for Britain is a vital market for Eire's cattle and other products. Even more grievous trouble may be in the offing for Eire, however. The British press forecasts curtailment of essential supplies from Britain and America. An appeal by Dublin to Australia to intervene with Washington has brought the reply that Australia fully supports the U. S. stand.

Just why should Eire cling so tightly to her neutrality? This is especially puzzling to many because Eire's shield against danger from the continent of Europe is the island which comprises the United Kingdom, and Eire's ties with America are strong.

Dublin's neutrality has deprived the Anglo-American Allies of naval bases with the result that the war has been lengthened and Allied lives and shipping have been lost. We have needed little Eire's help badly. Why then has she stood out?

The basic reason is Eire's bitterness towards Britain.

So powerful is this feeling in the heart of many Irishmen that they would sacrifice themselves rather than give aid to England. Of course, not all citizens of Eire feel that way. Some 200,000 are fighting with the British forces, and others are lending their support.

Probably Premier De Valera would say the security of Eire has depended on neutrality. However, I think the support which his people are giving him in this stand is due to their anti-English feeling.

Doenitz Warns Germans

Substitutes For Hitler In Memorial Day Address

LONDON, March 13 (CP)—Substituting for Hitler at the microphone, Admiral Karl Doenitz told the German people in a Memorial Day address Sunday that a "pitiless struggle is being waged for the existence or annihilation of our nation."

In his address, the first time since the start of the war that Hitler has failed to broadcast as part of Germany's annual tribute to her war dead, Doenitz, commander of the German Navy, declared:—

"Everybody knows we are in the midst of a merciless struggle of great harshness and seriousness. Events of this war and the brutal aims of our enemies which they have publicly proclaimed demonstrate to us what is at stake."

Always before, Hitler has spoken from the rostrum of Berlin's ancient Zeughaus, the military museum on the Unter Den Linden. Neutral reports from Stockholm have mentioned bomb hits on the old landmark in this year's R.A.F. raids on Berlin.

Coal Strike Critical Across Wales

Situation Confused; 22,000 Miners Refuse To Return

LONDON, March 13—(CP)—The week-old strike of 100,000 miners which is estimated to have cost Britain 300,000 tons of coal began slowly breaking up today with early reports indicating possibly a third of the men back at work.

The situation as a whole, however, was confused. Some miners who voted yesterday to return to their jobs turned around and went home this morning after meetings at the pitheads. The shutdown still was complete in some areas.

A Fuel Ministry official in Wales said the situation there was "so fluid that we are unable to make any estimate yet" concerned the number back at work. "We will not have a proper picture until later in the day."

The back-to-work movement, which followed a split vote Sunday on the question of continuing the strike, enabled most of the idle mines in North Wales and Scotland to resume operations and their output is expected to be normal by tomorrow.

The situation in the great South Wales fields, virtually paralyzed by the strike, remained critical, however. Among those voting against a return to work were miners in the largest colliery in South Wales — Parc and Dare with 3,000 employees.

The holdouts also included virtually all the 8,000 miners in the Aberdare Valley, about 10,000 in the Rhondda Valley and more than 4,000 in the Tredegar Valley in Monmouthshire.

Welsh mine leaders met today to review the situation and to plan the next step after day-long appeals to the miners yesterday to return to the pits. The leaders emphasized in their talks to the miners that the government has agreed to many of their demands and that the remainder are to be studied.

A further loss of coal now — the strike has been costing Britain about 85,000 tons daily—would plunge the United Nations into a "desperate situation on the eve of the invasion of the continent," the leaders declared.

Arthur Horner, president of the South Wales Miners' Federation said the situation still must be regarded as serious, declaring those now out would "cause a canker which might spread again."

Yugoslavs Take Pucisce Port

LONDON, March 13. — (AP).—Yugoslav Partisans have captured the port of Pucisce on the northeast coast of Brac Island off the Dalmatian coast, Marshal Tito's (Josip Broz) Headquarters announced to-day.

Brac, a rugged 152 square-mile island, lies 10 miles southeast of the port of Split and has been used in the past as a submarine base. The announcement said the operation was led by an American officer.

The action, announced in the war bulletin broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, again turned the spotlight on the Dalmatian Islands. The Berlin radio asserted last week that British and American Commandos, led by "Gen. Churchill" had landed on Lissa Island to the southwest.

The Yugoslav communique said that outnumbered Partisan were locked in battle with the Germans on Hvar Island, another of the group and that on the mainland heavy fighting developed on scattered fronts from Ljubljana in Slovena southward to Banja Luka.

be reduced below 70 per cent. of the pre-war level and no further dental enlistment should be allowed in provinces where this level has reached.

Recommendations concerning doctors were supported by the Canadian Medical Association; health services by the Dominion Council of Health; hospitals by the Canadian Hospital Council; industrial medicine by the Canadian Medical Association Industrial Medicine committee; war medical manpower by six members of the War Medical Survey committee; nurses by the Canadian Nurses' Association and dental services by the Canadian Dental Association.

The Procurement Board was established in July, 1942, with the primary duty of obtaining physicians for the armed forces and at the same time endeavoring to preserve adequate civilian medical services.

The chairman is Maj-Gen. C. B. Chisholm, director-general of army medical services, and the other 11 members are drawn from the services' medical and dental establishments, with five members of the Canadian Medical Association medical advisory committee and a representative of National Selective Service.

The report said that in March, 1943, Canada's doctors numbered 12,235 and of these 3,006 were in the armed forces. Of the remaining 9,229, 8,614 were active while 615 were living in retirement. On March 1, 1944, 3,589 doctors were in military service.

Demand Growing

"There has been a steadily growing demand on the services of physicians under wartime conditions," said the report.

"On the average, three per cent of the population is disabled on account of sickness each day during the year. This means that on any day over 350,000 persons are unable, by reason of illness, to pursue their usual occupations."

Deaths annually exceed 110,000 and confinements exceeded 250,000. Since 1939 there had been a 10-per-cent increase in the number of patients treated in hospitals and a similar increase in the birth rate.

Of active physicians still in civil life, only 41.7 per cent are under 45 years.

"Some areas of Canada will be found to have been more denuded of physicians than others—some to the danger point," said the report.

In March, 1943, there was one doctor to 1,261 persons in Canada. Ontario had one doctor to 1,068 persons.

Graduates of medical schools were estimated at 951 in 1942 and 542 in 1944, with an accelerated program of graduation providing an average of 746 graduates annually.

The report recommended that satisfactory replacements should be found before further withdrawals from the teaching staffs are made.

The staffs of mental hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoria have been depleted almost to the danger point, and the reporting committee was satisfied no further depletion of staffs could be made without endangering the welfare of patients.

Hospital beds per 1,000 of population ranged from three in Prince Edward Island to 7.5 in British Columbia, and the percentage of population treated in hospitals ranged from 7.2 per cent in Prince Edward Island to 12.9 in British Columbia.

The survey had shown that "a great many" industrial employees did not receive the benefits of industrial medical care which they would and should receive if there was a substantial increase in the number of physicians and nurses engaged in industrial medicine.

52,483 Nurses

The survey showed Canada had 52,483 nurses, and of this number 8,306 had expressed willingness to enlist, while 24,909 were not available for military service. There was a waiting list for the armed forces of 3,741.

Of the 52,483 graduate nurses registered, 45.5 per cent were in Ontario.

About 52 per cent of the total registrants said they were engaged in employment other than nursing, 26,298 being housewives. Of the total registration, 42,159 of the nurses reported graduating in 1920 or since.

The survey said that in February, 1943, 3,264 dentists were "attempting" to serve about 11,000,000 people or at the ratio of one to every 3,477 persons. There were 1,019 dentists in the Canadian Dental Corps. Dental manpower available for civilian services had dropped 21.4 per cent since 1939.

"It is considered that for the safety of the public a 30-per-cent reduction is all that could be contemplated," said the report.

Recommendations in the report set forth the following in respect to doctors:

1. Freezing and moving of doctors for the duration be controlled by the Procurement Board.

2. Provision be made that physicians called up under National Selective Service and those in low categories be made available for service either in the forces or civilian life on the recommendation of the Procurement Board.

Get Special Permits

3. Physicians called up by National Selective Service and found to be in low medical categories be re-examined by special military medical boards whose decision shall be final.

4. Doctors called for service and found to be "C1" or "E" and unfit for military service be assigned to civilian duties repacing doctors who have entered Military service.

5 The survey showing the distribution of medical manpower to be continued.

6 The procurement board be given the same power with respect to disposal of medical personnel as National Selective Service has for others.

7 Provinces be requested to grant interim licences to practice to military doctors serving in their areas who may be called on to give service to civilians.

8 Doctors in the forces be encouraged and permitted to assist civilian doctors when consistent with their military duties.

9 Doctors in the forces be relieved of clerical and non-medical duties as far as possible.

Recommendations in respect to hospitals suggested that chronic absenteeism of hospital workers, not due to justifiable reasons, should be considered an offence punishable by law.

This section of the report suggested that a large percentage of women now engaged in non-essential work should be transferred to essential activities, and enlistments of highly-trained hospital personnel should not be permitted without the approval of competent advisory authority.

The report suggested, on industrial medicine, that:

1. A decision should be made on whether employees of industries now without health supervision should receive such supervision as provided for in Dominion orders.

2. The procurement board be authorized to provide physicians and nurses as required.

Industrial View

3. Care be exercised in removing or replacing physicians engaged in industry, "bearing in mind the great importance that health plays in industrial output."

4. Full-time and part-time physicians working in industries be provided with the necessary nurse assistance. There should be one physician for each 3,000 employees and one nurse for each 500 employees.

5. revision be made for medical direction in factories where nurses are working alone.

Recommendations in respect to nurses follow:

1. All nurses now working for remuneration be required to remain in nursing in Canada, subject to modifications already agreed on.

2. The national registration be kept up to date, with those registering reporting changes in address and status.

3. Steps to see that nurses receive salaries commensurate with their responsibility and which compare favorably with wartime salary scales.

4. As much use as possible be made of nurses available for part-time duty.

5. Ward aides and members of the Voluntary Aid Division should be employed in greater numbers in hospitals and communities to undertake non-nursing duties. Special and effectice measures to obtain the necessary subsidiary staff to support the nursing personnel in hospitals and elsewhere "should be put into effect with as little delay as possible."

6. Every effort should be made to encourage desirable young women to enter the nursing profession.

Control Enlistments

7. In areas where there is a shortage of nurses or an acute hospitalization problem, consideration be given by military and civil authorities to the feasibility of pooling nursing resources.

8. As part of post-war planning of nursing services, government aid should be continued to assist in developing many special nursing activities 'that must play an important part in the rehabilitation program."

The section dealing with dental personnel said that as long as gasoline and rubber are available for essential services, special consideration should be given dentists.

Other recommendations follow:—

1. In the interests of civilian dental services "cognisance be taken of the serious situation regarding dental supplies."

2. Dental technicians be classified as being employed in an essential war service.

3. All enlistments of dentists and dental personnel, whether voluntary or by call, be referred for recommendation to the respective Provincial Dental Advisory Committees, which will make recommendation to the body concerned.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

REWARD FOR GOOD STEPMOTHER

Woman Who Takes Another's Children to Heart Deserves Reserved Seat in Heaven.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married just six months to a man I love dearly. We are both in our early twenties and have been very happy, but now he asks me to do something I cannot do. He wishes me to adopt his son, the result of an indiscreet love affair. I want babies of my own and not another woman's. The mother is dead, but feeling as I do I could not make a good stepmother. Don't you think it best to leave the baby with its mother's people?

HEARTBROKEN.

She Could Help Child

ANSWER—Undoubtedly it will be better for the child to remain with its mother's people if you feel that way about it, for no crime on earth equals that of being cruel to a defenceless little child. The good stepmothers who take another woman's children to their hearts and mother them surely will have the reserved seats in Heaven, while as for the bad stepmothers—truly "it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and be cast into the sea than to offend one of these little ones."

Of course, there is no reasoning with jealousy, but inasmuch as this child was born before you had any claim upon its father, I do not see why you should be any more opposed to receiving it as a step-child than you would to your husband's bringing his child to you if he had been a widower. It would certainly take great love and great nobility of soul for a woman to take her husband's illegitimate child and rear it as her own if it was a constant reminder of his unfaithfulness to her, but such is not the case with this child.

Surely you must realize that it would be a fine thing to help your husband to atone to this child in some way for the wrong he has done it. But if you feel that you would be jealous of it and hate it, don't bring it into your home. The poor little fellow is better off where he is, and to have no father than to be the victim of a cruel stepmother.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Should a girl in choosing her husband pick out for a life-mate a slender-built man or a stout one? Which is the better risk as to general disposition and faithfulness?

WONDERING.

ANSWER—Well, personally, I prefer them hefty, the sort that look as if they took a real heart interest in food and would do credit to a woman's housekeeping. But, my dear girl, you don't pick out a husband as you do a chicken, by his weight. There are so many more things than a man's figure to be considered that you shouldn't give it a second thought.

Turn your attention to his brains and find out whether he has intelligence enough to keep you interested the balance of your life. Look into his habits and see if he is enough of a go-getter to make you a living, or whether you will have to go out and hustle for a job to support him. Observe whether he is generous or stingy; cranky or reasonable; grouchy or cheerful; tyrannical and overbearing, or liberal and just. These are the things that are going to count after you are married, not whether he is slim as a shiek, or stout as the headliner in a fat man's picnic.

But as to general disposition and faithfulness I would put my money on the fat man. Somehow, fat seems to go—perhaps it is a consolation prize—with an amiable, easy-going temperament. Stout people are nearly always comfortable to live with, whereas thin people are nearly always nervous and irritable and pessimistic. Also, the stout man is less apt to be a philanderer, maybe because he has fewer temptations.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow with three small children. In order to fit myself to support them I decided to take a stenographic course, but I did not seem to be able to learn as I should, so I got a job doing housework. The people I am working for are lovely to me, but I cannot have my babies with me. They are with different relatives and get good care and I see them every week. But do you think it would be better for me to go back and try to finish my business course, or stick to the housework?

MRS. H. I.

ANSWER—I think it would be better for you to stick to the housework, as that is what you know how to do and like to do. It takes very nimble fingers, as well as a nimble brain, to become a good stenographer, and I doubt if any woman of your age could acquire the skill to do it. Besides, you would have to earn a very large salary, very much more than most stenographers earn, to enable you to make enough money to support your children.

My advice to you would be to try to learn how to be a crackerjack cook and manager, so that you can start a boarding house. In that way you could have your children with you.

known alphabetically as UNRRA."

Preparatory work in which Canada is participating is being done in a number of other fields and "before long there will doubtless be full-dress United Nations discussions on international monetary and investment questions, international communications questions — especially air communications — and international commodity and commerical questions."

However, "it would be most unwise if these separate agencies were allowed to develop without any relation to each other or to the overall political organization.

"There will eventually have to be estabished some central United Nations machinery to supervise and correlate the work of the separate agencies without interfering with the autonomy of each within its own special field."

Canada, which had won International recognition in this war, would be expected to play a full part in post-war United Nations plans.

Canadians had been elected to the chairmanship of the interim food commision and to the UNRRA standing committee on supplies.

"It is, I think," true to say that when Canada was elected to these posts she was chosen in her own right and not merely as a British Dominion or as the friendly neighbor of the U.S.A.," said Mr. Pearson, "She was chosen because .... she had, as Canada, an important part to play."

5 People Killed Over Week-end

By The Canadian Press

Five fatalitie were reported in Eastern Canada during the week-end two of the deaths took place in Ontario, one in Quebec and two in New Brunswick.

William Collins, 75, of suburban East York, died in Toronto Saturday shortly after being struck by an automobile. A second Toronto fatality occurred Saturday when five-year-old Jackie Cunningham drowned in ten feet of water after falling through thin ice on a pond in the West End.

In Montreal Sunday night, Detective Sergeant Henri Farmer, 34, was killed, believed by shooting, at the rear of his home by burglars.

A double fatality took place Saturday in Compbellton, on New Brunswick's north shore, where police said Walter Doucet, 26, threw himself under a moving railway train after killing his wife with hammer blows.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, March 14

The indications, based on planetary aspects, are for a day of conflict and indecision, with the emotions, social instincts and impulses to generosity, nobility, congeniality and benevolence held in leash by a serious, conservative and rather static state of mind. All the expansive urges are to display, indulge, squander and seek exalted ambitions or objectives "in a big way!" These may be frustrated by an innate desire for safe and sane measures. Safeguard the possessions, be sure that all documents and agreements or writings are sound in purpose and clear in understanding. Refrain from all extravagances—in energy, time, funds.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of contradictory situations, with much conflict between the mental and emotional impulses. There is seen a definite desire to splurge, overspend or exhaust the resources of time, energy and funds, on "big deals" of unwarranted chances. But these may be hindered or frustrated by person limitations or conservatism, or may be due to censure or criticism of those whose endorsement is imperative. All documents and writings should be sound and safe, and the possessions as well as the reputation protected against loss or treachery. Preserve health and social and domestic well being.

A child born on this day may have extravagant and generous impulses with aims and ambitions beyond its means. A serious mentality could be directed into logical and safe channels and objectives.

Ontario House Starts Baby Hansard

TORONTO, March 13 —(CP)— The Ontario Legislature is keeping for the first time in its history or in the history of any Provincial House, a stenographic record of its proceedings, a "Baby Hansard."

Three shorthand reporters work in 45-minute shifts at a small desk in the centre of Legislature's high-walled, red-carpeted chamber, taking down proceedings. Speeches, motions, comment and all the cross-talk of the house, even to quip and "hear, hear" of members, go into the record.

When not taking shorthand in the house the reporters are in their third-floor office in the Legislative buildings, reading their notes into dictaphones, from which high-speed stenographers type the daily record.

Nine copies are made and distributed between the office of the Premier, the C.C.F. opposition, the Liberals and the two Labor-progressive members. Two copies go to the Legislative Library for the perusal of members. There they are also open to the general public.

The reporters have found a lot of wordage goes into the running of t he province's administrative affairs. With the throne speech debate on and some members speaking for almost two hours. They have been copying an average of 18,000 words in a three-hour sitting of the house. That means close to 36,000 words a day when the house sits at night.

It takes time to transcribe and record the proceedings. The recording staff can be found at the buildings just finishing up four hours after the House rises at 6 p.m. Night session notes are not completed on the stenographic record until late next day.

The "baby Hansard" was suggested by C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe outside the House. Premier Drew put the motion to the Legislature for retaining a court reporting firm for the purpose and the House agreed.

To the three court reporters who take it down—chief reporter A. G. Newel, C. C. Sturgeon and W. W. Perry—copying House proceedings is just another job, though rather unique

Grey and Vandyke-bearded Mr. Perry, oldest of the three, said he'll never see 80 again. He learned his shorthand as a boy and has been at it all his life and still sits in for his 45-minute shift declaring this is perhaps his most interesting reporting job.

"I like anything that's rough and tumble," he said.

Driver Pinned Beneath Load Of Girder Steel

PORT HOPE, March 13—(ENS)— Harry Blaney of Toronto was pinned under a load of girder steel in a week-end accident here when his truck was forced off the road and ended upside down on a lawn. Blaney was driving just north of the town when a car, driven by a reckless driver, forced him over on to the icy shoulder of the road. The truck went out of control, crashing into a tree and then piled up on the lawn of Asa Hurl's residence. The cab was crushed in by the weight of the girders and a tow truck was called to lift the load off in order to extricate the driver. Blaney was badly bruised and received a broken arm. Provincial police believe they have a clue to the identity of the missing automobile driver.

INTRODUCING SOMETHING NEW! — An experiment which may revolutionize British farming has been undertaken by scientists at the University Farm, Shinfield, Berkshire. The first batch of calves has been produced there by artificial semination. If these test tubes calves grow up into fine, sturdy cattle, working farmers in future will not keep their own bulls. Here we see Aragon Hecuba, Right, and Aragon Flora, two of the articially bred calves at a government sponsored university farm.

Firemen Drive Man To Fire At Own Home

COBOURG, March 13 (ENS) — Cobourg firemen gave a local resident a ride to his own fire on Sunday morning. Notified that a fire was at the residence of Abe Payne on Bay street, the fire brigade was just pulling out of the station when Fire Chief Jim Campbell spotted Abe Payne standing near the town hall.

"Come on, the fire is down at your house," Mr. Payne was told, and he jumped on to the truck. The blaze was caused by sparks from the chimney igniting the roof. Some damage was done.

Hatfield Hall Girls Give Goldsmith Play

COBOURG, March 13—(ENS)— Presented in aid of the school's charity fund, a five-act play was given by the senior girls of Hatfield Hall on Saturday. United Church W.M.S. To Pack Spring Bale

GORE'S LANDING, Mar. 13 — The W.M.S. of United church met last week at the home of the president, Mrs. Ames. After the opening service, a pre-Easter devotional on the Life of Christ was given by Mrs. Fisher. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $22.60. The correspondence secretary read a letter from Mrs. Calder, Presbyterial secretary.

All articles for the spring bale are to be brought in at the next meeting of the W.M.S. to be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. MacDonald. Miss J. Fowlie, Christian stewardship secretary, gave a reading and after the offering, a discussion was held by Mrs. Ames on "The Japanese Problem in Canada." The temperance secretary was asked to get copies of the new leaflet, "Guard Your Grey Cells."

Miss Flora MacDonald was group leader and a paper was given by Miss Bella Smart "My Personal Use of the Bible," in which poems and quotations from overseas ministers were used. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ray Ferguson and the study book, "For All of Life," by Miss MacDonald.

At the close of the meeting, the W.A. president, Mrs. Joseph Harris, arranged final plans for the St. Patrick's supper in the church hall on March 17 at 6.30.

Three-Act Comedy Presented By W.A.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 13 (ENS) —The play, "Tempest and Sunshine," sponsored by Group 1 of St. Stephen's Women's Association, drew a large attendance on Friday evening. The play was a three-act comedy drama with a cast of twelve all from the community, and comprised Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rannie, Mrs. John Rannie, Miss Elsie Rannie, Mrs. James Thompson, Miss Joyce Spencer, Kenneth Oddie, Miss Marian Oddie, Harold Milne, Stewart Milne, Mrs. Albert Jones, Jean Hume. The action all took place in a plantation in the Southern States with a plentiful supply of romance, humor, and fast repartee, which made for a fine evening's entertainment. Mrs. John Thompson acted as chairman and introduced the characters of the play. Mrs. J. R. Bick contributed an interlude of piano music at the opening of the program. Proceeds of the evening were approximately $35.00, which will be put into the W.A. funds.

Would Punish Parents For Delinquency

TORONTO, March 13—Adequate parental supervision would prevent much truancy, which is the beginning of juvenile delinquency, according to a recent report on delinquency in secondary schools prepared by a committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation's Toronto branch.

"Instead of forcing the child to appear in Juvenile Court we would suggest that the parent be summoned to court, and if found guilty of neglect in the case of his child's education a fine be imposed," the report said.

Two main types of pupils, those who lack interest in school work because of irregular attendance and lack of moral support at home, and those in the lower intelligence level, supply a large percentage of the delinquent element.

Makes Suggestion

For the first group, usually told by parents that they can leave school at 16, the report suggested instruction of pupils in the place and importance of the home and family life, and of parents in the value of education.

"Failure in examinations and legal compulsion rather than educational or vocational interests causes them to remain in school. Often disciplinary troubles with teachers or attendance officers increases their dissatisfaction and minimizes their interest in school work. The cause for their truancy lies mainly in the home."

To keep the second group of lower intelligence in regular attendance, the report suggested extension of work done in handicraft schools, where instruction is regulated to mental capacity.

A decrease in truancy, noted during the past year by a majority of principals, was attributed by several principals to increase in number of permits granted pupils under 16, enabling them to leave school and work.

"Fourteen of our 20 secondary school principals agree that it is invariably the poor student who applies for and secures the work permit. One principal refuses to sign any work permits, and reports that her pupils' attitude and attendance are better because they are not jealous of other girls who get permits. One principal said it was better for a 15-year-old backward student to go to work rather than to remain at school wasting his or her time.

"This great increase in permits, mostly to poorly adjusted students, would seem to indicate that many of our students are unable to get the type of education suited to their abilities."

Machinery Seen Too Slow

Machinery for enforcement of the School Attendance and Adolescent School Acts was regarded by some principals as being too slow.

A principal of a technical school says: "When a boy is reported away from school, it is possibly 10 days before the attendance department of the Board of Education goes through its routine and gets him back to school. He is woefully behind in his work. This is enough to discourage him, and he goes away again. Then they bring him back. When he is finally taken to court he is considered a first offender and given another chance. This is useless. He has already an established record, and should be dealt with as such."

Overcrowding and inadequate staffing and equipment of training schools and detention homes limit juvenile court action in many cases, the report added.

"Gangster radio and movie programs" were listed as factors contributing to delinquency. Other factors were broken homes, father in the army, mother working, poor housing, poor health and bad companions.

On the Federation committee which drew up the report were: John McIntosh, Jarvis School for Boys; George Macdonald, Western Technical-Commercial School; Mary Mallon, Northern Vocational School; Edith Oliphant, Bolton Ave. School, and Earl Strong, Harbord Collegiate.

Stole From R.C.A.F.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 13—(CP) — A charge of receiving supplies stolen from the R.C.A.F. was dismissed Saturday after perliminary hearing of Hector Mann, Sydney wholesaler. Joe Walker, was committed for Supreme Court trial on a similar charge.

The charges were laid following an investigation that resulted in the arrests of 16 members of the R.C.A.F. stationed near here, who were alleged to have stolen Air Force provisions and sold them. A dozen of the men pleaded guilty.

OBITUARY

REV. GORDON R. DUNCAN.

WARKWORTH, March 13. — (ENS.)—Rev. Gordon Ross Duncan, B.A., B.D., of Drayton, passed away recently. He had been confined to a hospital in Guelph for several months suffering from a stroke. A former pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, he was here for twelve years. In July 1940 he went to Drayton and while there he was pastor of Knox Presbyterian church and St. Andrew's church at Moorefield.

Rev. Duncan, who was in his sixty-seventh year, was a son of the late R. B. Duncan and Rachael Mustard and was born in Gormley, Ont. He was a graduate of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Toronto, and he spent some time as chemist with a leading pharmaceutical laboratory in Detroit, Mich., and later moved to Montreal, Que., where for three years he studied at the Art College. Later answering a call to the ministry he graduated from McGill University. He was ordained at Bishop's Mills in 1911. He also preached at Ste. Therese and St. Cuthbert's church, Montreal. While he was in this village he was clerk of the Peterborough Presbytery and since going to Drayton he had been clerk of Saugeen Presbytery.

His wife, the former Anne Graham, of Thessalon, a native of Mount Forest, predeceased him sixteen years ago. Rev. Duncan had travelled widely in Canada and had prepared several series of lantern slides which he developed and hand-colored and took delight in showing. A talented artist and photographer he had hung in Knox church a piece of art containing pictures of all the boys in the congregation serving with the forces.

Rev. Duncan took an active part in the Boys' Club, the Red Cross Society, Victory Loan campaign, and was one of the religious instructors at Drayton Public school. He was a member of the Royal Arch Masons, Conestogo Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and the Eastern Star Drayton, and while in Quebec he had been grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of that province.

The funeral service was held in Knox church, Drayton. After resting at the E. S. Morgan funeral parlours, the remains were removed on Tuesday, March 7th to Stouffville, where a service was held in St. James church.

He is survived by one sister, Annie B. Duncan, who had lived with hm for several years. Interment was in Melville cemetery.

Without PAY or GLORY
the army of
RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS
carries on!

WITHOUT a host of volunteers there could be no Canadian Red Cross—and only the Red Cross can do Red Cross work,

Last year, millions of food parcels for prisoners of war were packed by these Red Cross workers. They made tons of surgical dressings for overseas use. They cut and sewed millions of garments and accessories for dressing stations, for hospitals, for civilian relief work. Yet they ask no pay. Their only reward is the grateful prayers that rise from a thousand Red Cross outposts.

The dawn of Victory in Europe has intensified the need for Red Cross supplies. Suffering mounts daily as war spreads. Support the Red Cross volunteers in this unselfish work. Give liberally.

Canada's Naval Record

We may all be proud of Canada's naval record, as it was set forth in the Hon. Angus Macdonald's speech in the House of Commons last Thursday. Until 1940 Canada was not in the least a sea-going country; we had our fishing fleets, of course, and we had a Navy, too, but it was so small that it was more useful as a vaudeville joke than for any other purpose. Now, Mr. Macdonald tells us, we have 250 fighting ships and more than 450 other vessels; we have a Navy engaging almost 80,000 people, and 40 per cent. of these are at sea. That is a great change in a short time, and surely Canada will never fall back into her old landlubber ways. We can find plenty of work for a Navy in peacetime, and it may not be safe to be without one in future.

With the growth of the Navy, our ability to build ships has increased. When we began making ships for war we had to import more than half the materials which were used; now we build and equip ships almost to the last detail; the naval vessels which are built in Canadian yards are about 95 per cent. Canadian in equipment and workmanship. And as well as the ships which we have built for our own Navy we have built very nearly 100 for Britain, and have a greater number on order.

The Canadian Navy has done excellent work in protecting merchant shipping; convoy work is dull and onerous most of the time, but at any moment it may call for quick and decisive action. Our ships have convoyed almost 50,000 vessels, all told, and has lost only four of them; we have had revenge for the losses, however, in full measure, for our Navy has destroyed eight U-boats and has also seven 'doubtfuls' on its list.

Peterborough people should be especially interested in the Royal Canadian Navy, for we believe that this city has sent more young men to that service than any other inland town of its size in the Dominion. Our own sailors were with the Navy in the Aleutian operation, in the invasions of North Africa and Sicily, and in the hard work on the Atlantic. We have cause to be especially proud of the Navy, for its ships carry so many men who are our own.

Is This Bill Needed?

The Legislature will consider this session a bill which provides stiff penalties for any person or organization publishing material reflecting on any race or creed. Obviously the purpose of the bill is to put down anti-Semitism, which appears to be growing in Canada; there are always a great many people who must have something to hate, and the Jew is a traditional scapegoat. But we wonder whether the bill would achieve its purpose if the Legislature accepted it?

We are almost afraid that it would have an effect exactly contrary to that which is intended. For the Legislature to extend obvious protection to Jews would merely add fuel to the flame of those who hate them. The cure for anti-Semitism is in education, and particularly, we feel, in religious education of the best sort. Hatred of Jews thrives among the frustrated, the ignorant, the superstitious and the constitutionally malignant; such people are robbed of half their power when they are ignored. The Jews, like other races, have their disagreeable characteristics, and when education to combat anti-Semitism is being handed out, they should not be overlooked; indeed, Jewish organizations could do an excellent work by encouraging their members to narrow the breach existing between themselves and the most desirable type of Gentile.

The weakness of the bill, we feel, lies in the difficulty of saying what reflects on another race or creed, and what does not. It would be a pity, certainly, if the Catholic and Protestant Truth Societies were not able to dispute without fear of the law. And it can be maintained that the objectionable aspect of any creed can only be pointed out by reflecting upon it with the utmost vigour. Religious controversy is healthiest when there is plenty of hard hitting.

And speaking of hard hitting, the anti-Semitic forces would not survive long if they attempted to slug it out with the Jews in public controversy, either through the press or on the public platform. It is characteristic of that repulsive movement, however, that it never comes into the light, and hates a fair fight.

A Leaf From Churchill's Book

Language is a living thing, and because it lives it must change and grow. But it need not change for the worse, and it need not grow rank. In the English-speaking world there are far too many conscienceless scoundrels who use the excuse that our language is a growing thing to slick over their lingual offensiveness. To those who really love and revere the language it is a matter of the highest good fortune that Winston Churchill, while fighting the war for freedom, has not surrendered his rank as a general in the great Word War. The Ottawa Journal, itself a tireless fighter in the Word War, wonders what Churchill would think of "finalize", which it describes as "that awful product of Canadian officialdom". And it rebukes those economists who cloak their meaning—obscure enough in most cases—in tawdry neologisms and gimcrack scraps of language.

This is a complaint which cannot be made too often until officials drop officialese and learn to write English. Believe it or not, English is easier to understand, though not so easy to write, and there is always a type of mind which is beglamoured by "finalize this commitment", and will not give it up for "end this job".

During the past few weeks we have seen the word "disinterested" misused in print on more than half a dozen occasions. The word means "unbiassed by personal interest," and not merely "uninterested". The Speaker of the House of Commons, for instance, presides as a disinterested official, and he is always disinterested, although he may occasionally also be uninterested. We wish that people who put their opinions before the public, in whatever capacity, would take a leaf from Mr. Churchill's book, and develop a vocabulary upon which they can depend to carry them through the expression of an idea without shame or disaster.

Laughter Silenced

Two once-popular American humourists died on Friday last; they are Irvin S. Cobb and Joseph C. Lincoln. Of the two Cobb was undoubtedly the greater figure (in every sense of the word) but Lincoln had a large following and he gave pleasure to hundreds of thousands of readers. A Massachusetts man, he laid the scene of most of his novels near Cape Cod, and he made conventionally pleasing stories vehicles for Cape Cod caricatures and Cape Cod wit. If his readers formed their ideas of Cape Cod upon the novels of Lincoln they must certainly have thought that the whole population of the district consisted of young lovers, eccentric old maids, and witty old fishermen. But although he wrote to a formula, Lincoln's books were always fresh and pleasing.

Cobb was a sort of demigod among newspapermen. Gross and lethargic in appearance, he was a man of extremely quick intellect, and was undoubtedly the best news reporter on this continent in his day. There was a richness and style about Cobb's best work which modern war correspondents may regard with envy. Cobb was probably at his best when reporting murder trials; he had an ability to make clear to his readers the most tangled evidence, without suppression or distortion.

We wrote many works of fiction, but his best books were those about himself. His recollections of his reporting days, called Stickfuls, is one of his most characteristic writings. It will surprise no one who has read Cobb's books that he did not want a conventional funeral; he was anything but a conventional man. His ashes will be used to fertilize a tree in his native Paducah; may it long be green!

NOTE AND COMMENT

A report from Stockholm says that war maps have been banned from the German press. And in future it will be illegal to remind Germans of where Berlin used to be.

As a means of decreasing juvenile delinquency a metropolitan daily suggests "hot meals at school". We do not follow this reasoning very closely, but we presume that the theory is that a torpid child is a good child.

Mr. Bracken chides the Prime Minister by saying that he "is apt to regard his power to call an election or prolong the life of the Government as a convenient instrument with which to confound his political opponents". This is like saying that a commander-in-chief is apt to use his air forces to rattle the enemy.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE British Minister of Agriculture has promised that at an early date he will bring up the problems of post-war farming for discussion in the British House of Commons, and we in Canada will await with very keen interest the announcements of policy that shall be made. We know that large subsidies are being paid in Britain now on almost all foods grown on the land. We also know that there is not a little discussion taking place as to the conditions under which imported foods will be permitted to enter Britain. I do not think there will be any possibility of a tariff being placed upon imported food but there may be some regulations governing such importations. Canada is vitally interested, for by all means our largest purchaser of wheat, beef, bacon, cheese and wool is Britain, and she is a potential purchaser for exports we might have in tobacco, lamb and butter. With the whole world hungry there is no immediate danger about markets, but plans covering a long term may be made and these will have a very important bearing on our future.

We, in Canada, are proposing some floor prices for farm products and these need to be carefully laid or somebody may get 'slivers' in his hands as he puts them down. As proposals come before the British House of Commons, I will endeavor to keep track of them. The National Farmers' Union in England is having a stand-up fight with the Minister of Agriculture over there just now.

A GROUP of Canadian farmers, interested in improved pastures and hayfields, should arrange at the earliest possible date and make an importation of small quantities of grass seed from England. Prices are now almost prohibitive, but if a few pounds were brought over and multiplied here, it would be all to the good. The leafy varieties of timothy and orchard grass and S.100 white clover would make a good start. A scarcity of seed, such as we have here now, usually results in the use of inferior seed and a good deal of trash that will not improve our grass fields which, important though they are now, are going to be of more consequence to our future farming than ever before.

FARM machinery is likely to see some changes in the near future. English farmers are pointing out that over half the farms in that country are between 25 and 100 acres and they want a tractor, not as cumbersome as a "crawler" and without the defects of the rubber and large steel-tired types. A Kent farmer suggests something on the lines of the Bren gun-carrier, or small Jeep, that a 100-acre farmer will be able to purchase. A prominent National Farmers' Union man says that the family farm in England is going to come to electricity, as a solution of its power problems. I am still of the opinion that the horse has not lost its usefulness, though the cost of keeping a horse in Britain is not a small item.

THERE is a fair depth of snow in almost every sugar-bush in Ontario just now, and storms in the Maritimes and Quebec have brought snow enough to improve the prospects for a run of sap, so maple syrup will not likely be on the famine list, as it was last year, which will please a good few people who have a sweet tooth for the products of the maple tree. I must confess that I miss maple sugar in the spring, if it is not fairly plentiful. Our Pure Food Laws in Canada have preserved the purity of maple sugar and maple syrup as it is not done in any other country. One has only to taste the sort of mixture they serve in many hotels in the United States, as maple syrup, to realize the value of laws that keep this delicious complement to pancakes in its purest form. There are few substitutes for foods as easily detected as spurious maple syrup. The change in rationing which enables manufacturers of maple syrup to sell direct to consumers at the full retail price is a good move. The farmer who goes to the bush to gather sap and boil it down earns the full retail price, and should get it.

THE future size of our farms in Canada is a much discussed question just now. Farming, like other occupations, must fit the individual. All doctors cannot be eminent surgeons nor can every merchant succeed in building a department store. There are many phases of farming to study; an eminent breeder of livestock develops gradually, but the farmer who is most likely to succeed is the man who not only learns the business of the trading it involves and the science of the land, but who gets a grasp of the "Art and Mystery" of Agriculture. The young man who has a taste for this way of life and gets a good start on 50 or 100 acres of land will make his way, barring calamities, or else he is in the wrong occupation.

FARMERS should obtain certified seed potatoes to plant this spring, and should carefully inform themselves as to when and how they should spray for blight. Certified seed may be located through your Agricultural Representative; also information about spraying. These are services that this official can effectively render in his country. There have been suggestions recently that farms should be secured for District Agricultural Representatives to operate. Such a plan does not seem to me to be either practical or reasonable. This man has a full-time job now if he keeps at it, and operating a farm would be another full-time occupation; yet we talk about fewer hours of work. These District men can be kept busy in a useful way if they are as interested in assisting the farmers who have many difficulties, as they are in visiting the more prosperous ones,—and they mostly are.

A. P. H.'s Latest

(London Daily Herald)

A few days ago when Petty Officer A. P. Herbert was attending a charity function, he was asked for his autograph by a young girl. The senior burgess for Oxford University promptly extemporized the following in her book:

"Be good, sweet maid, and, if you can, be clever.
Or better still, just leave it to the gods.
The chances are you won't be either, ever.
So what's the odds?"

'Sorry, Darling'

"I have at last discovered the drill for dealing with one's snoring fellow men," announces a writer in a recent issue of the Lancet. "It worked with a brigadier with whom I shared a hayloft during an exercise."

"Say, very quietly and persuasively, 'You are making a noise, darling,' and the offender grunts, 'Eh? Oh, sorry, darling!' rolls over and pipes down without awakening. It works every time."—Answers.

ADOLF FINDS A FRIEND —By Rube Goldberg

Father of the Symphony Orchestra

IN the year 1740, when Johann Sebastian Bach was wrestling with the difficulties that beset the cantor of a school full of rowdy boys, there was a certain eight-year-old peasant lad whom he would have delighted to add to his choir. At that time the boy was just entering the choir of St. Stephen's Cathedral in Vienna....

At St. Stephen's Haydn's life was similar to that of Bach's youngsters at St. Thomas's. In exchange for their work in the choir the boys were boarded, lodged, and taught the elements of catechism, Latin and singing. They also learned, at the hard workbench of experience, that churches supported by municipalities were generally pinched for funds; and that economizing meant short rations and hunger for the boys. To gain a little extra money for an occasional square meal they were permitted to sing in street serenades, at banquets, and in the homes of the wealthy and noble, where they often filled the double role of choirist and scullery helper. Thus Haydn's first hearing of chamber and symphonic music, upon which he was to exert so profound an influence, was probably gained (as one of his biographers has remarked) "while he was running with an armful of plates from the kitchen to the dining room, in the mansion of some great nobleman."...

He did not waste time arguing with his own fate. Calmly, uncomplainingly he went through life, one of the most industrious, orderly, and good-natured of men. He was never proud; the most menial position meant for him not a degradation but an opportunity by which he might move upward. He had health, serenity of soul, and the inward driving force of genius. For him these were the ingredients of happiness....

Haydn produced some of the most beautifully wrought music in existence. He also proved himself one of the most original creative artists of his time, whose inventions were to affect all music and musicians for the next two hundred years. Haydn himself said, "My prince was always satisfied with my work. Not only had I the encouragement of his constant approval, but being at the head of an orchestra entirely under my orders, I was able to make experiments and try effects. Cut off from the rest of the world, I had nothing to worry about, and I was compelled to be original."

His greatest work was done in connection with the symphony orchestra, of which he has always been known as the father.—From "The Stream of Music," by Richard Anthony Leonard.

The Forbidden City Under The Snow

PERHAPS, I thought, by trying to picture to myself Peking and its surroundings as a whole, roughly sketching in as well as I am able the background and the foreground, it may be possible to identify this curious sense of a familiarity with similar conditions?

Here was a huge city, a great metropolis set in a gold and sepia plain which extended to the shadow of lovely, blue hills lying light as veined bubbles upon the horizon. Their steep slopes were covered with temples, many of the smaller ones now converted into country-houses for summer use by Europeans resident in Peking.

I have been fortunate enough to see the Forbidden City under snow, and it was a sight unforgettably lovely. The huge buildings floated on clouds, were born up by them, like the Hospital of St. John the Baptist (the only building said to have been designed by El Greco himself) in the master's famous picture of Toledo and the landscape surrounding it. The glory that shone from the ground (for it seemed now as if more light came up from the earth than down from the sky) imparted a brilliance beyond belief to the interiors, to the great read pillars, up the length of which golden dragons clawed their way, to doors and frescoed walls; and still more glittering was it outside, where it reverberted up against the flashing eaves which supported the quilted tents of snow covering the roofs. Below, the white terraces were now whiter still, beneath their soft loads of swansdown: and this expanse of whiteness still further exaggerated the size of hall and of court. Even the moats beyond were padded out of sight, the canals extinguished; and in the gardens, the dark foliage of cypress and cedar made startling patterns, of lace and fans and cubist needles, over the light ground. From the walk round the top of the Guard-House, floating high above walls and roof — a walk like that in the gallery of an Italian Romanesque cathedral, just wide enough for one person—the more distant towers and gateways of the Forbidden City appeared sombre and isolated by this whiteness....But astonishing as were the reversals of appearance undergone by the great buildings, it was the delicacy of the nearer details that, by this new emphasis placed upon them, triumphed; the flowers painted upon a shutter, the bird or crag upon a panel, were now luminous and melting as the snow itself.—From "Escape With Me! An Oriental Sketch-Book," by Osbert Sitwell.

Religious Instruction In Schools

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THERE is trouble brewing in British Columbia over a bill introduced by Minister of Education Perry. Mr. Perry's bill states that all British Columbia public schools shall be opened by the reading, without explanation, a passage of Scripture to be followed by the recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

The churches of British Columbia applauded the bill, but we are told many teachers protested. The Vancouver News-Herald, Vancouver's only morning newspaper, voiced strong objections to the Bill, and stated:

"A pagan has as much right to his religious convictions as any of the innumerable varieties of Christian, and he has a perfect right to protest vehemently against his money (paid in taxes) being used to disseminate a religion to which he is opposed."

The matter of religious instruction in the public schools has also become an issue in Ontario, for Premier Drew has announced his Government's intention to include Bible study in the Ontario school curriculum.

What a habit history has of repeating itself. About every generation this question has to be fought out. So far as The Whig-Standard is concerned, we are against religious instruction in the public schools for various reasons. Many teachers are quite unqualified to teach religion to children. We have never been able to square in our own mind the idea of forcing religious instruction on the children of all and sundry, just because we have the power to do it, with the Biblical injunction to do unto others as we would be done by. If we do have religious instruction in our public schools, we should also have a proviso allowing any child to absent himself (or herself) on written instructions to the teacher from the parents.

If we are really fighting, among other things, for freedom of worship, then we must realise that that does not necessarily mean "Christian worship," much as we believe in the teachings of Jesus Christ. Canada is a Christian country and Ontario is a Christian province, but if we are true Christians, we will respect the rights of our fellow-citizens, whether they be Hebrews, Buddhists, atheists, Mohammendans, Hindus or followers of Confucius. We may feel that they are wrong and that they are missing much joy, inspiration and comfort, but nevertheless, if we are fair, we must respect their views.

In Kingston the problem seems to have been satisfactorily solved for some time through the kindness of the Ministerial Alliance. If we are to have religious instruction in our public schools, by all means let us have it given by men specially qualified for the task, but do not let us force it on children whose parents object, just because we have the power to do so.

A man had been endeavoring to write a telegram with a pen provided by the post office. After two or three ineffectual starts, he turned to the woman behind the counter and said: "Is this by any chance the pen used by King John at the signing of Magna Charta?"

The official replied: "Inquiries on the right, please."

A Bible Message

God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God. (Ps. 62: 11.)

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the uprighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it....

Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the Lord for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off. (Isa. 55: 6-11, 13.)

For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end. Then shall ye call upon me, and ye shall go and pray unto me, and I will hearken unto you. And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart. (Jer. 29: 11-13.)

Letters To The Editor

OPPOSES PARK

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In reading your issue of March 1 I notice in your paper a letter from our member, Mr. Harold Scott, regarding a park in the northern part of Peterborough County. He asks people to write letters so as to get public opinion on this park idea.

Now I am a land owner living on highway 28, six miles north of Burleigh Falls, part of my land would be in the area proposed for a national park.

It has already been stated in your columns as to how people in this district feel as to another park and what affect it might have on them. But no one has mentioned that the present Peterborough game preserve is doing very nicely so far as stocking wild life in this section of the county.

If we had a national park west of highway 28, I think life would be just a little too wild to suit the average person, at any rate if the wolves made their home in the park too.

I think if there were some cross-roads put through the Peterborough game preserve people could travel through there and see wild life in their natural haunts just as well as in a national park on the opposite side of the highway.

I have spoken to a lot of people who would be affected by this proposed park, and I have yet to meet one who is in favour of it.

I would suggest the Hon. W. G. Thompson take no action until such time as he has received all the petitions in opposition to this park and they will speak for themselves. I thank you,

THEO. WILSON.

Haultain.

Unconsidered Trifles

A billposter parked his motorvan and set out on some local jobs. As he was returning he saw a man steal a gasoline can from the back of his vehicle and bolt with it.

Naturally, he gave chase, but before he could reach the thief, the contents of the can had been shot into the tank of a car.

On being challenged, the thief tried to bluff that he had just bought the gasoline.

"Gasoline be blowed!" cried the billposter. "That was my reserve supply of paste."

The vocalist at a camp concert seemed to have an endless repertoire. The fact that his voice was obviously beginning to grate on the audience did not deter him in the least.

At last, one exasperated listener shouted: "Hi! d'you know 'The Long, Long Trail'?"

"Why, yes," replied the vocalist, proudly. "Shall I sing it?"

"No," quickly came the reply, "hit it!"

Churchill Tea At Y.W.C.A. Well Patronized

The appeal for the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund at the tea held Saturday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. was well supported. The room was filled at all times, and the assistants were kept busy serving gusts. The large silver canserving guests. The large silver centred the tea table, and was flanked with twin pairs of silver candlesticks, also set with green tapers. The centrepiece was surrounded with a fringe of smilax, and large silver tea urns were set at either end. The green and silver effect was striking, since the table was laid with a fine linen cloth and silver dishes.

Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner and Miss Laura Davidson poured tea. Tearoom assistants were: Mrs. W. M. Lauder, Mrs. C. Collins, Mrs. A. Sollitt, Mrs. H. J. Foote, Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. F. E. Johnston, Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. H. Clegg, Mrs. S. L. Smoke, Mrs C B. Waite, Mrs. G A Gillespie, Mrs. A. Moir, Miss O. Johnston and Miss M. McIntosh, with Mrs. F. D. Kerr as social convener. Mrs. I. T. Lillico and Mrs. G. S. Matthews were in charge of the tea table.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. J. R. Marshall and Mrs. H. Paige Rowell. Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. T. J. Carley and Miss M. Munro were in charge of the sale of tickets on the silver teapot, the Kenwood blanket and the tablecloth, for which the draw was made during the afternoon. Mrs. F. D. Kerr won the teapot, Mrs. F. A. Cuddy of Whitby won the Kenwood blanket and Miss A. Brown, 443 Park street, won the cloth. All prizes were donated. A donation of $75 from the Friday Night Supper Club and a donation of $10 from the Business and Professional Women's Club, as well as several personal donations received during the afternoon, went to swell the fund.

Members of the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund committee were pleased with the generous response to their appeal, and were sure that the Peterborough allocation went over the top. Members of the committee are: Mrs. T. J. Carley, Mrs. J. R. Marshall, Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. G. S. Matthews, Mrs. G. Hutchings, Mrs. S. Goldstone and Mrs. H. Paige Rowell.

81 Hostesses On Canteen Duty

A large number of soldiers from the Training Centre was entertained Sunday afternoon and evening in the Uptown Recreation Centre by the Sunday Canteen Girls. Games and community singing, with Barbara Nicholls, Mrs. C. Norman and Jimmy Abraham at the piano, were the order of the day, and a sacred singsong was conducted in the evening. Doughnuts and coffee were served during the afternoon by the hostesses.

Hostesses were as follows: Helen Lytle, Bernice Hillier, Helen Peel, Ruth Rody, Pearl Foster, Muriel Crouter, Nan O'Toole, Jean Whatley, Joan Alexander, Loretta Condon, Sylvia Fine, Yetta Fine, Pearl Sanders, Ruth Sedore, Florence Hanwell, Estelle Collins, Eleanor Craig, Betty Goldie, Marjorie Goldie, Marion Weaver, Pat Mackey, Jean Ball, Gladys Perritt, Levine Riel, Dorothy Pearson, Muriel Genge, Maye Lambert, Joan Pitchford, Jean Cranfield, Jean Munro, Gertrude Rose, Jean Elcome, Ella Foley, Joyce Harris, Thelma Howell, Eleanor Jobbitt, Irma Lorenz, Beverly Miller, Barbara Nicholls, Rita Neill, Dorothy Pearson, Beatrice Parsons, June Pidgeon, Barbara Rome, Margaret Wright, Isobel Weaver, Lily Houghton, Peggy Houghton, Lillian Weiss, Marie Youdell, Eleanor Brown, Frances Brooks, Florence Boyer, Helen Boyer, Anne Cairns, Dorothy Cathcart, Lemoine Cooke, Bunny Goulah, Frances Haines, Ruth Hawthorne, Margaret Hope, Mary Hendron, Betty Holbrook, Rita Lorenz, Elva Lowry, Ferne Lacey, Jena Musclaw, Adele McCarthy, Joyce McDougall, Beth Melrose, Dorothy Moore, Yvonne McAuliffe, Muriel Miles, Betty Primeau, Lucy Rochetta, Mary Stevenson, Jean Shearer, June Tarkington, Jean Tarkington, June Brisco, Irma Perdue.

Floris MacMullan Becomes Bride Of Lt. MacKenzie

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13 — (ENS).—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a lovely wedding here on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, when Floris Geraldine MacMullan, Front Street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William MacMullan of Campbellford, became the bride of Lieutenant Malcom MacKenzie, Pembroke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William MacKenzie, Bayview Farm, Seymour West. Rev. B. Simpson Black of Toronto conducted the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. O. Ralston, which took place before a bank of tulips, daffodils, carnations and fern. During the signing of the register Mrs. Jack Cowell sang "Because," while Mrs. T. McNeice played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James McMullen, Booth Street, wore a lovely floor-length gown of sheer and suede lace over taffeta with long full sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her finger-tip veil was of white net with scalloped edge and formed a halo. Her only jewellery was a double strand pearl necklace and she carried red roses and baby's breath.

Her attendants were Miss Chrissie MacKenzie, a sister of the groom, and Miss Isobel Irwin, a cousin of the bride. Miss MacKenzie wore a floor-length gown of mauve point d'esprit with matching cap and shoulder-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Irwin's gown was cut on similar lines but of yellow point d'esprit, and she carried Talisman roses. Mr. William MacKenzie, a brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Jack Cowell and Alex. MacKenzie.

Following the ceremony a reception for about thirty guests was held at Woodlawn Inn. Here Mrs. Robert MacDonald, an aunt of the bride, received wearing a navy blue crepe with black accessories and corsage of roses. She was assisted by Mrs. William MacKenzie, who chose black crepe with matching accessories and corsage of roses.

Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and other points, and for travelling the bride donned a two-piece black tailored suit with light blue flower trimmed hat and corsage of sweetpeas and roses. Her gloves were white and she carried a black leather handbag. On their return they will make their home in Campbellford.

McMullen-Smith Vows Pledged

HAVELOCK, March 13.—(ENS).—A pretty wedding was solemnized in Anglican church, Toronto, on Saturday, when Enid Mabel Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, was united in marriage to Thomas Lloyd McMullen, son of Mrs. Arthur McMullen and the late Mr. McMullen of Havelock, with Rev. J. Bracken officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length shell pink sheer frock, with shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nora Smith, wearing a sky blue sheer dress, with matching hat and veil, and carrying a bouquet of Bettertime roses. The groom was supported by William Drysdale of Toronto.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about fifty guests when a buffet luncheon was served. The bride's mother received the guests, wearing an air-force blue sheer dress with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a black sheer dress and accessories and a corsage of Premier roses. Later the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a brown wool ensemble with a muskrat coat. They will reside in Toronto.

Edith Gillibrand Weds John R. Scrutton

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13—(ENS)—Christ Church, Campbellford, was the scene of a pretty church wedding at 4:30 on Saturday afternoon when Edith May Gillibrand, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gillibrand, Front street, became the bride of Able Seaman, First Class, John Robert Sutton of H.M.C.S. Iroquois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutton, River Road, Campbellford. Rev. G. W. Lennox officiated and the altar of the church was decorated with yellow and pink tulips and daffodils. Miss Gertrude Maynard played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Mr. Fred Stephenson of Hamilton sang "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white sheer over taffeta with long full sleeves and high neckline. Her shoulder length veil was caught with a halo of orange blossoms and she carried red roses and baby's breath. Miss Alice Sutton, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid in a floor length gown of white net over taffeta with blue accessories, and her shoulder length veil was held in place by a halo of gardenia. Sgt. Robert Gillibrand, a brother of the bride, assisted the groom, and the ushers were Able Seaman James Hamilton and Sgt. Pilot Peter Winstanley.

Following the cermony a reception was held at Woodlawn Inn, where the bride's mother received, wearing sage green with brown accessories and corsage of roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Walter Sutton, who chose brown crepe with accessories of matching shade and corsage of tea roses. Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Peterborough, Toronto and Hamilton. For travelling the bride donned a fawn coat with fox furs over a two-piece brown wool suit and corsage of roses. On their return they will make their home in Campbellford.

Work In India Of Buchanans Outlined To WMS

The misionary work of Rev. John and Mrs. Buchanan among the Bhil people in India was described by Mrs. W. Steinkraus to the members of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Presbytreian Church, at a regular meeting of the Society, held in the guild room.

The speaker explained that Rev. and Mrs. Buchanan left Montreal in 1888 to carry out a three-fold plan for their work in India. The first step in their plan was the work in the schools, where cleanliness was taught. The second was the evangelistic work—the teaching of Christ and His works—and the third was the medical work.

Mrs. Steinkraus explained that disease was, and continues to be, very prevalent in India, and showed the difficulties of customs and ancient religions which had to be surmounted. Great famines frequently occurred, she continued, and the people, in their need, turned to the missionaries for help. The schools started by Rev. Buchanan and his wife helped the children to undertand the need for reform, and the hospitals they built looked after the sick. Nursing homes were also started, where mothers could learn how to care for their babies.

Through these channels of service, the faith of the people in these missionaries was built up, and they instinctively turned to them for help and guidance. Most of them became interested in teaching the Bible, and a great many of them trained as Bible teachers. Hostels, which were really boarding schools, were opened for boys and girls, Mrs. Steinkraus went on, and they helped a great deal in the promotion of Christian work.

"John Buchanan still lives among his beloved Bhil people," concluded Mrs. Steinkraus, "and with his daughter, Ruth, carried on his good work. In memory of her mother, Ruth Buchanan has written a book entitled "My Mother," and in it she pays tribute to one who through the year, was strong in love and faith and prayer."

Mrs. F. Board was soloist for the afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. D. T. Diplock, and the meeting adjourned after a vote of thanks to the speaker and the soloist. Mrs. E. H. Howson presided.

Mrs. Bickersteth In 90th Year

Mrs. J. Bickersteth, Anson street, is observing her nintieth birthday today. Although she is at present in Nicholls Hospital for a rest, Mrs. Bickersteth has always enjoyed good health, and her faculties are keen. Born in Dublin, Ireland, she came out to Canada in 1912, after the death of her husband, and has lived in Peterborough since that time.

She has three daughters and one son living. They are Mrs. F. B. McKnight, of Richmond Hill; Mrs. T. Tooms, of Toronto; Mrs. C. J. Seymour, of Peterborough; and Mr. J. B. Bickersteth, of Flint, Michigan. Another daughter, Mrs. F. S. Schoales, of Peterborough, died in 1925. There are 17 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Several relatives and friends of Mrs. Bickersteth are planning to visit her today, and she has already received many birthday greetings and presents.

Trinity Choir Is Heard In 'Elijah'

The Trinity United Church choir, under the direction of Miss Mabel Clarry, organist, presented a choral service on Sunday evening when the members of the choir were heard in excerpts from Part II. of Mendelssohn's Elijah. G. McHenry, in a fine baritone voice, took the part of Elijah; H. Wright, tenor, was in fine voice and sang the recitative parts. The solo parts of the two angels were very credibly sung by Miss Alma Blanchard, contralto, and Miss Margaret Westbye, soprano, with the entire choir joining in for the choruses.

Versatile Biscuits

Be the talk of the neighbourhood with Biscuits that are Savoury or Sweet

Sometimes it is a problem to know just what to serve after the Red Cross or church war-group meeting, especially as you can't use too much sugar or butter, these rationed days. I have found that biscuit pinwheels are the answer to many a housewife's prayers. These pinwheels can be savoury or sweet and of course left-over dough may be used for anything from topping for a meat pie to base for a shortcake. Here is a basic recipe.

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 4 tsps. baking powder
- ½ tsp. salt
- 3 to 5 tbsps. chilled Silverleaf Lard
- about ⅔ cup milk.

Measure flour and sift with baking powder and salt. Cut in Lard finely, using 2 knives or pastry blender. Gradually add enough milk to make a dough which, though soft is NOT sticky. Turn onto slightly floured board and knead with fingertips for 10 seconds. Roll to rectangle ¼ to ⅓ inch thick. Spread with desired filling, roll up like jelly roll, dampening edges to seal well and cut in slices ¾ to 1 inch thick. Bake with cut sides down. Bake in muffin tins to retain shape.

TASTY FILLINGS FOR PINWHEELS

1. Spread oblong of dough with a meat or fish paste, sprinkle with chopped pickle, olives or pimento. Roll, slice and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees.
2. Spread dough with 3 tbsps. butter blended with ½ cup brown sugar (nutmeats too, if desired). Roll, slice and bake at 425 degrees.
3. Cover rectangle of dough with shredded cheese, paprika or mustard; chopped sardines, broken nutmeats, chopped pimento, green pepper or olives, are good too with cheese. Bake at 425 degrees. Serve hot.

C.G.E. Defeats Orphans 58-33 In First Game

With Joe Stewart spear-heading the attack and racking up 30 points in one of his best scoring efforts of the season, C.G.E. got the jump on Pete McArthur's Orphans in the first game of the best-of-three series for the City Basketball League championship at the Y.M.C.A., winning in convincing style by 58 to 33.

The Electricians were in front practically all the way. In a free-scoring first half they led the Orphans 38 to 28 and continued to build up their lead after the rest by scoring 20 more points while the Orphan attack bogged down so badly that the losers only scored five points in the second half.

Stewart broke loose for basket after basket, and in addition set up scoring plays for his teammates. McCuaig and Keegan helping the C.G.E. cause along by contributing 10 points each. Pete McArthur set the pace for his team by notching 11 points. Kemp, who had to leave the game at half time had eight to his credit up to then.

Orphans were without Baird but had PO. Ormie Weir, home on leave from the R.C.A.F., on their lineup.

C.G.E., 58—Currie 4, Jones, Stewart 30, McCuaig 10, Johnson 2, Reid 2 Keegan 10.

Orphans, 33—Kemp 8, Csumrik 6, McArthur 11, Ferguson 6, Estlick, Weir 2.

Referee—H. Smith.

By The Canadian Press

Pete Muldoon, Pacific Coast sportsman, died suddenly near Seattle 16 years ago today. The Ontario-born hockey mentor was 47 years old and had been a member of the New Westminster squad that won the first championship of the old Pacific Coast Hockey Association. In 1928 he headed Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League.

Hamilton Majors Senior Champs

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Majors became senior champions of the Ontario Hockey Association on Saturday night by winning the fifth encounter of the playoff series with St. Catharines Saints 1-0 in overtime on the losers' ice. After losing the first game to the Saints in overtime, the Majors copped four straight decisions although they required extra play in the last two struggles before working out a victory.

In the last engagement, it was not until 9:38 of the overtime period that Bill Dinning scored the one and only counter in a single-handed attack.

St. Catharines also went down to permanent defeat in the Junior A semi-finals at Oshawa when the Generals came from behind in the last period to score a 3-2 triumph after the Falcons had led 2-0 during the first two frames. Ken Smith, Al Shewchuk, and Bill Ezinicki were scorers for Oshawa, while Pete Long and Delmonte found the mark for Falcons. Generals took their half of the semi-finals four games to two.

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP).—Basketball's World Series gets under way on Thursday for a two-weeks' run and it looks more like a three-ring circus....The New York Invitation and National Collegiate A.A. tournaments will involve 16 of the best available college teams, though several of the best Navy-manned outfits had to be counted out....The National A.A.U. tournament starting Sunday at Denver likely will draw 37 to 40 standout industrial and service teams.... There won't be any team that can claim all the laurels at the finish as there is after baseball's World Series, but don't think it's minor league stuff....Eight nights of play in New York probably will attract about 120,000 customers and Kansas City and Denver can count on sellouts most of the time.

To-day's guest star:

Joe Gootter, Paterson, N.J., Evening News: "Word comes from Greenville, Ohio, that the St. Louis Cardinals have signed a 19-year-old taxicab driver to pitch for one of their farm clubs....He probably will charge 20 cents for the first inning and 10 cents for every one after that."

Monday matinee:

Actor William Bendix, now playing in a radio show called "The Life of Riley," once was batboy for the baseball Giants, who haven't led that life for several seasons....Penn State College experts have discovered the grass clipped from golf greens when it is just a half-inch high makes ideal poultry food ....Suppose if it grows any longer the hens lay alibis instead of eggs.

Gabby Greek Billed For Second's Role

Super-thrills may be the one word that will describe what wrestling patrons will feel next Tuesday night when Vic Holbrook and Strangler Bob Wagner hook up once more in the Brock Arena. This is the rubber match with a win for each man but that simple statement hardly describes the "goings on" of the last two matches.

To re-hash for a moment: The first bout was won by Strangler Bob Wagner when Holbrook suffered one of those Wagnerian "accidents." Then came the big doings the other night when Wagner's buddy, Zaharias, seconded bouncing Bob and got the fans so heated up that he had to take refuge inside the ring; thereby causing Mr. Wagner to suffer automatic disqualification from Referee Bert Maxwell.

Both men are keen on the re-match, the only proviso being from Wagner that he must have Tom Zaharias in his corner. Since the Ontario Athletic Commission has no ruling against one athlete seconding the other, providing he does not physically interfere with the contestants, there is no real reason why the big Greek can't continue his coaching duties. No reason, that it, if the fans will let him. Last Tuesday they certainly showed their displeasure in getting Wagner disqualified, which was certainly the last thing that either Bob or Terrible Tom wanted.

Zaharias himself has demanded a bout on this program claiming that if Wagner wants at any time to forsake this city, he, Tom, will be glad to step into the main bout spot; and against anyone. Tuesday he meets Frank Sexton.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Joe Stewart bowed out of local basketball Saturday night when he played his last game before leaving to begin training with the Navy this week and he made his swan song effort a memorable one by leading his C.G.E. team to a 58 to 33 victory over the Orphans in the first game of the City League finals. It is a best-of-three series. Stewart's farewell performance was one of his best of the season for he racked up a total of 30 points and in addition made the plays for a number of other C.G.E. baskets. His departure leaves a gap in the ranks of the cage game exponents here that is as big as the crater made by one of those new 12,000 bombs. It has been a tradition around the Y.M.C.A. in the past couple of seasons that the team on which Stewart landed for the season was the team to beat for the honors. He has dominated the scoring as Jimmy Thorburn used to do a few seasons back, running up a formidable total of points on the season's play and in addition to his great shooting has also been a host of strength because of his play-making ability and his effective defensive work as well. With their shooting ace out of the picture C.G.E. will have a tough job, in spite of their Saturday night win in keeping Orphans from lifting Kemp Cup, although Pete McArthur's team has also suffered through the departure of their star guard Baird.

* * * * * *

Oshawa Generals finally shook off the St. Catharines menace Saturday night when they defeated the Falcons at Oshawa 3 to 2 and took the four-of-seven series four games to two. After the Oshawa win in St. Catharines Wednesday night the Saturday night result was more or less expected. That midweek battle really was the crucial fixture. As the draw went the Generals were faced with the task of having to win at least one game in St. Catharines. They failed on their first two attempts but the third visit saw their efforts crowned with success and the series was to all intents and purposes decided then although the Falcons fought to the last ditch and gave the Generals plenty of opposition in Saturday night's game. It will be Oshawa and St. Michael's in the finals and the Motor City selects had better watch their step or the Toronto Irish will be nailing their hides to the fence. The St. Michael's team has one priceless asset, team spirit, and that, according to Oshawa reports, is one department in which the Generals have been none too hot. It may be the factor that will decide the 1944 Ontario junior championship.

In The Good Old Days

Piper Bain, well-known lacrosse star who writes a column of sport comment for the Orillia News-Letter has been paying a tribute to the great Orillia team of 1911-12-13-14, and here is some of it: "Hockey in those days was a far-flung call from the style and systems as used today. Six players started the game (it was seven, Piper, the teams in those days having a rover) with no substitutes allowed with two 30-minute halves constituting a game. If a player on one side was injured the other team put off a man to even up the sides. Defencemen were not rated by the fact that they parted their hair this or that way but rather by how much they could pound the incoming forwards into submission. Very seldom did the rearguardsmen amble up the ice unless it was to take part in the frequent brawls that broke out when tempers reached the boiling point. There was little room for sentiment for the forward who carefully avoided these defencemen of box-car proportions with the result that it was definitely a survival of the fittest. It is doubtful if the sporting fields will ever be graced again by athletes likened to those of by-gone years. Thoroughbred stuff flowed through the veins of those old-time greats the like of which is seldom seen today. The passage of time may temporarily dim their remarkable feats, but the memories will live throughout the ages."

* * * * * *

With Piper's remarks as to the quality of the players of that era this column is in thorough agreement but his reference to the defence players as anchored fortresses who very seldom moved down the ice is a bit off the beam. There were some rear guards in those days who did little rushing, just as there are today, but on the other hand some of the most dangerous attackers Peterborough teams ever carried were defence players of that period or earlier. On the Peterborough juniors who met that very Orillia team which he was eulogizing was the late Fred Denison, one of the fastest-breaking and fastest-skating defence men this city has ever had. Denison scored plenty of goals on spectacular raids. Going back further there never was a smoother rusher wearing a Peterborough uniform than Eddie Howell who broke from his position on the defence like a missile from a rocket gun and stickhandled around the whole opposition, even to the goalkeeper. And there of course was Harold Armstrong whose dazzling rushes from the defence area the length of the rink for goals made him one of the most noted performers of his day and one of the few who ever played on championship teams in the junior, intermediate and senior series of the O.H.A. Still another defence star of the period mentioned by the Orillia writer was the late Frank Hefferman who tore down the ice like a runaway train and rocketed through defences for goal after goal. No Bre'er Bain there were plenty of rushing defence players as long ago as the turn of the century and the four we have mentioned were standouts in the old days and would be under the rules of today.

Going Right Ahead

Kitchener's new sports organization is taking definite form according to the following from the sport column of the Kitchener News-Telegraph: "The Kitchener Sports Association came one step nearer to complete formation last night when a slate of officers was suggested which will be presented at an open meeting to be held Friday, March 24 in the City Hall assembly room. According to Secretary Bill Taylor the consensus of the meeting was not to publish the names of the slate drawn up but rather to spring it on the open meeting so that there will be no prejudices built up in the minds of the voters beforehand. The actual sports association will be made up of ten men who will be voted on at the public meeting, the City Council Sports Committee, and an original committee of five previously set up. This will round out a group of approximately 20 men in which all sports will be represented. The purpose is to help promote sports in the community and gradually build athletics back to a point where Kitchener is among the top-notchers in the country. It was agreed that the officers for the sports association will not remain the same year after year in the same positions. It is planned to have a president and four vice-presidents and to rotate the presidency."

Week-end happenings in the N.H.L. did not definitely dispose of Boston Bruins as a playoff possibility after all although the Bruins looked to be out when the Leafs handed the Rangers a 5 to 0 trimming. However Boston came back Saturday night with a totally unexpected win over the Montreal Canadiens and at the same time the Chicago Black Hawks with a chance to make sure of a playoff berth muffed the chance by allowing the Rangers to hold them even. As a result the Bruins still have a mathematical chance for fourth spot, although it is so faint that not even Art Ross is taking it seriously. Probably the feature of the week-end double-header was the defeat of the Canadiens on Saturday night at the hands of the Bruins who won out 6 to 5. It was only the fifth loss for the Flying Frenchmen in 47 games. However it did not throw them off their stride for they came back Sunday to toss the Detroit Red Wings for a loss.

English To See Five Classics

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 13—(CP—Fears of some racing folk to the contrary, Britain's turf will see as much horse-racing during this year as in 1943. Cancellations of some fixtures at short notice in this "invasion" season, however, remains a definite possibility.

All five classics as passed by a government that knows well the value of British bloodstock in a post-war world, will be staged at Newmarket, just as they were last season. Other racing fixtures, for the first half of the season, are on the same regional lines as last. Nominations for the classics exceed those of 1943.

There will be 34 meetings over six courses, the same as during the corresponding period up to the end of July last year. The season opens Easter Monday at Windsor in Southern England, and Stockton in the north.

Newmarket will have seven days of racing, Windsor, Stockton and Pontefract, six each, Ascot, five, and Salisbury, four.

The premier event, the Derby, will be staged June 17.

Barons Score Two Wins Over Week-end

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons, leaders of the American Hockey League, made easy victories of their two week-end games, defeating Pittsburgh Hornets 7-5 Saturday night and Indianapolis Capitals 7-2 last night.

Leaders of the Eastern Division of the league—Hershey Bears—dropped one of their doubleheader home-and-home series to the cellar-dwelling Providence Reds. Bears defeated Reds 5-3 Saturday night at Hershey, but dropped a 2-1 decision last night at Providence.

Buffalo Bisons gained the circuit's most decisive victory by blanking the Pittsburgh Hornets last night.

Barons piled up 5 counters in the first two periods Saturday in their game with Hornets but in the third Hornets banked home five counters.

Tommy Burlington and Pete Horeck paced Cleveland's attack with two goals each, while Pete Bessone, Norm Locking and Mike Shabaca added the others. Art Giroux scored twice for Pittsburgh and Lloyd Roubell, Wendell Jamieson and Fred Robertson bagged the others.

Winky Smith and Bernie Ruelle scored two goals for Indianapolis early in the first period and then watched their team get licked 7-2 by Barons. Ed Speaker and Locking scored two apiece for the leaders. Earl Bartholome, Lou Trudel and Horeck added other tallies.

Tom Forgie and Peg O'Neil gave Hershey Bears a two-point margin over Providence Reds in the first period and Johnny Gagnon scored in the second for Reds.

The final period was a rough and tough scramble with Bears emerging victorious. Bernie Lauson, Doc Prentice and George Patterson scored for Bears, while Yank Boyd and Hal Buttrey got Reds' two last scores.

Gagnon and Boyd scored a goal in the second and third periods last night to give Reds their 2-1 victory over Bears. Ken Schultz bagged a counter for Bears in the first period.

Bisons' top line of Fred Thurier, Fred Hunt and Larry Thibeault accounted for three of the counters when they stamped out Hornets 7-0. Walter Atanas and Max Bennett led the attack with two counters each.

TORONTO, March 13 — (CP).— Every high-class athlete gets that sinking feeling in the pit of his stomach before entering important competition. For most the tension disappears as soon as the actual competition begins. But for some it continues. Often the strain of competition means an early end to careers.

You've heard the expression, "He plays on his nerve."

It has been used to describe some of the greatest of athletes—fellows whose will to win has been so great it has overcome superior physique and ability. Pressure is greater on players in some sport positions, such as baseball pitchers or hockey goalies.

Johnny Vander Meer of double no-hit fame says he was rejected for U.S. military service last year because of a stomach condition brought on by muscular tenseness of pitching in the major leagues. The winter's rest fixed the trouble and Johnny now has been accepted for the U.S. Navy.

Although he is only 33, Wilf Cude has been retired from active hockey several seasons because of the strain on major league goalie. The last year he played with the Montreal Canadiens Cude's nerves were at such tension he moved jerkily back and forth in front of the goal with play at the rink's opposite end.

Cude told Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette: "A goaltender is out there for 60 minutes. He is thinking for every second of that 60 minutes—worrying about what's going to happen. He looks nonchalant out there but he's burning up inside. Even before the game starts he's taut as a violin string. If he doesn't feel that way he isn't any good. I've talked to the best of them — Charlie Gardiner, Dave Kerr, George Hainsworth, and the rest—and they all admitted feeling the same way. Gardiner often had an upset stomach before a game.

"A forward can miss an open net and the crowd will groan and say, 'Tough luck,' but a goaltender makes a mistake, and the puck lands in the net and the crowd yells 'You're lousy.'"

Incidentally:

First thoroughbred foaled outside Ontario ever to be nominated for the King's Plate is Khaki Countess, owned by D. Bruins Hang On, Defeat Canadiens 6-5

By The Canadian Press.

Boston Bruins staged a final desperate effort for a Stanley Cup playoff berth last night when they defeated the National Hockey Leagues' leading Montreal Canadiens 6-5.

Whether Herb Cain, the league's highest scorer, or their playmaking centre Bill Cowley, can put enough spark in the Bruins to keep them in the running is a big question confronting Boston fans today. But tomorrow night the Chicago Black Hawks will be trying to shove Bruins so far into fifth place they won't recover.

And a victory for Hawks will do just that, but a loss might mean disaster for Hawks in fourth place with 47 points against Bruins' 41. However, if the Chicago team defeats Bruins tomorrow at Boston, it will be impossible for Art Ross' club to get in the playoffs.

If Hawks drop the game, it may give Bruins enough spark to take their remaining two games from Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

A Slim Chance.

And even if Bruins are lucky enough to capture the remaining games, Hawks will have to lose every point in order to allow Boston in fourth place.

Canadiens equalled the 77-point record set by the 1939-40 Bruins when they defeated Detroit 4-3 on Saturday night but this year's Boston team stopped them from surpassing that record last night.

Syd Howe bagged two counters for Wings Saturday while Harold Jackson got the third. Elmer Lach, Canadiens' star centre, also came through with two counters. Buddy O'Connor and Ray Getliffe scored the other two.

Lach led the attack again last night by scoring twice. But Pat Egan, Boston defenceman, put Bruins in the lead early in the first period by bagging two counters unassisted. Art Jackson scored two more, while Bill Cowley and Herb Cain got the other to beat Canadiens.

O'Connor scored two for the leaders and Phil Watson got one.

New York Rangers were blanked 5-0 by Leafs Saturday night, but rallied to get a 4-4 draw with Chicago last night.

George Boothman scored two goals, and Bob Davidson, Lorne Carr, and Reg Hamilton put the other three past Rookie Ken McAuley in the Ranger net. It was Paul Bibeault's fifth shutout of the season.

Oscar Aubuchon paced New York last night, scoring two of Rangers' four third-period counters. Dutch Hiller and Al Palazzari got the other two. Bryan Hextall drew assists on three of the counters. Doug Bentley, Johnny Gottselig, George Allen and Billie Mosienko got the Hawk markers.

Modere Mud Bruneteau pulled a hat trick last night when he got three goals as Red Wings walloped Leafs 4-1. Murray Armstrong started the scoring in the first period and Mud took one in each frame. Lorne Carr got Leafs' only counter early in the third.

Spring Training Starts Monday

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—The start of spring training officially opened baseball's third wartime season today.

The departure of stars into the services, while lowering the quality of play, is expected by club owners to make more competition. They do not look, for instance, for St. Louis Cardinals again to win the National League by 18 games over Cincinnati or for the Yankees to sweep to another American League flag by the 13½ games they did last year over Washington.

Connie Mack, 81-year-old leader of Philadelphia Athletics, expressed the general sentiment at Frederick, Md., where his A's have pitched camp:—

"While all of us have lost some of our stars, that might be the means of having a real championship race this year."

Mack may have been thinking especially of the champion Yankees who have lost such players as Charley Keller, Bill Johnson, Marius Russo, Ken Sears and Roy Weatherly and face the probable loss of Joe Gordon, Spud Chandler, Bill Dickey, Johnny Murphy and Rollie Hemsley.

At Atlantic City, only two players, Pitchers Floyd Bevens and Johnny Johnson, were on hand as Yank officials arrived.

Manager Ossie Bluege and Catcher Rick Ferrell led the advance Washington contingent into camp at College Park, Md., and at Lakewood, N.J., seventeen players, including Putchers Rube Fischer and Cliff Melton, reported for the first workout of the New York Giants.

Most of the other big league clubs will start training later this week.

Total poultry stocks were 23,202,018 pounds, including an estimate of 1,000,000 pounds for some firms which did not report in time.

Total stocks of Canadian pork were 100,784,203 pounds, most of it awaiting shipment to Britain. Last year the holdings were 57,095,151 pounds. Beef holdings were 38,816,498 pounds, practically the same as last month, but more than twice last year's stocks of 16,433,174 pounds.

Veal stocks at 2,948,112 pounds showed a reduction from last month, the total then being 4,456,993 pounds. Last year stocks amounted to 837,542 pounds. Mutton and lamb amounted to 8,406,650 pounds, compared with 1,985,154 last year.

British Destroy

Altogether Allied aircraft made 1,700 sorties on Saturday and destroyed 36 Nazi aircraft while the ground fighting was stalemated. French artillery repelled two strong German patrols on the main 5th Army front near Cassino, 60 miles south-east of the beachhead.

Heavy rain on Sunday brought even patrol activity to a standstill on the Canadian Corps section of the British 8th Army front in Eastern Italy, Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported.

The widespread aerial blows cost 146 Allied aircraft. After the day raiders had hit Florence, Padua, and Toulon, night raiders struck Genoa and railway targets on the Italian west coast.

Airmen called the battle over Padua when 19 of 80 German fighters were shot down in a 30-minute running fight, the biggest since the February 25 raid on Regensburg There was no Nazi opposition over Florence, but 20 German planes attempted to intercept over Toulon and 13 were shot down.

Photographs taken of the Florence raid showed no bomb fell within 1,500 feet of any of the city's cultural monuments, Headquarters said.

to Ireland and never will."

There was nothing to indicate that Allied moves were likely to go as far as the application of economic sanctions against Eire. Britain was going slow, leaving the initiative largely to the United States because of the ancient feud with the Irish, and also for these other practical considerations:

1. Southern Irish volunteers make up a considerable part of the British armed forces;

2. Great numbers of southern Irishmen—they have been estimated as high as 250,000—work in British war plants.

3. The ending of all trade with Eire would in some respects operate to the disadvantage of the British as well as the Irish.

On both sides public comment was temperate. The biggest paper in Britain, Lord Beaverbrook's Express, subordinated its own editorial comment to that of the New York Times.

The Belfast News Letter centred its editorial on the points that even with the new travel restrictions "the border remains a channel of leakage," and declared "it is difficult to envisage communications and traffic between the two areas remaining unfettered."

Mr. De Valera's paper, the Irish Press, declared it still was not clear why the initial American note asking the ouster of Nazi diplomats ever was sent and "there could have been only one answer, that which has been given. Its sending can only have resulted from misreading of the whole situation in this country."

It was generally believed in London that the travel ban was only the beginning of British and United States measures to provide strict military security, and The Associated Press correspondent in Dublin said "everyone is asking 'what will happen next'?"

Two possibilities stood out—closing of the Eire-Northern Ireland frontier and curtailment of the shipments of wheat, gasoline and coal which Eire imports from Britain and the United States. Some shipments of wheat have gone from Canada.

The Daily Mail, Daily Express and other London newspapers all strongly emphasized the likelihood of restrictions on such Eire imports despite statements from both London and Washington official quarters that economic sanctions were not proposed.

Although the home office order did not affect the customary easy communication between Eire and Northern Ireland, the London Daily Herald said police had instituted a drastic comb-out among the 30,000 Eire workers who have obtained resident permits in Northern Ireland since the war started.

Dublin newspapers printed the travel announcement without comment. There was no immediate official reaction, but some is expected when the Dail meets tomorrow.

"There seems to be no wavering in support of neutrality and of De Valera's stand," The Associated Press Dublin correspondent reported. "The answer to all my questions was 'we know neutrality and all it implies means sacrifice'."

This correspondent said police were on guard at the German legation in Dublin and allowing no one to loiter around the building.

Prime Minister Curtin of Australia was quoted today in an Associated Press dispatch from Canberra as announcing that Eire had asked Australia to intervene and obtain withdrawal of the American note.

"We said quite definitely Australia was in accord with the American request and hoped the Eire government would see its way clear to agree," Curtin added.

The travel order applies both to civilians and military personnel. The announcement said that hereafter permits would be granted only for "business or work of urgent national importance" after full government investigation.

Most directly affected by the order were thousands of Eire natives who work in Britain's factories and those in her military forces. It will be virtually impossible for any of these to visit home until the restrictions are lifted.

PIAT GUN

Newest addition to the Canadian infantryman's arsenal is the Piat anti-tank weapon, the unorthodox but simple bomb-thrower that makes the lone soldier more than a match for the heavily armoured tanks being thrown against him by the enemy in Italy. Called for official purposes a "projector, infantry and anti-tank," and deriving its name from the first letters of those four words, the Piat throws a bomb that explodes on impact and will penetrate four inches of the finest armour-plate. It spells death to tank crews and concrete pillboxes are no defence against its powerful blast: also it may be readily used as a mortar and in a house-breaking role. The Piat weighs only 34½ pounds and can be handled easily by one man. Canadian soldiers overseas are already well trained in its use, while here in Canada most of the infantry training centres have courses on the Piat in full swing.

Expect To Raise $8,500

COBOURG, March 13 — (ENS) — Red Cross donations are expected to equal last year's total of $8,500 in Cobourg and Hamilton Township. The objective is $10,000. Collections have come in well, with few refusals, but in the rural sections, because of bad roads, it has been very difficult for the canvassers to get around but with an extension of the period for the campaign, it is expected that the rural sections will be covered adequately.

CONDITION IMPROVING

Lieut.-Col. M. H. Park has received word that his son, Lieut. Allan Park, who was critically wounded in Italy before Christmas, has been removed from the dangerously wounded list and put in the seriously ill category. His condition is reported as satisfactory.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

An automobile belonging to Thomas Hughes, North Monaghan car wrecker stolen from his place on Saturday night was discovered Sunday on the side road west of Whittington's service station on Highway 28. The car had struck a culvert and gone into the ditch and had been abandoned there by the thief. Nothing had been stolen.

"SUBSTANCE"

"SUBSTANCE" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including first church of Christ Scientist in Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was: "The invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead." (Romans 1:20) Selections from the Bible included the following from II Corinthians 4:18: "While we look not at the things which are seen but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following "In Christian Science, substance is understood to be Spirit, while the opponents of Christian Science believe substance to be matter. They think of matter as something and almost the only thing, and of the things which pertain to Spirit as next to nothing, or as very far removed from daily experience. Christian Science takes exactly the opposite view."

This meeting is called for 7.45 o'clock, and will be of special interest to all those interested in home aquariums, the care of gold fish and water plants. Colored pictures will be shown, there is no admission charge, and an aquarium will be given as a door prize.

Long Term Immigration Policy Is Declared Great Need Of Canada

"If we are to build up a great Dominion, we must have a long term immigration policy; not in any sense an open door policy, but a well thought out policy to admit people on a selective basis," declared D. M. Johnson, Department of Colonization and Agriculture, Canadian National Railways, Montreal, before the Peterborough Rotary Club, at the Empress Hotel today. "We should, at all times, give a welcome to the people from the British Isles, just in the same manner as a Canadian by birth or by naturalization, may enter the United Kingdom as a matter of right. Our future policy," he said, "should be such that we make it possible for these people to enter our country and extend to them a warm welcome as new Canadians."

Mr. Johnson was a resident of the United Kingdom for the past 16 years and previous to going overseas was engaged in agriculture. He also visited many European cities and rural districts while there, which enabled him to gain first-hand knowledge, by personal contact and experience, of the method agriculture is carried on in all it various branches.

"When the density of our population is compared with that of Britain and other European countries, surely we have room for some of these people, who may wish to join us in the development of our great Dominion," he stated. "If we are to seek foreign markets for our exports, we must be prepared to allow people who buy our goods and products to come and settle here, if they desire, either to join friends or relatives, to settle on the land or take up gainful employment.

In summing up what he considered essential features of Canadian policy after the war Mr. Johnson declared that export market for all Canadian farm products were absolutely vital to the economy of this country which he said was producing much more than its population could consume.

"We must hold the premier place on the British bacon market", said the speaker. "It is quite possible that Denmark and some of the other continental countries will enter this market again. However, Canada is now placed in a very advantageous position. We are now supplying 80% of the bacon arriving in the United Kingdom. Through our National Bacon Hog Policy and by the effort of our hog producers we have developed a type of bacon hog which will stand comparison with similar hogs in any other country.

Quality Foremost

The word "quality" should be foremost in our minds at all times. No matter what the product may be it is the standard of excellence that will determine the price. This applies to all our agricultural products to the same degree, our wheat, our cheese, our apples and all that we offer for sale either at home or abroad.

"Our best pigs produce first class Wiltshire sides of excellent grade. A long time bacon contract with Britain carrying us well into the post-war period would no doubt be a big factor in allowing us to bring our export bacon up to a higher standard of quality, so that we can be sure of holding first place on the market.

"One vital point looms up in this connection. In the pre-war days, Canada only supplied a very small percentage of the total volume of bacon imported into Britain and therefore our product was not known to the housewife. During the war the housewife, only being allowed 4 oz. of bacon per week per person and has to obtain this ration from the shop at which she is registered under the ration system, has no time to concern herself regarding quality or the origin of the supply. However, if the bacon is too fat she will express her disapproval. After the war, when rationing is not in force things will be totally different and the housewife will be as critical as ever regarding her bacon purchases.

Continuity of Supply

"Continuity of supply is vital to the successful marketing of any product used by people for daily consumption. No matter how good in quality our products may have been, if such products are not on the market day in and day out, week by week and year by year, in sufficient volume to meet the demand, similar products from other countries will take their place and a good market will be lost. The one big factor in the success of Danish bacon trade has been the continuity of supply.

"In the post-war period we will have to be prepared to advertise our country and our products much more than we have done in the past. The countries which will buy our products should know more about our country, our people, and our institutions. This applies especially to the consuming public in the United Kingdom. As a Canadian with long residence in London, it appeared to me that we have not done nearly enough to achieve this end.

"Therefore, in the post-war period we must seek out new markets, concluded the speaker. "we must advertise our goods which we offer for sale, and endeavour to make the peoples of the countries with which we trade know Canada much better than they have in the past. We may not only develop new trade but we may at the same time encourage people of thrift and ability to settle in our Dominion. Every person who enters our country, who is willing to work is an asset to us. Our whole economy depends on a prosperous agriculture and if this basic industry is obtaining a just reward for its labours, the whole country should have no fear for the future."

Former Manager Of Bank E. S. Martin Dies

Evan Stratford J. Martin, former manager of the Bank of Montreal, passed away at his residence, 273 Hunter street west, on Sunday. In ill health since the beginning of the year, death came at the age of 77.

Manager of the Peterborough branch for 10 years, from 1921 to the date of his retirement 13 years ago, Mr. Martin had been connected with the Bank of Montreal for 40 years. Entering its service at Lindsay, he had held positions in many different parts of the Dominion, including Vancouver, Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, Halifax, Montreal and Toronto. For a long time he was with the inspection board at the Montreal office, and he had spent three years in Toronto at the Yonge and Queen street branch before moving to Peterborough.

Born in Cayuga, Ontario, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Stratford Martin, who had come to Canada from Ireland, Mr. Martin attended Upper Canada College and studied law with his uncle for two years before entering the Bank of Montreal. An active cricket and hockey player in earlier days, he was an ardent sportsman and member of a local hunting and fishing club. He was deeply interested in the Humane Society, which he started on coming to Peterborough and of which he had been the first president, Mr. Martin held a life membership in the Peterborough Club and was a faithful member of St. John's Anglican church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gwladys Beverley Bullock, and by a daughter, Beverley; a sister, Mrs. Hamilton Ingersoll of Catharines, also remains.

The funeral service will be held on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. from St. John's church, Rev. Canon Robertson officiating. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

MARCH 13, 1940—Finland and Russia signed a peace treaty giving Russia the Karelian Isthmus including Viipuri. Assassin killed Sir Michael O'Dwyer, former lieutenant-governor of Punjab, and wounded the Marquess of Zetland at London meeting of East India Association.

BatemanPlatoon Given Pennant

Somewhere in Canada, March 13 — The Prince of Wales Rangers were honoured last week when the G.O.C. in Command Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., C.B., D.S.O., M.C. paid them a surprise visit. He showed an interest in every phase of their training and his travels carried him wherever a group of men would be manoeuvring Later on, while addressing the troops, he commended Lt. Col. R. J. Bolton. E.D., C.M., on their fine showing. He also spoke highly of their discipline and morale. Immediately after his talk he presented to Lieut. H. V. Bateman's Platoon (No. 8, "A" Coy) the prize pennant for winning the Platoon Assault Competition. Lieut. Bateman and Sgt. Floyd Alton have taken great pains with the coaching of their men and their labours were rewarded.

Lieut. Bateman is a former employee of the Westclox Company of Peterborough while Sgt. Alton worked for Mason's Groceterias.

Obituaries

HERBERT STEWART WARR

The funeral of the late Herbert Stewart Warr was held from the home of his brother, S. P. Warr, Westwood, with Rev. J. E. Glover, of Hastings, officiating. The late Mr. Warr passed peacefully away in his sleep at his place of residence, 100 Maitland street, Toronto, after a lengthy illness.

He was born near Cannington, Ont., on November 25, 1894, son of the late Frederick Warr and Mary Hogg, and had lived near Westwood and in Peterborough until five years ago, when he went to Toronto for his health. He is survived by one brother.

Casket-bearers were: J. J. Maloney, W. J. Renwick, E. W. Sargent, R. J. Douglas, Fred. Neilson and Randal Dickson. Interment was in Westwood Cemetery.

JOSEPH GREEN

Following a long illness, Joseph Green, 447 Mark street, passed away in hospital this mornnig in his 93nd year. A retired gardener, he had lived here all his life with the exception of a few years when he resided in St. Catharines.

Born in North Monaghan, the son of the late Joseph and Alice Green, he was a member of Mark Street United Church. Unmarried, he leaves a nephew, W. J. Cunningham, R.R. No. 2, Govan, Sask., and three nieces, Mrs. Frank Upson, N.S., Mrs. Lillian Clark and Mrs. Annie Boyce of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter street west, with services conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street United Church. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

HOMES OF NICOTIANA

Pte. Stan James Killed In Italy Fight

After receiving word a few weeks ago that their son, Pte. Stanley James was wounded, Mr. and Mrs. Orval James, 268 Aylmer Street, wrote to Ottawa, and to-day were notified that he had died January 31, as a result of his wounds.

Pte. James was serving in Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, when he was wounded January 30. After that official notification, silence prevailed unti anxiety drove them to query the government further. He lived only one day the government reported.

Enlisting with Prince of Wales Rangers in 1942, Pte. James went overseas as a reinforcement in September of the same year. He arrived in Sicily when the fighting was over and then was sent to Italy. He was 22 years old and had been working on a farm in Little Britain before he enlisted.

Surviving besides his parents, are two brothers, Leonard, in the R. C. N. V. R. in Kingston, and Raymond, at home. Two sisters, Ada and Gladys, are also at home.

Threshermen Return To Hold Convention

The Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen who seem to have adopted Peterborough as their permanent convention headquarters are returning this year to the city council chamber Thursday this week, with morning and afternoon sessions and a dinner at the Legion Hall in the evening.

W. W. Dawson of Otonabee is president of the Brotherhood this year, John A. Carroll, Toronto, secretary-manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, will be the speaker at the dinner, which will be followed by a dance. The night program will also include some motion pictures.

Peterborough people usually buy up all the tickets for the Threshermen's affair, and it is expected the Thursday night social conclusion of the convention will be largely attended.

The Threshermen have come back to Peterborough without a break for ther last three or four conventions, and they always get a specially warm welcome from Mayor Hamilton, possibly because of his long connection with the industry.

New Nickels Out

HAMILTON, March 13—(CP). — The intermediate source of Canada's new steel nickels is revealed by company official Gordon J. Burjaw to be the Stanley Steel Co., Ltd., here. Mr. Burjaw says the local plant is the only one in the Dominion producing the type of cold-rolled strip steel suitable for minting the hexagoal coins, which are not yet in general circulation.

Czechs Resisting

LONDON, March 13—(CP).—With the Red Army less than 120 miles from the eastern border of old Czechoslovakia, the Czech Government in London appealed to their countrymen by radio last night to turn from passive resistance to an "armed uprising of all" against the Germans.

The Government urged: "Form fighting detachments. Do not resist just as individuals."

Bear At Filtration Plant Is Found Dead Never Wakened From Winter's Sleep

The big brown bear at the filtration plant was found dead in his lair over the week-end. He came out during a warm spell in January but later returned to his winter home and went back to sleep. Nothing more was seen of him and with the coming of the fine days in March when he usually came from his lair attendants investigated and found him dead. Apparently he never woke up from his sleep.

The bear was eight years old and was taken to the filtration plant zoo when only a cub. He has been the big attraction of hundreds and hundreds of children who pleaded with their parents to take them "to see the bear."

Victory Workers Make Third Donation

When people become associated in any form of endeavour, one of the first things they decide on is a name by which they may be identified, and often times this expresses their object as well as something that is desirable to them.

The Victory Worker chose a name which people universally in this land would be attracted to, and have every desire to see an established fact, which alone would supply an impetus to their members in doing worthy deeds to advance the Empire's cause in the war effort.

This group, which meets twice each week, to work on quilts in rooms on George Street, is headed by Mrs. Bruce Fowler as president, and has about 25 members on the roll, most of whom take an active part in the work which also branches out to help in other worthy war objectives.

As an organization they shared in the proceeds from the recent salvage campaign carried on in this city, from out of which has come a donation of $10 through Mrs. K. Simpson, their treasurer, to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, to mark the third time this group has given aid to the sufferers from aid raids over Britain in this manner.

Hiawatha Sunday School.

Descendents of the earliest people to inhabit this land, the children of the Junior Class at Hiawatha Sunday School have taken a keen interest in the objects fund seeks to serve, for their name has appeared on a number of occasions in this column, demonstrating a practical reult of their teachings of the christian faith to help those who arein need.

Their latest contribution of $6 appears to-day, which for young folk of their age is a further achievement, which must surely be an aid to splendid character building.

36th Personal Donation.

Those who have followed the workings of this fund from its earliest days of operation could hardly have failed to notice a personal gift appearing from time to time was acknowledged under the name of "In As Much."

Another one of the usual amount of $10 appears to-day, this marking the 36th time such has appeared, which expresses in an outstanding way a personal interest in the needs of other less fortunate people.

In a similar category come also a further gift of $5 in the name of "The extra cent a day, from E. A. L. M. and W." which has appeared every three months throughout the whole of the time the fund has been in operation. This is done by each of the persons named, putting aside one cent each day, and then at the end of the three months period adding the few cent each to make their full share of amounts credted. In this manner, people of none to affluent means show how they can support an object for good which in the sum total means quite a bit of help that is an example for others to follow.

Previously acknowledged	$74,038.66
The Victory Workers per Mrs. K. Simpson	10.00
In As Much, (36th Donation)	10.00
Hiawatha Sunday School Junior Class	6.00
The Extra Cent a Day, from E.A.L.M. and W.	5.00
Total to date	$74,069.66

J. Casey, 83, Of Douro Fractures Hip In Fall

DOURO, March 13 (ENS)—Sustaining a fractured hip in a fall on the ice while crossing from one side of the road to the other in front of his house, last week, James Casey, 83, is now in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The accident occurred in the afternoon and at the time it was not known to what extent Mr. Casey had been injured in the fall. Brought in to Peterborough by ambulance, he is being treated for a fractured hip. Due to his age, it is expected that Mr. Casey will remain in the hospital for some time.

Sunshine City

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—(AP)— Major Lew B. Brown, publisher of the Evening Independent, made a standing offer back in 1910 to give the newspaper free on day when the sun failed to shine by home edition press time. He was presented with a scroll Saturday, bearing resolutions by the City Council praising him for his effort in making St. Peterburg known as the "Sunshine City." The Independent announced the award.... and also announced that Saturday's issue was free. The Sun had failed to appear by 3:30 p.m.

Close Seminary

MONTREAL, March 13—(CP)—Nazis, by closing down Saturday the Oslo Theological Seminary, have put an end to all training of clergymen in occupied Norway, a Norwegian Press attache release said here last night.

His father, the late Herbert York, was shell-shocked while serving with the 93rd Battalion in the last war and died shortly afterwards.

Progress Of War Depicted In News Film

Citizens are invited to see motion pictures of phases of the war in Europe and Asia at the Collegiate Institute auditorium Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights and also Saturday afternoon.

The major film was produced by the United States War Department as a report to the nation on the progress of the war. It was shown here privately a few days ago, and impressions of its message suggested more extensive publicity. It was then presented to several other groups, including a filming for the Training Centre, and then while the pictures were still available it was decided to give the people generally an opportunity of seeing them.

The U.S. film is aimed at any sense of complacency about the progress of the war which may have been developing in recent months from expectations of early victory, the Examiner was informed today. There is no admission charge at the Collegiate, and there is no propaganda intent other than to convey through motion pictures some of the factual aspects of the continuing challenge to the Allied Nations and to their determination and will to push on through this fifth year of the war.

The main film runs three-quarters of an hour and will be followed by a shorter one showing Royal Air Force "train busters," the bombing of trains on the continent.

These pictures will be shown at 7.30 and 8.45 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights; and also at 2 and 3.15 p.m. Saturday afternoon, and it is hoped that Peterborough people will accept this invitation.

Fears Depression

ATLANTA, March 13 —(AP)— Postwar depression in heavy industry and construction "for a considerable period of time" was predicted yesterday by R. I. Ingalls Chairman of the Ingalls Iron Works Company of Birmingham, Alta.

Accuse G. Kelly Of Starving Aged Horse, 22

A charge laid by the Humane Society against George Kelly, operator of a wood camp near Haultain in Burleigh township of causing unnecessary suffering to a horse by failing to provide it with feed during the month of February was heard before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C. in police court this morning.

Kelly was defended by W. C. Grant while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Oswald Anderson, Burleigh township, who formerly worked at Kelly's wood camp testified that early in February he had been away from the camp a week and when he returned about the 10th of the month he had found Kelly's two horses in the stable without feed or water. Kelly arrived the next day with six or seven bales of hay and a bag of oats but when the mare was turned out for water she had staggered around, the witness stated, and then had fallen down. They were unable get her on her feet again and eventually the animal was killed with an axe.

No one had been left in charge of the horses, Anderson said, and on a number of occasions during the winter he had to telephone Kelly in Peterborough to tell him there was no feed for the horses.

"One time we had to take the straw out of our bed ticks to feed them", said the witness.

To Mr. Grant, Anderson said that he had had an argument with Kelly over wages in February.

Engel Campbell, called by the Crown, said that he had gone to the camp on February 1 with Kelly and hadn't noticed any feed in the barn. They had brought some with them, he said.

"The mare was blind", Campbell said "and when she was let out to water she had no shoes on and she slipped and fell on the ice?"

Mrs. Anderson corroborated the evidence of her husband as to the lack of feed for the horses at different times and Gerald Dunford, inspector for the Royal Humane Society who saw the carcass of the dead mare some time afterward said that the animal appeared to be very thin.

George Kelly, called by the defence, said that he had taken feed out to the camp several times in January and again in February. He said that the horses had not been worked very much and that the mare that had died had been 22 years old.

The case is proceeding.

The Last Word

CASH LOANS

NO ENDORSERS NEEDED

Here's a quick, private way for men and women workers to borrow $100, $300, $500 — Repay in convenient monthly instalments

NEED $100, $200 or up to $500? Here's a way to get additional cash without fuss or bother. Just tell Household Finance about your problem and choose a convenient payment plan from the table below. No endorsers or guarantors are ever required And we do not question friends or relatives about your credit. Household Finance loans are made largely on character and earning ability. So if you have a job or other source of steady income don't hesitate to apply for whatever amount you may need.

Rate reduced on loans over $300

You may repay your loan in 2 to 15 monthly instalments. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. A $100 loan repaid in 12 monthly instalments of $9.46 each—a total of $113.52—costs $13.52, if repaid in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each the cost is only $7.10. Charges on loans of more than $300 were recently reduced. Notice that 12 monthly instalments of $46.73 each now repay a $500 loan in full. Payments shown in the table include both principal and all costs. You pay nothing more. We have no hidden charges of any kind.

Cash for most any purpose

You may get cash at Household to pay old debts, taxes, insurance, medical or dental service, to help relatives—for almost any purpose. If you need money at any time, phone, write or visit Household Finance.

Peterborough Girl Bride of Gunner

A military wedding of interest took place recently in St. George's Chapel, Petawawa, when Elois Adele Milburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. D. Milburn, of Peterborough, became the bride of Gnr. Roger Edward Wigmore, R.C.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wigmore, of Thorold South. Capt. James A. Card, chaplain, officiated, and members of the groom's battery formed a guard of honor.

The bride was gowned in a street-length two-piece gold dress, with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was attended by Mrs. John Cook, of Toronto, as matron of honor. Spr. John Cook, R.C.E., was groomsman.

After a short honeymoon trip, the bride returned to St. Catharines, and the groom to his regiment at Petawawa.

Irene Melanson Weds Michael English

A wedding of interest took place recently in Moncton, New Brunswick, when Irene Bernadette Melanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eloi Melanson, of St. Anselme, N.B., became the bride of Michael E. English, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. English of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Father Clarence Leger in the Cathedral of the Assumption, Moncton, N.B.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of gold crepe, brown accessories, and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. She was attended by Mrs. Gerald Connolly, a matron of honor, wearing a dress of moss green, matching accessories, and a corsage of red roses. Cpl. Gerald Connolly, R.C.A.F., was groomsman.

Girl friends of the bride served a wedding breakfast after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, 43 Railway avenue, where the bride's table, covered with a lace cloth and set with pale pink tulips, was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Later, the young couple left for a brief trip to St. John. Mr. English is employed with the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada.

Peterborough, Ontario,
March 18th, 1944.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

We are to-day going to have a little chat about meals, what to serve and how to serve them. We will start with breakfast, a meal that seems so unimportant to many people. There are people who do not eat in the morning at all, but when you think that the longest fast is between supper and breakfast, one would naturally say that it should be a fairly substantial meal. From a dietetic point of view it is altogether fitting that we should begin the day with a good meal. The room, in which breakfast is served, should be bright and cheerful. The table appointments should be bright in color and different to those used for any other meal. Bright table linen, bright dishes, a basket of bright colored fruit used as a centrepiece all these things help to give one the right start off for the day.

Now for a few suggestions as to the food to be served:

Menu 1—
Orange juice
Oatmeal, with cream and sugar
Eggs boiled in the shell
Toast Butter Jam
Coffee or milk.

Menu 2—
Half grapefruit
Dry cereal, with sugar and cream
Plain omelet
Graham toast Butter Jelly
Cocoa Milk.

Menu 3—
Baked apple
Scrambled eggs Broiled bacon
Corn muffins, butter, currant jelly
Coffee Milk.

Menu 4—
Sliced oranges
Pancakes and maple syrup
Country sausage
Coffee Milk.

Menu 5—
Stewed prunes
Broiled bacon
Cornmeal muffins Butter
Ginger marmalade.

Dry or cooked cereal, served with sugar and cream, is optional as a breakfast food. When any one of the foregoing breakfast menus is to be served, the fruit course is already on the table when the family is called.

James and jellies help to decorate the most matter-of-fact breakfast. When these are served they are put on the table with the fruit course.

Recipe for Cornmeal Muffins: 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon shortening, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cornmeal, 2 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Scald milk, add shortening and salt, and stir in cornmeal. Stir and let thicken for a few minutes. Then cool, add well-beaten eggs, sugar, flour, and baking powder sifted together. Turn into greased muffin tins and bake 15 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees Fahr.).

Plain Omelet.

3 eggs, beaten separately. Add one tablespoon water and ¼ teaspoon salt per egg yolk. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into greased omelet pan and cook slowly over low flame. May be browned in oven if desired.

These are two recipes for food used in two of the above menus.

Chapter Welcomes Two New Members

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13—(ENS)—The Trent Valley Chapter I.O.D.E. met at the home of Mrs. F. G. De Carroll on Friday evening when they welcomed two new members and made final arrangements for the dance they will sponsor March 31. It was revealed that parents of members would look after the cafeteria lunch that will be served in this connection. During a social hour that followed members entertained Able Seaman James Hamilton, who is home on leave. A decorating committee was named for the dance during the evening.

Fighting Grows

NEW YORK, March 13 — (AP) — The BBC said in a French-Language broadcast yesterday that "according to latest neutral reports about the strike in Northern Italy, street fighting is taking place in certain districts of Milan and Turin."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By J. R. Scott

PARAPUP IN FOUR POINT LANDING—Where do we go from here, wonders Mike, five-months old pup owned by Lieut.-Col. Harry G. Brady, base executive officer at France Field, Canal zone. Mike recently made his initial jump by parachute, dropping from 1,000 feet to a neat four-point landing. He has his own special parachute.

British Making Gains In Burma

NEW DELHI, March 13—(CP)—A series of British successes in the Arakan sector of Burma, including the occupation of Buthedaung, 55 miles north of the Bay of Bengal Port of Akyab, was announced by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia command today.

To the west, between Buthedaung and Maungdaw, British troops also forced the Japanese from positions on the Htindaw Hill feature, from hills between Htindaw and Buthedaung, and from positions in the Razabil area to the north.

"During the past three days other troops have been making a series of local attacks in the Buthedaung sector and after occupying that village on March 11 they have further strengthened their positions in this area by clearing the enemy from high ground south and southwest," the communique said. "During this fighting compartively heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy and as in the Htindaw area a quantity of ammunition and equipment was captured."

Further water-borne raids on enemy defences along the coastal plain south of Maungdaw also were announced, while across the Mawdok range to the southwest of Buthedaung West Africans captured another Japanese position near Kyauktaw.

In North Burma, Chinese and American forces, continuing southward along the main road in the Hukawng valley, advanced two miles in 24 hours and reached a point five miles south of Chanma, or about seven miles south of Walawbum where the Americans recently established a road block trapping about 2,000 Japanese.

The Americans and Chinese were within about 11 miles of the southern edge of the Hukawng valley and preparing to drive into the Mogaung valley and toward Kamaing, 40 miles to the south.

The Japanese 18th division, veteran of the capture of Singapore, had been largely destroyed by the North Burma operations led by tanks.

Suffers No Injury

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 13 (ENS)—George Boyd, 16, Sebastopol street, had a lucky escape from serious injury on Saturday evening at eleven o'clock. He began to cross from the west side of Front street just north of the Hollywood Theatre when he stepped into the path of a car police said was driven by Mrs. Ross Stephens of Seymour East. Boyd was later examined by Dr. E. A. Stuart and found to have received no injury as a result of being knocked to the pavement. He told Police Chief George Hardy that he had failed to see the car approaching and when he did he was unable to get a footing on the slippery road and could not get out of the way.

W. H. Doyle Dies

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 13—(AP)—William Homer Doyle, 73, for almost 50 years a newspaper man in Connecticut and New York and former United States vice-consul to Columbo, Ceylon, and Yarmouth, N.S., died here last night at the home of his sister, Anne Doyle. Doyle's last assignment was as feature editor of the New York World Telegram.

Farm Work Leaves Unchanged From '43

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP)—Regulations provided last year for soldiers to be granted furlough to engage in essential farm work still are in effect, and there is no indication of any immediate change, Defense Department officials said today.

Under these regulations two forms of farm leave are provided. A man may obtain compassionate leave to engage in work on his own farm for a period of not more than six months. He receives no pay from the army during the furlough.

Men may also be granted leave, and detailed by the Labor Department to work on other farms. While he is working the man receives board, lodging and his regular army pay. The farmer is required to pay rates which vary for different Provinces, and at the end of the furlough the man received any balance owing him between his army pay and that earned on the farm.

To furnish help for farmers in districts where a shortage of agricultural labor exists, the Labor Department notifies army authorities of the number of men required, and the army then grants the men leave.

Pigs Have It Too

SARNIA, March 13—(CP).—The hens with V-marked eggs have been doing it for almost three years now, but we believe this the first reported instance of a pig getting behind the V-campaign. One Lambton county porker, converted into bacon here, showed a distinct V of lean on the white fat background, continuing through the length of the side.

last night when the Rangers after trailing 4 to 0 scored four goals to sew up the game....Mud Bruneteau had a great night against the Leafs Sunday by registering three goals in a row as the Red Wings won 4 to 1.... Incidentally the Leafs haven't won a game on Detroit ice this season........Bibeault leads the National League goalies in shutouts with five.... That doesn't compare very highly with performances of the past.

Hamilton Majors, senior champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, and Sudbury Frood Miners, conquerors of Porcupine all-stars for the N.O.H.A. title, will clash for the senior provincial honors and the right to proceed in quest of the Allan Cup. The first game of the best-in-five series between the south and north contenders will take place at Hamilton Wednesday night, Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the O.H.A. announced yesterday.

In the Junior "A" series of the Ontario Association, Oshawa Generals Saturday night disposed of St. Catharines Falcons in their semi-final series and now await settlement of the issue in the other bracket of the playoffs between St. Michael's College and Hamilton Whizzers before going into the Junior finals which are scheduled to open March 17 or 18. Th championship will be settled in a best-of-seven series.

Gil Dodds of Boston, native of Nebraska, finally achieved his objective of a world record Saturday night in the Knights of Columbus games, Madison Square Garden, New York, when he sped over the mile course to set new mark of 4.07.3, one-tenth of a second faster than the time of Glenn Cunningham of Kansas in 1938. An hour later, Dodds went out on the track and captured the 1,000-yard run in 2:11.2.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MAKE THE ENEMY GUESS

ANYBODY who has to make a guess may guess wrong. That is why is it frequently good bridge to throw an opponent into the lead in the middle of a hand, if there is some suit which you are able to play in any of several different ways. It may be that the opponent who gets the lead will decide to return the doubtful suit, thus ending your worries. If he doesn't, you still have a chance to make your own guess.

North: ♠ 8 7 3 ♥ K 10 7 2 ♦ 4 2 ♣ A Q 8 7

West: ♠ A K 10 5 ♥ 6 ♦ A 10 9 8 ♣ J 5 4 2

East: ♠ Q 9 6 2 ♥ Q 9 3 ♦ 7 6 5 ♣ 9 6 3

South: ♠ J 4 ♥ A J 8 5 4 ♦ K Q J 3 ♣ K 10

Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl

West scored his spade K and A, then led the 5 to the Q, which South ruffed with the heart 4. Seeing that he was certain to lose a third trick to the diamond A, he realized he could not afford a trump loser.

With four trumps to the Q out against him, he had three ways to try for all of the trump tricks. One was to try for the drop of the Q by taking the A and K, which would be the normally best chance, on percentage, if there had been no bidding or doubling by the opponents, and nothing to indicate their distribution or location of high cards. But the bidding of West and his double altered the usual mathematics applying to a holding of nine trumps lacking the Q.

Did West expect a trump trick for his setter? Or was he short in trumps, and did his double betoken the probability that he was trying to protect a possible guarded Q in East's hand? South could have guessed any of three ways—playing for the drop, finessing against West or finessing against East.

Finally he decided to make the opponents guess. Without touching trumps, he led his diamond K to West. This made it appear to that worthy as if he intended to ruff out some diamond losers. So West returned a trump. South's worries were over now, whether East put in the Q or not. If West returned a club or diamond, South still could have done his own guessing in the trump suit.

Port Hope Boy Torpedoed On Murmansk Run

"It came between four and five in the afternoon, while we were off the Norwegian fiords. Of course, there was no warning. The chief cook and I were in the galley at the time. The torpedo struck the stern, and immediately plates began buckling all over the ship. The bulkhead of the galley caved in suddenly. I jumped to get out of the galley, for, as sailors say, 'If you can see the sky you're all right'. I made it too, but the cook was caught beneath the falling bulkhead and pinned down flat against his stove. He was burned alive."

The chief steward of the Norwegian merchant ship which met its tragic warlike end as the result of hostile action early in December last continued with his tale. Wearing the uniform of the Merchant Marine and decorated with the North Atlantic service ribbon and the Honor Bar awarded by the Norwegian government to sailors who have stood by their ship in time of peril, Donald A. K. Conroy, formerly of Port Hope, narrated the sequence of events to the Examiner.

Chief Steward Conroy is 19 years old. He has already seen three years service with various fleets, was with the Canadian Merchant Marine to begin with, then the American, and more lately a member of the band of recruits, many of them fugitives from German oppression of their native land, who have been enlisted by the Norwegian Consulate to sail on Merchant vessels of Norwegian registry. In his experience are included 15 round trips, three of them to Russia and the rest to England.

Hadn't A Chance

"A French-Canadian in the engine room was cut in half by flying steel," Donald continued in a matter-of-fact voice that belied the emotion he must have felt at the time, sounding as it did no different than the average person's voice speaking of average civilian things. "I was safe outside by this time and I ran for the gun. All sailors are instructed how to fire these guns in case the regular gun crew is knocked out of action. The submarine had surfaced and I took a shot at it. I missed. The stoker from the engine room joined me. He was luckier and scored a direct hit. Then we beat it out of there."

Asked what happened to the sub, the sailor said he couldn't tell from personal observation; that he had had more important things to do, such as getting off the foundering ship; but that he learned afterwards it was claimed destroyed.

"A Canadian corvette drew in close to take us off, which they managed to do by lines. The ship had split in half when the torpedo exploded and the stern half sunk in a few minutes. But the other half remained floating for five hours, and this undoubtedly saved our lives, because, we were not forced to jump into the freezing waters. We could wait until the corvette came to our rescue and be transferred to her, high and dry, by lines. In all, we lost 12 men."

Continued Trip

Aboard the corvette, still part of the convoy, he and his rates sailed on to Russia and the port of Murmansk, which he had docked in twice before. His impressions of that far-north supply depot, he said, were limited to the dock area, which was under the armed surveillance of Cossack guardsmen. "The odd passer-by could speak a very broken English, but that was the extent of it."

Chief Steward Conroy arrived back in New York at the end of January, returning on an American ship. Needing treatment for an injured rib, he was sent on inland to the less crowded Navy and Merchant Marine Hospital near the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Illinois. He is now on sick leave and will report back for a final check-up at the end of March. "Then I'm going back to sea," he said.

In a way it was a mistake that he appeared at all last week-end in Peterborough, a place which he had visited several times before when his home was in Port Hope. A brother, Pte. Norman Conroy, is stationed at the local military training centre and it was he whom he had come up to see. But his brother had obtained a week-end pass and was already in Port Hope, so after being put up for the night by the Navl Auxiliary, Donald was on his way again Saturday afternoon. He has not seen his brother in a year. Their father is dead and their mother, now remarried, is Mrs. John McHohn, 115 Blantyre street, Toronto.

Worked On Ferry

Not eligible for the army, Donald Conroy joined the Merchant Marine in 1940. His only experience with boats had been when during a previous summer he had worked on the S.S. Ontario, car ferry operating between Cobourg and Rochester. Apparently he had found pleasure in the life, pleasure which the subsequent perils of wartime ocean crossings have not succeeded in diminishing. After the war he plans to continue in the same line of work.

None of his other trips across the ocean have resulted in the disaster which accompanied the last, though travelling in a convoy he has on several occasions seen explosions in the distance indicating a tragic fate for some other ship. "But we have to keep going; that is the rule," he said.

His position aboard the vessels he has sailed on led naturally to a discussion of food, and Donald claims that the Merchant Marine is the best-fed service there is.

"We have good variety and the men do very little grumbling. At 10 in the morning and at three in the afternoon of each day we are travelling through enemy waters, there is an issue of rum. They claim it's the best thing for nerves. Maybe the American Navy doesn't serve anything but soft drinks, but we have rum in the Merchant Marine. After all, the Navy can fire first; we have to wait for a hostile move on the enemy's part."

The Norwegian sailors, he indicated, especially those who have escaped from Norway since Hitler took over, are not ones to talk about the German or conditions in their conquered homeland. "They simply go about their work, and they act carefree," Donald said.

Canteen Overplayed

Well-acquainted with New York, which has been his home port for some time past, the sailor's face lit up when questioned about the fun he had had there. However, he was a little down on the famous, Stage Door Canteen, which he considered magnified by publicity way beyond its worth. "Anyway," he added, with a bright smile and a wink, "I had much better things to do."

As a Canadian he expressed amazement at the all-out hospitality shown servicemen by the American people, and did not wonder that American soldiers, used to such munificence, were surprised and inclined to grumble at the prices they had to pay elsewhere. "Everywhere I went in the States it was the same story," Donald said. "They got you your rooms free, food was free, cigarettes were free. Things were always like that."

3 Services Join To Prepare News For Interested Forces Overseas

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP) — To meet a seemingly unquenchable thirst for topical knowledge from the armed forces, Canadian Navy, Army and Air Force officials are planning expansion of thought-provoking reading material that will eventually include rotogravure supplements and a digest of current magazine and newspaper articles.

In a cramped office in a corner of the war information board's suite here three young officers diligently round out the budget of information that goes to the war theatres and home stations to provide a forum for current problems.

The three are:

Navy—Lieut. Donald C. MacDonald, former Montreal newspaperman;

Army—Lieut. Frank Park, former Fredericton, N.B., lawyer;

Air Force -- Sqdn. Ldr. Gregory Vlastos, former Queen's University professor of philosophy and chief editor.

Alive To Demand

Defence Minister Ralston, speaking recently in the Commons, said the army was alive to the special need of getting home news to the troops and he cited several papers such as The Canadian Press News and the Maple Leaf, both of which are served with news by The Canadian Press.

He then spoke of "Canadian Affairs," fortnightly pamphlet edited in Ottawa by Sqdn. Ldr. Vlastos and his assistants. Col. Ralston described it as an edition "which deals with articles which perhaps are more for study groups....But it has a good deal of factual information."

Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian Army Commander Overseas, is the father of "Canadian Affairs," said Sqdn. Ldr. Vlastos.

He had experimented by distributing publications of the British Army Bureau of current affairs to his troops and found they were "read to pieces". He asked that a Canadian supplement be published and several months ago Sqdn. Ldr. Vlastos started on the job of turning out, not a supplement but an independent journal.

It is a department of the war information board and David C. Dunto, General manager of the board, and an editorial committee composed of service educational directors and several civilian advisors supervise the publication.

Soon Have Pictures

The fortnightly, attractively presented with well-known Canadian writers contributing leading articles, is soon to be supplemented with illustrative charts, maps and pictures and condensations of articles of Canadian interest from periodicals and the press.

The publication has touched a wide range of topics — education, immigration, food distribution housing national unity — and gives an up-to-date poture of rehabilitation and demobilization news and views. The pamphlet stays on the fence politically, passing on facts as objectively as possible, giving subjects for argument but taking no sides.

Most of the criticism so far received on the enterprise, he said, had come from servicemen who say "You give us the facts and ask the questions — how about answering some of them yourselves and giving us some opinion?"

The overseas edition of "Canadian affairs," is compiled here, flown to Britain and printed there. More than 80,000 copies of the Fortnightly are printed in both French and English.

Bluebeard Case Occupies Paris

LONDON, March 13. — (CP).— Paris was reported excited yesterday over a new Bluebeard case following the discovery of clues to the butchery of 25 women in a Rue le Sueur "horror" house near the Arc de Triomphe.

The German Agency, D.N.B. said a "Dr. Piot" was a susject. The agency's broadcast despatch added that the murderer apparently lured the victims into a vacant villa he rented, slew and dismembered them and burned the bodies.

An earlier Berlin broadcast said the house was owned by a Dr. Piot who lived in the Rue Caumartin, but that the doctor had vanished before police arrived there. It said there were at least eight victims.

Discovery of the crimes came when neighbors reported a stench to the gas company, and utility workers checking the pipes discovered in the villa's furnace room heads, arms, legs and other organs all of women, D.N.B. said. The courtyard dump also was said to have contained a dozen human limbs.

Clothing labels indicated that the slayer had committed the crimes in the two years since he engaged the villa, D.N.B. reported.

The mystery was reminiscent of the "Bluebeard" Landru case. Landru's slayings, including 10 women, sent him to the guillotine in 1921.

The Berlin radio said police and firemen broke into the murder villa in the Arc de Triomphe area while "vile-smelling smoke still was rising from the chimney" and, probing in the cellar, found the furnace "red hot with four charred bodies inside."

15 Women Present At Gilmour W.M.S.

GILMOUR, March 13 — (ENS) — The regular March meeting of the Mission Circle of Gilmour Church was held at the home of Mrs. R. S. McMullen, with 15 ladies present. Mrs. Clark gave the Scripture, and Mrs Ralph Scott gave a talk on Jonathan as a Bible character. Mrs. MacLean gave a paper on the highlights of the mission fields. The topic and the inspiration period was in the hands of Mrs. Milton Clarke and Mrs. Ralph Scott. They gave some interesting facts on missions. Lunch was served by the ladies in charge.

Dunkirk Looms At Odessa As Hun Lines Collapse; Rumania Sends All Ships

Stampeding Red Armies Gain Rapidly
Hitting From 3 Points
Seaborne Retreat Only Escape Route

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 14—(AP).—Every available ship in Rumania's Black Sea ports has been rushed northward apparently to Odessa, an Istanbul dispatch said today. This appeared to foreshadow complete collapse of the Germans' broken southern flank in Russia in a vast scale 1944 Dunkirk which would pull the battle line back into obviously-frightened Rumania.

The Istanbul dispatch, based on information from Sofia, suggested the Germans were preparing to evacuate Odessa by sea.

Following up Premier Stalin's announcement last night of the capture of Kherson, 90 miles east of Odessa, the German communique said today that base had been evacuated "in the course of planned disengagement movements after the destruction of all military installations." The communique also said that both sides had thrown new reserves into the bitter struggle on the southern sector of the eastern front.

75,000 Huns Killed.

Moscow announced 75,000 Nazis had been killed and captured in 10 days of the broad Soviet offensive in lower Russia. Kherson fell to Gen. Rodion K. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukraine Army, made up of Stalingrad veterans, after crossing the lower reaches of the Dnieper.

If it were true that the Nazi had given up all hope of other than seaborne retreat from their last stand in the Ukraine, this would explain their terrible resistance in the outskirts of Tarnopol in pre-war Poland, where a see-saw fight raged into the sixth day. There the Nazis were making a grim attempt to hold an inland anchor of the front shattered by the combined Red army offensives.

The Russians were pounding within 45 miles of the Dniester river from the northeast. They already had cut the Odessa-Lwow trunk line and left the whole German south flank army with only a cross-border threadwork of single-track spur lines west to Rumania.

These lines would be neither adequate for the supply of 200,000 fighting men—nor for their retreat.

The peril to Odessa—last hope of seaborne escape—was two-edged with Col. Feodor Tolbukin driving upon Nikolaev from captured Kherson and Malinovsky flanging Nikolaev in his onslaught from the north-east.

Both these forces likely were within 75 miles of Odessa to-day —and unchecked.

To the north, the Red army was perched within 50 miles of the Rumanian border at three points following advances which, a Soviet communique said, swept up 320 more towns in 24 hours.

Moscow said the Germans fled "in panic" into Kherson, and that when the Red army broke into the city it slaughtered those Nazis who tried to make a stand. The Germans were even casting aside their light packs in flight, Moscow dispatches added. Malinovsky's troops alone were said to have killed 20,000 and captured 2,500 Nazis in a week.

The Russians were menacing the entrances into Rumania at newly-taken Skalat, 20 miles southeast of Tarnopol in pre-war Poland; south of the rail junction of Proskurov, in the west Ukraine; and, about 12 miles farther south, at Gaivoron on the banks of the Bug river.

Burma Action Eases Threat To China Road

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, March 14—(AP).—Hard-hitting British troops have crossed the upper reaches of the Chindwin river in Northern Burma, striking a new blow at Japanese forces now harassed by assaults on half-a-dozen fronts, it was announced to-day.

The river was forded in several places north of Tamanthi, a southeast Asia communique said. Tamanthi is about 100 miles west of Mogaung and Myitkyina in the Irrawaddy Valley, toward which American and Chinese forces are progressing in a drive to clean the enemy from North Burma.

The columns crossed much easier than did the raiders of Brig. Charles Orde Wingate in their epic foray through the jungles at this time last year. The operation apparently was wrapped in secrecy until the troops not only were across the river, but well advanced into the jungle.

The drive seriously threatens to oust the Japanese from North Burma and permit the opening of a land route into China. To meet the threat, the Japanese face the necessity of launching serious diversionary operations.

Russia Warns Finns To Act

STOCKHOLM, March 14 (AP)—Soviet-Finnish peace negotiations appeared today to have entered a critical stage as advices from Helsinki indicated that Russia has warned Finland to accept her original armistice terms and quit the war without delay or accept the consequences.

Although strict Finnish censorship served to obscure the situation somewhat, it was reported on good authority that the Russians had delivered a stern note to the Helsinki government declining to modify their peace proposals and giving the Finns only a few days more to make up their minds.

A secret session of the Finnish parliament was believed likely today to discuss the situation, described as highly urgent.

In a heavily censored dispatch from the Finnish capital last night, Associated Press Correspondent Edwin Shanke said the Helsinki government was "faced squarely with an important decision" and hinted at the possibility of "dramatic developments" within the next few days.

35,000 Miners Still Out

Churchill Deprecates Debate At This Time

LONDON, March 14.—(CP).—Some 65,000 of Britain's 100,000 striking coal miners had returned to work up to early afternoon, Alf Davies, vice-president of the South Wales' Miners' Federation, announced to-day.

"The situation is improving," he added.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons it would be unwise for him to make a statement and that he would deprecate any debate until a settlement had been effected.

"I must ask the House to sustain the Government in that view, which they have not adopted without careful consideration of what is best in the public interest at so critical a time," he said.

In the most critical strike district —Monmouthshire and South Wales —about half of the pits closed last week were in operation after the return of more than 30,000 workers, but there was no indication whether appeals by the Government and the miners' own leaders would bring the other men back to their jobs.

Earlier, in answer to a question, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, Minister of Fuel, said the shortage of the coal output last month, as compared with February of last year, was "something in the neighborhood of 300,000 tons."

Chetniks Form Alliance With Bulgarians But Suffer Defeat From Tito's Warriors

LONDON, March 14 —(AP)— Documents found on captured Chetniks indicate that Gen. Draja Mihailovic's forces have concluded an agreement with Bulgaria "for co-operation against the Yugoslav Army of Liberation," a broadcast from the Free Yugoslav radio said today.

The communique, heard by Reuters news agency, said Marshal Tito's Partisans had captured the documents during mopping-up operations against Bulgarian and Chetnik forces in Macedonia and declared that they showed that the alleged agreement was to continue "even after the war."

German troops attempting to break through to liberated territory from the direction of Dvor were hurled repelled, the communique said. It stated a detachment of Chetniks was wiped out in eastern Bosnia, and Bulgarian troops and Chetniks were being mopped up in Macedonia.

Manslaughter Charge Laid After 4 Children Suffocate

TIMMINS, March 14—(CP).—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gillies of nearby Schumacher were remanded one week for trial when they appeared in Tisdale township police court today on a charge of manslaughter. The charge was laid by police last night in connection with the death by suffocation of the couple's four children during a fire in their home last Friday.

The remand was granted by Magistrate Atkinson at the request of Gregory T. Evans of Timmins, defence counsel.

Gillies and his wife were arrested shortly after funeral services were held yesterday for the four children, the oldest of whom was five and the youngest nine months.

Before making the arrest, police said that the children had been locked alone in the four-room apartment occupied by their parents in a 16-room house in which there were no other tenants. They added that they had told the mother of the deaths when they located her in a beer parlor. The father, a taxi driver, was working, and the children had been alone for 30 hours except for occasional visits from the father before the fire was discovered.

There was no heat in the house except what was provided by an electric hot plate which police said they believed had been plugged in by one of the children and set fire to the mattress on their bed, on which there were no bedclothes.

Huddled on Floor

Three of the children were dead when their father entered the home about 10 o'clock Friday night—Sandra, five, Gerald, four, and Richard, two. Their bodies were found hud-

Drew Defends Action On Beer Plan

TORONTO, March 14 —(CP) — Premier Drew issued a statement last night defending action by the Ontario government in posting in Liquor, Beer and Wine stores and beverage rooms throughout Ontario, signs saying supplies were restricted because of an order imposed by Dominion authorities. The signs were criticized yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The Premier's statement, issued last night, said Mr. King "misrepresented" the facts when, in his announcement of the lifting of restrictions of supply of beer to the provinces he criticized the action of the Ontario government.

Premier Drew first disclosed the Federal restriction-lifting order on beer to a loudly-applauding Legislature shortly after 3 p.m., after being informed from the Press gallery.

He then read into the record correspondence between himself and Mr. King on the beer question and revealed that in a letter to the Prime Minister last Friday, he had asked for a conference at Ottawa on the beer question.

Later, after studying the text of Prime Minister King's restriction-lifting announcement, Premier Drew issued a statement saying "Mr. King does some truly re-

Allies Will Spare Holy, Historic Places

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP).—The Allied nations will spare holy and historic places and human lives "to the extent humanly possible," pledges State Secretary Cordell Hull, but if the roads of war lead to Rome, the blame will be upon Germany.

In response to an appeal of Pope Pius XII to Allied and German leaders to spare Nazi-occupied Rome, Hull yesterday declared that German soldiers have entrenched themselves in Italian shrines and monuments and that Allied military authorities "are dealing primarily with considerations of military necessity."

The secretary made no promise to spare the capital of Catholicism.

Beer Change Will Not Avail Much

Cartons, Bottle Scarcity Will Interfere

OTTAWA, March 14 (CP)—Some Federal Government officials and some brewers were in agreement today that the lifting of Dominion restrictions on the amount of beer available to the provinces for sale within their boundaries may not necessarily mean a considerable or an immediate increase in supply.

In announcing the rescinding of the restrictions in the Commons yesterday, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the shortages of manpower, malt, bottles and cartons "would prevent any very considerable increase in supply."

Government officials in close touch with the brewing industry agreed with the prime minister and said there is such an acute shortage of cartons that cartons are being used for a second time. Bottles are not plentiful and while there is plenty of barley the amount of malt is limited, but there is no great scarcity.

Some In Reserve

Officials estimated that the breweries produced 108,980,612 gallons of beer during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1943. Of the amount approximately 86,130,000 gallons were released for consumption in Canada and 5,351,158 gallons were exported.

These figures would indicate that approximately 16,499,269 gallons, less a certain amount of wastage, were placed in storage at least temporarily.

The Federal restrictions had limited the supplies of beer available to the provinces to 90 per cent of the amount sold in the 12 months ended Oct. 31, 1942. The restrictions were not on the amount the breweries could produce.

RETURNS TO CANADA—Major Ross L. Davidson, one of the first Peterborough officers to sign up for overseas duty with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, returned to Ottawa Sunday night on furlough after more than three years' absence. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Saunders, 13 Monaghan Road, received word that their nephew is visiting his parents in Ottawa and hopes to come to Peterborough later. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Davidson, formerly had a grocery store on Lock Street.

House Revises New Wage Order

OTTAWA, March 14 — (CP) — A series of amendments to the Wage Control Order, ranging from modification of restrictions on granting wage increases to elimination of a proposal to enlarge the National War Labor Board, were announced yesterday in the Commons by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

In making the announcement, Mr. King said the government was holding to its pledge, made last December, that the Dominion's stabilization program would be reviewed if the cost of living rose more than three per cent and remained at that level more than two months.

If, he said, under revisions of the Wage Control Order, wage adjustments became "too numerous" the margin of three per cent would soon be exhausted.

"The amendments seek to meet the criticism of the original order, as far as is consistent with the maintenance of the government's

Massed Assaults Costly To Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 11 —(AP) —Massed Japanese assaults on the American beachhead on Bougainville Island in the Solomons Saturday were thrown back with hundreds of enemy dead left on the defenders barbed wire, Allied Headquarters reported to-day.

The United States 37th Division, held against the enemy's repeated suicidal attacks northeast of Cape Torokina at Empress Augusta Bay, and Vern Haugland, Associated Press War Correspondent, said the Japanese hit without hope and with the sole purpose of killing as many Americans as they could before they died.

But official accounts said American casualties were light, against a conservative estimate of 1,000 Japaneses dead since the enemy, isolated on the island by the Allied blockade of reinforcements and supplies started the Empress Augusta Bay attacks March 8.

Navy and Marine Corps planes aided ground troops with a 78-ton bombing of the enemy's supply dumps and concentrations. A destroyer poured shells into Japanese support areas. Meanwhile, the Japanese were reported massing for another attack.

Allied aircraft operating from Piva and Torokina airstrips since the Marines established the Empress Augusta Bay beachhead last Nov. 1 have helped neutralize the enemy base at Rabaul, New Britain, and hammered Japanese centres in the Solomons.

Troopers operating from Los Angros Island in the Admiraltys occupied Hauwei and Butjo Luo Islets close to the northwest coast of Manus Island, largest in the Admiralty group.

Wewak, enemy base on the northeastern New Guinea coast, was hit Sunday with 112 tons of bombs dropped by Army planes repeating Saturday's devastating raid on the base.

Winnipeg Boosts Beer Allotment

WINNIPEG, March 14.—(CP).—The Manitoba Liquor Commission "proposes" to allow permit holders 24 pint bottles of beer a day instead of 24 pint bottles a month as from next Wednesday, said Attorney-General J. O. McLenaghen last night.

The announcement followed lifting of Federal wartime restrictions on the sale of beer, announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. McLenaghen said in a statement that subject to wartime restrictions with respect to labor and materials which may affect the supply of beer, the Commission "proposes" to reinstate regulations in effect prior to Dec. 16, 1942.

Stilwell's Strategy A Success In Burma

Three Prong Attack Easing Pressure On Burma And Ledo Roads

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press War Analyst.

This is a continuation of our column's story of two roads—the Ledo and our old friend the Burma road which was China's lifeline to the outside world before the Japanese overran Burma. When the invaders cut the latter road they left the Chinese end of it up in the air, so to speak.

As the result of that catastrophe transport planes took over the job of supplying the hard-hit Chinese. Meanwhile engineers drove a new highway northeastward through the Indian territory west of Burma to the town of Ledo which is just across the narrow northern tip of Burma from the severed end of the Burma road in Chinese territory.

Completion of the Leod road was achieved some time ago and the problem then became how to join it to the Burma Highway. The Nipponese rushed troops into the north to keep the Allied Forces from joining up the new life-line and sporadic fighting developed.

Six months ago Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell devised a new strategy for ousting the enemy from northern Burma. We are seeing the results of this plan now. Working from Ledo Stilwell sent Chinese troops into the Hukwang Valley and they pushed southward towards the Japanese base of Mainkwan.

Simultaneously Maj.-Gen. Frank Merrill, with seasoned jungle fighters fresh from the Pacific warfare, drove across mountain and through jungles, and came at the enemy in the Maingkwan region from the south. This created the trap which killed 2,000 Japanese and surrounded maybe 2,000.

Today a fresh development is reported. Lord Louis Mountbatten's British troops have crossed from Assam into Burma west of Myitkyina, presumably with the idea of hitting that base from the south while Stilwell smashes at it from the north.

The objectives of these epic operations really are threefold. They are (1) to permit of the joining of the Ledo and Burma roads; (2) to create new Allied air bases, and (3) to keep the Japanese from crossing into the Chinese province of Yunnan and attacking Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek from the rear.

The campaign is a gallant effort, but we shouldn't expect miracles. Also we should remember that this is only spade-work for the final big drive.

To Seal Potential Spy Post Churchill Tells House Suggesting Semi-Blockade

Expresses Regret That Action Necessary
Lauds Heroic Irishmen
From Eire Fighting With Allied Forces

By ALEX. H. SINGLETON—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 14—(AP).—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that Britain and the United States plan "to isolate Southern Ireland from the outer world" —a virtual quarantine by methods yet to be disclosed which would seal off that potential spy-post during the 11th hour to the opening of the western front.

Mr. Churchill's words clearly implied an extension of restrictions to the border between Northern Ireland and Eire, and perhaps even a semi-blockade of Eire, where President de Valera has refused to close German and Japanese offices.

Restrictions on travel to Eire, Mr. Churchill said, are "the first step in a policy designed to isolate Great Britain from Southern Ireland, and also to isolate Southern Ireland from the outer world during the critical period now approaching."

If a catastrophe were to occur to the Allied armies which could be traced to the retention of German and Japanese representatives in Dublin a gulf would be opened between Great Britain on one hand and southern Ireland on the other which even generations would not bridge," he told the House of Commons.

Mr. Churchill declared that the British Government had been consulted throughout by the United States on the Washington request that Eire close German and Japanese Consulates and "gave the American approach full support."

Mr. Churchill said, in part:—

"I need scarcely say how painful it is to us to take such measures in view of the large numbers of Irishmen who are fighting so bravely in our armed forces and the many deeds of personal heroism by which they have kept alive the martial honor of the Irish race.

"No one, I think, can reproach us for precipitancy. No nation in the world would have been so patient. In view, however, of the fact that both Britain and dominion lives and the lives of the soldiers of our Allies are imperilled, we are bound to do our utmost to obtain effective security for the forthcoming operations.

"There is the future to consider. If a catastrophe were to occur to the Allied armies which could be traced to the retention of the German and Japanese representatives in Dublin, a gulf would be opened between Great Britain on the one hand and Southern Ireland on the other which even generations would not bridge.

"The British government would also be held accountable to the people of the United States if it could be shown that we had in any way failed to do everything in our power to safeguard their troops."

Last night a high authority expressed the conviction in Dublin that Britain would soon close the border between neutral Eire and Northern Ireland as a natural sequel to the ban on traffic across the Irish Sea.

An Associated Press dispatch from Dublin said that any hopes the Irish might have that the decision on closing the border might be left to the Belfast Government were unfounded. It was believed in Dublin, however, that there would be no immediate formal sanctions against Eire by the Allies, the dispatch added.

Russia Backing Gen. Badoglio And King Victor

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, March 14—(AP)—Russia's establishment of diplomatic relations with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government appears to have further strengthened his regime, already endorsed by Prime Minister Churchill, and to have given King Victor Emmanuel a firmer hold on his throne.

Italian Communist leaders said today they would continue to oppose the king and Badoglio, and one chieftain, Paolo Tedeschi, said that if Russia's action improved Badoglio's position, "we shall have to strengthen our efforts to obtain a really democratic government."

(In London, it was expected that Britain would stand pat—at least until the military situation improves —continuing her dealings with the Badoglio government through the military control commission and Allied advisory commission. It was anticipated there that the United States would adopt a similar policy.)

It was learned that the Badoglio government had kept Allied authorities informed of the negotiations with Russia. Badgolio also has asked Britain and the United States for an exchange of diplomats.

Tedeschi expressed belief that Premier Stalin had no intention of endorsing the king or Badoglio, but was merely taking a "rapid, realistic step in Soviet foreign policy," whereby Russia recognizes diplomatically as well as de facto the Italian government which is a co-belligerent in the war against Germany.

Former Premier On Peace Trip

LONDON, March 14 — (CP). — Prince Barbu Stirbey, former Premier of Rumania, travelling on a special pass granted by the British Government, is en route from Ankara to represent a Rumanian peace bid to Allied authorities in Cairo, British press dispatches from Turkey said today.

Diplomatic circles maintained a wait-and-see attitude toward the reported mission, but some significance was attached here to the fact that the dispatches emphasized permission to enter Allied territory had been given Stirbey by British authorities.

Stirbey began his mission three weeks ago, with approval of Marshal Ion Antonescu's government, by holding conversations with neutral and Allied diplomats in Ankara, the dispatches said.

12 Ships Daily Join Fleet

500,000 Men Required To Man New U.S. Craft

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP) —Nearly a dozen new ships a day are expected to go into service with the United States Fleet in 1944, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said today.

He made the report at a news conference attended by Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, Chief of the Bureau of Navy Personnel, who said that nearly 500,000 officers and men will be needed to man the new craft in the rapidly-expanding fleet.

Jacobs added that the dozen ships a day figure is based wholly on sea-going vessels and does not include small auxiliaries although the total covered "some of the larger landing craft." He estimated that the Navy's total strength by the end of 1944 will be 3,000,000 officers and men, while the total for all Naval services, including Marines and Coast Guard, is expected to be approximately 3,700,000.
